ROYAL CITY'S FAIR

A Great and Busy Day at Guelph on Wednesday.

THE MACDONALD INSTITUTE

Formally Opened By Dr. James Mills, LL.D.—A Portrait of the Donor Unveiled By Former President of the Institution—Officers of Live Stock Sections Elected—Addresses On Live Topics.

Guelph, Dec. 8.—Yesterday was the big day at the Ontario Winter Fair, being held here. The stock buildings were crowded from early morning until dark. At no time were the seats around the judging ring vacated, and the keenest interest was taken in judging the different breeds of cattle, sheep and swine.

The Farmers' Institute lectures were largely attended. Indeed, most of the day seats were at a premium and the building erected as a lecture hall, even with the large gallery was altogether too small for the immense gathering which congregated to hear lectures on farm stock and take part in the discussions.

In the killing room was an all-day slaughtering match, to which the public was not admitted. The hogs were the first victims of the knife, and after they had been dressed they were hung up for public inspection. In the afternoon a cattle-killing competition took place. This department is in charge of Prof. M. Cumming.

Dairy and Beef Cattle.

Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, presided at the institute meetings held in the lecture room. In the morning special attention was given in discussion and by lecture to dairy cattle, and in the afternoon the beef cattle were under consideration.

The address by J. S. Woodward on "Economical Milk Production," showed the necessity of warm, comfortable stables, good feed, evenly-balanced rations, and warmth in winter by good stabling. He advised having one breed and keeping to it.

H. H. Dean, professor of dairy husbandry, spoke on "Different Methods of Marketing the Dairy Products of the Farm." The first consideration in the sale of butter, he suggested, was good flavor, clean handling and tastefully putting it up. A discussion was led by G. H. Barr. In answer to a question Prof. Dean said that the feeding of sugar beet pulp does not affect the flavor of butter. Hon. John Dryden said feeding turnips, if fed properly, did not affect the flavor of butter at first; but if kept for any time the flavor of the turnip was certain to assert itself.

J. H. Grisdale gave an address on "Grading Up a Dairy Herd," in which he said that some cows gave from 100 to 500 pounds of butter annually. It is necessary to feed properly and not be too parsimonious with feed. The dairy cow is got by selection and feeding. A discussion followed, led by R. S. Stevenson, Ancaster.

"Raising Baby Beef."

Joseph E. Wing, Mechanicsburg, Ohio, gave a practical address on "Raising baby beef." Whole flax seed was one of the chief foods he recommended for the babies, and, like plants, they require lots of sun and fresh air. He was of the opinion that Canadians housed their young cattle altogether too close. A discussion was continued by J. S. Woodward of Lockport, N.Y.

Thomas McMillan of Seaforth gave some good hints on "How to improve the quality of our export cattle." His idea was that farmers should breed more thoroughbreds and produce a better class of stock. Much of his lecture was devoted to feeding and housing in the winter, especially that kind of treatment which had a tendency to add flesh.

"The dead meat trade and how it would benefit the stockmen" was the subject of J. W. Wheaton, editor of The Farming World. J. S. Woodward of Lockport, N.Y., and J. E. Wing of Mechanicsburg, Ohio, took part in the discussion which followed.

The results in cattle judging were announced yesterday, as were many of the sheep awards.

Finest Exhibit of Poultry.

The exhibit of poultry is probably the finest ever seen in the Dominion. At this time of year the birds are in full plumage and every point to which they are entitled stands out. Prizes are awarded from the points of view which a breeder considers essential more than from an exhibitor's point.

The annual meetings of the Canadian White Plymouth Rock Club, the Canadian Barred Plymouth Rock Club and the Orpington Club of Canada, were held in the Town Hall yesterday afternoon. The officers elected were:

Canadian White Plymouth Rock Club—President, W. H. Bessie, Coleman; first vice-president, P. Dill, Seaforth; secretary-treasurer, H. H. Wallace, London; executive, A. G. Brown, Watford; T. Beckett, Welland; George Robertson, Galetta; H. S. Hagen, Berlin; Thomas Rice, Whitby; auditor, Dr. Bell.

Canadian Barred Plymouth Rock Club—President, Wm. McNeil, London; first vice-president, W. R. Graham, Guelph; second vice-president, James McCormack, London; provincial vice-presidents, Seth Jones, Sussex, N.B.; Mr. Craig, Amherst, Nova Scotia; Rev. Burk, P.E.I.; auditor directors, E. Snider, Burgessville; A. A. Armstrong, Fergus, I. K. Millard, Dundas; W. C. Wilson, Hawkstone; Jos. Bennett, Toronto; H. R. Hancock, Chatham; G. R. Cottrill, Milton; N. Cash, Pt. Dover; C. V. Cassidy, Elsa Craig.

The Hereford Breeders.

The fourteenth annual meeting of the Hereford Breeders Association was held yesterday morning. Encouraging addresses of the Hereford breed in Canada were delivered. The Secretary presented his report and financial statement, which was adopted. The election of officers then took place, the principal ones elected being: President, R. J. Hackis, Oshawa, and Secretary-Treasurer and Editor, H. Wade, Toronto.

Opening Macdonald Institutes.

A distinguished gathering of representatives from the County of Wellington and the Royal City sat down to luncheon in the Macdonald Hall yesterday. Afterwards the party filed out of the building and occupied reserved seats in the Provincial Consolidated Hall of the Macdonald Institute, the platform of which was prettily decorated with growing plants. This was the formal opening of the Macdonald Institute, and it fell to the lot of James Mills, LL.D., to perform the opening ceremonies, and unveil a well-executed oil painting of Sir William Macdonald, to whom the country is indebted for the institute, the Macdonald Hall and the Provincial Consolidated School. This he did in a speech which detailed all the steps taken from the beginning to the consummation of the plan. He also made eloquent remarks on the value of the home in nation-building.

Discussions in the Woman's Institute meeting and a concert in the evening closed the great work of the day.

Interest in Winter Fair.

The only function yesterday of an essentially public character in connection with the Winter Fair was the meeting held in the City Hall last night. The large gathering showed the immense interest the general public takes in the Winter Fair. Hon. John Dryden was chairman, and made suitable replies to addresses of welcome. Dr. James W. Robertson, Commissioner of Agriculture, gave an address showing the improvement in agricultural methods adopted within the past seven years and the great increase in Canadian exports. J. S. Woodward, Lockport, gave an address on "The Anglo-Saxon From a Yankee Viewpoint," which was typical of Yankee ingenuity and politics. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, spoke of the future of Ontario. Joseph E. Wing of Mechanicsburg, Ohio, gave a study of pioneer life in Kansas. During the evening an acceptable vocal program was rendered by Charles Kelly, Miss Springer, Capt. T. E. Robson and Miss Kelly.

Nervous Dyspepsia

Mr. George Bolen, Spry, Bruce Co., writes:—"I was troubled with nervous dyspepsia for some years, and after using nine boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I felt better than I had for years. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is certainly the best medicine I ever used, and I say so because I want to give full credit where it is due."

Severe Chest Colds And Painful Coughs

Demand Prompt and Active Treatment.

The great danger in troubles of this class is "delay." Don't neglect a Cough or Cold, it can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected—Bronchitis, Pneumonia, Asthma, Catarrh and Consumption will surely follow the neglect to cure.

The first dose of

will ease the cough, soothe the inflamed throat and loosen the phlegm.

Mrs. Joseph Paradis, Blackwell, Ont., writes:—I had such a bad cold I could hardly breathe. I noticed Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup advertised, so had my husband get me two bottles—I had only used one before I was cured. I recommended it to a friend, and two bottles cured her after other remedies had failed—we both keep it in the house now and would not be without it. It is the best cough medicine I have ever taken."

Price 25 cents per bottle.

Montreal to Loch Lambe.

London, Dec. 8.—(C.A.P.)—The Canadian Associated Press has learned that a scheme is on foot to divert Canada's seaboard traffic from Liverpool to Loch Lambe, on the west coast of Scotland. It is calculated that passengers and mails coming from Halifax, and landing at Fort William, could reach London eighteen hours sooner than by the Liverpool route, the time being saved on the ocean journey.

Uprising Against Tyranny.

New York, Dec. 8.—The Herald's Tientsin correspondent states that many members of North China are in a state of anti-dynastic unrest, which will probably culminate in an uprising against the Manchus.

THOROLD'S WATER FAMINE.

Many in a Desperate Way—Prayers Offered For Rain.

St. Catharines, Dec. 7.—There is a serious water famine in Thorold, owing to the lack of rain and many families are in a desperate way. The town has no waterworks, and most of the wells and cisterns have given out. The few which still hold water are being severely taxed, for as many as 12 families in sections depend on one well for all the water they use, and on Sunday prayers for rain were offered in some of the Thorold churches.

The water famine has opened new possibilities in trade. One man has obtained a street watering cart and peddles water which he gets from the canal, to families in Thorold. The situation among the farmers is growing worse. The country roads are almost unbearably dusty.

The farmers view with tremendous misgivings the prospect of winter setting in without rain falling. A great quantity will have to fall before the farmers around here will be ready for winter. Most of the streams and ponds where they get their water for cattle have dried up.

A Second Offence.

The tramp arrested for vagrancy rarely displays any humor, but a New York paper mentions one whose mild waggishness enlivened his own trial.

After the judge had looked the man over he said musingly, "I seem to know your face."

"Yes," the tramp agreed pleasantly; "we were boys together."

"Nonsense!" said the judge, frowning.

"But we were," the tramp said, with mild insistence. "We're about the same age. We must 'a' been boys together."

Peculiar Fact and Superstition.

In Painswick churchyard (between Stroud and Gloucester), in Gloucestershire, England, there are ninety-nine yew trees. Although the hundredth has been planted many times, it is a peculiar fact that it always dies. A local superstition says that "when the hundredth tree lives after it has been planted the world will come to an end."

No Deception.

Miss Goodart—I gave you that quarter because you said you hadn't had anything to eat since yesterday morning, and here I catch you going into a saloon. Weary Willie—Lady, I said I hadn't anything to eat, but I didn't say I wanted anything to eat, did I?

Crippled.

Tramp (piteously)—Please help a cripple, sir.

Kind Old Gent (handing him some money)—Bless me, why, of course! How are you crippled, my poor fellow?

Tramp (pocketing the money)—Financially crippled, sir.

Busy.

David Harum—That wus a pretty good horse old Ez wus drivin', eh? Eben Holden—Yes, he had so many good points you could use him for a hat rack.

An ounce of a man's own wit is worth a ton of other people's.—Sterne.

Are Your Nerves on Edge?

ARE YOU SENSITIVE TO LIGHT, SOUND AND MOTION? YOU NEED

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Twitching of the nerves, sudden starting, tenderness of the scalp or spine, headache at top or back of head, noises in the ears, sparks before the eyes, sleeplessness, dyspepsia, pains and cramps, neuralgia, timidity, irritability, melancholy, physical weakness and general debility are among the symptoms of nervous exhaustion.

You may look well enough and still be a victim of nervous prostration, but can do little with either mind or body without becoming greatly fatigued.

Good food, pure air, suitable rest, and the regular and persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will thoroughly overcome the most extreme case of nervous exhaustion and prostration.

We need only to refer you to such extreme cases as those of Mrs. James Miles, Sr., of South Woodslee, Ont.; Mrs. R. W. Edwards, 39 Murray street, Brantford, Ont., or Mr. S. Cloutier at 110 Laguerbetiere street, Montreal, cases in which regular physicians were entirely unable to render assistance.

Use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food regularly, and it will not be long before the wasting process will be overcome and the work of reconstruction begun. Note your increase in weight as strength and vigour are being restored.

Mrs. J. Hatcher, 234 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is a moulder at the Hamilton Foundry, states:—

"I had an attack of inflammatory rheumatism which left me in a very run down state of health, and in fact my whole nervous system seemed exhausted and worn out. I could not sleep, and at times the pains in my head were almost unbearable. As a result of these symptoms I was unable to attend to my housework, and felt miserable most of the time. On the advice of a friend I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and can say that it has proved of very great benefit to me. I am able to do my own work now, and feel healthier and stronger than I have for years. I can truthfully state that this is due to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I consider a great health builder."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 19

GREW THIS HAIR

Testimonial No. 482.

MISS NORA GASTAGER
2026 Centre Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

When the scalp throws off white dandruff or a gummy substance, it is an evidence of scaly diseases and no time should be lost in correcting it. You certainly could not hesitate to take treatment were you to learn of this matter through a sympathizing friend. When tightly compressed it resembles a teeming colony of insects. These poisonous absorb the nutriment or life-sap of the scalp causing the scalp to become dry and feverish, resulting in the loss of hair and finally baldness. Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower and Scalp Cleanser works wonders in all such cases. It thoroughly eradicates all trace of scalp bacteria and makes the hair grow remarkably long, strong and beautiful. One great bottle is enough to show you that it will do all this and even more. NOW at all druggists, two sizes, 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

HE KILLED HIS SON

Mistake of a Deer Hunter in the County of Frontenac.

HENRY VANESS' AWFUL SHOT

Sent a Bullet Through James Parks' Body and Into the Breast of His Son, Archie —Son's Light Colored Soft Hat Suggested the Tail of a Deer and He Fired—Father Distracted.

Kingston, Dec. 7.—Another terrible hunting tragedy occurred on Saturday at Beaver Creek, Kennebec Township, County of Frontenac, resulting in the death of Archie Vaness by rifleshot fired by his father's hand, the bullet also dangerously wounding James Parks, another young member of the party. On that day Henry Vaness and his son Archie, Peter Vaness, an uncle of Henry, Walter Parks and his son James went out to hunt deer.

At a runway they divided, the two young men taking cover and the others retiring some distance. Unfortunately the young men left their cover and in the uncertain light Henry Vaness mistook his son's light colored soft hat for a tail of a deer. He fired and the shot followed by a scream of agony. Hurrying to the spot he was aghast to find his son stone dead and James Parks writhing in the ground. The bullet after passing through James Parks, who was in front, pierced the heart of Archie Vaness who cried "Oh, my lord" three times and then was silent.

The distracted father picked up his son's body, and taking James Parks by the hand trudged slowly homewards. Parks was left at a neighbor's house, and another two miles and a half was traversed before Vaness reached his own house with his terrible burden. Yesterday James Parks rested quietly, and his doctor thinks he will recover. He says he could see Henry Vaness raising his gun to fire, but thought it was at a deer.

Child Shot in the Head.

Toronto, Dec. 7.—Rita Curry, aged five years, is lying at the home of her parents, 26 St. Andrew's street, in a critical condition, as the result of a bullet wound in the head. On Monday evening the child went into an upstairs room with her Uncle Howard, aged fourteen. The children discovered a revolver in a dresser drawer, and had been playing with it, when one of the chambers was discharged with the above result.

Run Over and Killed.

Poplar Point, Man., Dec. 7.—W. J. O'Neill, contractor of Winnipeg, was run over and killed by a C.P.R. train here yesterday.

Motor Accident At London.

London, Dec. 7.—Tearing along at express train speed, an automobile belonging to Gerald Myles of this city crashed into a tree three miles east of London, and three persons were badly shaken up. Miss Edythe Trowbridge of Toronto, was hurled from the touring car and her ankle was badly sprained. With the exception of a few bruises, Miss Isabel Myles escaped unhurt. Gerald Myles received severe injuries, his recovery being dountful. The car was making fast time, and, while attempting to turn a corner, Mr. Myles failed, causing the machine to leave the road, smashing into a tree and completely wrecking it. The auto was valued at $1,200.

Lost in the English Channel.

Calais, Dec. 7.—The French bark Madeline, from Chile for Dunkirk, has been lost in the channel. Her crew of fifteen men took to the boats from which they were later rescued by a steamer.

Manitoba Legislature.

Winnipeg, Dec. 7.—With the usual accompaniment of military salutes the second session of the eleventh Legislature of Manitoba was opened yesterday afternoon by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor MacMillan. In the speech from the throne, after referring to the departure of Lord Minto and the arrival of Earl Grey, His Honor proceeded to congratulate the country on the good harvest and the prospective season. Reference was made to the success of the railway policy, which will be continued where possible on the lines of Government control. The most important Government measure will be an amendment to the Succession Duties Act.

"Shut your eyes, open your mouth and see what luck will bring you."

Many a woman is weak and sick, nervous and discouraged. She suffers from headache, backache and other ills. She wants to be well, but all she does is to shut her eyes and open her mouth for medicine and trust to luck for results. She "doctors" month after month, often year after year, in this same blind, hap-hazard fashion, and receives no permanent benefit.

Women take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with their eyes open to the fact that it cures womanly ills. It cures irregularity. It dries debilitating drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. There is no trusting to luck by those who use "Favorite Prescription."

"In the year 1900 my health was poor," writes Mrs. [illegible], of [illegible], Berkley Co., [illegible]. "I suffered from falling of womb, a disagreeable discharge, painful monthly periods, headache, backache and pains in the limbs. Every month was confined to bed for two or three days. Was weak, nervous and hysterical; life was a burden to myself and I made every one in the family unhappy because I was so irritable. My husband got me four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and before I had taken the first bottle I was feeling some relief. The medicine made me well and strong, free from nervousness, aches and pain, and I felt like a new woman. Before I used the 'Favorite Prescription' I had been taking another physician's medicine for nearly three months, but had received no benefit. Your medicine is certainly the best in the world."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. RUIN TO IRISH FARMERS.

If Imports of Canadian Store Cattle Are to Be Allowed.

London, Dec. 7.—The Freeman's Journal, quoting a correspondent, says that the importation of Canadian store cattle is about to assume importance. The Journal says that should the restriction be removed, the whole profit now secured by the small Irish farmers of from 20 to 40 acres, would be destroyed. Store cattle formed two-thirds of the Irish export, the profit on which would almost entirely disapear, while the rents of the middle-sized and mixed farms would at one stroke be rendered entirely unpayable, and the prices being paid for these farms would become impossible. The exclusion of foreign store cattle is the one absolute condition making it possible to repay these advances.

Canada Is Best Able.

A meeting at which H. F. Wyatt read a paper on "The Navy and the Empire," was addressed by Hon. Thos. Brassey, who said that of all the colonies Canada was best able to contribute two or three million pounds towards the Imperial Navy, and had done nothing. The reason was that they objected to taxation without representation. He suggested as a remedy local legislatures for Great Britain's domestic affairs, with an Imperial House of Commons in London.

To Be Wound Up.

The British Steamship Trading Agency Company will be compulsorily wound up.

Called Quite Groundless.

Speaking at Aberdeen, Prof. James Bryce, M.P., said he had just returned from Canada and could say the motion sedulously propagated in Great Britain that Canada is in a state of excitement and eager expectation over the preference proposals was quite groundless.

A Royal Catspaw.

Peter the Great particularly delighted in drawing teeth, and he strictly enjoined his servants to send for him when anything of that sort was to be done. One day his favorite valet de chambre seemed very melancholy. The czar asked him what was the matter. "Oh, your majesty," said the man, "my wife is suffering the greatest agony from toothache, and she obstinately refuses to have the tooth taken out." "If that is all," said Peter, "we will soon cure it. Take me to her at once." When they arrived the woman declared that she was not suffering at all—there was nothing the matter with her. "That is the way she talks, your majesty," said the valet. "She is suffering tortures."

"Hold her head and hands," said the czar. "I will have it out in a moment." And he instantly pulled out the indicated tooth with great dexterity, amid profuse thanks from the husband. What was Peter's indignation to discover a little later that his valet had used him as an executioner to punish his wife, who had never had an unsound tooth in her head.

Her Ward Lock.

"I made an awful faux pas last night," said Mrs. Oldcastle.

"Did you?" replied her hostess. "I've been wantin' to make one for a long time, but I ain't been able to get a pattern. Whose did you have?"

GUELPH WINTER FAIR.

Attendance So Great That the Passages of the Fair Building Are Crowded—Results of Dairy Tests.

Guelph, Dec. 7.—The Ontario Winter Fair which opened here on Monday, is now in full progress, with the largest attendance in the history of this great show. Since Saturday visitors and stockmen have continued their influx into the city, and already some of the hotels are completely filled up, though all have greatly increased their accommodation. Thousands of spectators passed through the doors into the immense building during the day, and last night so great was the attendance that it was with much difficulty that the people made their way through the passages. The judges are progressing rapidly with their work.

Prof. Graham of the O.A.C., and John Clark added a few points of interest in the discussion following this address. Prof. Graham addressed the meeting on winter egg production.

Results of Dairy Tests.

The following are the results of the dairy tests as announced last evening:

Grade heifers, under 36 months—O.A. C., Guelph, 49.80 points.

The Women's Institute.

The convention of the Women's Institute was continued yesterday afternoon in the assembly hall of the MacDonald Institute. An address was delivered by C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Mrs. Bertha Dahl Laws, of Appleton, Minn., addressed the meeting on "Plain Food and Plain Living." In her opinion the most unselfish thing to do is to care for your own health, so that it may not be necessary for others to care for you. A short address was given by Hon. John Dryden, eulogistic of the work of the women. Mrs. Hoodless of Hamilton, and the representatives of the various institutes gave five minute reports.

Lectures Commenced.

The lectures in the building were commenced last evening with F. W. Hodson presiding. The subject of "A modern poultry house for the farm" was discussed by F. C. Elford. In the first place he maintained it should be built on dry land or on the slope of a hill facing the south and east, a good run should be provided on land that will give the fowls something to eat.

Want More Money.

At the Experimental Union meeting in the morning, the treasurer's report was presented by Prof. Hutt. The total receipts were $1,672, including the Government grant of $1,500; the expenditures amounted to $283, and for experiments $1,607. A balance of $190 from last year left $28 in the treasury. A motion was passed requesting an increase for experiments in the annual Government grant of $1,500.

Farmers' Institutes.

In the afternoon the Massey Hall was crowded with delegates to the Farmers' Institute convention. Dr. Clark's address in forestry was discussed at considerable length by Hon. John Dryden and others. Prof. Hutt reported on his co-operative experiments in small fruits during the past year. The shipment of fruit in cold storage was discussed by Prof. Reynolds of the O.A.C. Joseph E. Wing delivered the last address of the afternoon on "The Selection of Seed Corn." This address was followed by a spirited discussion.

The annual banquet of the students and ex-students of the Ontario Agricultural College was held last evening in the Convocation Hall. Assembled round the festive board were upwards of four hundred students and ex-students. The toast list was a lengthy one, and brought out many bright and interesting speeches from President Creelman, Hon. John Dryden and others.

Presentation to Dr. Mills.

Probably the most pleasing feature of the evening was a presentation by Messrs. Drury and Monteith, on behalf of the ex-students to Dr. James Mills, of a very beautiful cabinet of silver. Accompanying the gift was a very complimentary address. Dr. Mills made a pleasing response, expressing his great appreciation of his kindness and good-will of the ex-students and of the happy relations he had enjoyed with them.

The meeting was closed with an impressive ceremony in connection with the unveiling of two life-sized portraits in the Massey Hall, one of the late Prof. Panton, by the ex-students of the college through the union, and the other of ex-President Dr. James Mills, presented by 24 members of the O.A.C. graduating class of 1904.

Changes Her Hotel.

New York, Dec. 7.—Mrs. Chadwick left her apartments at the Holland House at 10 o'clock last night and took up quarters at the New Amsterdam Hotel, at Fourth avenue and 21st street. She was closely followed by two secret service men. Her son and maid accompanied her. Apparently she was in good health.

Old Time School Whipping.

Sir Sydney Waterlow, lord mayor of London, thus described to a London Express writer a "good, old fashioned thrashing" in school:

"My master at St. Saviour's grammar school, Southwark, at the foot of old London bridge, was a counterpart of the tyrant of Dotheboys Hall.

"Finding that at the age of ten years I had not made much progress in the proper comprehension of the four concords in Latin, he determined to give me a good birching. He was a most practiced hand with the rod and was never satisfied with a birch less than four or five feet long, with plenty of small, sharp cones on it. He never used the same one twice.

"The fiat having gone forth, I was stripped to my bare back and made to kneel. The master then inflicted three strokes as hard as his strong arm enabled him to give, causing the blood to spurt all over my back. Many of the cones remained in my flesh for days."

Varied Mourning Colors.

The following are the various colors used for mourning in different countries, together with the reasons given for the selection: Black expresses privation of light, worn throughout Europe and America; yellow, the sear and yellow leaf, Egypt and Burma; in Brittany widows' caps among the peasants are yellow; purple and violet, to express royalty, mourning for the cardinals and kings of France; violet is the mourning color for Turkey; white, emblem of "white handed hope," China; deep blue, Bokhara mourning; the significance of this selection is not known; pale brown, the withered leaves, Persia; grayish brown, earth, Ethiopia and Abyssinia.

Dull Headaches.

TERRIBLE PAINS AND A FREQUENT DESIRE TO URINATE. Such were the troubles of Mr. Joseph Leland, Alma M.W.T. He happily found relief in

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Here is what he says:—"I was troubled with dull headaches, had frightful dreams, terrible pains in my legs, and a frequent desire to urinate. Noticing Doan's Kidney Pills recommended for kidney trouble, I decided to give them a trial. I procured a box, and was very much surprised at the effectual cure they made. I take a great deal of pleasure in recommending them to all kidney trouble sufferers."

Doan's Kidney Pills help the Kidneys to drain off the poisonous impurities which have collected, thus cleansing out the kidneys, bladder, and all the urinary passages. They correct inability to hold the urine, and thus obviate the necessity of getting up many times at night to urinate. Their good results will be immediately felt in all cases of kidney trouble.

CITY LEAGUE WAS ORGANIZED

Hockey Will Boom in Peterborough This Winter.

Several Teams Represented at Last Evening's Meeting—Officers Elected.

Hockey was given a further boom last evening when a "City Hockey League" was organized under most favourable circumstances. A well attended meeting was held in the Y.M.C.A. Assembly Hall and the matter of a City League was thoroughly discussed. Four teams, the T.A.S., Karnots, Farriers, and High Lifes were represented and it is more than likely that several other teams will be entered, including the Auburns, two from the C.G.E. works and possibly the Ontario Bank.

The following officers were elected:—
President—Mr. M. J. Hutchinson.
Vice-President—J. Sharpe.
Secretary—H. Kingscote.
Treasurer—M. J. Mickey.

It was moved by Mr. Sharpe, seconded by Mr. R. Quinn that the fee for admission be $2.00 for each team.

A committee composed of the Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer was appointed to interview the Rink Co. with regard to procurring ice for matches.

The Executive Committee will be composed of the officers and a member from each club.

Clubs entering must have their application made and fee paid by the 15th day of December.

It was the opinion of the meeting that Intermediate O.H.A. and Senior T.V.L. players should be debarred from playing in City League games.

There is no reason why the league should not enjoy a flourishing season. There are many players of good calibre in town and the league is sure to have the effect of stimulating the game materially and of developing many new players.

HOCKEY.

This from the Intelligence:—"We only hope that any club which, during the coming season, stands to win a championship fairly, as Belleville stood to win one on two occasions, will not find O.H.A. justice a hollow mockery, as we did." Oh, dear. How sad.

• • • •

With one, if not two O.H.A. teams, a Trent Valley League Team, a City League and a Guild League, each with half a dozen or more teams comprising it, hockey will boom here this winter.

Several members of the Press team had a "work-out" on the river on Tuesday afternoon. Great speed was manifested.

There's a chance for all this year to figure on some sort of a team. Get in the game.

• • • •

Regarding the Marlboros, the Globe says:—"Sailor" Mercer, of Peterborough, will make a good substitute for Giroux, and it is hoped that Armstrong, also of Peterborough, will fill Phillip's place.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CHILDREN'S AID

Will be Held on Dec. 14th, Mr. Kelso Will be Here.

On the 14th of December the annual meeting of the Peterborough Children's Aid Society will be held, and the report of this year will prove that it has been a successful one.

During 1904 thirty-four children were taken into the Shelter as compared with twenty-nine during the last year.

It is expected that Mr. Kelso of Toronto, will be present at the meeting.

INTERESTING NEWS BRIEFY TOLD.

Things We All Like to Hear About.

—The beautiful snow.

—At last we hear the merry tinkle of the sleigh bells.

—The Charlotte street choir will rehearse this evening at 7.30 o'clock sharp.

—Piano tuning promptly attended to. Satisfaction guaranteed. A. F. Hoover. 'Phone 199.

—St. Luke's Choir will practice tonight. Christmas music will be taken up, and a full attendance of members is requested.

—There will be four rinks, a curling club, a City and a Guild Hockey League besides hockey teams in the O.H.A. and Trent Valley League in Peterborough this winter.

—It is high time that those who contemplate having photographs taken for Christmas, at ROY'S, arrange for sittings, and thus avoid the crowded days that always prevail at this well-known studio close to the date.

—Call on Jas. R. Bell, 161 Hunter street, for your Christmas raisins, currants, walnuts, almonds, peels, etc. Also good potatoes, parsnips, carrots, beets, onions, turnips cabbage. They're the best. Phone 455.

—Turner, the photographer, who has been receiving special mention for the excellent new ideas which he has touched into art, will incorporate his best effects in the work which he is turning out during the holiday season. Studio, George street.

—Don't procrastinate. It's less than thirty days till Christmas. We will be in the midst of the rush before we know where we are. So don't wait a day longer without arranging for sittings for your photographs at — ROY'S

—The annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of St. Paul's church, will be held on Friday afternoon, at 3.30 in the school room of the church. Miss McBain of Toronto, will be present, and all ladies interested in missions are asekd to attend. 2d

—The sleighing for the winter of 1904 begins to-day, Dec. 8th. It is a remarkable circumstance that the sleighing begins as a rule on this day of the month. Sometimes it is on the 10th, but eight times out of ten for the past ten years permanent sleighing has begun on December 8th.

—Members of St. Luke's Men's Guild who intend to take part in the entertainment to be given in January are requested to be present at the meeting to-morrow night. Mr. Walter Wesley will train the performers again, and all who wish to take part are asked to be present.

—The Belleville Intelligencer writing of Bengough, who will be in the Opera House to-night, says:—"Mr. Bengough drew pictures with colored chalk, and told stories while he was drawing them. The cartoons drawn by Bengough were "out of sight." He touched the foibles and follies of the day, drew some amusing pictures descriptive of political conditions in Ontario, and showed great deftness by limning many well-known men of this city. Taken altogether, the eminent "chalk talker" certainly sustained the high reputation he formerly enjoyed in this city."

PARK STREET TEACHERS' OFFICERS

"Cheese It!"

Next time you treat a pound or two of cheese, no more, no less, go in to White & Gillespie's store and see how slick it can be done when the right kind of knife is used. This firm has invested in one of the Templeton cheese knives, which can be gauged to cut off in one piece the exact weight from a quarter of a pound up to any weight desired.

A sight worth seeing is the window display of this year's Christmas Fruits in White & Gillespie's window. Don't buy elsewhere until you see our selected Raisins, Currants, Figs, Peels, Mince Meat, Syrups, Walnuts, Oranges, Lemons, etc. We're under the Opera House, George street.

Friends at a Distance.

The Christmas card, calendar and booklet afford special pleasure to friends at a distance. They take the place of a personal greeting; and, when they are beautiful and artistic in design with delicate colouring, like them on view at stratton's bookshop, the pleasure is enhanced. Our display is in a section by itself, out of the crowds that throng the bookshop, where time and pleasure is afforded for thoughtful selection. About 50 gross of dainty calendars at 1c and 2c each. THEN "YULE" Remember Me

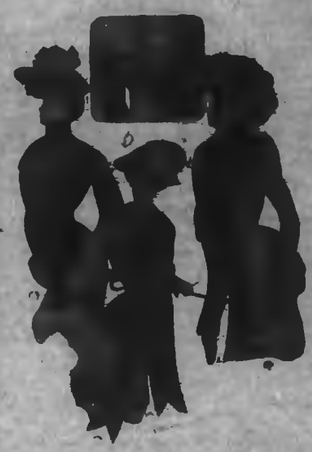
XMAS TIDE is on and the season of gift giving has arrived in earnest. Every one expects, and every gives presents at Xmas—The only trouble is in selecting sensibly.

An Old Adage says:—"Presents speak louder than words"—they certainly do and in a very special manner—good judgment, good taste and good form are at stake—Presents typify all these and express better than words the "good feeling" of one to another. Then select wisely:—



FURS

Nothing can please, nothing can show, nothing can last, nothing displays as good judgment, nothing as beautiful as a Fur gift; be it Scarf, Muff, Collarette, Gauntlets, Jacket, Fur-lined Coat or Cape—Every time it's worn will bring kindly, warm thoughts of the doner.

Very select, large and beautiful collection of Fur requirements for Children, Ladies and Man—all specials for Xmas Trade—both the costly and the inexpensive kind. If you want to spend $1.00 or $100.00 on a Xmas Gift we can show you the very best for your money.

But there's a difference in stores, as well as in clothes.

Some stores go in for "cheapness," others for quality.

Which do you prefer?

"You pay your money and take your choice."

LOCAL CLERGY IN HAVELOCK.

St. John, Evangelist Chuch in Havelock now free of Debt.

The Lord Bishop of Toronto, and Rural Dean Davidson With Other Local Clergymen in Attendance.

The Anglican clergy of Peterborough will go to Havelock on December 22nd to attend the great event of the year in the Church of St. John, the Evangelist of that village, which will be the visitation by the Lord Bishop of Toronto, for the double purpose of administering the Apostolic rite of Confirmation and consecrating the church building. No place of worship of the Church of England can be consecrated until every cent of debt resting upon it has been paid. And so it happens that St. John's, Havelock, though it has been used for fifteen years for nothing else than the prayers and sacraments of the church still awaits the spoken word that shall set it apart forever from profane and secular uses. Since his Lordship's last visit the debt has been paid and the church is now ready for consecration. The service will be one of the most notable in the history of Havelock. Besides the Right Rev. the Bishop, invitations to be present and take part have been sent to the Rev. Rural Dean John Gibson of Thornhill, founder and builder of the Havelock church; Rev. E. W. Pickford, of Norwood, who was the second incumbent of Havelock; Rev. Rural Dean Davidson, M.A.; E. A. Langfeldt, M.A.; and W. Major of Peterborough; Rev. A. J. Reid of Campbellford; Rev. A. S. Dickson, of Fenelon Falls, and others.

RUSS CREWS LEAVE SHIPS

Russian Fleet Now at the Bottom of Port Arthur Harbor.

ALL ARE SUNK OR DESTROYED

Japanese Guns At the Top of 203-Metre Hill Smashed Them—Only the Torpedo Boat Destroyers Remain Intact—Battleships, Cruisers and Gunboats All to Bows—A Terrible Duel in the North.

London, Dec. 9.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent before Port Arthur telegraphs that all of the Russian battleships and cruisers, together with the gunboats Gilliak and Busadneck, were sunk or destroyed, and that only the torpedo boat destroyers remain intact. The crews of all the war vessels in the harbor were landed.

The Peresviet Sunk.

Tokio, Dec. 9.—The commander of the naval battery on 203-Metre Hill at Port Arthur, reporting at 2.30 p.m. yesterday, says:

"At 12.30 to-day it became certain that the Peresviet (battleship) has been sunk. She is in the same condition as the Poltava (battleship). The Pallada (protected cruiser), is beginning to list to port. We are vigorously bombarding the Pallada.

"The battleship Pobieda's middle funnel is seriously damaged. The vessel is listing aft and is submerged to the stern walk.

"The battleship Peresviet's upper deck is submerged.

"The battleship Retvizan is listing to starboard, and her upper deck is nearly submerged.

"The protected cruiser Pallada, which is lying between the Retvizan and the mine ship Amur, cannot be distinctly seen, but there seems to be a slight sinking astern. The actual extent of the damage sustained by her is not yet known.

"The armored cruiser Bayan is now burning to her fore deck. The battleship Sevastopol appears to be lying in the east harbor alongside the great crane, but only the tops of her masts are visible. A hill completely hides her hull.

"The principal aims taken by the naval and military guns to-day are at the Pallada, Bayan and Sevastopol."

Great Artillery Fight.

Mukden, Dec. 9.—All the siege guns emplaced about and opposite Lone Tree Hill were in action early Tuesday morning, and the result was one of the most furious artillery duels that has occurred anywhere in Manchuria, save at Port Arthur. The tremendous cannonading lasted throughout the day, and between 3 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon was so heavy that ordnance expects who heard it wondered how the big guns could be reloaded and fired so rapidly.

In those hours the shots were thick as if light field cannon instead of siege guns were at work. It is not known which side had the advantage in the great battle, but it is believed the losses on both sides must have been enormous. Couriers from the front with estimates of the casualties are awaited eagerly.

It is believed Marshal Oyama is preparing for an offensive movement and that he began the artillery duel to divert attention from an advance by General Nodzu's army. Military experts are anxious as to the movements of the Japanese right army, which retired before General Rennenkampf with suspicious readiness. There has been no fighting on the east flank since the latest brush between Rennenkampf's Cossacks and Oyama's right wing, and it is feared the enemy may be enveloping the Russian left.

PASSENGER RATES RAISED.

Two Great Railways Decide to Charge More for Travelling.

Rate Will be Increased to 3½ Cents per Mile—How the New Rate Works out.

Travelling by rail, will in the near future cost more. The G.T.R. and C.P.R. have decided to raise the passenger tariff from 3 cents to 3 1-2 cents in the near future, and this increase has been approved by the Railway Commission.

The Canada Gazette publishes in its current issue the official notice of the change, which knocks W. F. Maclean's 2 cent a mile scheme into a cocked hat.

How it effects Peterborough and lines adjacent to it, the following schedule will show:—Between Cobourg, Ont., and Harwood, Ont., 3 1-2; between Belleville Harbour, Ont., and Midland, Ont., 3 1-2c; between Madoc Junction, Ont., and Eldorado Junction, 3 1-2c; between Port Hope Junction, Ont., and Peterborough, Ont., 3 1-2c; between Millbrook Junction, Ont., and Omemee Junction, Ont., 3 1-2c; between Whitby Junction, Ont., and Manilla Junction, Ont., 3 1-2c; between Lindsay, Ont., and Haliburton, Ont., 3 1-2; between Blackwater Junction, Ont., and Lindsay, Ont., 3 1-2.

The rate on the C.P.R. from Ottawa to Toronto, is raised to 3 1-2c, and from Burketon to Bobcaygeon also to the same figure.

The local officials of the two railways have received no official notice of the proposed increase in rate, but no doubt that word will be received in due course.

The present rate to Toronto, 76 miles is $2.30, and with the increased rate the fare will be $2.55. The distance to Ottawa is 180 miles and the fare, $5.40, which with the increase will be raised to an even $6.00. Montreal is 263 miles away, and the rate $7.90, but those who want to go to the eastern metropolis in future, or after the new schedule is put into effect, will have to pay $8.20 for that pleasure. Passengers to Port Hope will have to pay 10 cents in addition to the present fare.

The Toronto World this morning has the following:—"Dr. Mills of the Railway Commission, was seen by a World man in his private car at the union station while en route from Guelph to Ottawa. He said: 'There have been no railway tariffs yet approved of by the Railway Commission. The publication in the Canada Gazette is simply to comply with the law which required that they be filed by the end of the year. You can count upon it that no increase in rates will be considered by the Commission. The tariffs as filed will not be considered until after the appointment of a third Commissioner. The Board as it is, could do so, but we think the matter important enough to await the third appointment. Then the tariffs will be gone over with, the railways being represented by counsel. But there is no need to be frightened by any bogaboo about increased rates.'"

A Correction.

Through an error in yesterday's issue it was stated that at the Board of Trade meeting, Mr. W. H. Moore advocated that the whole surplus income for the water works system should be left in the hands of the "counsil." This should have read "commissioners."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is now announced, says the Globe, that the firm of Speyer & Co., which has underwritten the Grand Trunk Pacific bonds to the amount of $15,000,000, is a London house with branches in New York, Berlin, Frankfort and Paris.

Here is a "pointer" for Mr. Whitney. Preaching at Orillia, Rev. R. N. Grant, said that the late Principal Caven's large influence was due to his moderation—"his moderate views and moderate language." Mr. Whitney is intemperate and immoderate in his language no matter how trivial his subject, so that when he comes to need strong language he has no superlatives left.

Conservative journals have a habit of scoffing at the denials by prominent Liberal public men of the promiscuous charges of wrong doing promiscuously brought against them, without apparently any better reason than a wish to discredit them. Yet they ask us to accept without scrutiny the denial of Mr. Borden of any knowledge of the World's charges in connection with the Blair matter, which in itself, is not an unreasonable suggestion. But some Conservatives regard, in practice, such denials by Liberals as warrant for emphasing and reiterating the denied charges, with such additions as malice may suggest.

We can hardly realise what a mine of wealth Ontario possesses in its splendid pulpwood resources. There is a large and very profitable demand by newspapers for the products of pulpwood. This is shown by the fact asserted in reference to a Canadian paper company which claims to have paid for the past five years dividends aggregating 37 per cent. And the demand for pulpwood, will grow in proportion to the increase of the newspaper prosperity through the increase of population and wealth, which in this country promises to be great for years and years to come. The development of the pulp industry thus promised will afford a valuable source of revenue to the Province, give employment to labour and stimulate industrial production.

RECOVER 11 BODIES.

Explosion of Fire Damp Causes Heavy Loss of Life.

Burnett, Wash., Dec. 9.—Eleven miners have been killed by an explosion in the Burnett coal mine, and it is believed that the death list may reach 15. Eleven bodies have been recovered.

At least four other miners are in the shaft, but it was deemed unsafe to continue the rescue work, and the effort was abandoned. While there are slight hopes that these still may be living, they practically have been given up for lost.

It is believed that fire damp was responsible for the disaster. At the time of the accident there were about 40 men at work.

Narrowly Escapes Burning.

Brockville, Dec. 9.—Yesterday in igniting a gas stove an explosion occurred, setting fire to the clothing of Mrs. W. J. Curle. The timely intervention of her husband, who was in an adjoining room, ill, saved her life. Attracted by her cries he went hastily to her, and managed to smother the flames. Mrs. Curle was overcome by the shock, but escaped with slight burns.

Ontario Man Killed.

Vancouver, Dec. 9.—Word has just reached here that Charles Wise was accidentally shot and killed by a companion, named Leo Royds, on Sunday afternoon while hunting at the head of Jervis Inlet. The two young men were climbing up the mountain side, Royds being in the rear. Royds slipped, and to save himself he stuck the butt of his gun in the earth. The shock caused it to go off, but bullet entering Wise's back and coming out at the breast. Death was almost instantaneous. Deceased leaves a widowed mother in Toronto, where he served his apprenticeship to an electrical engineer.

Two Men Injured.

Winnipeg, Dec. 9.—Two men were seriously injured while working in the Lac due Bonnett power plant Wednesday.

French Deputy Asphyxiated.

Paris, Dec. 9.—M. Syveton, the Nationalist Deputy whose action in striking War Minister Andre in the Chamber of Deputies, Nov. 4, led to the minister's resignation, was found dead late yesterday afternoon, having been asphyxiated by gas.

Accident At Princeton.

Toronto, Dec. 9.—An accident of the "might have been serious" kind occurred at Horne's Creek, west of Princeton, on the Grand Trunk line Wednesday morning. A broken rail caused the engine to be thrown off the track with 12 freight cars. No one was injured. Auxiliaries were brought up from London and Hamilton, and after several hours work the line was cleared. Trains had to be detoured via Stratford during the morning.

C.P.R. Telegraphers Uneasy.

Montreal, Dec. 9.—There is no truth that a strike is immediately pending in the C.P.R. telegraph system. The men's representatives are here negotiating with Vice-President McNicholl, and it was stated that negotiations might last some time yet. It looks, however, as though the men were determined to fight, as they want an increase of 10 per cent. and absolutely refuse to arbitrate.

The C.P.R. to Go to Sarnia.

Sarnia, Dec. 9.—The C.P.R. has decided to come to Sarnia. Construction will be begun in the spring. It is expected that competition with the G.T.R. will afford a stimulus to the town. Application to Parliament for the charter has already been made. The requested charter is for a line from a point on the main line west of London to a convenient point between Sarnia and Lake St. Clair.

PREMIER ROSS TO TEMPERANCE PEOPLE

Legislation Depends Upon Composition of the Legislature Favourable to Temperance Measures.

Temperance Electors Have it in Their Power to Remake the Legislature.

Local Option as a Factor in an Advance Movement.

At the fifty-sixth annual meeting of the Ontario Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance held in Toronto on Tuesday, the principal address was given by Hon. G. W. Ross.

Premier Ross, who was introduced as "Brother Ross," thanked the chairman for the kindly references made to himself, and apologized for not mounting the platform, for the reason that he was not as nimble as he once was. That was his misfortunes, although he was nimble enough in some respects, but not good enough in climbing steep stairs. He was not very fond of getting down when he did get up, that seemed to be a weakness of his. (Applause.) However, they had to put up with that weakness, as some other people had to do at present. (Laughter.) Mr. Ross referred to his initiation in the Sons of Temperance in 1863, his occupation of the position of Grand Patriarch in 1869 and at a subsequent date, and his still earlier connection with the Good Templars, which commenced in 1857, and to the splendid work done by these orders, the Dominion Alliance, W.C.T.U. and kindred organizations, to promite the cause of temperance. He contrasted the condition of the temperance movement now with what it was in those days.

"Well," continued Mr. Ross, "I suppose one of the questions that perplexes us all is, are we getting on? I was delighted with the encouraging remarks of Mr. Spence and the very encouraging remarks of Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. Peters. Sometimes we sit down in sackcloth and ashes and wail because we think that all is against us. I think it was old Jacob said once that all things were against him, while near him there was a ladder reaching up to heaven on which the angels were ascending and descending. Perhaps we are not as badly off as some people think, and that we are closer to the ladder to which Mrs. Stevens referred. I do not believe in the pessimist at all. I never had any use for him, and he is no good in the temperance work any more than he is anywhere else. We have made progress in the diffusion of temperance sentiment in our churches, in our schools, where perhaps 200,000 children are learning temperance from day to day, in our municipal organizations, in our school boards, in our political organizations, as you may have seen lately, and we have had progress in legislation.

"YOU MAKE THE LEGISLATURE."

"You are looking for more in legislation than you are getting. (Applause.) That seems to be one of the cries that come up. Whose fault is it? You make the Legislature, don't you? We are not like Topsy, we don't grow; we are made, and we are made by the people of this country, and if the temperance people of this country can make Legislatures, then go about it. I am going to give them a chance very soon to try their hand about it, and we are going to give them a tolerably good programme. It is, indeed, the first time you ever got a programme of that kind. You have not got all you want in this world. Churches cannot get all they want, and they are inspired. You cannot get all you want in your families. Look around your homes tonight, and there is not a lady here who cannot think of something she could have and ought to have, and that it is proper to get, but we have to take what we can get and reach out for more. It won't do for us to be unthankful for what we get. As Mrs. Stevens has said, we cannot reach heaven at one bound, we must mount round by round, and our temperance ladder must be climbed the same as any other.

"It is not the man that sits on the fence and scolds the coachman that helps the coach to go along. It is the man that provides fodder for the horse, a better coach and a better driver, if need be, that makes the coach go along, and makes better progress. I do not care where it is, whether it is in a political organization, in a temperance organization, or in the churches, the coach won't go for the asking, and complaining because it does not go; it will only go by the efforts of those who want to have it go."

A SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY.

Mr. Ross impressed on his hearers the necessity of working and organizing, if they desired to accomplish anything. There was a great deal of truth in what Mr. Spence had said. If the 300 churches in Toronto would go to work, they could elect prohibitionists in this city. No doubt they could. They had a splendid opportunity now, if they chose, to vote for four men who would vote for prohibition. They had carried the referendum by a majority of 1,600. It was a notable thing for the temperance cause, and if they were strong enough to do that, they were strong enough to do the other.

COUNTRY BEFORE PARTY.

"It is not my fault should they not do it," Mr. Ross went on. "I do not care how many prohibitionists or temperance men you send to Parliament. We will welcome them, and if they are not of my political faith that is not the question with me. Country is greater than party. Moral reforms are greater than political reforms. The two may go together but what this country wants is that firm resolve to grapple with difficulties and overcome them. We may have the power, as you have it in the city of Toronto. It is not my fault, and it is not the fault of the Legislature, that that power is not exercised to elect temperance men. So far as I am concerned you will get all that I can give you. That is all that I can say. I cannot force the hand of the Legislature. I cannot force the people of this country. Perhaps they do not trust me. I am not worrying about that at all, whether they trust me or not, so far as I am concerned, but as long as I am there, and you cannot get anybody better, you had better use me as far as I can be of use. I am willing to be used as far as the Legislature and public opinion in this country will warrant me in so doing. It is a curious thing in politics that you cannot go faster on any public question — not in temperance alone, but in any question, faster than public opinion will warrant. You cannot get ahead of public opinion. If for a moment you do so, in a very short time a shock will come, and you will be held back."

Legislatures were, he said, the creations of the people. If the Legislature was wrong the people were wrong. Whether it was too much partisanship or too bitter politics, he could not say, but those two factors regulated the work of the Legislature. Supposing the Legislature carried prohibition to-morrow and that was what the people did not want, what would become of the Legislature the next time they appealed to the people? Out they would go—there was nothing else for them if they do what the people did not want. That had happened in England over and over again. "Now," continued the Premier, if you want the Legislature to pass prohibition you will have to send members there who will support a prohibitory measure, and you must be sure that when they have carried prohibition, when they return to the people again, the people who sent them there will stand by them, otherwise the ground gained will be lost." It was a curious thing that in sixteen states of the Union in which prohibition was passed, it was now in operation in three only, and they had adopted local option instead in many of those States, as well as in others which never took up prohibition at all.

LOCAL OPTION.

They should take local option where it was ready along the line of local option. If the public opinion was as strong as some people tell us it is, why don't we have local option in more municipalities than it is? If Toronto carries the referendum by a large majority why not close the bars there? If 600 municipalities in Ontario are as strongly in favour of prohibition as it is reported, why do they not carry local option? How is it? It was an extraordinary thing, continued the Premier, that in places where the referendum vote carried, and where public sentiment seemed to be ready for prohibition, when temperance men prohibitionists, appealed for support they did not get it. Take the case of North Toronto. Never had a more decided and devoted prohibitionist than Mr. Matter, appealed for support, but he could not carry it. In another county, where prohibition carried by 1,600, the man who offered himself as a Prohibitionist was defeated. Speaking not as a party man alone, but as a temperance man, he asked, "What have temperance candidates to say under such circumstances?" and pointed out that a temperance candidate did not run to be beaten, any more than a party man, except in an exceptional case, when he ran to educate public opinion. They all ran to win. What was true of individuals was true also of parties. There might be too much partyism, he would not dispute that, but it seemed to be the order of things under the constitutional form of government that there must be two parties, each organized for the purpose of achieving success upon party lines, and while a distinctive temperance policy might be part of the platform of one party, that party was organized upon general principles, to carry as much of that platform into effect as it thinks will be successful. No party would put a plank in its platform favouring public ownership, free trade, reciprocity, women's suffrage—"good as far as it goes, and it goes a great way in this country"—no party would put that plank in its platform if it was not in the interests of the party to do so."

PUBLIC OPINION SUPREME.

If any one party said it would go so far on the temperance question, it did so because it believed public opinion would sustain it that far. If another party said it would do nothing for temperance it was because it believed that the constituency to which it appealed would sustain it in that position. "If you put up a corner grocery you are going to put the stuff on your shelves that you think the people are going to buy. You cannot cook your hare until you catch it, and you cannot cook the temperance policy in the Legislature, until you have a sufficient number of members there who feel that public opinion is with them, and they will go just as far as they think they will be supported. Here is where I sometimes feel a little worried. People say to you that you should put principle before party. But when we come down to the electors we find that they do not put principle before party, or they have no principle, and are all party. We cannot do better than the public.

"By some misfortune I was picked on 22 years ago to be a candidate in West Middlesex. I am not an angel—you can't make angels that way, either in the Church or in the State. They are not ready made. They cannot be in public life or in public positions unless they are more or less in sympathy with the people around. It is much easier to be a temperance man now than forty years ago, when every man had his little 'horn' or 'jamboree.' It is easier for us in the Legislature now to pass temperance legislation than it was forty years ago, and if it is to be made easier still it must be made so by the electors of this country. If we go too fast they will pull us up; if we do not go fast enough they will push us along."

Was Cured of Ashma.

"I first used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with my daughter who suffered from a severe form of asthma. The least exposure to cold would lay her up and she would nearly suffocate for want of breath. I must say I found it to be a most satisfactory treatment and it has entirely cured her."—Mrs. A. A. Lord Grey Nearing Canada.

Montreal, Que., Dec. 9.—The Allan Line office last night received a cable from the Marconi station at Cape Race announcing that it had been in communication with the company's steamer Parisian, with Earl Grey, the new Governor-General on board, from 8 o'clock Wednesday morning until 7 last evening, at which time the steamer, which is due to arrive in Halifax Friday evening, was one hundred miles west of Cape Race. All on board were reported well. The message welcoming Earl Grey to Canada, sent by Hon. R. W. Scott, acting Premier, was successfully delivered to the Parisian.

ROYAL CITY WINTER FAIR.

Receipts For the First Three Days Show Slight Decrease—Interesting Discussions On Third Day.

Guelph, Dec. 9.—The receipts at the Ontario Winter Fair for the first three days, reported by the Secretary last night, amounts to $1,356, compared with $1,359 during the first three days last year. Yesterday the receipts were $617, as against $663 last year, showing a slight falling off, which was made up yesterday by a total of $578, compared with $505 in the third day a year ago.

The features of the show were the improved attendance for the third day, the continued interest in the farmers' institute discussion, the presentation of cups to prize winners at the luncheon in the City Hall, and the block tests in cattle and hogs. The shorthorn breeders held an interesting meeting and last night the poultry men held a banquet at the Commercial Hotel.

The Bacon Hog.

The discussion on the bacon hog, begun yesterday morning, was continued by Dr. F. J. Smale at the institute meeting last night. He estimated that the loss to the Ontario farmers in the past 11 months through undersized, oversized, fat, bruised and soft hogs, amounted to $550,000, which can only be remedied by Canadian hog raisers raising the desirable, size and quality of marketable stock.

F. W. Hodson, live stock commissioner, gave a lecture, illustrated by stereopticon views on "English breeds of sheep, with their adaptability to Canadian territory."

"The stock man's interest in good seed" was the subject of Cazavitaz's lecture.

The Swine Awards.

The swine awards in dead animals varied somewhat from the awards to those alive, which is said to be largely due to the rules of the association which impel animals to be chosen at a weight about 300 pounds. Some have been held back in order to meet restrictions, and had an unkempt appearance when on exhibition. When killed, however, their quality was proved for the prize winners in the show in few instances were the prize winners in the dead meat class.

In general the block test was a triumph for the Yorkshires, as they took 8 out of 11 prizes.

In beef cattle the same kind of test could not be made, because few of the prize animals were killed. The steer which carried off first prize and sweepstakes dead, also took first prize as a yearling in the show.

It was one of the finest yearlings ever shown. Other tests were not so favorable to the prize winners in exhibition, but the differences were not so great as in the hog class.

Value of Ontario Farms.

Toronto, Dec. 9.—An increase of $16,000,000 in land values on Ontario farms, $11,000,000 in farm buildings, $8,000,000 in implements and $13,500,000 in live stock, is the evidence of provincial prosperity given in the statistical report of the Department of Agriculture for 1903. The total value of farm property is placed at $1,087,000,000.

FOR IMPROVEMENT IN CHEESE QUALITY.

farmer supplies his factory with milk of the very highest quality, clean in flavour and free from gas.

The milker should see that the udder, teats and body of the cow are properly cleaned off before commencing the operation of milking. After milk is taken from the cow it should be immediately strained through three or four ply of cheese cloth or some such strainer, immediately cooled down to a temperature of sixty degrees and thoroughly stirred while cooling, placed in a nice clean can and covered over as nearly air tight as possible. Milk should always be kept in a place where the air is pure. All milk stands should be a safe distance from the barnyard or from any place where the air is impure.

All milk stands should have a covering allowing a free circulation of air and at the same time preventing the milk from being heated by the warm rays of the morning sun. The morning's milk requires equally as good treatment as the night's milk. Hot and cold milk should never be mixed together."

All dairy cows should have free access to plenty of pure water and salt at all times. It is a matter of economy for every patron to supply his factory with milk of the very best quality. Experiments prove that there is serious loss where an attempt is made to manufacture off flavoured, gassy, milk into cheese. At a certain factory in Ontario all the good, clean flavoured milk was selected, weighed, carefully and placed in one vat; the inferior, off flavoured, gassy, milk was selected and carefully weighed and placed in a vat immediately alongside. These two vats of milk received the very best possible treatment and in the case of the good milk it took 10 1-4 lbs. of milk to make a lb. of cheese and in the case of the inferior milk it took 10 1-2 lbs. of milk to make a lb. of cheese and the quality of the finished product in the latter case was inferior. What we want is the hearty co-operation of everyone connected with the dairy business. First, good factories properly equipped, with proper drainage, carrying all drip a safe distance away from the factory; curing rooms, properly constructed and insulated so that the man in charge can control the temperature and keep it under sixty degrees. When we get a good factory every patron should send his milk in the best possible condition and patrons should visit their factory occasionally and see that the man in charge is making the most cheese and the best quality of cheese out of the milk delivered to him. Not only do we want good milk and competent makers but we must arrange to have our cheese cured at a temperature under sixty degrees. When a cheese comes from the press it is only half made and it is very important that all cheese are cured at a uniform temperature under sixty degrees. It is along the line of cool curing that the Dominion Dairying Service has been working for some time.

CENTRAL COOL CURING ROOMS.

With the object of providing a practical working illustration, on a scale sufficiently large to attract general attention, and to get a comparatively large number of people directly interested in the results, Parliament was asked in 1903 to vote a sum of money to be used in constructing four large central or consolidated cool cheese curing rooms. This plan was carried out, and curing rooms were built at Woodstock and Brockville in Ontario, and at Cowansville and St. Hyacinthe in Quebec, where sites, with siding accommodation, were given by the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railway Companies.

Having said so much by way of description, it will now be in order to refer briefly to the play of operation, and I cannot do better in this connection than by giving the form of agreement between the Department and the salesman of the factories, covering the reception of cheese at the Curing Rooms.

Dominion of Canada,
Dept. of Agriculture,
Branch of the Com. of Agriculture and Dairying.

Agreement covering the reception of Cheese.

Cool Cheese Curing Rooms.

Cheese will be received at the several Cool Cheese Curing Rooms on the following conditions:—

The Department of Agriculture will undertake (a) To collect the cheese free charge to the factory; (b) To issue Warehouse Receipts for the cheese as received; (c) To store and take care of the cheese during the period of curing, without any charge except as hereinafter specified, for a period not exceeding eight weeks; (d) To keep the cheese fully insured; (e) To provide boxes of good quality, box the cheese and ship them according to instructions received from the salesman.

The factories will be charged the usual price of good, ordinary cheese boxes delivered at the factory, and the cost of scale boards, nails, etc., used in preparing the cheese for shipment.

The Department of Agriculture will charge each factory a sum equal to the value of the weight of cheese saved on account of less shrinkage in the Cool Curing Room, the amount to be determined by actual tests of shrinkage on the cheese of every week's make and the selling price; the factory will have full benefit of any increase in the price of the cheese per pound owing to the improvement in quality.

The Superintendent will not accept any cheese of inferior quality, poor finish or in unsuitable condition.

The Department reserved the right to refuse the cheese from any factory which fails to comply with the requirements or rules of the Cool Cheese Curing Room.

The cheese are to continue the property of the factory, and to be at the disposal of the salesman.

J. A. RUDDICK,
Chief of Dairy Division.

THE SAVING OF SHRINKAGE.

As the cheese were collected from the factories, a number from the same vat from all the factories were set aside each week, and after being carefully weighed for 2 months, one was placed in the curing room and the mate to it was put in a room in the upper storey, where the temperature was not controlled and was comparable to an ordinary curing room. When the cheese of the corresponding week were sold, these cheese were again weighed as before, and the difference in shrinkage noted. For this difference the saving in shrinkage on the whole shipment was easily calculated. Table I. gives the actual saving of shrinkage on all the cheese received, and the value of this saving at the selling price of the cheese. The value given is the amount collected from the factories.

Cur. Rooms	lbs. cheese received	per cent. of shrinkage	lbs. val. at shrinkage saved	val. at price saved
Woodstock	926,000	1.55	14,357	$1,421 43
Brockville	692,000	1.32	9,169	$11.65
Cowansville	694,000	1.24	8,630	$85.62
St. Hyacinthe	143,110	1.66	2,365	$20.41
Total	2,970,000	1.39	33,493	$3,139.41
1903
Woodstock	1,128,443	1.40	15,798	$1,604 60
Brockville	761,000	1.27	9,669	1 041 20

Total	3,738,276	1.23	46,082	$4,268 60

The saving of shrinkage during both these seasons was certainly less than it would be in an ordinary season, because of the remarkably cool weather, and high relative humidity which prevailed. And these are the two conditions which affect this shrinkage.

I see one obstacle in the way of getting improvements made in proprietory concerns, and it is this. Nobody needs to be told that any saving in shrinkage or enhanced value will go directly into the pocket of the patrons, and very little of it will stick to the fingers of the manufacturer. It is hardly fair, therefore, to expect the man who owns a factory to meet all the expenses of these improvements, from which he will receive no benefit, especially in view of the fact that the commission which he receives at present is not sufficient to provide decent buildings and proper equipment, and at the same time leave a reasonable margin of profit. If patrons desire this increased revenue, and there is no doubt they do, they must be willing to make concessions to the factory owner to get it. My advice to patrons of cheese factories is to pay a good price for making, and then demand the best possible service in return.

In this connection Mr. Sommerville read a letter which he had received from England from the firm to which cheese was shipped. The letter speaks for itself:—

Dear Sir,—We herewith hand you Account Sale for 48 boxes of cheese sent us by the Government through you, showing a credit balance of £72-15-9.

You will notice we have made a higher price of the cool curing room cheese than for the ordinary cured; also the detailed weights of the cool cured cheese are much more satisfactory than the ordinary cured cheese.

With reference to the keeping qualities of the cheese, there is no doubt, in our minds, as to which process is the best. We would far rather have cheese cured on the system advocated by the Government than the ordinary method now in use at the factories; not only is the weight preserved and the condition better, but the flavour is very much more satisfactory; this is the general consensus of opinion of all the people in the trade who have inspected the cheese in our warehouse.

We trust the Government will be able to convince the factorymen as to the necessity of erecting cooling rooms answering to the description of those erected by the Government; we are sure it would be not only a benefit to the factorymen, but to the receivers on this side and help to insure a still higher reputation for Canadian cheese.

Our own individual trade being for strictly choicest Canadians, we shall be pleased to receive any further consignments the Government may send us in illustration of these points.

Yours truly,
(Signed) W. P. SINCLAIR & CO.

FREDERICK VILLIERS.

Says Japan Is Planning Big Reception to Baltic Fleet.

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 9.—Frederick Villiers, war artist at Port Arthur for The Illustrated London News, arrived here last night from Yokohama on the steamship Empress of India, on his way to London for the purpose of elaborating his sketches, of which he has many books full. In an interview Mr. Villiers said that Gen. Nogi could take Port Arthur within 24 hours if he so wished, but that this is not done because of the sacrifices of life that would be necessary.

Mr. Villiers describes the Russian prisoners wounded and dead falling into the hands of the Japanese lately as showing signs of emaciation, as if underfed, but they fight with as much determination as in August. This is Mr. Villiers' sixteenth campaign, and he says by far the most interesting and full of extraordinary incidents and unprecedented items. He will return to the front in the spring. Mr. Villiers says Japan's preparations to receive the Baltic squadron are extraordinarily vigorous and thorough.

Arrive At Rate of 150 a Day.

London, Dec. 9.—Eight hundred Russians, most of whom allege that they fled from their homes in order to escape military services in Manchuria, left London yesterday for Liverpool on their way to America. These refugees are arriving at the rate of 150 daily.

Jap At Peace Conference.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Japan has accepted the American Government's invitation to participate in a second peace conference at The Hague, provided the rulings of the conference do not affect the present conflict.

Domestic Suicides.

Petrolea, Dec. 9.—A young girl named Alma Miller, a domestic in the family of D. McMillan, committed suicide Wednesday by taking carbolic acid. She left a note for her mother, saying good-bye and God bless you.

London Residences.

London as a place of residence seems as if it would soon resemble the city, once a busy center of gayety and life, now used only for business purposes and as silent as the grave by night. Year by year it becomes more difficult to let town houses. The suburbs encroach on the city and stretch for weary monotonous miles, while Brighton, Eastbourne, Windsor and other minor towns find a mushroom population growing up round them, people who in old days would have lived in London. And with all this rents do not go down, and the ordinary householder whose business forces him to remain in London finds it even more difficult to make both ends meet.—London Graphic.

Thirty Thousand Dry Goods Stores.

In the United States there are about 30,000 shops that sell dry goods. Twelve thousand of these may be ranked as good stores, and about 5,000 are establishments of a size which makes them important factors in the commercial and domestic life of their communities. The owners of almost all of these shops, the largest as well as the smallest, began obscurely. The majority of the most prosperous have attained their present success and magnitude during recent years, in which unsuccessful merchants have been wont to complain that the competition has been ruinous.—Success.

A HIGH FARE BOGEY

Procedure Before the Railway Commission Misunderstood.

EXPLANATION BY DR. MILLS

Conclusion Had Been Jumped to That There Was to Be a General Increase in the Rate of Passenger Fares From 3 to 3 1-2 Cents—G. T. Passenger Agent Bell Also Throws Light On Subjects.

Toronto, Dec. 9.—Rather a sensational story was published yesterday, to the effect that the Railway Commission had given power to the railways to increase their passenger rates from three to three and one-third cents a mile over large portions of Ontario and Quebec. It was hinted that an increase of rates might follow this action of the board.

Ontario, which thinks railway fares are quite high now, would be in arms against any increase. The story, however, had not the least foundation, as is shown in the following interviews:

Dr. Mills Explains.

Dr. Mills of the Railway Commission, was seen in his private car at the Union Station, while en route from Guelph to Ottawa. He said:

"There have been no railway tariffs yet approved of by the Railway Commission. The publication in the Canada Gazette is simply to comply with the law which required that they be filed by the end of the year. You can count upon it that no increase in rates will be considered by the Commission. The tariffs as filed will not be considered until after the appointment of a third commissioner. The board, as it is, could do so, but we think the matter important enough to await the third appointment. Then the tariffs will be gone over with, the railways being represented by counsel. But there is no need to be frightened at any bugaboo about increased rates."

G.T.R. Agent Speaks.

G. T. Bell, General Passenger Agent of the G.T.R., who was in the city yesterday, stated last night: "The notice in The Canada Gazette of Dec. 3 will absolutely not make any increase in the present maximum mileage tolls, and no such increase is contemplated. The notice is published as required by the Railway Act of 1903. The maximum mileage tolls have been in effect for a great many years, in some instances probably fifty or more, but the actual fares charged to the public are in thousands of instances much less, and there is no thought of increasing such fares. In fact, the prevailing tendency of railway passenger fares is always downwards."

As an illustration, Mr. Bell quoted the passenger fare between Toronto and Montreal, which to-day is $10 for the distance of 333 miles, although the maximum mileage toll provides for 3 1-2 cents a mile, or $11.10. But the railways, he said, had voluntarily made the fare $10, and have made similar reductions in thousands of other cases.

C.P.R. and Crow's Nest.

Toronto, Dec. 9.—The long standing difference between the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. and the Canadian Pacific Railway, over right of way and coal lands in British Columbia, have been settled. The conveyance was executed by both companies yesterday in Montreal. As a result, the C.P.R. have had their right of way secured to them, while the Crow's Nest Pass Co. received the conveyance of 250,000 acres of coal lands, due under agreements with the railway company.

Death of Sergt. Nelson.

Toronto, Dec. 9.—George Nelson, caretaker of the Toronto Public Library for nearly twenty-five years, died yesterday, and those whose memories run back to the time of the Northwest Rebellion, and more especially Ontario and Quebec militiamen of that time, will recall the stir that followed his criticisms of the 65th Regiment of Montreal, and its alleged misbehavior while en route to the front. They resulted in a charge of criminal libel against E. E. Sheppard, and over two years of legal wrangling. As a public servant, Dr. Bain, librarian, yesterday said Mr. Nelson was singularly faithful in his work. He was 47 years of age. He was born in Quebec. A widow, two daughters and a son survive.

Now in the Tombs.

New York, Dec. 9.—Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick last night occupied one of the scantily furnished cells in the tombs. After a fruitless search all day for bail her attorney gave up the fight, and Philip Carpenter, her chief counsel, stood in the corridor of the Federal Building at 9 o'clock when United States Marshal Henkel threw open the double doors of his office and led the woman out on her way to prison. Mrs. Chadwick was almost fainting. Then she was led away to the inner office, where her pedigree was taken, and she was assigned to a cell.

Inquest Begun.

Toronto, Dec. 9.—Coroner Crawford last night commenced his enquiry into the death of Mrs. Annie Patterson, whose body was found on the lake shore, near Stanley Barracks, on Wednesday. The jury was sworn and viewed the body. The inquest will be continued next Wednesday at No. 6 police station. Dr. Silverthorne made a post-mortem after the adjournment of the inquest.

The Meister Glee Singers.

The London, Ont., Free Press critic has the following to say of the delightful concert given by the Meister Singers in that city recently:—"The summit of achievement in quartette singing is attained by the Meister Glee Singers, of London, England. So altogether delightful a treat of the kind has never before been heard in London. To such a point has the ensemble work of this fine quartette attained that it is like a single instrument, an organ with the swell and flute stops out. The tone is the same of sweetness, the vocalisation perfect, the phrasing accurate and the expression at once sympathetic and adequate. One point worthy of special praise was the perfect balance at all times evident. One of the hits of a most enjoyable evening was the work of Mr. Roland Henry, who as an entertainer ranks equal in every respect with the famous George Grossmith."

AN IMPORTANT CHURCH FEAST

Yesterday Dec. 8 the Feast of the Immaculate Conception

Also the Jubilee of the Proclamation of the Dogma—Special Services at St. Peters.

Yesterday was the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, celebrated with elaborate ceremonies in Roman Catholic churches throughout the world.

The half century since the proclamation of the dogma of the Immaculate Conception, by Pope Pius IX., was completed yesterday. "In 1854," as stated by La Presse, Montreal, "the persecution of the Church was bitter, and the Pope was constrained to seek refuge at Gaete. It was from there that he addressed to the Catholic world the memorable words which were a pledge of hope. He trusted to the power of the Virgin to calm the tempest loosed against the barque of Peter. The Pope proclaimed on December 8th, 1854, the dogma of the Immaculate Conception. This good tidings was hailed with joy by the Catholic world. This proclamation was confirmed by the visions of the Grotto of Lourdes: 'I am the Immaculate Conception!' Such are the words, which in 1858, at the shrine of Lourdes, confirmed the dogma of 1854." It may be added that up to about that time the fact that this article of faith, proclaimed, as above stated, was not questioned, but the circumstance of it being then questioned, was considered to warrant, and call for, the proclamation made.

The special services which during the last two weeks have been held in St. Peter's cathedral, in connection with the jubilee celebration of the Proclamation of the Dogma of the Immaculate Conception, culminated yesterday, with the fiftieth anniversary of the proclamation, December 8th.

Masses were said at intervals during the day, commencing at 6 a.m., the second being at 8 a.m., and the third and Children's Mass, at 9 o'clock. A solemn Pontifical High Mass was said by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, Rev. Father McColl being assistant priest, Rev. Father J. O'Brien, deacon, and Rev. Father Gelvin, sub-deacon, and Rev. Dr. O'Brien master of ceremonies.

The whole congregation was present at the different masses during the day, and at the High Mass His Lordship expressed a few words to the people expressing his pleasure at the piety shown by them in their faithful attendance at the different masses, and the special Jubilee services, not only in St. Peter's but throughout the whole diocese.

At 7.30 last evening Jubilee vespers were sung by His Lordship, and Rev. Father McColl preached the sermon, which closed the Jubilee celebration.

Barrowclough:—

ORIGINAL PLANS WERE CHANGED

Mr. H. P. Kennedy Tells of the Prospects of School Board.

The New Collegiate Institute Will be a Handsome Symmetrical Structure.

The Examiner had an interview last evening with Mr. H. P. Kennedy, chairman of the Special Committee of the Board of Education, which recently inspected schools in Western cities, with reference to the letter published in yesterday's Examiner, in which "Taxpayer" made a plea for a more ornamental exterior to the new Collegiate Institute building. Mr. Kennedy was only too pleased to give information, which, it is hoped, will prove satisfactory to both "Taxpayer" and the public in general, who are, as they should be, deeply interested in the plans for the new building.

Mr. Kennedy said the committee have fully realized throughout the steps that have so far been taken, the very important position which the new Collegiate Institute will occupy in town, being situated, as it will be, in the very heart of the town. At each city which the committee visited on their recent trip, they were congratulated by the different school boards on securing such an excellent location, and the committee is determined that the new building will present as imposing an appearance as its location in the town demands.

The cut which appeared in Wednesday's Examiner, and which "Taxpayer" claims represents a building "too long and too low for true architectural symmetry," is a cut taken from the plans as originally submitted to the committee who have the matter in hand. The committee at once saw the ground for just the same objection which "Taxpayer" has raised, and consequently changes were at once suggested and made. The Examiner, however, has been unable up to the present time to procure a cut of the revised building, and consequently a cut of the original was produced. The new plan shows a marked improvement in the exterior appearance of the building. The original basement was four feet above ground, while under the new plan it is eight feet six inches. There was a fourteen foot space from floor to floor on the first and second stories in the original plan, as compared with sixteen feet in the present plans. The original plan showed the ceiling in the lecture hall to be twelve feet at the side and sixteen feet in the centre, while, according to the revised plans, there is sixteen feet at the side and twenty feet at the centre. This makes a total of twelve and a half feet higher elevation than in the cut shown in Wednesday's issue. The length of the building has also been reduced 30 feet in the revised plans and the building about ten feet narrower. These changes will have a marked effect upon the appearance of the building and will no doubt prove satisfactory to those who have complained that the structure was too long and too low.

The building will not be "plain" or "barn-like" in appearance as stated by "Taxpayer." The true architectural beauty of the building can hardly be realized from the original cut. At the side are two wings, one at the front standing fourteen feet, and a smaller one projecting at the rear. There will also be some changes at the corners of the building, in the form of small tower-like structures which will materially enhance the appearance. There will be cut stone facings throughout and a pressed brick front.

Both the interior and exterior plans have been materially changed from those first considered and the committee is fully determined to present to the Board plans that will be a model of all that is modern and advanced both from an internal and external standpoint, while at the same time bearing in mind that there shall be no extravagant expenditure. While the appearance of the building has been improved by making elevations, still the dimensions have been otherwise cut down which will counteract the expense of making the first changes mentioned.

Not only the chairman but every member of the committee is deeply concerned in the matter of securing the best possible building under the circumstances in which the town is placed and the public may rest assured that with a committee composed of men of the business ability and practical knowledge acquired by those who have the matter in hand, that we shall have a building which will meet the requirements in every way, from the standpoint of accommodation and equipment in the interior and architectural beauty in the exterior.

As soon as it is possible to do so the Examiner will procure a cut of the building according to the revised plans and the comparison between the original and the revised should remove all objections such as were made by "Taxpayer" in his letter.

Mr. Maharge made many friends during his sojourn in Havelock and they are naturally very much pleased to hear of his success, although sorry to have him removed so far away. Mr. S. IMPROVEMENT IN CHEESE QUALITY.

Mr. N. G. Sommerville, of Brockville, Delivers Addresses.

Annual Meeting of Peterboro' Cheese Board Factories—Past Season in Dairying.

The dairy interests in this country have attained to an importance which a few years ago would have been thought impossible, and to-day it is recognized by everyone who studies the question that the dairying industry is one which is rapidly coming to the front as one of the most important industries in the country.

One of the most powerful agencies in the activity of this industry is the attention that has been paid it by the Government, and the Department of Agriculture has given special thought to raising the standard of the cheese and butter manufactured, and to the facilities, for transportation, ensuring the quality when the product reaches its destination. Factory methods in the manufacture of cheese have wonderfully improved in recent years, and to-day the methods thought to be modern a few years ago, have been discarded as being obsolete.

The past season in cheese-making has not been a very satisfactory one as far as prices are concerned, although the quality of the cheese manufactured has been good.

The reason attributed for the low prices is the fact that there was an over supply of cheese manufactured during 1903, many of the factories working late into the fall, and some were running all winter. The result was that this spring there was a large stock of old cheese in the market, which had to be sold in competition with the new make, and the consequence was that the price for the season was low.

The prospects for next season, however, are bright. Many of the factories closed early this year, and there is very little cheese left in the country.

During the past week, Mr. N. G. Sommerville, of Brockville, of the cold curing station in connection with the Dominion Department of Agriculture, has been in Peterborough County attending the annual meetings of the cheese factories on the Peterborough Cheese Board and has delivered two addresses a day on the all important question of cold curing of cheese.

The Board appointed Mr. Gillespie, to arrange for these meetings, and he has accompanied Mr. Sommerville to all the meetings, which have been well attended, the patrons evidencing an interest in the efforts of the Board and the Department to raise the quality of cheese, and which if continued and applied will have an effect on next season's operations. The meetings that have been held, the chairman of the meetings, cheesemaker of the factory and the attendance at each meeting are as follows:—

November 23rd, afternoon, Indian River, chairman, F. Mosher; cheesemaker, C. Hanor; attendance, 65.

November 23rd, evening, Shearer, chairman, S. Armstrong; cheesemaker, Jas. Hogan; attendance, 75.

November 29th, afternoon, Lang, chairman, R. Humphries; cheesemaker, W. Weir; attendance, 43.

November 29th, evening, Keene, chairman, Jas. Drummond; cheesemaker, W. Anderson; attendance, 70.

November 30th, afternoon, Peterborough, Chairman, President of factory, cheesemaker, W. S. Wood; attendance, 35.

November 30, evening, Maple Leaf, chairman, President of factory; cheesemaker, Geo. Brooks. In connection with this meeting, an oyster supper was held and thoroughly enjoyed, especially by the two gentlemen who were visitors. Attendance, 75.

Dec. 1, afternoon, Bensford, chairman, President of factory; cheesemaker, J. P. Andrews; attendance, 50.

December 1st, evening, Fraserville, chairman, W. G. Fisher; cheesemaker, E. J. Cline; attendance, 85.

December 2nd, Curvenville, chairman, S. Ferguson; cheesemaker, J. W. Fotheringham; attendance, 30. It was explained that a Farmers' Institute meeting in the vicinity had lessened the attendance.

December 2, evening, North Smith, chairman, W. J. Northey; cheesemaker, Thos. Borland; attendance, 100. An entertainment at North Smith in the evening provided special attraction.

Monday, December 5, Trewern, chairman, Thos. Braden; cheesemaker, John Chittick; attendance, 30.

December 5, evening, Lakefield, chairman, G. J. Galvin; Cheesemaker, T. E. Cline; attendance, 80.

Tuesday, December 6, Pine Grove, chairman, W. J. Davies; cheesemaker, R. H. Little; attendance, 40.

December 6, evening, Young's Point, chairman, Andrew Wilson; cheesemaker, Samuel Young; attendance, 60.

Wednesday, December 7, East Emily, chairman, W. Deyell; cheesemaker, Geo. Ward; attendance, 50.

Wednesday, December 7, evening, Missing Link, chairman, James Middleton; cheesemaker, J. H. Sutton; attendance, 75.

In the factories visited the average number of pounds of milk to produce a pound of cheese was 10.79 and the average price paid for the same was 11-2 cents. Mr. Sommerville's address, with a few variations to suit local conditions was the same at each factory, and is as follows:—

It is very important that every dairy

BENGOUGH PLEASED LARGE AUDIENCE

Successful Entertainment in Opera House Last Evening.

Under the Auspices of George Street Young Men's Guild—A Very Enjoyable Programme.

J. W. Bengough, the renowned cartoonist, gave one of his delightful entertainments in the Opera House last evening before a large audience. The artist displayed the same ability as a cartoonist, the same versatile humour as an entertainer which has brought him so prominently before the public wherever he has appeared. His programme was varied and at all times most interesting. He drew likenesses of well known men in Peterborough in characteristic circumstances, including a graphic illustration of the "muzzling of the police." When he drew humourous sketches, they were humourous and he told amusing stories, while making his sketches which kept the audience in continual laughter. Mr. Bengough manipulated the chalk with remarkable rapidity and accuracy. A sun flower was by a few strokes of the chalk converted into a charming little maiden and likewise a few geometrical figures or letters of the alphabet were transformed into anything the artist desired.

As an entertainer, Mr. Bengough is also very clever. His ability to correctly interpret several different dialects was displayed effectively, his mimicry in words being splendid. As a vocalist Mr. Bengough possesses a sweet tenor voice and he was heard in a few amusing numbers. Altogether he supplied a most delightful programme and the frequent and prolonged applause which greeted him certainly was ample testimony of the appreciation and satisfaction of the audience.

During the evening Mr. R. Norman Jolliffe sang "The Veterans Song" by Adams, and "Kings of the Road," by Bevan, responding to encores with "I Long for You" and "Because of You." Miss Edith L. Jolliffe was the accompanist for the evening.

A Heintzman piano of superior quality was supplied for the occasion.

The concert was under the auspices of the Young Men's Guild of the George street Methodist Church.

LATE JOHN PORTER HIGHLY RESPECTED

One of Bailieboro's Oldest Business Men Died on Tuesday.

One of the oldest and most highly respected residents of Baillieboro, died on Tuesday evening in the person of John Porter. He was born in Ireland and came to Canada when about eight years of age. The family settled in Bowmanville, where they lived for several years. The deceased spent a number of years of his early manhood in Port Hope, and for a short time was employed by the late Mr. Roundtree, in Peterborough. For the past sixty years he has been a resident of Baillieboro, where he has been engaged in a successful shoe business.

While living in Port Hope the late Mr. Porter saw six months service in the Queen's Own Regiment at the time of the rebellion of 1837.

The deceased was twice married, his first wife having predeceased him by about thirty years. His widow was Jessie Chambers. By his first wife he leaves four sons, Samuel of Winnipeg, Thomas, headmaster of the Model School, Toronto; John, of Trenton, Ont., and Alexander, who is in the United States, and a daughter, Jane, of Toronto.

The deceased suffered a stroke of paralysis last winter, and never rallied from its effects. He was 80 years of age.

The late Mr. Porter was very well known in these parts where he enjoyed the respect and esteem of a very large number of friends. He was a man of high character and of ability, and his death will remove one whose loss will be severely felt.

The funeral, which was very largely attended took place Friday afternoon to the Presbyterian cemetery at Centreville.

CHRISTMAS CARD FOR BOY OR GIRL

What Better Than a Public Library Ticket.

The usefulness of a Christmas present does not detract from the pleasure it gives the recipient. In settling the question of what you shall give your boy or girl, or wife or friend, or even poor person, fond of reading — settle the question by deciding to give a public library ticket, which will open a year's access to an unlimited amount of good reading, and the privileges of the reading rooms. Think! Give yourself the trouble to call at the library on Water street and purchase a ticket for your boy or girl, or somebody else you want to benefit, and make happy, beyond the mere happiness of being remembered. An adult's ticket for a whole year will only cost $1.50; young people even less.

Simply Magnificent.

A glimpse in the window at the pretty things at "Frost's Diamond Hall" is but a foretaste of the rich things the store contains. If you're thinking of a watch, a ring, or a bit of fine china, you really haven't seen the finest till you've seen Frost's, and Frost's low prices will suit your purse.

Indispensible good things, such as delicious Creamery Butter, newly laid Eggs, fine rich old Cheese, Flavourings and Spices, at White & Gillespie's, under the Opera House, George street.

"Cheese It!"

Next time you want a pound or two of cheese, no more, no less, go in to White & Gillespie's store and see how slick it can be done when the right kind of knife is used. This firm has invented in one of the Templeton cheese knives, which can be gauged to cut off in one piece the exact weight from a quarter of a pound up to any weight desired.

PRETTY WEDDING AT SPRINGVILLE

Miss Margaret Batteer Married to Mr. Francis Campbell.

A quiet home wedding took place at "Fairview Farm," Springville, on Wednesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Wm. Batteer, when her only daughter, Miss Margaret, was united in marriage to Mr. Francis Campbell, of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Yule, pastor of Springville Presbyterian church, in the presence of only the immediate friends.

The bride was attired in a pretty dress of steel gray, and white silk, and was attended by Miss Jennie Huston. Mr. David Batteer, brother of the bride, was groomsman. After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served.

MACLEAN VS. BORDEN

Toronto Man May Unhorse Nova Scotian at the Caucus.

THE INHARMONIOUS NOTE

He Bluntly Protested At Recent Conservative Conference in Montreal Against a Leader Who Could Not Carry a Seat in His Own Province—No Ill-Feeling Engendered—Other Candidates.

Montreal, Dec. 9.—(Globe Special.)—As was observed in The Globe's report of the Conservative meeting held here on Monday, the only inharmonious note of significance was supplied by W. F. Maclean, M.P., of Toronto, who had served to expose the Conservative plot to defeat the Government. Along the same line last night The Montreal Herald says: "Some things which happened at the conference of the Conservatives here on Monday were not mentioned to the public. It was announced that Mr. R. L. Borden has been unanimously requested to continue the leadership of the Conservative party, but that at Mr. Borden's request the matter of leadership was left in abeyance until the first caucus of the Conservative representatives after the meeting of the House. It has developed that the offer of the leadership was not unanimous. In fact, there was active opposition. Some of the more generous spirits among the Conservative members expressed their desire that Mr. Borden should continue in the leadership, without regard to the consequences of the elections in Nova Scotia. These gentlemen gave Mr. Borden the choice of several Ontario seats. There were in the gathering, however, those who objected, and their spokesman was Mr. W. F. Maclean. Mr. Maclean frankly stated that it would do the Conservative party no good to continue a man who had not sufficient weight to carry his own or a single seat in his native Province. Mr. Maclean demanded a suspension of judgment by the Conservatives in that matter of the leadership until after the House had met, and until the Conservative members elected could all be gathered together to express the sentiments of Conservatives in all parts of the Dominion. It was after Mr. Maclean's speech that Mr. Borden announced that he would not make a declaration as to the leadership at the present time. There was some regret, but no ill-feeling, as the result of the stand taken by Mr. Maclean. There was general recognition of the fact that Mr. Maclean had the right to make the protest that he did. It is understood that the first caucus of the Conservative members at Ottawa after the meeting of the House will see an interesting struggle for the leadership. Perhaps Mr. Maclean did not make his protest on Monday from wholly disinterested motives. He was a candidate for the leadership in 1900, when Mr. Borden was selected. He is still a candidate. It is interesting to note that neither Hon. Geo. E. Foster nor Mr. E. F. Clarke was on hand on Monday to offer his seat or support to Mr. Borden. Both Mr. Clarke and Mr. Foster are understood to be candidates for the leadership. It is understood that they will be found with a following at the first Conservative caucus. Should Mr. Borden be selected as the leader again it is not likely that Mr. Kidd of Carleton will be called upon to make way for him. Carleton was one of the first seats to be offered, and the impression has been created that it would be the one assigned to Mr. Borden should he again run. However, the leaders among the Conservatives have discussed the situation, and have decided that it might be a piece of bad politics for the leader of the Conservative party to sit for Carleton County, which is one of the most thoroughly Orange ridings in the Dominion, and for Mr. Borden to sit for it might produce inconvenience in one way and another. Mr. Borden will likely be provided with a seat other than that occupied by Mr. Kidd."

THE BOGUS BALLOT BOXES.

Investigation Will Be Resumed At Belleville—New Witnesses.

Belleville, Dec. 9.—The ballot box investigation will be resumed this morning before A. F. Wood, J.P., of Madoc.

James Harpell, Bancroft, insurance agent, who assisted in the drowning of the bogus ballot boxes, will go on the stand and tell what he knows of the affair. Harpell has been in Toronto.

Police Magistrate Harryett from Bancroft, was brought down from Toronto yesterday afternoon by Detective Parkinson of the Dominion Police, and was taken before Magistrate Flint and admitted to bail for the sum of $2,000. His brother went the security. The County Council of Hastings, which pays $400 of Harryett's salary, will ask that he be dismissed from his office.

Barrister Faulds Locked Up.

London, Dec. 9.—John F. Faulds, barrister of this city, was locked up last night on a charge of carrying a loaded revolver. The sequel of the statement to that a tragedy was narrowly averted in the heart of the business section of this city last night. Faulds met R. M. C. Teeke, a former law partner, and a serious quarrel ensued, which resulted in Faulds drawing a loaded weapon. A policeman wrenched the weapon from his hand. Faulds was locked up. He used to live in Toronto.

A Plant That Quells Hunger.

In Peru is found a singular plant, capable of quelling hunger or thirst for several days. It is named Erythroxylon coca. A decoction of 200 grains of this plant produces this effect for forty-eight hours, the muscular energy being preserved. The plant ceases to paralyze the nerves of the stomach and suspend the digestive functions without affording nutriment."

MONTREAL CELEBRATES.

Glow Around Every Catholic Institution in City a Blaze of Light.

Montreal, Dec. 9.—Last evening the zone around every Catholic Church, convent, college, university and thousands of private residences was a blaze of light. Fifty years ago the dogma of the Immaculate Conception was promulgated in Rome, and the celebration of that event is taking place all over the Roman Catholic world.

To begin with, Cardinal Merry del Val wired the administrator of the archdiocese as follows: "Rome, Dec. 7, 1904—Rt. Rev. Mgr. Racicot, administrator.—Acceding to the desires of the most Rev. Archbishop of Montreal, the Holy Father blessed the clergy, religious communities and the faithful, who, in conjunction with Rome, are celebrating the jubilee of the Immaculate Conception." In all the churches and in the community at morning services sermons were delivered on the dogma of the Immaculate Conception. At St. James' Cathedral His Grace Mgr. Archambault of Joliette, officiated at Pontifical high mass.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Fingal P.O. Robbed.

St. Thomas, Dec. 9.—The postoffice at Fingal, six miles west of here, was burglarized between 1 and 2 o'clock yesterday morning and $300 in cash taken. The burglars drilled holes in the safe and made a complete job of it. From footprints in the light snow which fell in the evening it was seen that two or three men had been engaged in the work. They blew open the safe at J. H. Still's mills early Wednesday night and robbed the Norwich and Glencoe postoffices a short time ago.

Nervous Dyspepsia

Mr. George Bolen, Spry, Bruce Co., writes:—"I was troubled with nervous dyspepsia for some years, and after using nine boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I felt better than I had for years. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is certainly the best medicine I ever used, and I say so because I want to give full credit where it is due."

For Army Remounts.

London, Dec. 9.—Major Moore read a paper before the Royal United Service Institution on "Horses of different countries and supply with relation to military services." Referring to Canada, Major Moore was sanguine as to its future as a field of supply. Canada is eager for customs, and would hail with delight any patronage which the mother country could give them, even to a small modicum per annum for the army.

Afflicted with Erysipelas For Ten Years.

Cured by Four Bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mrs. N. Peister, of Brighton, Ont., was Cured Two Years Ago and Has Had No Return Of It Since.

Read what she says:—"It is now about two years since I was cured of a terrible attack of Erysipelas, with which I had been afflicted for about ten years. I had tried almost everything, including medicine from several doctors, but could get no relief. I had given my case up as hopeless, but I procured five bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters, and it completely cured me. In fact, the cure has been permanent. It is now two years since I took Burdock Blood Bitters, and I have not had the slightest sign of the disease returning. I fully believe that your wonderful remedy has taken it completely out of my system, that I shall never be bothered again with it. I have the greatest of faith in Burdock Blood Bitters."

NERVE SPLICING.

One of the Great Achievements of Modern Surgery.

Nerve splicing, or restoring dead nerves to life, is one of the latest achievements of surgery. And, though the process is still in its infancy, it is believed in medical circles that the operation will one day become as common as trepanning. Three cases have already resulted in perfect success. The cure for paralysis and palsy is brought about by means of this process. In the case of young children palsy is brought about by some accident of birth which compresses the nerves which radiate from the spinal cord and if in the upper part of the body produces paralysis in the arms. The technical name for this disease is "birth palsy."

Paralysis in old people or those advancing in years is sometimes due to this accident, though it more usually comes from the decay of the principal nerve.

Two children victims of birth palsy have been experimented upon with such success that the patients are as well as the most anxious mother could wish. Dr. Clark, one of the operating physicians, has recently explained before an audience of medical men exactly how the operation is performed. The nerves which supply motion to the affected limbs are severed from as close to the spinal cord as possible and then grafted to the nearest trunk line. If no complications arise in course of time the delicate threads unite, and the paralysed parts take on fresh life. Naturally the operation is exceedingly difficult, because the nerves which radiate from the upper part of the spinal cord are so great in number and cross and recross each other in so complex a manner. Another difficulty lies in the fact that anaesthetics must be used sparingly, for the longer the patient is under their influence the harder it is to follow the nerve threads.—Baltimore American.

A Wonderful Cannon.

The inventor of the new American gun is a man named J. Hamilton Brown, though the work of constructing this particular six inch experimental piece is in charge of Colonel John M. Ingalls, retired, U. S. A., an artillerist of high standing and reputation. Despite the incredulity of contemporary gun builders, Colonel Ingalls and the officers with him assert that this six inch gun will throw thirty miles a projectile weighing 100 pounds which will pierce a six inch steel target. A ten inch gun of this construction with a powder chamber of 14,200 cubic inches and using 360 pounds of smokeless powder would hurl a 000 pound projectile a distance of fifty-nine miles. Increasing this ratio, a sixteen inch gun would have an extreme range of more than a hundred miles, and equipped with such coast defense rifles England and France could shell each other across the channel.—Everybody's Magazine.

The right shoulders of persistent golfers' coats have to be padded, for golf develops the left shoulder so abnormally that, without this padding, the young men would look a little deformed.

In driving the player's right arm and shoulder only guide the ball's course. It is the left arm and shoulder that do the work; hence the excessive left side development, to counteract which it is sometimes necessary to put in the right shoulder of the coat padding an inch deep.

Tailors can always tell a golfer by this peculiar development of his left shoulder. Sometimes young women play enough to get uneven shoulders too. The deformity, though, is rare among young women, whereas among young men it is common.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Why Needed in Every Home

TO OVERCOME THE MOST COMMON AND ANNOYING OF HUMAN ILLS.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Indigestion, constipation and torpid action of the liver and kidneys are known in every home.

Both on account of the distress and discomfort which accompanies them and as a cause of other ills of a more painful and deadly nature, these derangements require prompt attention.

In every home there is needed more or less frequently a treatment which can be depended on to regulate the organs of digestion and excretion.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have become the most popular family medicine extant, because they exactly meet the requirements.

They are unique in that they act directly on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and thus ensure a prompt regulating and invigorating of these organs.

The result is good digestion and assimilation and the prompt removal of the poisonous waste matter from the body.

One pill a dose at bedtime two or three times a week soon cleanses the system and removes the cause of pain and ill health.

Mr. R. Carr, Point Alexander, Renfrew Co., Ont., writes, "Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have done me wonderful good. Being troubled with kidney disease and heart affection, I tried them with excellent results, and would not think of being without them in the house."

BODY FOUND IN TORONTO.

Girl Wife of Twenty Dead—Coroner Will Investigate Death.

Toronto, Dec. 8.—Found on the lake beach at Stanley Barracks yesterday morning by Corpl. George Tuft, and removed to the morgue, the body of a young woman was identified late in the afternoon as being that of Mrs. Arthur Patterson, of 16 Grove avenue, Parkdale. She was only 20 years of age. Her husband and his father went to the morgue and made the identification. Mrs. Patterson had been missing since Saturday night. The body was but little marked and the face retained its natural color.

According to the story told by her husband they went out together Saturday night. He went into a barber shop to get shaved and she went to visit friends on Spencer avenue. She did not return home on Saturday evening, but it was not until Monday that her disappearance was reported to the police at No. 6 station.

Her relatives do not give any reason why she should have committed suicide.

The unfortunate woman was a Miss Annie Neeshaw of Lindsay and was married to Patterson just five months ago. Patterson is an employe of the R. Laidlaw Lumber Company, and is about the same age as his dead wife. They had been living with his father, who is senior foreman with the lumber company.

The body was taken to Craig's undertaking establishment and Coroner Crawford will open an inquest tonight. The fact that the girl's disappearance was not reported to the authorities at once is something the coroner wants explained. The dead girl's friends give her a good reputation.

ROSS FIRES OTTAWA

Great Demonstration to the Provincial Premier.

A GREAT LIBERAL SWEEP

Local Elections in Prince Edward's Island—Figures Received Indicate the Return of Twenty-One Liberals and Nine Conservatives—Premier Peters Narrowly Escaped Defeat—Wednesday's Nominations.

Ottawa, Dec. 8.—The Premier of Ontario paid a flying visit to Ottawa last night and set the heather on fire. He dropped in on the Liberal Convention while it was engaged in choosing candidates for the Provincial elections, and his presence aroused the most unbounded enthusiasm. The delegates, one and all, animated by a common impulse, sprang to their feet and cheered wildly. Again and again the acclamations were renewed, until those cheering were forced to cease from pure exhaustion. If any doubt existed as to Mr. Ross' popularity in Ottawa it was scattered to the winds by his magnificent reception. In a brief fifteen-minute speech the Premier pronounced in no uncertain manner for purity of elections. He dwelt upon the immense area and latent resources of the Province, and declared that our vacant lands must be settled and our resources developed. Municipal institutions should be developed, he said, in the direction of greater powers of self government wherever possible. He appealed for a larger outlook in our national life. In the course of his speech he said:

An Early Election.

"Of course I can get on with a small majority, but I do not want to do it any longer, and the probabilities are—I cannot tell any secrets—that there will be a general election before many months—if not weeks—go by, and my expectations are, and I think them well founded, that my majority will be largely increased. I never saw the harvest so promising before a general election. For a time I think the Liberals had somewhat lost heart. Some things had occurred for which the Government were not responsible, for which the Liberals of Ottawa were not responsible, things which we greatly deplored and regretted. And through these circumstances a feeling of discouragement and depression had grown in the breasts of some of our best Liberal workers. But the clouds to a great extent have rolled away. (Cheers.) It will never do for us to sit in sackcloth and ashes while there are great things to be done. (Hear, hear.) Ontario cannot afford, and the Liberals of Ontario cannot afford, to allow any feeling of depression or any discouraging circumstance to stand between them and their duty to their country and their party. That is the position in which we now find ourselves, and that is the spirit which has now taken hold of the Liberal party. Whatever is written on the pages of our past history that is not pleasant to look at we are going to forget, and we are going to take very good care that there will be no such writings on the pages of the Liberal party in days to come. (Loud cheers.) That part of our history is closed, I hope, and sealed with seven seals, not to be opened again in your time or mine.

The Conservative Record.

"At the same time we are not going to forget that, while our opponents are loud in denouncing us for what happened irregularly, they, in asking for the confidence of the country, have a record also. That record is not one in regard to which we need fear comparison. They had better let us alone in regard to our record, or it will be our duty to make the comparison."

GREAT LIBERAL SWEEP.

Twenty-One Liberals and Nine Conservatives Returned in Prince Edward Island.

Halifax, Dec. 8.—A tinal wave of Liberalism, checked by a reverse at the Dominion election in Prince Edward Island, came back again and yesterday swept the Conservatives off their feet in defeat and demoralization. So far as known, twenty-one Liberals and nine Conservatives were elected, but the special vote may increase the majority. Prince County has gone solidly Liberal, returning ten members, in some cases with largely increased majorities. Queen's County returns eight Liberals and two Conservatives, and King's three Liberals, seven Conservatives. Charlottetown city was practically a landslide for the Government, Messrs. Warburton and Hughes taking the largest majorities ever known in the city. Premier Peters narrowly escaped defeat, having only six votes to spare, and the special vote may in. The election was one of the Hon. Mr. Cummiskey, Commissioner of Public Works, is seven votes behind, but special votes may put him in. The election was one of the most exciting ever held in the Province, and both parties worked hard, fine weather and good roads bringing out large votes.

Possible standing in the House is as follows: Liberals—Peters, McInnis, Bowlen, Hughes, Warburton, Smith, Simpson, Douglas, McMillan, Hasseard, Irving, Godkin, Clark, Read, Reid, McNutt, J. H. Arsenault, Richard, McWilliams, Agnew, Gallant.

Conservatives—Mathieson, MacKinnon, Prowse, Morson, Fraser, John Kickham, Macdonald, McCourt, Woods.

The result is a great disappointment to the Conservatives, who were dead sure of winning.

Let go or ... That's the alternative of the shipwrecked man with the money bags. A great many people have a like alternative before them. Business men come to a point where the doctor tells them that they must "let go or die." Probably he advised a sea voyage or mountain air. There's an obstinate cough that won't be shaken off. The lungs are weak and perhaps bleeding. There is emaciation and other symptoms of disease, which if unskilfully or improperly treated terminate in consumption.

Thousands of men and women in a like condition have found complete healing by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

PROSPECTS IN TRENT VALLEY.

Outlook is Good for Successful Season.

Most of Last Year's Teams Will be in Line—Secretary-Treasurer Retires.

Although there has not been much newspaper publicity regarding the Trent Valley League this fall, the secretary of the League, Mr. E. S. Clarry, has been busy for the past week or two in drumming up different clubs throughout the country. The annual meeting of the league will likely be held on Saturday morning, December 17th, although there is a possibility of having the meeting held on the Friday evening previous. Some of the clubs from out of town have expressed a desire to have the meeting held on the Friday evening as holding a meeting on a morning necessitates a great many of the delegates leaving at noon, making the meeting necessarily a short one. The president and secretary of the league intend to decide the matter by to-morrow.

While it is a fact that in some towns represented in the Trent Valley League a year ago, the interest is not quite so great as formerly, still the indications are that the league will have a good membership this winter. Fenelon Falls, which three years ago won the championship of the league, but which last year dropped out of the series, will be in line again, and have formally applied to the secretary of the league for admission. Picton will also be in the league again, and have written requesting the date of the annual meeting. Cobourg is anxious to once more get into the series, and Colborne is as enthusiastic as ever. Campbellford has organized and will enter the field, while Keene, one of the oldest and most aggressive combinations in the Trent Valley League, will be to the front as usual. Deseronto, unfortunately, will not enter a team this year, but Belleville will. Napanee is out of it this year but Brighton and likely a team from Port Hope will be in the running.

As far as the local situation is concerned it is not definitely known how many teams will be entered but likely two teams will be in the series as was the case last year.

The clubs throughout the district will be notified this week as to the exact date of the meeting, and a large representation is urged.

Mr. Clarry, who has held the position of secretary-treasurer for the past six years, since the formation, in fact, of the league, has expressed his determination to relinquish that post, and it is therefore not improbable that a new secretary-treasurer will have to be elected. The duties of secretary-treasurer of the league are more onerous than anyone outside of the office has any idea of, as during the actual season of play, they take almost the entire time of the official holding the position.

MR. E. S. CLARRY,
The Sec.-Treas. of Trent Valley League.

The president of the league is Mr. William Crowley, one of the best known men in athletic circles in the district. He has held the position for the past year and has performed his duties in a manner which has won him the esteem and confidence of the clubs in the league.

The secretary of the league would be obliged if the clubs throughout the district, if they have not already done so, communicate with him in regard to the prospects for the coming season, and he will be willing to to give all necessary information regarding the league for the coming season.

FUNERAL WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

Remains of Late Dr. Pigeon Borne to the Tomb This Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Dr. Pigeon took place this afternoon from his late residence Charlotte street, to St. John's church, where the services were conducted by Rev. J. C. Davidson and Rev. Wm. Major. The funeral was a large one, the members of the local lodge A. F. and A. M. being present in large numbers as well as many prominent citizens, who followed the remains of the deceased to his last resting place.

In his sermon Rev. Mr. Davidson referred to the kindness of the deceased, and this large-hearted generosity, of which many to-day bear testimony. The bearers were members of the profession, Doctors Carmichael, Eastwood, Halliday, Boucher, Greer and Caldwell.

The remains were interred in the Little Lake Cemetery.

The Turnbull Co. announce a big clearing sale of their Winter Coats. To-morrow you may have your choice of window of $8.00 to $15.00 Jackets for $3.99.

PHYSICIANS SEND A RESOLUTION

Sympathizing With Family of the Late Dr. Pigeon.

A meeting of the members of the Medical profession of Peterborough and vicinity was held last night, when a resolution of sympathy was drafted to send to the family of the late Dr. Pigeon. The resolution was sent to-day, and is as follows:—

Peterborough, December 8, 1904.

We, the members of the medical profession of Peterborough and vicinity, desire to express our deep sympathy with the wife and family of the late Henry Pigeon, M. D., in their great bereavement.

We, who have so intimately associated with him, for so many years knowing his sterling worth and great devotion to his profession, his unremitting care and attention to his patients fully realize the great loss which the community has sustained in his death.

To his family the loss of a devoted husband and loving father is irreparable. We feel how feeble human sympathy is. It is only from the great Father of all that consolation can come, and to His loving care we commend them.

Signed on behalf of the profession,

J. T. L. Halliday, M.D,
R. P. Boucher, M.D,
T. N. Greer, M.D.
J. A. Morgan, M.D.

To Mrs. Henry Pigeon, Peterborough.

WIT AND HUMOR IN ENNISMORE

Lecture Given Last Night by Mr. J. H. Burnham.

Other Local Talent Provided, an Interesting Programme in St. Martins Hall.

Last night a lecture was given in the T.A.S. Hall, Ennismore, by Mr. J. H. Burnham, of Peterborough, on "Wit and Humour," and a number of persons from Peterborough attended, some of them taking part in the programme.

The beautiful new hall was packed to the doors, and a delightful evening was spent, Mr. Burnham's lecture proving most entertaining as well as instructive. The musical part of the programme, which preceded Mr. Burnham's lecture, was contributed to by local talent, and reflected credit on the musical ability of the young people of Ennismore. It included choruses, violin solos, banjo solos, vocal solos, etc., and was much enjoyed. The chairman was Rev. Father Fitzpatrick.

Mr. John Haggart, who is well-known in Ennismore, gave a number of humorous readings, which literally brought down the house, and proved decidedly popular with the audience.

Short addresses were given by Messrs. D. Hughes Charles, and K. Hardley-Wilmot, of Peterborough, who attended.

TO-NIGHT CLOSES SUCCESSFUL SERVICES

Stewarts Settlement Services Have Been Most Successful.

The special services which have been conducted in Stewart's Settlement by Rev. Dr. Torrance and Rev. J. G. Mr. Lewis has been in attendance every night that the meetings have been held during the three weeks.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE

WHERE DO YOU BUY YOUR CLOTHES?

This is a very important matter, and still many men appear to think it of no consequence. They buy just anywhere they happen to see something that strikes their fancy.

But there's a difference in stores, as well as in clothes.

Some stores go in for "cheapness," others for quality.

Which do you prefer?

"You pay your money and take your choice."

If it is smartness of style, perfection of fit, thorough reliability—at a fair price—you are after, then this is the CLOTHING STORE for you.

BUSINESS MEN DECLINE THE HONOR

Few are Willing to Accept the Responsibility and Sacrifice time to be Aldermen.

List of Business Men Who Will be Approached—Their Answers Secured by the Examiner.

Few Inclined to Consider Proposal to Enter Municipal Politics With any Degree of Favour.

A body of business men has decided to take a part in the approaching municipal elections to the extent of endeavouring to induce business men to accept nominations for Aldermen. A list of gentlemen has been prepared and they will be waited on by the Representative business men and asked to allow their names to be put in nomination on Dec. 26 when the nominations are held.

The present prospects are that there will be very few of this year's council in that of 1905. Mayor Roger has signified his intention of retiring from the Mayoralty and the council. Ald. Edgcumbe, who has been for some years a member of the council, will not stand for re-election, and Ald. Morrison has come to a similar decision, after three years of service for the town. Ald. Rush has also decided that this year will be his last, at least for a time in the council, and Ald. McWilliams will not be an alderman in 1905. Ald. Best's decision to run for Mayor will render his aldermanic place vacant. It is reported that Ald. Chinkscale will not again be a candidate, which will mean that at least six new faces will be seen on the council board next year. The other members of this year's council will in all probability be candidates for re-election and the majority expect to be returned.

Those who will be interviewed and asked to consider the question of entering municipal life are:

F. ADAMS,
J. F. ALLIN,
B. F. ACKERMAN,
J. W. BENNETT,
W. H. BRADBURN,
R. C. BRAUND,
THOS. BRIGHTMAN,
ANDREW BROWN,
JAS. CONNAL,
DR. COUGHLIN,
A. W. CRESSMAN,
A. E. DIXON,
DR. EASTWOOD,

W. H. HAMILTON,
ROBT. HICKS,
W. R. G. HIGGINS,
J. J. HOWDEN,
R. G. KINGAN,
JAS. LYNCH,
J. J. LYNCH,
ALFRED MACDONALD,
A. A. McINTYRE,
A. E. MICKS,
D. H. MOORE,
JOHN NOUENT,
D. O'CONNELL,
ALFRED PARKER,
JOS. PROARD,
J. C. SHOOK,
J. A. SUTCLIFFE,
F. S. SCHNEIDER,
W. J. THOMPSON,
J. D. TULLY.

The Examiner has interviewed the above gentlemen, and the results of these interviews is given below:—

Ald. F. Adams,—I will probably be a candidate for the office of Alderman during the next year.

R. F. Ackerman was not inclined to view the proposal favourably, and thought he would not be a candidate. He recognized the desirability of the business interests of the town being represented in the council but felt that he could not give the time necessary to fill the duties of alderman.

W. H. Bradburn—Had not yet been waited upon and this was the first he had heard of the matter. He would not be in a position to state definitely what his answer would be at the present time. He was a very busy man and had not much time.

R. C. Braund — He had decided not to be a candidate this year. In the first place he has not the time to give to it, and in the second place Mr. Tovey, who is a resident of the same part of the town as Mr. Braund will be a candidate, and he does not wish to oppose him.

Thos. Brightman—Could not possibly be a candidate. Said he was trying to live an honest life, and was afraid of the influences of civic politics.

Andrew Brown—Could not say definitely but did not think he could consider it.

Jas. Connal—Could not possibly accept nomination, because of lack of time.

A. W. Cressman—Is not in it, under any consideration.

A. E. Dixon—Could not think of it.

J. E. A. Fitzgerald said he could not be a candidate.

W. H. Hamilton—Said his answer would be "No."

Ald. Hicks—Had not fully decided yet as to whether he will be a candidate or not.

W. R. G. Higgins—Had not considered the matter yet.

J. J. Howden—Had not heard anything about it, but will think it over.

R. G. Kingan—My answer will be "No."

Jas. Lynch—My answer will be "No."

J. J. Lynch—Not prepared to make any definite statement yet.

A. A. McIntyre—Had not thought anything about the matter; he would consider it.

A. E. Micks—Out of town and could not be reached.

D. H. Moore—Could not accept the nomination.

D. O'Connell—Does not want to be an alderman, but is considering the matter after solicitation from his friends.

Alfred Parker—Has not the time to attend to the duties of the office, and cannot accept.

Jos. Picard—Cannot spare the time and will not accept nomination.

J. C. Shook—Has not the time, and a disinclination to accept the honour.

J. A. Sutcliffe—At the present time cannot think of it, although if business interests would permit he would like to do anything that he felt his duty along that line.

W. J. Thompson — Has not considered the matter in any way, and cannot make a statement yet.

J. D. Tully—Has not even thought of the matter, and hardly thought it possible to accept.

Dr. Coughlin—The first he had heard of it, and had not considered the question.

Dr. Eastwood—Had not the time nor the inclination.

Alfred McDonald—Could not spare the time necessary.

J. W. Bennet—Out of town.

COMPETENT MEN SHOULD BE CHOSEN

It is Important to Have Good Men for Aldermen and Mayor.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—I understand that the town council last evening appointed a number of citizens to wait upon the Cereal Company regarding their alleged freight rates with the C. P. R. and G. T. R. Are the citizens to understand that the Mayor and Council feel their inability to grapple with the situation? If so, at this season of the year, when councillors are being selected or elected, would it not be well to consider more carefully whom we elect as councillors and mayor for 1905. I see Councillor Morrison has intimated that he will not be a candidate for Mayor. In my judgment Mr. Morrison would be much more competent man than Mr. Best. Is Mr. Best, who has wasted so much money upon our streets, as Chairman of the Board of Works to be entrusted with the position of Mayor? I should hope not.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

The Essentials of Good Clothes.

Just forget prejudice for a moment!

The essentials for a well fitting suit of clothes are proper designing—careful cutting—expert workmanship—hand tailoring and good materials.

These determine the fit and hang of the garment—the style—the shape—and the permanent retention of these qualities during the garment's life.

Because you like to be measured with a tape line does it follow that you will obtain the maximum satisfaction on these points from the "little" fellow who tries to design—cut—tailor and sew all by himself?

Semi-ready is the product of specialists assembled in units—a master tailor does the designing—expert cutters cut the cloth and skilled tailors work on the particular parts in the making of which they excel.

The results of fit—expression—shape and permanent retention of these qualities are due to these effects being kept in view in every operation of the making. 457

AN ANSWER TO "OLD TIME LIBERAL."

What Can Temperance People Expect —From Conservatives.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—I noticed in the columns of your evening contemporary a communication signed "Old Time Liberal" in which reference is made to the attitude of the Liberal party on the temperance question and complainingly referring to that attitude. Of course this "Old Time Liberal" has continued to play his game for years. Will the writer of the Review kindly publish the writer's name? If he is not a Tory, I will buy the editor a new hat. Then I would like to ask him what the Conservatives ever did for temperance, either in the Legislature or out of it, and I would also like to ask whom the old time temperance Liberals expect the money from, Mr. McWilliams or Mr. Bradburn? I am told that Mr. Bradburn is interested in hotel property in Peterborough, and that the Bradburn estate owns hotel property in this town, two at least. Do the old time Liberal temperance people feel sure in Mr. Bradburn's hands on this question?

In the face of these facts how can temperance men be expected to vote for Bradburn and Whitney when the temperance legislation that Mr. Ross and his Government has given, is considered?

OF INTEREST TO CANDIDATES.

The law respecting the qualification of candidates for municipal office, has been amended to read as follows:

In cities, towns and incorporated villages every candidate for the office of mayor, reeve, controller, alderman, councillor, water commissioner and street railway commissioner, shall on day of nomination or at any time before nine o'clock in the afternoon of the following day, or when such last named day is a holiday, then before twelve o'clock noon on the afternoon of the succeeding day, file in the office of the clerk of the municipality, a statutory declaration in accordance with the terms contained in section 211 of this act, or to the like effect, that he possesses the necessary qualification for the office, and in default of his so doing such candidate shall be deemed to have resigned, and his name shall be removed from the list of candidates, and shall not be printed on the ballot papers.

In the past qualification papers have been filed after polling; now they must be filed before.

THE CONDITIONS REQUIRED.

There is a certain section of the temperance people who blame Mr. Ross for not passing a prohibitory measure. That he cannot pass such a measure, when the members of the legislature will not vote for it is self-evident. How can members elected on policies peculiar to the respective parties they represent, be expected to vote for a principle they do not favour, when electors who believe in that principle, will not vote for candidates favouring it, or pledged to it, unless they are of the political persuasion of the voter concerned? If the electors want a certain policy applied—such as say, the construction of a Transcontinental Railway—they vote for it through the representatives they send to Parliament. If the people of the province want prohibition they are masters of the situation. Let them send enough members to the legislature favourable to that measure and the thing is done. If the electors favourable to prohibition can do that, and do not do it, they should be prepared to take the responsibility. A man who wishes to grow a certain crop and refuses to sow the seed cannot expect to reap the harvest.

Found Drowned.

Preston, Dec. 10.—A man named John Meiluade, about 55 years of age, was in town last Tuesday evening, disappeared, and although diligent search was made for him by his brother, he could not be found. His remains were found yesterday in about 4 feet of water at the foot of George street.

Earthquake in Peru.

Lima, Peru, Dec. 10.—A strong earthquake shock was felt here yesterday morning.

MR. DRYDEN AND THE FARMERS.

His Qualifications for Minister of Agriculture.

What Has Been Done for Agriculture Under His Administration.

The Minister of Agriculture is very much at home with all classes of farmers, for he is so obviously one of themselves that he can take his place among them without affectation. During the Stock Show at Guelph this week he has been very much in evidence, not because he desires to be prominent, but because other agriculturists desire to have the benefit of his long experience as a practical farmer, and of his wider outlook as the head of the administrative department in which they have a special interest. If his own wishes were consulted in these matters the public would see far less of him, because the one complaint his political friends have against him is that, while he likes to "do things," he dislikes to talk about them.

But there is another side to Mr. Dryden, the existence of which was revealed to the distinguished educationists who assembled at the inauguration of the Macdonald Institute, and the unveiling of the portrait of its distinguished founder. In the unexpected absence of the Minister of Education, whose graceful oratory would have admirably harmonized with the general character of the function, the Minister of Agriculture had to take upon himself the task of representing the Executive Council, of which they are both members. The address he gave was a model of sound common sense, tersely and simply expressed, on the subject of public education. As the institute passes, with the Agricultural College, under Mr. Dryden's administration, all its friends may feel quite confident that its future will be assured so long as he remains at the head of the Department of Agriculture.

The question is sometimes raised by Conservative journals whether the province would stand to lose, as regards efficiency of administration, by a change of Government. About the Department of Agriculture, at all events, there is no room for doubt. No other member of the Legislative Assembly on either side of the House could take up Mr. Dryden's work and carry it on with his administrative efficiency. In some of the other departments the lack of practical experience may not greatly impair the aptitude of the Ministers in charge, but the farmers of Ontario would not tolerate the idea of a Minister without practical agricultural experience, and they would be quite justified in this attitude. They look, and must continue to look to a Minister of Agriculture for suggestions to help them out in the relentless competition to which they are subjected. Since Mr. Dryden became a member of the Legislative Assembly, just twenty-five years ago, a revolution has taken place for the better in the greatest industry of this Province, and to his experience and resourcefulness this great change is largely due. The greater part of this revolution has been wrought during his term of departmental administration, which began in 1890.

Apart altogether from the fate of political parties, it is worth while for the great body of the farmers of Ontario to consider well before they resolve to aid in removing Mr. Dryden from his present useful work. There are some things which comes closer home to the thoughtful elector than the success of his party, and one of them is the general prosperity of the community. Mr. Dryden would be the last man in the Province to pose as a kind of Providence, but the farmers of Ontario labour under no delusion when they recall what he has accomplished for the dairy and beef interests, for the Agricultural College and Experimental Farm, for the improvement of live stock; and, above all, for the widespread and effective dissemination of practical knowledge among the farmers by means of institute work and the circulation of bulletins. It is easy to say that an inexperienced successor will be able to manage a department so well organized, but conditions are subject to rapid and capricious change, and the Minister should be able from his watch-tower not merely to warn his brother farmers of dangers ahead, but to suggest to them the means of escape. It is because Mr. Dryden's methods are not stereotyped that he has been so unprecedentedly successful as an administrator.—The Globe.

LINGERING COLD.

Withstood Other Treatment But Quickly Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I caught a very severe cold which lingered for weeks," says J. Urquhart, of Zephyr, Ontario. "My cough was very dry and harsh. The local dealer recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and guaranteed it, so I gave it a trial. One 25 cent bottle of it cured me. I believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best I have ever used." This is one of the most staple medicines in use. Thousands have testified to its excellence. It not only cures a cold quickly and effectually, but counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It is equally valuable for children and may be given to them with implicit confidence. It always cures and is pleasant to take. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no opium or other harmful drug. Sold by all druggists.

ANOTHER SENSATION IN BELLEVILLE

People There are Worried Over Ghost-like Noises Heard.

Some Belleville people are worried over some strange sounds which are heard coming from the canning factory in that town. The "Ontario" says: —

There are not many people in these enlightened days who can be persuaded to believe that there are such things as ghosts or spooks, but if you ask some of the people at the canning factory that question they will endeavour to convince you to the contrary. For the past couple of weeks there have been heard most weird groans emanating from beneath the floor of the canning factory, sounds which can only be compared to a man groaning in agony. It is said both the proprietors have heard the sounds on different occasions and the caretaker swears that his name has been called. Repeated investigations have been made but the mystery still remains. It is now up to those who are students of the supernatural to give an explanation of the phenomena and thereby ease certain anxious minds who have come in contact with these "spooks."

Nervous Dyspepsia

Mr. George Belen, Spry, Bruce Co., writes:—"I was troubled with nervous dyspepsia for some years, and after using nine boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I felt better than I had for years. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is certainly the best medicine I ever used, and I say so because I want to give full credit where it is due."

Steam Committed For Trial.

SWEEPING CHANGES IN FALL EXHIBITIONS

The Ontario Department of Agriculture Proposes Making Some Amendments to Agricultural and Arts Act.

Too Many County and Township Fall Fairs—Exhibitions do not Serve the Purposes Intended.

Undesirable Features of Fairs Which Must be Eleminated—The Question of Government Grants.

A letter received from the Ontario Department of Agriculture this morning gives the information that as a result of recent investigations carried on during the summer and fall, evidence has been secured which indicates that a thorough revision of the Agriculture and Arts Act is desirable. Such a revision would probably affect the grants of many agricultural and horticultural societies in the Province, including those in Peterborough county. Some it may be, will go out of existence.

That this matter may be carefully considered by members of agricultural societies it is necessary that the facts should be laid before the members fully, in time for discussion at the annual meetings of the societies in January. The societies will then be in a position to appoint delegates to attend the annual convention of the Fairs and Exhibitions Association, in Toronto, in February, when the situation will be more fully discussed and a line of action decided upon.

The Department will in the near future send out a supplement which will give full information with reference to the proposed changes in the Act, in which it will say that Agricultural Societies are not doing the work they should and that a complete revision of the act seems advisable.

It will also point out that the money spent yearly by Agricultural Societies from all sources is over $400,000 or nearly double that spent for all other Provincial Agricultural purposes, and since the passing of the Act weaknesses have developed which have never been attended to.

Among the defects in the Act which will be pointed out are:

(a) The grants to the societies are fixed by law and are not paid in proportion to the value of the work being done. Societies with grants of $90 to $200 are spending as much yearly for agriculture as other societies with grants of $680 to $800. Many township societies are holding better exhibitions than district societies, although they cannot, under the Act, receive a grant of more than $140, while the district societies receive as high as $800. Many township societies on the other hand are doing such poor work that they present little reason for their existence.

(b.) There are too many fall exhibitions. Some counties have twelve. This results in a hard fight between the societies for existence and in poor exhibitions.

The question of horse racing at fall fairs will be dealt with and the law on the subject quoted, and a statement made showing the position of societies which held horse races.

A large proportion of the societies spend more money for undesirable attractions than for agriculture. Games of chance are operated openly at many exhibitions, indecent shows are permitted and liquor is frequently sold on the grounds. A list of undesirable features at leading fairs last fall will be given as well as statements by detectives who this year visited some of these fairs and made a number of arrests.

From the above it will be learned that a number of very radical changes are suggested and the probability is that if the amendments to the Act are carried out some of the fairs in Peterborough county will be more or less materially affected.

A THEORY PROVED.

A New Idea Which Means a Great Deal in the Treatment and Cure of Disease.

Dr. Leonhardt, of Lincoln, Neb., the foremost physicians of the Western States, has put forward a new theory as to the cause of disease. He says:

"These can be no doubt, from the evidence at hand that the, Stomach is and has always been the first cause of ninety per cent. of all the illness of mankind. The failure of the Stomach to digest the food properly results in fermentation and decomposition, and the poisons arising from the foul and rotting mass get into the blood and tissue and nerves and breed diseases of every kind."

Dr. Leonhardt has found a remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Constipation. He has tried it in thousands of cases without a single failure.

He calls it Anti-Pill. It is sold at 50c. by all druggists, or The Wilson-Fyfe Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont., sole agents for Canada. Sold by Jas. Lynch, Hunter street. 100

IS SENT FOR TRIAL

Judgment in the Bogus Ballot Box Libel Case.

COMMITS THOMAS CARMAN

Harryett Committed For Trial For Conspiracy—Government's Attorney Objects to Allowing Him Bail and He Goes to Jail—Lengthy Judgment of Magistrate Wood in the Libel Case.

Belleville, Dec. 10.—Samuel Harryett was yesterday brought before Police Magistrate Flint, and, waiving examination, was committed for trial on the charge of conspiracy. Although there were a number of prominent citizens of the county, including his two brothers, who were prepared to give bail, he was last night a prisoner in the county jail. When application was made to County Judge Lazier for bail Mr. Shepley, K.C., representing the Minister of Justice, objected to bail being given. In view of this objection the application was withdrawn, in order that it may be made before a high court judge.

After giving his evidence in the morning, Robert E. Harpell was, at the request of Mr. Shepley, bound over to appear as a witness in the conspiracy case at the Assizes.

Mr. Carman Committed For Trial.

When the court resumed last evening Magistrate Wood at once commenced reading his decision, committing Mr. Carman for trial on the charge of criminally libelling Mr. E. Gus Porter. The magistrate, in his judgment, says:

The Libel.

"The untruth of the libel on Mr. Porter is established by its having been proven that the scheme was conceived and brought into execution by W. J. Shibley and B. O. Lott, each a candidate for election to parliament, assisted by F. J. Reilly and others, and that Porter, so far from having any hand in the outrage, was to be the victim of this nefarious plot to steal a constituency. I am constrained to say that the evidence given in other courts established the fact that this is no solitary instance of electoral corruption. From the extreme west of Ontario to the east a continuous series of crimes against political honesty have been shown to have been committed. From the evidence of frauds and trickery at elections, which have been so frequent of late, I HAVE RELUCTANTLY COME TO THE CONCLUSION THAT PUBLIC HONOR IN CANADA HAS STEADILY DECLINED. Such deterioration can only be stopped by a serious awakening of the public conscience, and I trust that the evidence that has been brought forward in this case may give such a shock to public opinion as to make the 'saving remnant' of honorable men in the province awake to the seriousness of the position. It seems to me that one of the most dangerous sophistries that can be urged in respect of crimes of this character is that there is a different standard of honesty and duty in public and private life. If the public conscience becomes seriously weakened it cannot fail to affect the standards of private honor.

Evidence of Conspiracy.

"The scheme seems, so far as B. O. Lott is concerned, to have originated at Toronto, for the evidence of Philip Lott shows that B. O. Lott told him that one James Vance, a Liberal organizer, had made arrangements for bogus ballot boxes. On the Sunday Byron Lott came from Toronto, Philip Lott swears that Byron and Police Magistrate Harryett came to his (Philip Lott's) house and told him that Byron was going to win West Hastings, and that he was going to steal the constituency by means of bogus ballot boxes, and explained the method of the operation. Reilly's account of his part of the transaction is that W. J. Shibley, a candidate for election in Frontenac, told him about two years ago that he had a chance to steal the riding. Shibley afterwards took Reilly to Watertown, N.Y., where they went to the tinsmith shop of Pratt & Corcoran, where they saw a man named Carscallen, who was at work on the ballot boxes. A bogus ballot box was brought back by them to Kingston. Apparently it was not satisfactory, and the next step was to obtain a genuine box, which Reilly swears was obtained from Deputy Sheriff Asselstine, and taken to Reilly's boarding house, where it was inspected by Shibley, and there remained until July, 1904, when it was sent at Shibley's request to Watertown. This identical box, after having served its purpose, is now produced in court with the original markings upon it of one C. Roof, who took the place of Carscallen in the manufacturing of bogus ballot boxes.

Shibley's "Slick" Scheme.

"After the genuine box was sent to Carscallen at Watertown, nothing was done to Reilly's knowledge, until July or August, 1904, when Shibley saw Reilly and spoke to him about a 'slick scheme' for winning elections, which he had learned from a man from the Southern States. Shibley then said that he had arranged with Carscallen for a new supply of boxes on an improved plan, the vital feature of which was the handle. Shibley told Reilly to look after the matter, and the latter went to Watertown and interviewed Carscallen who refused to manufacture them, and said that his foreman, C. Roof, was doing the work. Roof, on being seen by Reilly, and being asked whether the work was finished, said: 'He had not things right.' After Reilly returned to Kingston, about the beginning of October, he was introduced by Shibley to B. O. Lott at the British Hotel, Kingston. It is shown that Lott was anxious to go to Watertown to see the boxes, and wished Reilly to accompany him. The evidence shows that it was then well-known by the parties interested that the boxes were to be used at the coming elections. About the end of the first week in October, B. O. Lott and Reilly went to Watertown and registered at the Hardiman Hotel—Lott under a false name. Lott kept in the background and sent Reilly to interview Roof.

"Roof said: 'He had spent several nights over the matter, but he had got something pretty slick.' The trick box was shown to Lott, who was altogether satisfied with it and expressed the opinion that 'It had not' a large enough false receptacle to overcome the majority he wished to overcome,' and he suggested that this receptacle should be enlarged, and his suggestion was carried out. Reilly had previously arranged with one Whalen, a revenue officer at Prescott, to receive the boxes which were to be sent to Prescott by way of Ogdensburg. It was arranged that Whalen should send a consignment of twenty boxes, as follows: Ten to W. H. Carefoot (an assumed name) at Kingston; four to John Bremner, at Bancroft, and six to Philip Lott at Central Ontario Junction. Shibley and B. O. Lott were to put up the money for the expenses, and a letter is produced, asking Lott to send his share. From the evidence it appears that Shibley contributed $100 and Whalen advanced $10. It was about Oct. 1 that Byron Lott told his brother Philip, in the course of a conversation on the Sunday before the nomination day, of new ballot boxes.

What Philip Lott Said.

"Philip Lott, however, says that in March, 1904, Byron had an old bogus ballot box, hidden in a barrel in his barn. This box was not satisfactory to Byron Lott, as it did not switch the ballot, but dumped those for the candidate into the box. These facts were communicated to one James Hurst, a confidential friend of Philip Lott, with whom Philip Lott said he had many interviews on the subject. Mr. Hurst gave his evidence on the investigation, and corroborated Philip Lott's account of the matter in every particular. Byron Lott mentioned the matter of bogus ballot boxes to Philip Lott in connection with the fine for illegally selling liquor for which Philip had been convicted, and which fine he wished to have remitted. It appears from the evidence that Provincial Secretary J. R. Stratton advised that Philip should leave it to him and his brother to pay his fine, about $35 or $36, and that his brother said he handed Philip back the money for election services. In conversation between Philip Lott and his brother Byron on Sunday before nomination, Byron said he had several letters from Reilly with regard to the new boxes, which were to be sent to Prescott from Watertown, and showed a letter (which is produced) from Reilly, asking for money, and his brother instructed Philip to go to Kingston and see Shibley and Reilly and find out where the hitch was in the money matters, and gave a letter of introduction from himself to Shibley, which letter is produced and is dated Oct. 24, 1904.

"By means of a telegram from B. O. Lott to Shibley, a meeting was arranged at Harrowsmith and Philip met Shibley there on Monday, Oct. 24. At this interview Shibley said that the matters about the ballot boxes were all right, and that he was keeping out of it so as not to get mixed up in the affair, and gave Philip a letter of introduction to Reilly. He also said he had received $35 from B. O. Lott, but had not got the balance. Shibley arranged for one Edmund Ruttan, to drive Philip to Kingston. This man Ruttan, as shown by evidence, knew all about the ballot boxes and talked freely about the matter. Philip saw Reilly in Kingston and was introduced to him under the name of Hughes. Reilly was suspicious until the letter of introduction from Shibley was produced. Reilly then told Philip to tell his brother that twenty boxes were across the River St. Lawrence and were with a friend at Prescott, and that parcels of six and four would be shipped on Wednesday night following, four to Bremner at Bancroft, and six to Philip at Central Ontario Junction. The remaining boxes were to be taken on Wednesday night by Ruttan and delivered to Shibley for use in Frontenac. Reilly took Philip's address on a card, which Philip states he afterwards found in a parcel which was sent to him. At this interview Reilly spoke of the fine points of the box, and explained its modus operandi, and said: 'They're a winner. It will take God Almighty to defeat the Ontario government at the next election. 'A man could separate the sheep from the goats all day long, just as he wanted them.' Reilly denied, however, that he made the latter statement, but Philip Lott, on being recalled, positively confirmed his former statement.

What Phil Said Reilly Said.

"Philip left Kingston that night and returned home, and saw Byron O. Lott on the Wednesday night following, and repeated to him what Reilly had said about the bogus ballot boxes, to which Byron replied that it was all right. Byron intimated that he intended to distribute the boxes, and mentioned several names as deputy returning officers to whom they were to be given. Frank Conlon in No. 11, Philip in No. 8, Charles Lott, 2, Adam, [illegible], Jim Cummings at Stirling, Sim Ashley in West Huntingdon, and several other names—Anson Connors, George Wesse, Paddy Moore and Ike Mitchell—were left in doubt. These boxes were received by Phil Lott on Friday morning, Oct. 28. He signed for them personally and took them to his house in Springbrook. He went on the following day to Belleville and told Mr. Porter of the plot and said he exposed it because it was a contemptible scheme. His intention then was to let the matter go and catch the offender red-handed in the act."

The magistrate here recounts the efforts of Byron O. Lott to secure extra ballots and his failure. He goes on to say: "It appears, from the evidence that a professional wrestler from Chicago, named Hawkeye, was brought into Frontenac to act as a deputy returning officer. For what conceivable reason would such a person be imported to take charge of a polling division, in such a remote district, other than for the purpose of perpetrating an fraud on the electors?

"I must also point out that the charge that bogus ballot boxes were imported for use in the election in West Hastings was published in the press on the 4th of November, not on the authority of obscure or unknown persons, but of persons of high standing and respectability in the community, one of whom is a former premier of the Dominion of Canada, another an ex-member of parliament, and the other the member-elect for West Hastings, gentlemen of such character and standing that it is impossible to believe they would give currency to such grave charges as were contained in their telegram, unless they were positively assured of the existence of a nefarious plot and also pointed out that the first warrants were issued in the case on the 19th of November.

"At this stage the Dominion authorities intervened, and as far as my knowledge goes, the officials engaged did discharge their duties in an earnest and highly satisfactory manner. There is ample evidence given, by what I may term a cloud of witnesses, corroborating the statements of Philip A. Lott and J. F. Reilly on every material point.

"There remains to be stated," continues Mr. Wood, "that the 20 boxes thus surreptitiously brought into Canada had been accounted for. The six received by Philip Lott are produced, four consigned to Bremner have disappeared, and of 10 consigned to Shibley, nine were drowned in Sydenham Lake and subsequently fished up again, and THE ONE WHICH DOUBTLESS WAS USED AT THE ELECTION IN FRONTENAC IS MISSING.

Demeanor of Witnesses

"The demeanor of many of the witnesses indicated clearly that they were anxious to tell the truth and the whole truth, and thus aid the efforts of the prosecution in unearthing the plot and bringing the offenders to justice.

"But it is my painful duty to state that in several instances witnesses from whom better might have been expected have thrown difficulties in the way of eliciting the truth. On Friday, the 18th of November, Mr. George Thrasher, a solicitor at law, and the financial agent of B. O. Lott at the last election, stated in answer to the question whether he had sent any money to Reilly or Shibley at Kingston on behalf of Lott:

Q.—"You are a supporter of Mr. Lott?"

A.—"Yes."

Q.—"Did you send any money anywhere at Mr. Lott's request?"

A.—"I did not."

Q.—"Did you send a cheque anywhere?"

A.—"I did not."

Q.—"Do you know of money being sent?"

A.—"I do not."

Q.—"You are quite sure?"

A.—"Yes, positive."

"When he was recalled on the 25th of November he produced a cheque for $50 with Shibley's endorsement thereon and the letter accompanying it signed by him, which is as follows: 'To W. J. Shibley, Harrowsmith, Ont.: Dear Sir,—At the request of Mr. B. O. Lott herewith I send you my cheque for $50 hoping that it will meet your requirements.'

"But in the face of these documents he states that he did not know why the $50 was sent to Shibley and could not explain the sense in the letter 'hoping that it will meet with your requirements.' He further added, 'I only desire to make myself plain in this matter. When I was here last Friday I gave all I knew concerning the matter; I heard the evidence that was given, and it struck me that the name Shibley had gone thru my office, and I communicated to the magistrate, stating that if I could find anything I would certainly bring it forth. I went home and found in my stub cheques on Oct. 19 that I sent a cheque to Mr. Shibley for $50.' And this man was the financial agent of B. O. Lott.

Unsatisfactory Evidence.

"On Saturday, the 26th of November, John R. Bremner, editor of The North Hastings Reporter, admitted that he had in his previous examination withheld certain facts that he ought to have mentioned. This evidence was far from satisfactory. He had sworn to tell the whole truth, and specially asked if he knew anything further.

"I find that attempts were made to suborn some of the witnesses in this case to commit perjury—or to leave the jurisdiction to avoid giving evidence. Philip Lott swore that before this investigation began he was called to his gate in the night and was asked by a man, who refused to show himself in the light, to deny his statements and was told that it would be made worth his while to do so, and that if he left the country he would be comfortably provided for during his life.

"Reilly was also urged to leave the province and go to the United States upon a promise by Lott of $500 cash and a monthly allowance by Shibley of $25. John R. Bremner swore that he was urged at the Somerset House, Toronto, by Police Magistrate Harryett to swear falsely and to conceal what he knew of truth, and by Geo. Wesse to kiss his thumb instead of the Bible when taking the oath.

"The evidence given by Robert E. Harpell fully established the procuring of boxes from Kingston, the use of them by Shibley, the distribution of them to Hawkeye and their use at the polling place where Hawkeye was deputy returning officer and the final disposal of boxes by himself (Harpell) and Ruttan at the instance and suggestion of Shibley. It is to be hoped that the proper authorities will take immediate proceedings to ascertain the full truth of these charges, and if established, to bring the guilty parties to justice. In view of the evidence given before me I have no option, in the discharge of my duty, other than to commit the defendant for trial before the next court of competent jurisdiction. In view of defendant's stake in the country I will fix bail for his appearance on his own recognizance in the sum of one thousand dollars."

Mr. DuVernet asked that as Mr. Carman was ill, the magistrate should fix the morning for his appearance, and this was agreed to.

The O'Flynn Case Dropped.

The criminal libel case against Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, barrister, was speedily disposed of. After Mr. O'Flynn had made several preliminary objections to the jurisdiction of the magistrate and two witnesses had been examined and Mr. O'Flynn had himself volunteered a statement under oath, Mr. DuVernet dropped the case.

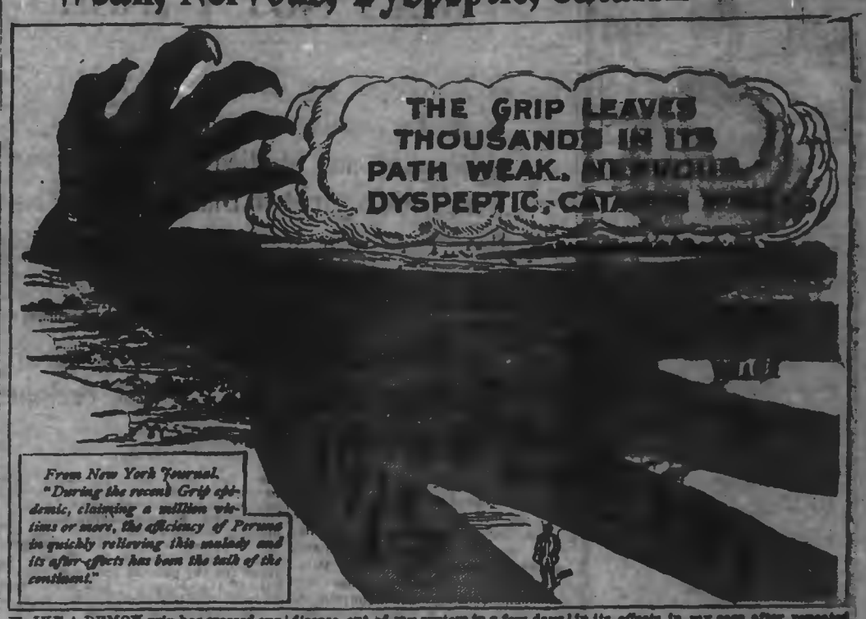
The Grip Leaves Thousands in its Path Weak, Nervous, Dyspeptic, Catarrh Wrecks.



From New York Journal.

"During the recent Grip epidemic, claiming a million victims or more, the efficiency of Peruna to quickly relieving this malady and its after-effects has been the talk of the continent."

LIKE A DEMON grip has crossed our country, leaving behind scores of physical wrecks.

Victims of catarrh of the head, catarrh of the throat, catarrh of the lungs, catarrh of the stomach, catarrh of the kidneys, catarrh of the pelvic organs, are to be counted by hundreds of thousands. Grip is epidemic catarrh, and sows the seed of chronic catarrh within the system.

This is so true that few grip sufferers are able to make a complete recovery until they have used Peruna.

Never in the history of medicine has a remedy received such unqualified and universal eulogies as Peruna.

A New York Alderman's Experience.

Hon. Joseph A. Flinn, alderman Fifth District, writes from 104 Christopher street, New York City, as follows:

"When a pestilence overtakes our people we take precaution as a nation to preserve the citizens against the dread disease.

"La grippe has entered thousands of our homes this fall, and I noticed that the people who used Peruna were quickly restored, while those who depended on doctor's prescriptions, spent weeks in recovering, leaving them weak and emaciated.

"I had a slight attack of la grippe and at once took Peruna, which drove the disease out of my system in a few days and did not hinder me from pursuing my daily work.

"I should like to see our Board of Health give it official recognition and have it used generally among our poor sick people in Greater New York."—Joseph A. Flinn.

D. L. Wallace, a charter member of the International Barber's Union, writes from 15 Western avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.:

"Following a severe attack of la grippe I seemed to be affected badly all over. I suffered with a severe backache, indigestion and numerous ills, so I could neither eat nor sleep, and I thought I would give up my work, which I could not afford to do.

"One of my customers who was greatly helped by Peruna advised me to try it, and I procured a bottle the same day. I used it faithfully and felt a marked improvement. During the next two months I took five bottles, and then felt splendid. Now my head is clear, my nerves steady, I enjoy food, and rest well. Peruna has been worth a dollar a dose to me."—D. L. Wallace.

Mr. O. H. Perry, Atchison, Kansas, writes:

"Again, after repeated trials of your medicines, Peruna and Manalin, I give this as my expression of the wonderful results of your very valuable medicine in its effects in my case after repeated trials.

"First, it cured me of chronic bronchitis of fifteen years' standing by using two bottles of Peruna in January, 1904, and no return of it.

"After I was cured of bronchitis I had la grippe every winter for several winters. But, through the use of Peruna, it got gradually weaker in its severity, until it dwindled down to a mere stupor for two or three days. Now the stupor does not trouble me any more."—O. H. Perry.

FRANCHISE BYLAW WAS NOT PASSED.

Special Meeting of the Council Was Held Last Night to Consider the Matter, but Companies had not Studied the Bylaw and Were not Prepared to Discuss it---Action Deferred Until Wednesday Night When Representatives of Companies Will Meet Council in Committee---A Committee Appointed to Confer With American Cereal Company in Effort to Adjust Freight Rates to Suit the Company.

Last night's special council meeting was unproductive of results, the only actual business done in the two hours' session, was the appointment of a committee to offer its services to the American Cereal Company, for the purpose of endeavouring to create conditions favourable to the operation of the company's works here, and if possible to secure such legislation, or other means, as will make a resumption of work in the mills possible.

The Franchise By-law.

The meeting of the council was called for the purpose of considering the passing of the Franchise Bylaw, which was introduced at the meeting on Monday night, but upon which action was deferred at the request of Mr. Adam Hall, on behalf of the Otonabee Power Company, and the other companies interested, until they had been given an opportunity of studying the clauses of the amended bylaw. Mr. Hall took the position on Monday night that the companies at the last conference with the council in committee, had been promised that they would be consulted again before the bylaw was passed, and declared that in introducing it into the council, as was done on Monday night, without notifying the companies, the council had broken faith with them.

No Amalgamation

Some heated discussion took place last night between Mr. Meldrum and the Mayor, and Mr. Adam Hall and His Worship, the former referring to remarks which he said he had heard that the Mayor had made to the effect that the Otonabee Power Company and the Peterborough Light and Power Company were forming an amalgamation, and he characterised a person who would make this statement, as one who should be classed as an Ananias. The Mayor replied that he was but repeating rumours which he had heard.

Mr. Hall and the Mayor had a passage over the statement of the latter that the companies were "bluffing" the council. Mr. Hall resented this insinuation, saying that the council had insulted the companies by ignoring them, and not keeping faith in regard to the bylaw before an attempt was made to pass it through the council.

It was finally decided that the matter should be left over until next Wednesday night, when the companies will meet the council in committee of the whole and discuss the whole bylaw.

Mayor Wants Publicity.

The Mayor wanted the bylaw to be discussed in open council, but to this the representatives of the companies objected, and upon Mr. Meldrum's promise that his company would not effect an amalgamation before the next meeting, it was decided to let the matter stand until an opportunity had been given the companies to look into the conditions of the bylaw.

There were present at the meeting Mayor Roger, in the chair, Aldermen Johnston, Morrison, Rush, Hicks, Mason, Batten, Best, Scott, Adams, Clinkscale and McWilliams.

The minutes of the last meeting were taken as read.

The first business taken up was that of the Franchise Bylaw, and representatives of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and the Otonabee Power Company, were present and addressed the council on the subject. Those present were Messrs. Meldrum, Larmonth, Ferguson Adam, Hall and R. M. Dennistoun.

Mr. Meldrum Asks Delay.

Mr. Meldrum was the first speaker, and said that Mr. R. E. Hall, the solicitor of the Otonabee Power Co., who was to have been present, was unable to be there, and asked that action be deferred until he had a chance to look into the bylaw. Mr. Meldrum said he understood that the Mayor had stated on the streets that the two lighting companies had amalgamated, and said that those who made that statement might be classed with Ananias, as it was absolutely untrue, and there never had been any overtures looking towards amalgamation, but Mr. Meldrum said that the effect of the bylaw if it were passed would be sufficient to make many companies amalgamate.

Mr. Dennistoun was the next to address the council and said that the matter had been under the consideration of the council for some years and recalled the fact that at the last session of the Legislature the late Attorney General of the Province had been opposed to granting the special bill for Peterborough, and said that the Legislature intended to procure at an early date the passing of legislation affecting power companies throughout the province, as this was an age of large power schemes, and conditions had changed.

History of By-law.

The Council had taken the matter up during the year, and some conferences had been held between the Council and the Companies, and at the last conference, the changes asked for by the latter had been noted, and the promise had been made that when the bylaw had been amended, they would have the opportunity of seeing it before it was passed. The amended bylaw had just been placed in his hands that night, and he contended that it was most unfair to the companies to pass it until they had been able to subject it to scrutiny and ascertain what their position was with reference to it.

There wer no new conditions which made it necessary to pass the bylaw at the present time, and he thought that it might very well be allowed to stand for the present until the solicitors of the companies had been able to look over it at any rate.

The first intimation he had had of the meeting last night was between six and seven o'clock.

Ald. Adams called the attention of the Council and the deputation to the fact that the Clerk had notified the different companies that the meeting was to be held, and that if Mr. Dennistoun had not been aware of it, it was a matter between his company and himself, and the responsibility did not rest with the council.

Ald. Best contended that the understanding was that the companies should have an opportunity of seeing the bylaw and discussing it again if they wished, before it was introduced in open Council, and suggested that the Town Solicitor be heard as to the position of the Town. The Peterborough Light and Power Company had already been given certain rights on the streets and these could not be taken away by the franchise bylaw, and he contended too that it was no use to pass a bylaw which the companies would not agree to.

The Solicitor's View.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall, the Town Solicitor, then explained that the reason the companies had not been consulted in the matter was that all the clauses to which they had objected, had been amended, and the two points upon which there had been some difference were ones upon which the committee had decided they would act according to their own opinions.

He stated that the necessity for the passage of the bylaw arose from the fact that at present two companies, the Otonabee Power Company and the Auburn Power Company, had no franchises, and he had been given to understand that the Auburn Company had refused to pay pole rental to the town.

Mr. Dennistoun questioned the latter statement, and said that the Peterborough Light and Power Company paid the rental of the Auburn Company by an arrangement which had been made with that Company.

Mayor Objects to Delay.

The Mayor was of the opinion that the matter should be dealt with at that meeting. The companies, he thought, should have had sufficient time to study the bylaw since it was published, and he first suggested discussing it in open council, and when this was objected to, in committee of the whole, last night, but the matter must be dealt with by this council. There were two companies now who had no franchises, and the question of what to do in regard to them had emphasised the necessity for this bylaw. The council had decided to pass a general bylaw in which all companies desiring pole rights on the streets, would be treated in the same way. There had been a bylaw regulating the placing of poles on the streets, but conditions had changed, and a new one was needed.

In the preparation of the bylaw, the council had got the advice of an electrical expert, and also the advice of municipal experts, and the bylaw that had been prepared was, in his opinion, as fair as it was possible to make it. The companies had been consulted in its preparation, and although all the changes that had been suggested had not been made, because it was not considered in the interests of the town to make them, he thought the bylaw, as amended, went as far as the interests of the town would permit.

He wanted it distinctly understood that as far as he was concerned, he wanted this year's council to deal with this bylaw, and did not intend to let the companies bluff the council out of passing it.

Companies not "Bluffing".

Mr. Adam Hall took strong objection to the use of the word "bluffing," by the Mayor, and said he thought it was an insult, and that it should be withdrawn, to which His Worship replied that he considered it an insult on the part of the companies to the council, that after the meeting on Monday night had been adjourned at the request of Mr. Hall till last night, he again asked for delay.

Ald. Clinkscale finally moved, seconded by Ald. Rush, that the matter of the Franchise Bylaw be postponed until Wednesday night to allow the council to discuss the matter with the companies interested in committee of the whole.

The motion was carried, after the Mayor had received an assurance from Mr. Meldrum that as far as his company was concerned there would be no amalgamation with any other company until after the next meeting. But, he added, if the bylaw were passed, he would not answer for the result.

Mr. Dennistoun was asked for a similar pledge on behalf of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, but said that he was only the solicitor for the Company and would not make any promises.

It is now understood that the companies will meet the council in Committee of the Whole on Wednesday night, and that a council meeting will be held afterwards.

Cereal Company's Closing.

Ald. McWilliams came in at this juncture, and called the council's attention to the fact that it was reported that the American Cereal Company had been obliged to close its Peterborough mills because of discriminating freight rates, and he had that day had a conversation with one of the head officials, who had confirmed this report. He understood that the American railways give freight rates which allow grain to be stopped en route and milled, and transhipped at the same rate. It appears that for a time the Canadian roads allowed the same privilege, but recently these roads had discarded that privilege, and a much higher rate was charged if grain was milled en route. Ald. McWilliams said that this was given him as the reason for the closing of the Cereal Mills.

The shutting up of the mills was a severe loss to Peterborough, and the Council should take steps to do whatever was in their power to remedy the condition of things, which made this shut down necessary. He advised appointing a committee to confer with the Cereal Company, and offer its services to do anything possible to assist the Company in its efforts to get better rates.

Ald. Adams followed and said that the circumstance was a deplorable one, and he thought, too, that some action should be taken.

Important to Peterborough.

The Mayor said that the question of freight rates was an important one. Peterborough had already lost one industry because of disadvantage in rates, and the matter was one which might well engage the attention of the council.

Ald. McWilliams finally moved, seconded by Ald. Morrison, that a committee be appointed to confer with the American Cereal Company with reference to the closing of their mills, and to take such other steps as may be deemed advisable in the matter, the committee to consist of the Mayor, Hon. J. R. Stratton, E. R. Hall, M.P., Jas. Kendry, T. E. Bradburn, D. Hughes Charles, Ald. Best, Adams, Hicks and the mover. The motion was carried and the council then adjourned.

57TH REGT. BAND ANNUAL CONCERT.

Successful Affair in Opera House Last Evening.

Band was Assisted by Miss Street, Violinist, Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot, Soprano and Mr. Edward Barton Baritone.

The 57th Regimental Band assisted by three first-class artists gave a delightful concert in the Opera House last evening. The audience was a large and an appreciative one and manifested their pleasure by demanding frequent encores. The band certainly excelled itself while the other artists were heard to good advantage in the programme which was varied and interesting.

The band was in full force last evening and played in a manner which appealed strongly to the audience and the applause which greeted the different numbers was quite enthusiastic. The ensemble work of the band was splendid, the parts being well balanced, the tone resonant and full, the harmony well sustained and the instrumentation very effective. The climaxes were brilliant and were reached by well graduated crescendo movements. The tempo was at all times even and carefully preserved while the attack was splendidly marked. In all the numbers the shading was very effective, the piano passages being delicate and graceful while in the fortissimo scores the effect produced was thrilling. Bandmaster Gliddon wielded the baton with his customary ability and at all times had his musicians under perfect control. A great deal of credit is due not only to the members of the band but to Mr. Gliddon for the excellent showing of last evening.

The band's first number was a march, "Vanguard" composed by Bandmaster Gliddon. The number has a splendid musical rythm and was at once a favourite with the audience and was repeated. The second number, Suppe's Overture, "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna," was given an excellent rendition and was heartily encored. For an encore "Pizzicatti" by Strauss, was played. On their second appearance the band played "Reminiscences of Bellini." This was a number full of intricate passages and one in which more than ordinary interpretative ability, both from the leader and players, is required. The band, however, gave the selection a splendid rendering, and responded to an encore with "Down South," by Myddleton. Their last number was a march "Manisot" which was played with characteristic dash and finish.

Miss Evelyn de Latre Street greatly pleased the audience with her violin solos. The tone produced was mellow, sweet and clear, and her arpeggii were smoothly executed. Her numbers were of a placid nature generally, their being but few opportunities to display brilliancy of technique. On her first appearance she played "Madrigal," by Simonetti, and "Le Mineterie Mazourka," by Wieniawski. As an encore she repeated her first number, which was delightfully musical in its composition. On her second appearance she played three short numbers:—(a) "Seranade," by Pierne; (b) "Fantasie sur le Hymne National Japonais," by Van Overeem; (c) 'The Lee," by Schubert.

Mr. Edouard Barton, bass-baritone, is the possessor of a well cultivated voice of resonant quality, good range and fair power, while the tone is broad and sweet throughout the compass of the voice. He sang with a pleasing expression and his numbers were well received. He sang "For My Lady's Sake," by Conyers, "The Lost Chord," by Sullivan, and "Kate Dalrymple," by Beran. As encore numbers he gave "Blue-Eyed Nancy," and Stuart's "Bandelero."

Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot scored a distinct success in her numbers last evening. She sang in splendid voice and with an expression, taste, clarity of enunciation and good phrasing, which made her work finely effective and fully justified the enthusiasm with which her several numbers were received. Her number was "Bid me to Love," by D'auvergne Barnard, and in response to an encore she sang "Because she Kissed it," and "Hold Thou My Hand." By request Mrs. Wilmot sang "Sing me to Sleep" in delightful style.

Miss Alice Roger made a most efficient accompanist, effacing herself with genuine artistic self denial. A Heintzman Company piano of good tone was loaned for the occasion.

The band is to be congratulated upon the success of their annual concert and in the manner in which the arrangements were carried out.

REPORTS ARE CONFLICTING.

American Cereal Company's Action Variously Attributed

C.P.R. Traffic Manager Tells Examiner the Freight Rates is not the Real Reason—The Cereal Company's Position Stated.

Some additional information with reference to the partial closing of the Peterborough mills of the American Cereal Works, announced at last night's council meeting has been obtained to-day from different sources.

Mr. Richards, the traffic manager of the Company is out of town to-day, having gone to Montreal, but another official was spoken to, and he confirmed the report that the mills were running now only to supply the domestic trade, and that no export business was being handled by the local mills at the present time.

The reason attributed for the cessation of the export trade was the fact that the export rates imposed by the Canadian railways are such that the Canadian millers cannot supply export trade under the present conditions, and it was also learned that the prospects are that the mills will remain closed until the roads in Canada meet the trade conditions in this country and make the rates similar to those in the United States with reference to the freight rates on finished products in milled grain, which at present are higher than on raw material. The recent exports rates which were put into effect, have resulted, according to the local authorities, in the closing of the mills.

The Examiner's informant says that the rumour to the effect that the reason the mills are closed is on account of the difference in the price of oats in Canada and the United States, consequent upon the small crop in the former and the abundant crop in the latter country, is not true, and he points out that the Canadian oats are being exported in competition with the American oats.

The Railways' Position.

The Examiner was in telephonic communication with the District Freight Traffic Manager of the C. P. R. in Toronto, and he states that the cause for the closing of the mills here was not with the freight rates, which he said were on the average no higher than in other years, after the increased export rates were put into effect in the fall.

He claimed that the mills were closed because oats in Canada were higher in price than in the United States, and that the export business, which in years when the grain was cheap here, was handled from this mill, was being this year supplied from the Akron and Cedar Rapids mills.

He said that he could give no information on the subject of American freight rates versus Canadian, and could not say whether the latter gave the exporters as good rates or not.

OUR NEW STORY

On Monday the Examiner will commence the publication of a new story, "The Substitute", by Will N. Harben, author of "Abner Daniel", and a number of other excellent pieces of fiction. "The Substitute" is supposed to be the best of Mr. Harben's many works, and the Examiner's readers will, no doubt, appreciate the opportunity of enjoying this excellent story.

The first number should be secured.

HEAD-ON COLLISION

At Manvers Station This Morning Delays Traffic

NO PEOPLE INJURED

The Engines and Several Cars Badly Wrecked—Brakes Refused to Work—Passenger Trains Delayed.

A bad railway accident occurred at Manvers station this morning at 5.55 o'clock, and as a result the traffic on the C. P. R. main line was obstructed for nearly four hours. The accident was caused by a head-on collision between two freight trains, but fortunately as one train was at a standstill, and the second one was moving but slowly, no fatal results attended the collision.

A heavy freight train, No. 1501, in charge of Conductor Dickey, was waiting at Manvers to pass an east-bound freight in charge of Conductor Abbs. As the east bound train approached the station, where there is a slight down grade, the brakes did not work properly, and as the rails were slippery, the train could not be brought to a standstill in time to avert a collision with No. 1501. The trains came together head on with a crash. The engines though badly disabled, were not thrown off the track, and the firemen and engineers were not injured. Four cars were derailed and badly shattered from the shock. Three of these cars were empty, while the fourth was filled with empty barrels, which were badly wrecked. There was no stock on either of the trains.

Word was at once sent to Havelock for the auxiliary which was soon on the scene of the accident, and the work of clearing the track was begun. After over three hours work the track was sufficiently free to allow trains to pass by means of a siding.

The 5.10 C.P.R. west-bound passenger train was delayed here until 9.30 o'clock this morning. There was a large number of passengers on board, and these were taken to several of the hotels in town for breakfast. The passengers on the 7.10 local were taken on the first train to their destination.

DOWN TO DEATH IN RICE LAKE.

Mr. Wm. John Hall, South Monaghan, Meets Death by Drowning.

Returning Home on Skates He Went Through an Opening in Rice Lake Ice.

A distressing drowning accident took place in Rice Lake on Wednesday night by which a bright young man of South Monaghan, Mr. William John Hall, met an untimely end. Though the calamity befel so long ago it was not till yesterday that the sad fact became a certainty.

The young man who is the eldest son of Mr. John William Hall, a prominent farmer of the township, who has filled the office of township treasurer for many years, left his home, south of Bensfort, on Wednesday last, for a visit to his brother-in-law, Mr. John Perrin, about two miles distant, and about three-quarters of a mile from Rice Lake. In the evening he decided to return home on skates, and set out for the return journey home, which he never reached. No thought of accident, however, was entertained till the next day. Mr. Perrin came to his father-in-law's Mr. Hall, when it was learned of his setting out to skate home, which he had failed to reach.

At once the conclusion was formed that he had met with accident. Search was at once instituted, but it was not till Friday that the fears entertained became a sad certainty. The body of the young man was found in ten feet of water, opposite Stony Point, Rice Lake, about two miles from his home. It appears that there is good skating on the lake and the pastime draws large numbers. It is thought that young Mr. Hall had skated too far out in the lake with the object of discovering one of the iron fires which are often lighted by skating parties. It appears that he went through a crack in the ice and was alone in the darkness vainly battling for his life in the chilling waters of the lake.

The deceased young man was 25 years of age and was a highly respected member of one of the most highly respected families of South Monaghan. The bereaved family will have, in their terrible bereavement, the sincere sympathy of the entire community.

The funeral will take place from the family residence on Sunday at 2 o'clock.

Superfluous Hair

Removed by the New Principle

De Miracle

It is better than electricity, because it does not scar or produce a new growth. Better than X-ray, because it does not burn, scar or paralyze the tissues under the skin. Better than depilatories; because it is not poisonous; therefore, it will not cause blood poisoning, or produce eczema, which is so common with depilatories, and does not break off the hair, thereby increasing its growth.

Electrolysis, X-ray or depilatories are offered you on the here word of the operators and manufacturers. DE MIRACLE is not. It is the only method which is indorsed by physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals and prominent magazines.

DE MIRACLE will be mailed to any address, sealed in plain wrapper, for $1. Your money back without question if it fails to do all that is claimed for it.

ARTISTS' MODELS.

Majority of Those in England Are Respectable and Self-Respecting—Why Art Finds Them a Necessity.

Mrs. Frank Elliott, author of "The Shooting of the New Idea," thus writes of artists' models in England: The ordinary individual on passing in the street a young woman of picturesque but rather unkempt appearance, whose garments hang in clinging folds and owe nothing to the prevailing fashion, whose hat is of ample dimensions, but would be scorned by any self-respecting milliner and whose feet appear shod more for comfort than smart appearance, would probably remark with intuitive conviction, "There goes an artist's model!" If the entire costume bears the unmistakable stamp of "home-made," the identification would probably be correct. Although many other women scorn fashion plates and dress on the rational or aesthetic principle, there is generally no fault to be found with the workmanship of the garments. As a rule eccentricity is a fad of the fairly well-to-do. But the artist's model has no public to dress for. Her home is in the studio, where, so long as she is picturesque, no one cares to pry into details.

Although it is the aim of every artist to embody his ideas in preliminary studies, done, as a child would say, "entirely out of his own head," there are few who can work up a drawing or picture without the assistance of a model. A sculptor especially, who has to make his work perfect from every point of view, would never attempt such an impossible feat. One of the reasons to which is ascribed the perfection of the old Greek sculpture is that the artists had continual opportunity, in every-day life, of studying the nude, untrammeled human form. Men and women of the present day suggest by their mode of dress little of their natural figures. The former present an arrangement in tubes—two tubes below; a tube on either side; a small tube at the top—I refer of course to the conventional but most inartistic "topper"—and a large tube connecting the others. A woman represents an egg-boiler draped from the lower bulb, and to divine the form of the limbs as fashionably clothed would be sheer guesswork.

It is all very well for such an artist as the late F. C. Corbould, who found—so he said—a broom with a coat on it sufficient to suggest a man in armor, but the average draughtsman is more exacting. Where, then, does he find his models? Relations and friends are often so far obliging as to sit for a head, but he has to suit their convenience, not they his, and he can only victimize them up to a certain point of boredom. The professional artist's model is the standby. She has not to be sought after, but goes the round of the studios in search of engagements, although when she has obtained the reputation of a "Trilby" she sits only for a chosen few.

Keen jealousies are as rampant in the profession of model as in any other. The acknowledged "Trilby" holds herself as superior to the common or graden model as a star actress does to a "walker on." She is a connoisseur in figures and does not hesitate to criticize a rival's attractions in merciless and plain-spoken language. Some models are born to the business. Their mother and grandmothers before them knew no other life than that of the studio and their children learn to pose as soon as they can toddle. But this is by no means always the case. Young girls, tired of the ill-paid drudgery of the unskilled occupations are tempted by the seven and sixpence a day to be earned in a studio, and if they are gifted with exceptionally good looks they may earn their living literally "on their heads."

I can call to mind a few who graduated from the studios to the photographers' windows as professional beauties and from the photographers' windows to the stage. Miss Dorothy Dene, for instance, was "discovered" by the late Lord Leighton and it was somewhat amusing to observe at Academy soirees the greeting between the president and the professional beauty, who perhaps followed on the heels of a bishop. The twinkle in the eye was reserved for the ex-model. Ordinary good looks are, however, not sufficient to obtain regular employment. The figure is equally, or perhaps more useful. And here comes the ordeal for the would-be model not brought up in the studios. She finds she has to sit for the "altogether!" Well! there it is! Mrs. Grundy may hide her face, but the pictures of Lord Leighton, Sir E. J. Poynter, Marcus Stone, Waterhouse, Blair Leighton and any number besides could not have been painted without the "altogether," so we have to choose between Mrs. Grundy and half the world of pictures.

However difficult it may be for that excellent lady to believe the fact, the average professional English model is both respectable and self-respecting.

A Versatile Peer.

Lord Ellesmere of England, already a well known writer under his pen name of "Charles Granville," has just issued his first novel bearing his full title. This nobleman is versatile. He is a notable figure in racing circles, being the owner of Hampton, the sire of five Derby winners. Though the owner of some of the finest racing stables in England, Lord Ellesmere has never made a bet. He created a sensation by a special breed of white pigs. He once gave a thousand guineas for a fighting gamecock, and he is the owner of the finest private picture gallery in London, Bridgewater House boasting four Raphaels, fifteen Teniers, Titian's "Three Ages of Man" and Vandyke's only attempt to paint "The Virgin and Child."

England's Four Hundred Millions.

The British Empire to-day numbers 400,348,713 citizens. The recent completion of the Cape census enables the total to be made up. Over 11,876,745 square miles of British citizens are dotted to the number of about thirty-six per square mile.—London Mail.

She Was Joking.

"No," she said, "I—I can only be a sister to you."

"Very well," said he, "I must be going. I had expected a different answer, but—well, good night."

"George," she faltered, as he was leaving the room, "George."

"What is it?" he asked crossly.

"Aren't you going to kiss your sister good night?" He did not go.

MONKEY PRANKS.

The Way One Cunning Ape Served Thieving Crew.

Recently a monkey got the better of the common enemy, the carrion crow, by feigning illness. He was fastened to a bamboo pole with a running ring. When he was on his perch the crows annoyed him by stealing from his porringer on the ground.

One morning they had been specially disagreeable. He closed his eyes and feigned a bad illness. When his day's food was brought him the crows descended upon it, and he had scarcely strength to defend it. By good acting he managed to capture one of the crows. To pluck it alive was the obvious course. Then, instead of pulling it to pieces, like the king monkey whom Kipling and Sir Edward Buck watched enjoying a similar triumph at Simla, this monkey tossed the crow into the air, where its own companions fell upon it and killed it.

Monkeys certainly have a sense of fun. Darwin used to spend hours watching a young female orang outang in the zoological gardens and was sure that she had the comic sentiment. She delighted to put upon her head, like a cap, a peculiar shaped bowl, which had a droll effect, and she was sensitive to the effect which her joke produced upon the spectators.

HEAVY HEADACHE FOR FOUR YEARS

But Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Cured it —They are Known by Their Works all Over Canada.

"By their works ye shall know them," and if you know Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets by their works you must admit they are the greatest comfort producers of the present age. Here is some of their work. Mrs. A. Waddell of 34 Simcoe street, Hamilton, says:

"I was troubled with heavy headache for four years caused by Dyspepsia. I doctored with the best doctors, but they failed to help me. I got one box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and after taking part of them I found I was cured. I can now eat in the morning; before I could not eat a bite."

Thousands of other Canadians relate similar experiences. In fact everybody who has used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets tells the same story. Indigestion and Dyspepsia cannot live in the same body with them.

Doubles of Great Personages.

Nearly every well-known personage has a double who by careful dressing does his best to keep up the flattering illusion. King Edward has several, but the one with the strongest resemblance lives in the east end of London. The Kaiser's double is a tailor. King Leopold of Belgium's is a pickpocket, who takes advantage of the likeness to practice his rascality upon smart crowds on public occasions. President Loubet, it was shown the other day, has a double in Paris. M. Combes, the French premier, is the exact likeness of an old general of the Empire, while M. Pelletan, the French Minister of Marine, is doubled by a bookmaker and a cab driver.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

Craig, Almont, Ont., says:—"Last fall, for over two months, I had a very bad cold, and although I tried several remedies, it seemed as if I was getting worse instead of better. While looking over the Burdock Blood Bitters Almanac, I read about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and decided to give it a trial. When I had used about half a bottle, I found it was doing me good, so kept on until I had taken two bottles. It is the best cure for a cold I ever heard of."

QUEER ALMANACS.

Australian Shepherds Have Odd Ways of Marking Time.

The boundary riders of the great Australian sheep ranches have each a district to look after, in which one must keep the wire fences in repair and see that the sheep come to no harm. It is a hard and lonely life, living, as each boundary rider does, quite alone in the wilderness. A writer tells of some of the curious ways in which these solitary men keep count of the days.

One old man who had lived in the back country for thirty years used two jam tins and seven pebbles. One tin was marked, "This week," and the other "Last week." On Monday morning he would take a pebble from "Last week" and drop it into "This week," and each subsequent morning till "This week" had swallowed the seven. They were returned to "Last week," and the old fellow knew that another Sunday had passed.

Another man had tried and failed with several plans. At last he hit on a new idea. He made a big damper (cake of flour and water) on Sunday night and marked it into seven sections, each section being a day's allowance, so that every time he picked up the damper the grocer would remind him of the day. Unfortunately one Tuesday there came a visitor with a ravenous appetite. The host stinted himself that the hungry one might be satisfied with the day's section. But he wasn't. With anxious eyes the host saw the knife clearing the boundary line and the hungry man ruthlessly carving into his almanac. At last he could stand it no longer.

"Stop, stop!" he cried as he grabbed the damper and glared at it.

"There," he said, "you've eaten Tooday and We'n'day, and now yer wants to slice the best o' the mornin' o' Thursday, an' I won't know the day o' the week."

ANCIENT BURIALS.

Weapons of Warriors and Trinkets of Women in Their Graves.

A cemetery belonging to a garrison of Longobards has been found near Ascoli, on the Trosto, at a pass across the Apennines, in Italy. The site of the fort is the top of an island of rock now occupied by a little hamlet called Castel Trosino. All the warriors were laid with their faces to the east. Near the head was found a comb made of horn or bone and a round shield with iron boss. On the right lay a long, straight iron sword in a scabbard of hide. Against the right shoulder was laid a long wooden spear and on the left a dagger in a highly ornamented sheath, decorated with gold, as well as a bow and arrows in a quiver.

Generally there was present the buckle of a broad belt, often decorated applique for belt and scabbard, fashioned of gold, silver or bronze. Small gold plates seem to have been sewed to the coat in the shape of a cross. One grave contained a heavy cuirass of plates bound together with iron wire. The horsemen had big shears for clipping manes and a large bronze feed trough with two movable handles. Often bits, saddles and harness were laid beside the dead.

By the women were worn gold hairpins with rounded flat heads, gold earrings of different shapes, finger rings and gold plates. One ring has the names Gerontius and Regina engraved on it. Crosses and necklaces of gold and beads of glass, silver bracelets, pottery vases and plates of glass, cups, combs and other articles of the toilet accompany the remains of women.

Some Sources of Headache.

Among the many things that produce headache are long continued straining of the eyes, sudden excitement, bad air and want of ventilation, alcoholic drinks and a variety of other causes. Another fruitful source of headache in men is the absurd fashion of hats which society now imposes. Tight boots and shoes will also cause headache and destroy comfort of motion and happiness. They prevent the flow of blood to the extremities and cause slight congestion of the brain. Tea drinking is often an unsuspected cause of headache, causing, as it does, exhaustion of the nervous system, and coffee the same thing.

Ministers' Babies.

Mrs. Brown said 't if they was to go on a vacation trip now was a very good time, 'cause the baby was a year old, 'n' I said I c'd agree with her there, 'cause if we waited till next summer the baby might be only a month old or maybe only a week old, for I must say 't so far 's my observation 's extended there never is no countin' on how old a minister's baby 's goin' to be 't any given time.—"Susan Clegg and Her Friend, Mrs. Lathrop," by Anne Warner.

All the Same.

The horny handed man calls it "pay," the skilled mechanic "wages," the clerk "salary," the banker "income," a landowner "rent roll," a lawyer "fees," a burglar "swag," but it all comes to the same at the end of the week.

He Got the Holder.

He had lent her his stylographic pen to direct an envelope.

She—Oh, it writes beautifully! I declare, I'm in love with this pen!

He—I'm in love with the holder.

Sweet Affection.

"Dear me," said the proud mother, "what nice affection! You seem so anxious to kiss your little brother."

"Yes'm," replied Tommy, smacking his lips. "He has jam on his cheeks."

Plenty of Legs.

Miss Barron was one of the new "summer folk" and not acquainted with the vernacular. Consequently, she was somewhat surprised, upon sending an order for a roast of lamb to the nearest butcher, to receive the following note in reply: "Dear Miss—I am sorry I have not killed myself this week, but I can get you a leg off my brother (the butcher at the further end of the town). He'll tell up of what you want. I have kills last night with five legs. Yours respectful. George Gouton."

SELELESS BABIES.

Well babies sleep soundly and wake up brightly. When babies are restless and sleepless it is the surest possible sign of illness — in all probability due to some derangement of the stomach and bowels, or teething troubles. Baby's Own Tablets are the only proper remedy. They remove the trouble and in this way give the little one sound refreshing sleep, and it wakes up healthy and happy. They are guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. Mrs. Thos. Cain, Loring, Ont., says: "My baby suffered from stomach trouble and teething and was quite cross. I got Baby's Own Tablets and they seemed to work almost like a charm. I think nothing can equal the Tablets for children's ailments." You can find them at drug stores, or get them post paid at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Hornets as Fly Killers.

Hornets, or "white faced wasps," have no evil traits or obnoxious features. It is true that they will sometimes sting, but this is only when they are attacked in their own homes or think their young are in danger. The great value of these insects is that they live entirely upon insects, mostly flies, and, in fact, when they are near dwellings their food is generally the common housefly. They are nature's greatest factors in reducing this serious pest. It is well known that flies carry disease germs, such as those of typhoid fever, and it can thus be seen that hornets have a decidedly sanitary effect as a result of their destrable insectivorous habits.—Field and Stream.

Why Needed in Every Home

TO OVERCOME THE MOST COMMON AND ANNOYING OF HUMAN ILLS.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Indigestion, constipation and torpid action of the liver and kidneys are known in every home.

Both on account of the distress and discomfort which accompanies them and, as a cause of other ills of a more painful and deadly nature, these derangements require prompt attention.

In every home there is needed more or less frequently a treatment which can be depended on to regulate the organs of digestion and excretion.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have become the most popular family medicine extent, because they exactly meet the requirements.

They are unique in that they act directly on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and thus ensure a prompt regulating and invigorating of these organs.

The result is good digestion and assimilation and the prompt removal of the poisonous waste matter from the body.

One pill a dose at bedtime two or three times a week soon cleanses the system and removes the cause of pain and ill health.

Mr. R. Carr, Point Alexander, Renfrew Co., Ont., writes, "Dr. Chase's-Kidney-Liver Pills have done me wonderful good. Being troubled with kidney disease and heart affection, I tried them with excellent results, and would not think of being without them in the house."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 11

THE HUMOR OF JAPAN

JOKES THAT AMUSE THE NATIVES OF DAI NIPPON.

Some Samples of Their Characteristic Funny Stories—The Doctor Who Didn't Fear Burglars—The Writing Critic Who Couldn't Write.

In a review of a collection of funny stories called "Kokkei Hyaku Shewa" by Mr. Kubo Tendzui the Japan Weekly Mail quotes the following as being peculiarly characteristic of Japanese humor:

A certain government official who in olden times used to be called a "daikwan," but now is known as a "gunchio" (head of a district), having been recently appointed to a certain district, was engaged in a tour of inspection when his notice was attracted by the approach of an old man who was too tipsy to walk straight.

Wondering who the intoxicated man could be, the district officer accosted him and after much difficulty ascertained that he was the head of the village which he had come to inspect. Thinking it to be his duty to make use of the occasion for obtaining reliable information, the district officer asked the toper how many houses and how many people there were in the village. "There are 100 houses and, males and females included, 60 persons in the village," replied the man. Puzzled, the officer asked, "How can that be?" "There is nothing wrong about that," replied the head of the village. "Besides these sixty there are any amount of people in the village, but since they are creatures who know not what it is to drink they are not, I take it, worthy of being mentioned."

Once upon a time it happened that five or six burglars, armed with swords and shouting like men attacking an enemy on the battlefield, came bouncing into the house of a certain doctor. The whole household, with the exception of the master, were paralyzed. They felt as though iron chains had been placed around them, and not one of them moved hand or foot. They watched in terror to see what would happen, when, lo and behold, the robbers took their departure without stealing a thing. Though they could not tell what was the meaning of this strange proceeding, certain it was that the family was safe. But where was the head of the house? After searching through the rooms they found him in his dispensary. There he stood in the midst of the drugs, medicine spoon in hand, looking fierce and triumphant. "What are you doing here?" inquired one of the members of his household. Smiling, he replied: "Those robbers were perhaps as noted as Kumasaka Chohan, but they may thank their stars that they have got off with their lives! Had they pushed matters a little further and entered this dispensary, not one of them would have left it alive." Amused by this remark, one of the members of the family rejoined: "Without a sword or a pistol how could you have killed these robbers? Can you kill robbers with a spoon?" Whereupon the doctor, with fine self assurance, replied: "How many thousands of lives have I taken by means of this spoon! What to me are the lives of five or six robbers? Lucky chaps to get off as they did!"

The son of an extremely illiterate peasant was in the habit of bringing his copies home day after day, his hands and face covered with the ink that should have gone on his copy. Thinking it well to exercise his paternal authority over the lad even in regard to his school lessons, the father one day commanded the boy to show him his writing. Looking it over with the air of an expert penman, he criticised various strokes: "This stroke is too long; this one too short. These two strokes are too far apart," observed the father.

"But," said the boy, "the writing master tells us to write them as I have done." "Show me the copy," jerked out the father. The boy produced the copy, which his father began to examine closely upside down. "Why, you are holding it upside down!" exclaimed the lad. Not to be beaten, the father replied: "Don't be so conceited! I am holding it for you to look at, of course. You could not read it were it turned the other way. Listen to what is said to you and don't fancy you know everything."

The above reminds us of a story that concerns Taira Kiyomori. It is related that in the time of the Meiji rebellion the rebels attacked Kiyomori's camp very suddenly one day. Losing his presence of mind, Kiyomori put on his armor in a great hurry, the back part front. Some persons near pointed out the mistake he had made. "You have put your armor on the wrong way," they exclaimed. "It is not so," calmly answered Kiyomori. "As the emperor is coming behind I have put on the armor so as to have the front part facing him. It would be impolite to have the back part of one's armor facing an emperor." Without altering it he went out to battle.

The term "yabu" is applied to doctors who prescribe wrong medicines. Now, it happened once that a quack having been the means of killing the only son of a certain house, the parents determined to have their revenge on him. So they sued him at a court of law. The affair was eventually patched up by the worthy quack giving the bereaved parents his own son in return for the one he had killed. Not long after this event the said quack heard a loud knocking at his door one night. On going to the door he was informed that one of his neighbor's wives was dangerously ill and that his presence was required at once. Turning to his wife, he said: "This requires consideration, my dear. There is no knowing but that it may end in sir taking you from me."

Belgium's Public House Record.

Belgium, where public libraries are almost unknown, enjoy 190,000 public houses. That means one public house for thirty-six inhabitants or one public house for twelve men above seventeen years of age, the publican included. During the last fifty years the population has increased 50 per cent. and the number of public houses 250 per cent.

THE HOSPITAL FOR SICK CHILDREN

For it Cares for Every Sick Child in Ontario whose Parents Cannot Afford to Pay For Treatment.

The Hospital for Sick Children, College street, Toronto, appeals to the fathers and mothers of Ontario for funds to maintain the thousand sick children that it nurses within its walls every year.

"GOOD DAY, DOCTOR."

The Hospital is not a local institution—but Provincial. The sick child from any place in Ontario who can't afford to pay has the same privileges as the child living in Toronto and is treated free.

The Hospital had last year in its beds and cots 761 patients, 667 of these were from 196 places outside of Toronto.

The cost is 90 cents per patient per day, and there were 129 sick little ones a day in the Hospital.

Since its foundation the Hospital has treated 10,371 children — about 7,500 of these were unable to pay and were treated free.

Every dollar may be the translater of your kind thoughts into the Hospital and deeds.

Everybody's dollar may be the Friend in Need to Somebody's child.

MASSAGE.

Let the money of the strong be mercy to the weak. The Hospital pays out dividends of health and happiness to suffering childhood on every dollar that is paid by the friends of little children.

"SHE'S KNITTING"

If you know of any sick child in your neighborhood who is sick or crippled or has club feet send the parent's name to the Hospital.

See the example of what can be done for club-foot children. There were 14 like cases last year and hundreds in 28 years.

How the Speaker Saved a Congressman From a Costly Joke.

It was a gay time in congress one night when there was an all night session on the Mills tariff bill in 1888. It had been difficult to keep a sufficient attendance, and the house had adopted a resolution directing the sergeant at arms to compel the presence of absent members. One by one they were brought before the bar of the house and after making all sorts of excuses and explanations were permitted to go unpunished.

About midnight Congressman Henderson was brought before the speaker. He had, he said, no excuse to offer.

"I was at a theater party," he continued, "when I was arrested and brought here. There is no sort of excuse for absence without leave."

"I move that the gentleman from Iowa be fined $5,000!" called one of Henderson's colleagues.

"I second the motion!" shouted twenty or more members, all of them his friends.

"It is moved and seconded," said Speaker Carlisle, "that the gentleman from Iowa be fined $5,000. Those in favor of the motion will say 'Aye.'"

Two hundred delighted voices shouted "Aye!"

"Those opposed will say 'No.'"

Henderson's agonized voice was alone in yelling "No!"

There was but one way to slip out of the joke and prevent the motion from being carried, and that was for Speaker Carlisle to overrule the house.

"The ayes have it," said he gravely. "The gentleman is excused."

THE EMPIRE OF SHEBA

EXPLORER UNCOVERS THE RUINS OF ONE OF ITS COLONIES.

R. N. Hall Is Bringing to Light Abundant Proof of Existence of Ancient People in Africa—Inner Passages in Temple of Queen of Sheba About 3,000 Years Old —Confirms Historical Truth of Bible Narrative.

By degrees the historical truth of the Bible narrative is being confirmed by an army of archaeologists who are working in Asia Minor and Egypt. The great Empires of the Mediterranean are being reconstructed by savans such as Messrs. Hogarth and Evans with the most satisfactory results; and now R. N. Hall, following in the footsteps of Theodore Bent, is bringing to light proofs of the Empire of Sheba in South Arabia, which had colonies and outposts extending into Rhodesia. The greatness of the famous Queen of Sheba, who visited Solomon, is now shown to be no myth, and Mr. Hall was able to demonstrate to the members of the Royal United Service Institution in London recently that the older portions of the Zimbabwe ruins in Rhodesia represent the monuments of a colony of this ancient world power.

It was Sheba that provided the world with the Phoenician alphabet, the parent of all our European systems, and provided the chief supply of gold to the Mediterranean. Sheba was the dominant power over East Africa, and so remained until the Christian era was well started. In 35 A.D. King Kharahil was in possession of the whole of this territory. The seat of Government was in Southern Arabia, and the extensive Rhodesian gold workings set out in Rider Haggard's novel "King Solomon's Mines" represent the activity of a colony sent south to win gold.

Mr. Bent, who discovered in 1901 the phallic character of these ancient temples at Great Zimbabwe, saw these ruins while they were still buried, but Mr. Hall is more fortunate, for during the eight years which he has given to unravelling the mystery of the Rhodesian gold workings large portions of the temples have been cleared of the debris which concealed the original walls.

INNER PARALLEL PASSAGE IN TEMPLE.

These ruins were known to the early Portuguese in 1510, the Arab gold, ivory, and slave traders first mentioning them, says a writer in The Illustrated London News. After that period the ruins were lost sight of until 1868, when Adam Renders, an elephant hunter, re-discovered them, and later information came to be circulated in England; but the descriptions given were meagre, owing to the fact that the ancient city had, in the course of centuries, become buried in the soil.

In 1891 Mr. Bent visited Zimbabwe and later published a work on "The Ruined Cities of Mashonaland," Mr. Hall, after his work at Zimbabwe, has caused a better description to be prepared, and while confirming Mr. Bent's main conclusions in several respects he carried the discussion as to the origin of the structures considerably further.

The ruins are composed of three groups of temples and forts—the Elliptical Temple, the Valley of Ruins and the Acropolis ruins. The area covered is almost two miles in one direction and a mile and a half in another direction and examinations show that probably they extended much further.

The Elliptical Temple is a massive structure of excellent masonry, fashioned of small granite blocks. The oldest portion has walls fifteen feet wide at the base and eight feet wide on the summit, the walls, notwithstanding serious dilapidations, being still twenty-six feet to thirty-one feet in height. The slope of the faces lends to the building a decidedly Eastern appearance. The entrances are narrow and are defended by buttresses. The temple contains a large number of passages, all narrow and tortuous. The interior is divided off into enclosures or courts. At the east end of the interior stands a massive conical tower, thirty-one feet in height and solid throughout. This structure affords evidence of the nature and fertility worship of the ancient builders.

A large portion of the interior of the temple has been cleared of soil and stones fallen from walls, and it is now possible for visitors to walk about on the old floors. On these lower floors are found gold ornaments of excellent design and make, also gold plate, gold tacks of microscopic size, gold crucibles still containing gold, gold wire and gold beads. In fact, gold can be picked up as easily as nails in a carpenter's workshop.

Other articles of prehistoric character found by Mr. Hall were soapstone bowls carved with animals and geometric patterns, and large birds carved in soapstone on summits of beams five feet long. Ten of these birds have been discovered at Zimbabwe. These figures are believed to prove the worship of Almaquah (Ashtaroth of the Scriptures), the Venus of the Romans and Aphrodite of the Greeks, one of the principal deities of the nature and fertility worship common to all Semitic nations.

The exterior face of the temple which fronts the east bears a mural decoration of chevron pattern, one of the oldest of ancient forms of decoration expressive of the idea of fertility. It is found on the cartouches of the earliest ascertained dynasties of Egypt, about 6,000 B. C., and on Phoenician coins, where it is used to represent water. This pattern extends from southeast to northeast and faces the rising of the sun at the winter and summer solstices.

On the wall above the pattern was a line of tall monoliths of granite and slate. Mr. Hall discovered that this length of wall once carried small towers and beautifully carved soapstone monoliths.

This portion of the wall, so decorated toward the east, is believed to be connected with the geometrical orientation of the temple to fix seasons and periods of the year.

The system of orientation of ancient temples was commonly adopted in Asia, Arabia, Babylon, Phoenicia and Egypt. It is by the orientation of the temple that the approximate dates of its construction can be ascertained. The Zimbabwe Temple is belived to date back to 1,800 B.C.

Unhappy Women!

No woman can be happy when her health is undermined. No woman can have good health while she suffers from female weakness, inflammation, ulceration or any disease of the delicate womanly organs. Nervous, sleepless, fretful, suffering in body and mind, she does not live but only exists.

More than a half a million such women have found a perfect and permanent cure for their diseased condition in the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Women cured by this remedy say it is a "wonderful medicine," so perfectly does it restore them to health and comeliness.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription," neither does it contain opium, cocaine, nor any other harmful drug. It is in the strictest sense, an honest, temperance medicine. Its ingredients are purely vegetable and it will agree with the most delicate constitution.

Don't be hypnotized, or over persuaded, into accepting a substitute. This medicine has a record that's worth far more than any difference in price.

Sick and ailing women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, either personally or by letter, absolutely without charge or fee, thus obtaining the best known questioning, advice, examinations and obnoxious local treatments considered necessary by many local practitioners. All correspondence treated as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Write without fear and without fee to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

ONE BOX OF DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED DROPSY.

Dropsy is not a disease in itself, as many people believe, but is an evidence of very severe kidney trouble. Dropsy is caused by watery particles oozing through the walls of the arteries when they are distended by unusual pressure, which can only be caused by obstructions in the kidneys. The symptoms of Dropsy are puffiness under the eyes, swelling of the feet and ankles, urine changed in character and appearance, smothering feeling from exertion or excitement. The only rational method of treating this disease is to reach the kidneys and restore them to a healthy condition.

The most successful remedy for this purpose is Doan's Kidney Pills. Read what Miss Agnes Creelman, Upper Smithville, N.S., says of them:—"I caught a cold, which settled in my kidneys, and turned to dropsy. My face, limbs, and feet became bloated, and if I pressed my finger on them it would make a white impression that would last fully a minute before the flesh regained its natural color. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and found by their use that I was cured in a very short time. I have never had any trouble with it since.

Price 50 cents, per box, or 3 for $1.25.

THE SIBERIAN RAILWAY.

It Can Carry 35,000 Men and Necessary Stores Every Four Weeks.

It is reported that the Russian military transport authorities estimate the through carrying capacity of the Siberian railway for the next six months at about 35,000 men and the necessary stores every four weeks. The estimate given by them in the early summer varied from 23,000 to 27,000, and the former rate seems to have been maintained. Thanks to various improvements and to the completion of the Circumbaikal line, an increase of 40 per cent is now looked for. On that calculation Russia will be able by April 1 next to detrain in Manchuria the last contingents of 150,000 men from European Russia by of 200,000 men if the transport of general supplies could be temporarily reduced.

Nothing short of a duplication of the main line from Samara to Harbin is expected to do much toward solving Russia's transport difficulties, as the number of trains despatched westward with sick and wounded and with empty trucks keeps on increasing as the campaign grows older. In the meantime the railway system in southern Russia has been most seriously disorganized by the war. The bulk of the available locomotives, vans and trucks have been diverted for war traffic, and the daily deliveries of grain at Odessa have been small and irregular at a time when the export ought to be at its height.

Industrial Outlook in Lancashire.

A Lancashire representative who has been making inquiries in various industrial centres in the County Palatine says that as far as regards the great cotton and coal industries, which provide employment for three-fourths of the artisan populations, the prospect is brighter than for the last seven or eight months. In southeast Lancashire there are now over 8,000,000 spindles and between 30,000 and 35,000 looms running fuller time than has been the case since March. The weaving trade in north and northeast Lancashire is also much brisker. Although there are signs of welcome revival in Lancashire's staple industry there is still room for improvement, but manufacturers and workpeople alike are sanguine that an era of greater prosperity is within measurable distance. The coalpits are doing better now than since Easter, seven-eighths of the collieries having gone on full time. Several large foreign orders have been booked by South Lancashire coal owners during the past week, one of the contracts being for 100,000 tons for a European navy. Heavy consignments of coal are now forwarded to Buenos Ayres via the Manchester waterway. In certain branches of the engineering and building and allied trades there are, however, a considerable number of men out of work.

World's Coldest City.

Yakutsk, the commercial emporium of Eastern Siberia, is said to be the coldest city in the world. It is located in the midst of a bare desert over 1,500,000 square miles in extent, where the soil never thaws to admit of cultivation. The city consists of about 400 European structures and huts of hide occupied by nomads in winter. Communication is by caravans.

Eye "Manipulation."

An English eye hospital surgeon has discovered a new method of treating defective eyesight, such as long sight, short sight and irregularity in the shape of the eye. The inventor calls the treatment "manipulation" and is making marvelous cures, according to the report of a Consul at Nottingham.

HOW A WATCH WORKS.

A Vibrating Wheel Takes the Place of the Clock's Pendulum.

A watch differs from a clock in its having a vibrating wheel instead of a vibrating pendulum and as in a clock gravity is always pulling the pendulum down to the bottom of its arc, which is its natural place of rest, but does not fix it there because the momentum acquired during its fall from one side carries it up to an equal height on the other, so in a watch a spring, generally spiral, surrounding the axis of the balance wheel, is always pulling this toward a middle position of rest, but does not fix it there because the momentum acquired during its approach to the middle position from either side carries it just as far past on the other side, and the spring has to begin its work again. The balance wheel at each vibration allows one tooth of the adjoining wheel to pass, as the pendulum does in a clock, and the record of beats is preserved by the wheel which follows. A mainspring is used to keep up the motion of the watch instead of the weight used in a clock, and as a spring acts equally well, whatever be its position, a watch keeps time, although carried in the pocket or in a moving ship. In winding up a watch one turn of the axle on which the key is fixed is rendered equivalent by the train of wheels to about 400 turns or beats of the balance wheel, and thus the exertion during a few seconds of the hand which winds up gives motion for twenty-four or thirty hours.

A Striking Individuality.

It does not pay to be too striking in one's individuality unless that characteristic is the outspringing of one's own nature. Directly little eccentricities are assumed criticism is invited. We become conspicuous, and the unconventional beauty which we wish to achieve turns to gall and wormwood in what the world calls only "queerness." Unless you can be artistically out of the ordinary do not try to be other than commonplace. It does not pay to bring down reproach and sarcasm upon your unprotected head for the sake of winning notoriety. Better by far to pursue the even tenor of your way, exactly as thousands of other mortals do, than to strike out into new paths which lead only into the jungle of ridicule and condemnation.

Tibetans and Jewelry.

Tibetans, like all people of a low civilization, delight in showy and massive jewels. A man is only poorly adorned with a heavy silver earring, coral mounted. The women wear regular jewelers' shops on their heads. Among the nomads their hair, arranged in innumerable small tresses that involve more than a whole day's work, is decorated with three great bands of woolen stuff or red silk strewn with rubies, shells, artificial pearls, corals, turquoises, amber beads, red agate, gold, silver or copper reliquaries.

His Waning Love.

"I am afraid George is beginning to grow cold toward me," half sobbed the young wife.

"What's he been doing now?" inquired her mother sharply.

"In his last letter he only sends me a thousand kisses, and always before he used to send 10,000,000."

The Wish He Doesn't Gratify.

"You told me that when we were married you would see that my every wish was gratified," remarked the bride of a few weeks.

"Well?" replied her husband rather curtly.

"Well, I wish I was single again."

LATEST SPORT

GET IN THE GAME PRACTICE TO-NIGHT.

Senior Players Will Have a Workout at Rink To-night.

The first hockey practice of the season will take place to-night in the Brock street rink from 8 to 9 o'clock. The ice is said to be in first class condition and a lively opening of the season is expected. Every senior hockeyist who can do so, should be on hand—on skates, too. There is going to be some tall hustling to catch a place on the team this year and the rumor a player gets into condition the better will be his chances to figure on the team which is going to land the championship. Let there be a good turnout to-night to give the game a good start.

HOCKEY.

The hockeyists will be hard at it next week.

It would need a pretty good guesser to pick the senior line-up at this stage.

• • • •

As a starter there are four of the team which won the championship of 1903 available besides Cavanagh who figured on the team which won the junior championship. Two more fast forwards can easily be unearthed.

The Argonauts who have entered the senior series will have a fast bunch of players from which to pick their team.

There will likely be only three teams in the senior O.H.A. series—St. George's, Bariboros and Argonauts.

The fact that Bank League players can now figure in O. H. A. teams will greatly strengthen many of the Toronto teams this winter.

VALUE OF REAL ESTATE INCREASED

An Instance of the Rapid Increase in Value in Peterborough.

The record of the recent real estate transfer in the Examiner by which the Bank of Toronto corner has been sold to Senator Cox, has emphasised the fact that real property in Peterborough is advancing in price at a satisfactory rate, and that this increase has been rapid is shown by the fact that five years ago the store property occupied by Grafton & Co., was sold to that company for $13,000, or $52 per foot. This is one of the very best business properties in Petrborough, and the price paid then would not nearly buy the same property at the present time, with the higher value put on town property.

ENTERPRISING ENNISMORE

A Winter Course of Lectures to be Arranged.

—Encouraged by the success of the lecture on Thursday night in Ennismore Hall, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick has decided to arrange a series of similar lectures.

The Meister Glee Singers.

The London, Ont., Free Press critic has the following to say of the delightful concert given by the Meister Singers in that city recently:—"The summit of achievement in quartette singing is attained by the Meister Glee Singers, of London, England. So altogether delightful a treat of the kind has never before been heard in London. To such a point has the ensemble work of this fine quartette attained that it is like a single instrument, an organ with the swell and flute stops out. The tone is the acme of sweetness, the vocalisation perfect, the phrasing accurate and the expression at once sympathetic and adequate. One point worthy of special praise was the perfect balance at all times evident. One of the hits of a most enjoyable evening was the work of Mr. Roland Henry, who as an entertainer ranks equal in every respect with the famous George Grossmith."

Opera House, Peterborough, Monday, December 12th. Plan now open at Ormond & Walsh's drug store. Tickets may be had from Walter Stocker or R. M. Glover at the Examiner office, and Ormond & Walsh's.

Friends at a Distance.

The Christmas card, calendar and booklet afford special pleasure to friends at a distance. They take the place of a personal greeting; and, when they are beautiful and artistic in design with delicate colouring, like those on view at stratton's bookshop, the pleasure is enhanced. Our display is in a section by itself, out of the crowds that throng our bookshop, where time and pleasure is afforded for thoughtful selection. fifty gross of dainty calendars at 5c and 10c each. A. H. Stratton & Co.

Small Calendar Pads, in different styles and sizes, suitable for Fancy Calendars, on sale at the Examiner Office.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE

WHERE DO YOU BUY YOUR CLOTHES?

This is a very important matter, and still many men appear to think it of no consequence. They buy just anywhere they happen to see something that strikes their fancy.

But there's a difference in stores, as well as in clothes.

Some stores go in for "cheapness," others for quality.

Which do you prefer?

"You pay your money and take your choice."

If it is smartness of style, perfection of fit, thorough reliability—at a fair price—you are after, then this is the CLOTHING STORE for you.

Was Cured of Ashma.

"I first used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with my daughter who suffered from a severe form of asthma. The least exposure to cold would lay her up and she would nearly suffocate for want of breath I must say I found it to be, a most satisfactory treatment and it has entirely cured her."—Mrs. A. A. VanRenkirk, Robinson street, Moncton, N.B.

BABY'S ECZEMA

Top of Head Covered with Scales Which Peeled off Taking Hair with Them.

CURED BY CUTICURA

Now Six Years Old with Thick Hair and Clean Scalp. Cure Permanent.

"My baby was about six weeks old when the top of her head became covered with thick scales, which would peel and come off, taking the hair with it. It would soon form again and be as bad as before. I tried several things and then went to the doctor. He said it was Eczema, and prescribed an ointment, which did not do any good. A friend spoke of Cuticura Soap. I tried it and read on the wrapper about Cuticura Ointment as a remedy for Eczema. I bought a box and washed her head in warm water and Cuticura Soap and gently combed the scales off. They did not come back and her hair grew out fine and thick. She is now a year and a half old and has no trace of Eczema."

MRS. C. W. BURGES, Iranistan Ave., Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 21, 1898.

Mrs. Burges writes Feb. 28, 1903: "My baby, who had Eczema very badly on her head, as I told you [illegible] after using the Cuticura Remedies was cured. She is now six years old and has thick hair and a clean scalp."

Instant relief and refreshing sleep for [illegible] babies and rest for tired, worried mothers in warm baths with Cuticura Soap, and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, purest of emollients and greatest of skin cures, to be followed in severe cases by mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent. This is the purest, sweetest, most speedy, permanent and economical treatment for torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted and pimply skin and scalp humours, with loss of hair, of infants and children, as well as adults, and is sure to succeed when all other remedies and the best physicians fail.

Mr. G. L. Stephenson of Peterborough, says: "For over ten years I suffered constantly with piles, first itching, then bleeding; pain almost unbearable; life a burden; tried everything in vain till I used Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid.

"I had taken but a few boxes when I began to notice an improvement. I decided to keep on and now after using three boxes I am glad to say I am completly cured. My general health has also greatly improved. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Hem-Roid to all sufferers with Piles, and I feel convinced that what it has done for me it will surely do for them."

CHARACTERISTICS OF HAVELOCK RESIDENTS

Remarkable Record of Appendicitis and Births in That Village.

The village of Havelock is becoming noted for its high birth rate, its great number of dogs, and its numerous cases of appendicitis, the latter being double, and we might say three times, the record of any other place of its size in Ontario.—Warkworth Journal.

It is quite true that the compilers of race suicide statistics are saved the necessity of working overtime in regard to our birth rate; dogs we have in plenty, and a remarkable or rather an unusual fast in regard to the great number of appendicitis operations, is, that the patients invariably recover, and that too, in a couple of weeks. Bro'r Emery might also have stated that Havelock citizens were noted for their gut up and hustle proclivities.—Standard.

THE LAST DAY.

Successful Guelph Winter Fair Ends—Work Done On Friday—Chicken Plucking Contest.

Guelph, Dec. 10.—The great gathering of agriculturists, who have been visiting the Ontario Provincial Winter Fair, are fast leaving for their homes. Every outgoing train is crowded. Very few remained to see the judging of cattle and mutton carcases yesterday morning, or to listen to the lectures afterwards, when the finest carcases were hung up and their respective points professionally commented on. Prof. G. E. Day and A. W. Tyson discussed the points in the beef cattle carcases, and Prof. J. H. Grisdale, Ottawa, and Prof. M. Cummings, the mutton sheep. In most of the breeds the competition was keen, especially in the grades and crosses.

Following the demonstration of carcases was an auction sale of the dead hogs, beef and poultry. Everything was weighed before being put up for sale, and the highest market price per pound was realized. A chicken plucking contest took place in the afternoon, and a large number of competitors showed how quickly a chicken can be dressed.

The Fair has been a greater success than usual. There were 500 entries more than last year, and the receipts are about the same. As many Farmers' Institute tickets were exchanged for Winter Fair tickets, the money for which is not in yet, it is quite probable that the attendance during the Fair was larger than a year ago.

Christmas

A WORD TO OUR FRIENDS

Owing to the special nature of our business, which is largely one of trust and confidence in the ability, judgment and honor of the salesman, it is utterly impossible for us to fill our store with salespeople who know nothing about the watch or jewellery business, or of the quality of the goods they are selling. We wish, as a very special favor, to ask the many friends and customers of "Diamond Hall," who wish to look over our stock or make selections for Christmas, to be kind enough to come as early as possible.

We are giving a special discount on all of our lovely New Goods.

Foot Caught in Rail, and Leg was Badly Mangled—May Have to be Amputated.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Havelock, Dec., 12.—A very serious accident occurred here about three o'clock this morning, and from the effects of it Thomas Smith may lose one leg. The unfortunate man, who is but 21 years of age, and a brakeman, was working in the yard in the prosecution of his duties, and was engaged in making up a train to start out on a run.

An engine to which was attached three or four cabooses, was in his charge, and he had signalled to the engineer to back up, when he attempted to cross the track in front of the cabooses which were approaching him.

His foot caught between the rail and the tie, and before he could extricate himself from his perilous position or make known to the engineer his plight, the train was upon him, and his leg was broken and frightfully torn and mangled. As soon as the engineer learned what had happened, the engine was stopped, and the injured man conveyed to a place where medical assistance could be procured. Dr. Holderoft and Dr. Crawford were called and attendd to the injuries.

It is not known yet whether the leg will have to be amputated or not, but it is feared that such will be the case.

Mr. Smith is a son of Mr. Hault Smith, a freight conductor, of Havelock, and has lived in that town for a number of years, where he is highly respected and where his misfortune will be deeply regretted by his many friends.

The injured man was brought to town this morning on the local and was taken to the Nicholls Hospital, where Drs. Young and Grey attended It is hoped that they will be able to save the limb.

GRATEFUL SONS OF SUNNY ITATY

Presented the Cement Works Foreman With a Gold Watch.

A few days ago, says the Lakefield News, nine Italians who had been employed at the Lakefield Portland Cement Works, left for their home in Italy. On the eve of their departure they presented Mr. Robert Watson, foreman of the Works, with a handsome gold watch, as a token of the esteem in which he was held by them. Needless to say Mr. Watson values the watch very highly.

WILLIAM IRWIN IS PRESIDENT

Of the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company.

Meeting Held on Saturday Evening and Officers Elected—Mr. J. H. McClellan's Resignation—Company in Prosperous Condition.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company was held at the company's office last Saturday evening. Mr. J. H. McClellan's resignation as President of the Company, was received and accepted. Mr. McClellan's retirement was due to the position which he has recently accepted as Superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal as the duties in connection with it will require a great deal of his attention and time.

The vacancy was filled by the election of Mr. William Irwin as President. Mr. Irwin is a large stockholder in the Company and is a man whose business capabilities are well known and the affairs of the company will no doubt progress most favourably under his presidency.

The election of officers resulted as follows:—

President—Wm. Irwin.
Managing Director—W. Buller.
Secretary—A. J. McClellan.
Treasurer—J. White.

The affairs of the Company are at the present time in a most flourishing condition. The company is doing a big business and has every equipment conducive to the best results. The coal sheds have the best possible accommodation and there is a horse-shoeing shop in connection where all repairs are made at night so as not to interfere with the day's business. Everything is most complete. During the past few months the business has increased to a large proportion and a dividend of five per cent. on the paid up capital of the company was paid for the first six months and will be as high as this for the current half year if not higher.

JUST SAVED HIS LONG-SERVICE RECORD

Out of Harness, Into Bed—The Experience of "Daddy" Taylor.

Mr. William Taylor, known by those who love him — and that's everybody—as "Daddy" Taylor, is a terrible example of the ill results of idleness. A few days ago Mr. Taylor retired from active service with the C. P. R., with the boast that he never missed a day on duty from illness, or other cause. Yet the day after he got out of harness he was taken ill with a severe cold, and came under the doctor's care. His many friends, however, will be pleased to know that he is able to be about again.

It seems that if Mr. Taylor is to keep in health he will have to set up a windmill and pump in his back yard to produce the novel effect of the outfit in Manvers swamp.

LAMENTED DEATH OF MISS YOUNG

Highly Esteemed Young Lady Passed Away Yesterday.

For the second time in a year death has entered the home of Mr. C. Young, and this time his eldest daughter, Mary Catharine, has passed away.

Her death occurred last night, and the circumstances surrounding it are particularly sad. The deceased was taken ill about a year ago with appendicitis and she never fully recovered, gradually becoming worse until the end. The late Miss Young was 28 years of age and was very popular among her large circle of friends, to whom the news of her death will be received with the deepest regret.

There are left to mourn her loss, her father, and two sisters at home, and a brother in Toronto. The family has been bereaved on four previous occasions by the loss of a mother, and three daughters.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at 9.30 o'clock from the family residence, 294 Stewart street, to St. Peter's Cathedral and proceed the Roman Catholic Cemetery for interment.

EXCITING RUNAWAY ON HUNTER STREET.

Parker's Laundry Delivery Sleigh Comes in Contact With Some Barrels.

An exciting runaway occurred this afternoon about three o'clock. The horse attached to Parker's laundry delivery sleigh became frightened near the Hunter street bridge and dashed westward at full speed. Upon reaching the corner of Hunter and George streets the animal took to the sidewalk, narrowly escaping coming in contact with several telegraph poles and some men on the sidewalk. In front of Mr. J. Ball's grocery store were half a dozen sugar barrels and when the sleigh came in contact with these it refused to proceed and the horse with part of its harness proceeded to Aylmer street, where its mad career was brought to a conclusion. The sleigh was rather badly damaged and several shirts, collars, cuffs, etc., were distributed rather indiscriminatingly about the road.

For Stout Folk.

A good many custom tailors who think, they know how cannot design—cut or tailor suits to fit stout men.

They recognize a variation from the regular type, but the difference in the details of the various measurements puzzle them.

Instead of regarding the type as a whole and designing their patterns on comprehensive lines they lose themselves in minutiæ.

The result is a suit that makes one feel like the side of a house or a Chicago alderman!

Semi-ready suits for stout men are designed to minimize their portliness and to fit.

They are tailored out of particular fabrics to assist in producing the effect of slimness.

They can be tried on and forejudged before being purchased, and you are under no obligation to buy.

Then your purchase money is refunded for any cause whatever!

MISS LOUGH BIDS FAREWELL.

To the Members of the Local Y. W. C. A.

Will Leave for Her Home in Clinton—Her Address Yesterday.

The retiring General Secretary of the Peterborough Y. W. C. A., Miss Lough, conducted her last service yesterday afternoon at 4.15, when one of the largest meetings of the series was held, and that the members of the Association are very reluctant to part with Miss Lough was amply evidenced yesterday when she gave her farewell message to them.

The attendance yesterday afternoon was one of the largest, and was led by Miss Lough for the last time before her departure for her home in Clinton, where she will go to attend her mother, who is ill.

In her address yesterday Miss Lough emphasized the necessity, 1st, of decision on the part of those who have not yet accepted Christ; 2nd, of examination of our hearts as to whether we are merely nominally Christians, or in the true sense of the word; 3rd, of discovering the true plan of God for our individual loves.

Miss Lough spoke of the great opportunities in Association work, emphasizing the thought that it is not a work for young women by one young women but a work in which all young women may be helpful, one to another, thus fulfilling the spirit of the Association motto, "By love serve one another."

The responsibility of this particular association was spoken of, and the necessity for the co-operation of each member was dwelt upon, if the work is to be successful, the means of successful work being embodied in the words, "Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts."

For the past three weeks the Sunday afternoon meetings have been particularly encouraging, the average attendance having been 23. The talks have been practical and helpful and the spirit of the meeting has been good.

The following committees will meet during the week:

Devotional — Thursday at 5 p.m.
Educational—Saturday at 5 p. m.
Membership—Saturday at 5.30 p.m.
Social—Saturday, at 7.30 p.m.

The association announces that Miss I. Fisher has kindly consented to take the place of the retiring secretary until the new building is ready for occupation. The Board feels deeply indebted to Miss Fisher and bespeak for her the hearty support of the association members.

WHERE DO YOU BUY YOUR CLOTHES?

This is a very important matter, and still many men appear to think it of no consequence. They buy just anywhere they happen to see something that strikes their fancy.

But there's a difference in stores, as well as in clothes.

Some stores go in for "cheapness," others for quality.

Which do you prefer?

THE GREAT CONSPIRACY.

In the absence of definite information, which no doubt exists if it were available, there is a great deal of mystery regarding the circumstances connected with Hon. Mr. Blair's sudden bolt from the chairmanship of the Railway Commission a few days before the elections. Mr. Blair excused his sudden resignation on the plea that we must be free to accept a position or enter into an enterprise which was far more lucrative than his salary of $10,000 a year. Several weeks have elapsed since his resignation and Mr. Blair is still idle so that the immediate acceptance of a position was not the real cause of his resigning. What then was behind it? It has transpired that Mr. Blair's intention to resign was known in Conservative circles days before it took place. It was announced in Conservative journals in St. Johns and Montreal almost before the resignation took place, and the gentlemen, David Russell, who says he persuaded Mr. Blair to resign, announced that Mr. Blair would take the stump in 48 hours against the Government. Behind Mr. Blair's resignation and the circumstances connected with it there is evidence of a gigantic and daring plot to smash the Liberal Government. The money of a huge capitalistic combine was to be used, so it is stated, to buy the retirement of enough Liberal members in Quebec to defeat the Government in this province and stampede the electorate throughout the Dominion. The manipulation of the capitalistic combine evidently engineered a political explosion intended to overthrow the Liberal party. It is claimed that Mr. Blair was not privy to these arrangements. He may not have been, but the fact seems to stand out that this gigantic scheme of political debauchery before which the Pacific Scandal pales into insignificance, was devised in the interests of the Conservative party and against the Liberal party. The names of Liberal Ministers are brought in, but only as having been approached and as indignantly rejecting the iniquitous overtures made. Whatever of mystery—and there is a good deal—there may be in the matter, it is plain that a gigantic plot was planned to overthrow the Liberal Government, and leave the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway as a "mark" for spoil for the capitalistic sharks behind or in the perfidious plot. That the plot miscarried is cause for congratulation, but that it went so far, as it did, is ground for investigation which will reveal the facts, and explain among other things what is now inexplicable—Mr. Blair's resignation at the time and under the circumstances it took place.

UNDER THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

The Belleville Deaf Mute says:—The deaf throughout the province will hear with a great deal of pleasure that this Institution, and that for the blind at Brantford, have been transferred from the Provincial Secretary's Department, to that of the Minister of Education, where, of course, they properly belong, since they are solely educational institutions. For many years the deaf have advocated this change, not because they thought it would increase the efficiency of the Institution, but because formerly they were placed in a false position before the public. Heretofore this school, and the one at Brantford, have been called public charities, and the deaf are too independent and self-respecting to take kindly to the idea that they are the recipients of charity. They justly claim that the deaf children have as much right to a free public school as have the hearing children of the province, and that the one class is no more an object of charity than the other. They also very strongly objected to being classed, as they were, with the inmates of asylums and prisons; for it was largely due to this fact that so many people had, and yet have, such lamentably false conceptions of the mental and moral status of the deaf, which, as a matter of fact, is in no respect or degree inferior to that of hearing children. For these and other reasons, which it is needless to specify, the change made is a commendable one, and it will, we are sure, meet with the approbation not only of the deaf themselves, but also of the general public; and it is another instance of the interest taken in the deaf by Hon. Mr. Stratton, as the transfer indicated above was his last official act. One more change is yet needed, to place the deaf in a proper light before the public. This is not an institution, as it is officially called, neither is it an asylum, as many people regard it, but it is purely and simply a school for the deaf, and we hope it will not be long before the official designation is altered in accordance with the facts.

WORDS OF WARNING TO THE YOUNG MEN

The Danger of Fast Living an Extravagant Expenditure.

(Toroto Star.)

We don't know whether or not the number of young men who go astray is increasing, but it is a fact that the city is full of youths who are living on the brink of disgrace, and who are a constant source of anxiety to their parents. Yesterday a typical case came before the Police Magistrate. A young man, occupying a responsible position pleaded guilty to forging a check for $30, five dollars of which went to buy a pair of boots. Before the anxious father could intercept the forged paper it had fallen into the hands of the police and the Magistrate had no alternative but to sentence the young man to three months' confinement, notwithstanding the pleading of the father and son. Extravagance in dress and amusements is a prominent weakness in the young man of to-day. He dresses beyond his means and the seductive show-bill is more than he can withstand. Not a few of them get into deep water, and find it advisable to skip the town. Others land in the Police Court before they know where they are. The modern young man is certainly a source of anxious concern to his relatives. If he will only keep out of jail is as much as many parents dare to hope for from their sons these days. On examination we a number of cases leads to the conclusion that the downfall of many young men is, in a large measure, attributable to the facility with which they can borrow money and obtain goods on credit. There are moneylenders who pay a bonus to anyone who will bring them a young man for a client, especially if the latter be connected with a respectable family. The tailors are very liberal with their credit much more so than they ought to be for the good of their favorite clients and the peace of families. Those who advance money or give credit unduly to boys and young men must accept responsibilities for not a little of the distress that is caused by the reckless ruining of so many of the latter.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

ERNEST HOOLEY UP FOR TRIAL.

Famous Promoter is Being Given Trial in England.

Case in Progress at Old Bailey—Mr. Payne is Cross Examined.

The first copy of the Over-Seas edition of the London (Eng.) Daily Mail, published on Nov. 25, is to hand, and by a strange coincidence it contains an account of the trial of Ernest Terah Hooley, whom many Peterborough persons remember as having been connected with the Sapphire Consolidated Mines. The Mail says:—

"Let us take care that because clever men get hold of ingenuous methods for obtaining money out of the public that they do not get off scott free any more than the common criminal who commits ordinary crime."

This was one of the concluding sentences of Sir Edward Carson's opening speech for the prosecution in the trial of Messrs. Ernest Terah Hooley and Henry John Lawson, which commenced at the Old Bailey on Tuesday.

The two financiers are on trial in respect of various monetary transactions, "conspiracy to defraud" being the first offence charged against them. Orders for the payment of large sums of money were obtained from a licensed victualler named Alfred John Paine, who, it is alleged, was induced to purchase certain shares which were valueless.

Lawson is charged with making false statements in order to induce people to become shareholders in the Electric Tramways Construction and Maintenance Company, of which he was manager. He is further charged with applying to his own use 25,000 fully-paid preference shares of the company, and using for himself or others cheques for £5,000, £100, £8,000, and £100 respectively, in the last two cases Hooley is charged with aiding Lawson.

The two prisoners seated in the wooden dock afforded a striking contrast.

Mr. Hooley, now, as ever, was the imposing figure. Here was the well-knit body, well groomed, the perfect serge suit, the neat white tie peeping from beneath the trim black beard; here, too, the dark, reflective eyes, the shining black hair exquisitely brushed.

FINANCIAL MAZE.

Mr. Lawson was different. He is a smaller man, slighter and not nearly so imposing. A little moustache marks his face, and he has the upright well-shaped forehead of the man who revels in figure.

Mr. Lawson conducts his own defence, whereas Mr. Hooley has advocates, of whom Mr. Rufus Isaacs is the leader. For the prosecution Sir Edward Carson, the Solicitor-General, has the assistance of Mr. R. D. Murr.

Both prisoners pleaded not guilty.

The judge is the newly-appointed Mr. Justice A. T. Lawrence. In his crimson and white robes he gave an effective touch of colour to the dingy court.

Towards the end of the afternoon the first witness was put into the box. It was Mr. Paine, who told how he parted with his money. Up to November 28, 1900, he had paid over £16,000 for shares.

Cross-examined by Mr. Isaacs: He had been a number of years in business.

And you consider yourself an experienced business man?—Well, yes, I suppose so, or I should not have made some £40,000.

You have had some experience in buying and selling stock?—Well, very little except railway shares.

I call that stock. Your dealings were considerable?—Some £20,000 or £30,000 but they were Chathams, and you know what that means.

You bought them to sell at a profit, I suppose?—I bought them on the dividend, and had to sell them to cut the loss. I lost altogether £7,000 by the transaction.

Mr. Paine, cross-examined further, said that Hooley made no secret of the fact that he was an undischarged bankrupt, but explained that that was the reason of the transactions being in his wife's name. At Walsingham House, he added, people were in and out. It was like a rabbit warren. People were always dodging about.

INTERESTING DIALOGUE.

On the third day of the trial at the Old Bailey, Mr. Lawson came into court burdened with books, looking rather more cheerful. Mr. Hooley was a few minutes late in arriving.

Mr. Paine was still under cross-examination, and there was some more interesting dialogue.

Counsel was cordially complimentary, and there was an exchange of smiles. It was but the calm before the storm.

The storm was the question of a certain conversation between the witness and Hooley. Witness said that Hooley told him that Lawson had "made half a million out of British Motors."

"Then it has risen since the day before yesterday," said Mr. Isaacs quietly.

"No," said the witness.

"Do you know?" cried Mr. Isaacs with rising voice, "that in this very trial on the day before yesterday you swore that he told you a quarter of a million? Tell me which is true—what you swore two days ago or what you have sworn to-day?"

"I think——"

"Don't tell me what you think, sir; tell me which is the truth."

Mr. Isaacs was leaning forward, his body strung to tension.

"It may have been a quarter," repeated the witness.

"It may have been a quarter," repeated counsel scornfully. "Is this the way you are to give evidence in a criminal trial? What do you mean?"

"I may have had the half million from my solicitor."

"You got it from your solicitor," said Mr. Isaacs, with apparent amazement. "You swore this about the half million."

"I don't know that I swore it," said the witness. "I merely made the observation."

"You merely made the observation," cried Mr. Isaacs in tones of passion, "merely made the observation, when these men are on trial. What do you mean, sir? Explain yourself."

Mr. Paine was still under cross-examination when the court adjourned.

BANK MESSENGER SUICIDES.

Claude May Was Short in His Accounts About $600.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 12.—Claude H. May, messenger in the Bank of British North America, committed suicide Saturday afternoon by shooting himself through the head with a revolver. He was 39 years old and a native of Nottingham, England. The reason ascribed for the act is that he is short in his accounts. Just how much is not known, but the amount is placed at around $600. The crime was committed in a drug store where he had gone to ask for a drink of water.

A SUICIDE IN LINDSAY.

George A. Metherell Cut His Throat With a Razor.

BODY DISCOVERED.

Deceased had Been Missing Severa Days—Was Discovered in a Fence Corner.

Lindsay, Dec. 10th.—The mystery involved in the disappearance of George A. Metherell from his home on Adelaide street, north ward, last Tuesday evening was solved this morning in an expected and ghastly fashion by some little boys and girls who after breakfast, gathered at a slight eminence back of the stable on the Metherell lot, and close to the Agricultural Park property, to indulge in sleigh-riding. After a couple of trips down the slope their attention was attracted by an object lying on a stone heap in the fence corner, and partly covered by snow that had formed a drift. Kicking this away, the children disclosed to view the body of Geo. A. Metherell, with the throat cut from ear to ear.

Horrified at their discovery, the children fled to their respective homes and told the news. Coroner Burrows and Chief Nevison were notified, and were soon on the spot. They found on the chest of the dead man the rusty and badly hacked razor with which the deed had doubtless been committed, and came to the conclusion that the fatal wound had been self-inflicted. Dr. Burrows issued an order for the removal of the corpse to Messrs. Anderson & Nugent's morgue pending the holding of a coroner's inquest to-night at 7.30 in the Council chamber.

The news of the shocking and untoward event was received with deep regret by citizens generally, many of whom entertained a very kindly feeling for deceased and sympathized with him in his apparent inability to achieve the success in life that he aimed at and worked hard to attain. He was about 56 years of age and leaves a widow and family of six children. The deceased carried life insurance to the amount of $2,000, $2,000 of which is in the Home Circle and $2,000 in the Canada Life.—Post.

CHILDRENS GRUESOME FIND.

Financially Embarrassed, a Lindsay Agent, Ends His Life.

Lindsay, Dec. 12.—On Tuesday evening George M. Metherell, aged 50, and for a long time a resident of this town, was missed from his home. Saturday morning some children discovered his body lying on a pile of stones in the rear of the lot adjoining his own. His throat had been cut and a razor lay under the body. Mr. Metherell for years conducted a bookstore in this city. Of late he was employed by Nelson & Son, fancy goods dealers, Montreal. A couple of weeks ago he became financially embarrassed and lost his position. A day or two before he disappeared a doctor found him in an extremely nervous condition. Deceased had expressed an intention of committing suicide. Coroner Burrows will hold an inquest on Tuesday night. Mr. Metherell leaves a wife and several quite young children. He had considerable insurance on his life.

Jumped to His Death.

Hamilton, Dec. 12.—W. P. Harkin, corresponding clerk in the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, jumped out of a window at the asylum Friday night and was instantly killed. Coroner Griffin held an inquiry Saturday afternoon, and the jury brought in a verdict to the effect that Harkin had killed himself while his mind was temporarily deranged. Harkin was an Englishman about 30 years of age.

DISTRIBUTION OF FREE SEED

By Dominion Department of Agriculture to Canadian Farmers.

By instruction of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture another distribution will be made this season of samples of the most productive sorts of grain to Canadian farmers for the improvement of seed. The stock for distribution is of the very best and has been secured mainly from the excellent crops recently had at the Branch Experimental Farm at Indian Head in the Northwest Territories. The distribution this spring will consist of samples of oats, spring wheat, barley, Indian corn and potatoes will weigh 3 lbs, as heretofore. A quantity of each of the following varieties has been secured for this distribution:—

Oats.—Banner, Wide-Awake, Improved Ligowo, Waverley, Goldfinder, Abundance and Thousand Dollar.

(Wheat.—Preston, Red Fife, Percy, Stanley, Huron, Laurel and White Fife.

Barley.—Six-rowed,—Mensury, Odessa, Mensfield, Claude and Royal. Two-rowed.—Sidney, Invincible, Standwell and Canadian Thorpe.

Potatoes.—Carman No. 1, Early White Prize, Canadian Beauty, Uncle Sam, American Wonder, Bovee, Early Andes and late Puritan.

Every farmer may apply, but only one sample can be sent to each applicant, hence if an individual receives a sample of oats he cannot also receive one of wheat, barley or potatoes, and applications for more than one sample for one household cannot be entertained. These samples may be sent free of charge through the mail.

Applications should be addressed to the Director of Experimental Farms, Ottawa, and may be sent in any time before the first of March, after which the lists will be closed, so that all the samples asked for may be sent out in good time for sowing. Parties writing should mention the sort or variety they would prefer, with a second sort as an alternative, and should the available stock of both these varieties be exhausted, some other good sort will be sent instead. Those applying for Indian corn or potatoes will please bear in mind that the corn is not available for distribution until March or April, and that potatoes cannot be mailed from here until danger from frost in transit is over.

DROWNED WERE ELEVEN.

Fishermen Attempted to Aid Wrecked Steamer Whose Crew Were Saved.

London, Dec. 10.—Eleven fishermen were drowned yesterday morning in an attempt to assist the Norwegian steamer Anglia, from Hamburg for Sunderland, which was wrecked on the rocks near Newbiggin, Northumberland.

In response to distress signals a dozen fishermen went out in a fishing boat, which was struck by a heavy sea and swamped. A lifeboat subsequently picked up a single survivor, who was clinging to the fishing boat.

The Anglia's crew are safe.

RUSS RIOTERS' CRY

"Down With Autocracy!" and Students Sing the Marseillaise.

WOMEN WERE TRAMPLED

Mounted Police Rode the Mob Down and Struck Rioters With the Broad Side of Their Swords—Many Heads Broken, But None Killed—Over 100 Demonstrators Arrested.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 12.—A popular anti-Government demonstration, the participants in which included large numbers of students of both sexes, began at mid-day in the Nevsky Prospect and lasted about two hours yesterday. Hundreds of police and mounted gendarmes, which were hidden in the court-yard of the public buildings, emerged suddenly and charged the crowd at full gallop, driving the demonstrators in headlong confusion and screaming with terror upon the sidewalks and into adjacent streets. This led to serious encounters, fifty persons being more or less severely injured. Large numbers were arrested. Not since the riots of 1901, when Cossacks stretched across the Nevsky Prospect from building to building, charged down the boulevard from the Moscow station to the Neva, has the Russian capital lived through such a day of excitement as this.

Blood Red Flag Shot Up.

Towards 1 o'clock the workmen and students seemed to swarm toward the corner of the Hotel Europe, opposite the Kazan Cathedral. The police tried in vain to keep back the human tide. Then when there was not a single mounted policeman in sight, from the heart of the thickly-wedged crowd a blood red flag suddenly shot up. It was the signal. Other flags appeared in other parts of the crowd, waving frantically overhead, and they were greeted with a hoarse roar: "Down with autocracy!" The students surged into the street singing the "Marseillaise." Dismounted police made a single attempt to force their way into the crowd to wrest the flags from the demonstrators, but the students and workmen, armed with sticks, stood close and beat back their assailants. Then like a flash from behind the cathedral came wheeling a squadron of gendarmerie.

Women Especially Fierce.

The doors of adjoining courts were thrown back and battalions of police came out. A double squadron charged the flank of the demonstrators with drawn sabres. Five other squadrons circled the mob, cutting through the fringe of spectators. The main wedge of the demonstrators stood fast only a moment or two. There was a sharp rattle of cudgels and sabres, though the wounds showed the police struck principally with the flat of their sabres. The women were especially fierce in their resistance. Many were struck and trampled and blood streamed down their faces. The police urged their horses fiercely into the crowd, driving before them those who resisted. The intense excitement lasted about 10 minutes, after which mounted officers kept the crowd moving.

Considering the sharp fight the rioters had put up the police acted humanely with the crowd. There were probably a hundred broken heads, and several were severely wounded, though none fatally, so far as is ascertainable. So far there have been over 100 arrests. The ferment continued all day and far into the night although only one or two other abortive attempts were made at demonstrations.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Japs Continue to Drop Shells Into Port Arthur Fleet.

Tokio, Dec. 12.—The battering by the Japanese of the Port Arthur fleet continues, and there is little ground for expecting that they ever will again engage the Japanese. The battleship Sevastopol continues at anchor outside, but possibly returns to the harbor at night and anchors inside the outer boom, which protects her from torpedo boats. The recent heavy weather has given added protection to the vessel. In order to end the question of the future availability of the Russian warships the Japanese continue to drop shells into the sunken hulks. The whereabouts of the torpedo boat destroyers continues doubtful, but it is thought they are sheltering outside the harbor.

Mass Cruisers Sunk.

Washington, Dec. 12.—The Japanese legation has received the following cablegram from Tokio:

"Commander Naval Artillery reports bombardment Friday, set Bayan afire, which heeled to port twenty-five degrees, nearly capsizing. Retvizan and Poltava submerged at high tide to upper deck below conning tower. Pallada and Pobieda heel considerably to port and starboard respectively exposing hull below water line and in high tide the upper deck washed. Peresviet submerges in high tide up to stern walk at stern and torpedo tube at bow. Gilsyak close to shore, listing considerably and believed resting on bottom. Sevastopol at dawn Friday removed from anchorage to outer roadstead, presumably for escaping shells."

A Jap Cruiser Sunk.

Tokio, Dec. 12.—The Japanese cruiser Saiyen struck a mine and sank Nov. 30. The majority of her crew were rescued. Finding that the Saiyen was making water rapidly the Akagi and the other Japanese ships launches turned their attention to rescuing the crew. Fifteen officers and 175 men were saved, but Capt. Tajima and 28 others went down with the ship.

OUR NEW GOVERNOR

Earl Grey Brilliantly Installed at Halifax Saturday.

"GOD SAVE THE KING" PLAYED

Mr. Justice Sedgewick Administers the Oath, After Which His Excellency Took His Place On the Throne—Her Excellency, Lady Grey, Presented With a Mammoth Bouquet of Roses.

Halifax, Dec. 12.—Old Halifax was the scene of a brilliant event Saturday morning when Sir Albert Henry George, Earl Grey, was formally installed as the 9th Governor-General of Canada. The Parisian, on which the vice-regal party arrived, anchored in the stream until 7 o'clock a.m., when she pulled up to the Intercolonial Terminus and discharged her mails and passengers.

About 10 o'clock she again dropped into the stream, when the War Department steamer Alfreda went alongside and the distinguished passengers were transferred to her. Gaily decorated with bunting she steamed to the Gun Wharf, where the Fifth Royal Garrison Regiment, with its band was drawn up. Hundreds of citizens were also present. As His Excellency stepped off the boat the regiment presented arms and the band played a few bars of "God Save the King."

The crowds at this point were not very demonstrative, chiefly because ladies predominated.

Then the procession started for the Parliament Buildings. It no sooner got outside the Gun Wharf enclosure than the Governor-General's carriage was greeted with rounds of applause from the thousands which gathered in spite of the intense cold.

The "Great Seal" Presented.

At the Parliament Buildings great preparations had been made for the ceremony. After the reading of the commission by Col. Hanbury Williams, Military Secretary, Her Excellency, Lady Grey, was presented with a mammoth bouquet of roses by Lady Parsons. After the administration of the oath by Acting Chief Justice Sedgewick His Excellency took his place on the throne, the band playing six bars of "God Save the King." "The great seal" was then presented and immediately thereafter the address on behalf of the Provincial Government was presented by Premier Murray, followed by the address on behalf of the city.

Countess Grey in the afternoon was also presented with an address on behalf of the National Council of Women of Canada, which was delivered by Mrs. R. L. Borden. Saturday night the party was entertained at a state dinner at Government House, after they held a levee in the Parliament Buildings. Owing to the intense cold it was not largely attended.

Earl Grey's Sunday.

Halifax, Dec. 12.—The special train with the vice-regal party on board left Halifax at one minute past midnight, and is scheduled to arrive in Montreal in 27 hours, and at Ottawa in 30 hours.

His Excellency attended divine service at St. Luke's Cathedral in the morning, when Bishop Worrell of Nova Scotia preached from the text, "They bowed their heads and worshiped," and the choir sang as the procession moved, "God Save the King."

In the evening Earl and Countess Grey were entertained at dinner at Bellevue, the residence of Maj.-Gen. Sir Charles Parsons, at which the military predominated.

Was Cured of Ashma.

"I first used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with my daughter who suffered from a severe form of asthma. The least exposure to cold would lay her up and she would nearly suffocate for want of breath. I must say I found it to be, a most satisfactory treatment and it has entirely cured her."—Mrs. A. A. VanBuskirk, Robinson street, Moncton, N.B.

MARKET FOR WHEAT

Canadian Product May Enter United States Free.

EXTENDS DRAWBACK SYSTEM

Our Wheat to Be Mixed With United States Wheat in Making Flour—Decision Is a Distinct Concession to Flour Manufacturers—To Control the European Flour Markets.

New York, Dec. 12.—A despatch to The Tribune from Washington says: The drawback system which refunds the duty on raw materials imported for manufacture for the export trade will soon be extended to cover Canadian wheat mixed with American wheat in the production of flour designed for foreign markets.

As the drawback law has been applied, Canadian wheat could be brought into the country in bond, ground into flour and the flour exported without the payment of any duty on the wheat. Or, under another plan, the duty was paid when the wheat was imported, and when it was shown that an equal amount of flour had been exported the duty was refunded. The millers complained that neither plan worked to their best advantage, as they were forced to keep the Canadian wheat separate, while the best results are obtained by mixing the hard Canadian wheat with the soft wheat from Kansas or other western States. Hard wheat can be secured in the northwestern States, but it costs seventeen cents a bushel more than the Canadian hard, and the millers contended that they could not pay the higher price and export flour at a profit. They are willing to pay the American price for flour made for American consumption.

This decision is a distinct concession to the flour manufacturers, and will, it is declared, enable them to control the European markets.

It is understood that the Liberals will protest all Manitoba Conservative seats.

SON MADE FATHER GLAD.

Pays Off a $500 Debt to Relieve His Father's Mind.

Toronto, Dec. 12.—With his savings of three years, amounting to nearly $500, Arthur Ormerod, a messenger boy at the C.P.R. telegraph offices, a couple of days ago, walked into the establishment of P. McIntosh, cereal manufacturer, and wiped out a debt of his father's. He did so as a Christmas present for his father, who had worried a great deal over the debt, and he had been saving for three years in order that he might have the thing cleared up.

The debt was one incurred by his father in the flour and feed business. Mr. Ormerod, sr., had suspended business some time ago, and instead of assigning had taken a position as driver and had started methodically to pay off the liability.

SERVIA'S NEW SUCCESS.

None of the Renegades Included—M. Pasics Is Premier.

Belgrade, Dec. 12.—The new Servian Cabinet is as follows: Premier and Minister for Foreign Affairs, M. Pasics; Minister of Finance, M. Pesogu; Minister of the Interior, M. Protics; Minister of War, M. Putnik; Minister of Public Works, M. Velmirovics; Minister of Commerce, M. Advomovics; Minister of Justice and Education, M. Nicolics. None of the regicides remain in the new cabinet.

Premier Pasics, who was leader of the Radical party in opposition to King Alexander, was in exile at Abazzia at the time of the murder, and Minister of Public Works Velimirovics was appointed president of the Senate after the King and Queen were killed, and was president of the National Parliament which elected King Peter. Minister of War Putnik was a colonel under the late King Milan, who dismissed him from the army, but he was reinstated later, promoted to be a general, and was appointed chief of staff on July 30, 1903.

1,800,000 People

Have Asked Us to Buy Them a 50c. Bottle of Liquozone.

We offer to buy the first bottle of Liquozone, and give it free to each sick one who asks it. And we have spent over one million dollars to advertise and fulfill this offer. Our object has been to let Liquozone itself show what it can do. A test is better than testimonials, better than argument. In one year, 1,800,000 people have accepted this offer. They have told others what Liquozone does, and the others told others. The result is that millions now use it. It is more widely employed than any medicine ever was—more widely prescribed by the better physicians. And your own neighbors—wherever you are—can tell you of people whom Liquozone has cured.

Not Medicine.

Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact that gives Liquozone its worth to humanity. And that worth is so great that, after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, we paid $100,000 for the American rights.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for them troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

BETSY BIGLEY'S BUBBLE.

Mythical Millions Resolve Into Air With the Statement of Attorney Stearns —Rev. Dr. Eaton Explains.

Cleveland, Dec. 12.—The last vestige of the Chadwick bubble and its mythical millions was resolved into air yesterday. Attorney A. A. Stearns, representing Herbert D. Newton of Boston, made an authoritative statement that the securities found in the mysterious package left with Ira Reynolds by Mrs. Chadwick, included paper of the face value of $13,750,000 bearing the signature "Andrew Carnegie," which is regarded as worthless. This is the key to the situation, for on the securities supposed to be in this sealed package loans of an unknown amount—certainly more than $1,000,000—were negotiated.

With this revelation it is found that the signature of Andrew Carnegie has apparently been forged on notes and other papers to the total amount of $13,750,000. The securities held by Reynolds, together with those that were held by the Citizen's National Bank of Oberlin and have already been made public, aggregate this amount.

The Reynolds securities have been for the last three years the principal basis on which Mrs. Chadwick has conducted her financial system. And these same securities are the rock which has wrecked the Oberlin Bank and caused the ruin of hundreds of families and losses to business men almost without number. For it is the frankly expressed opinion of reputable lawyers who have examined these papers that they are not worth one cent.

Ira Reynolds, after his long course of faithful guardianship for the woman he trusted, now considers himself a dupe. It is stated as a fact, not hitherto known, that Reynolds lent Mrs. Chadwick practically all the money he possessed.

Dr. Eaton's Introduction.

Boston, Dec. 12.—Herbert D. Newton gave the reporters a full account of his dealings with Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick. He said Mrs. Chadwick came to Boston last April. She was sent here by the Rev. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church of Cleveland. Dr. Eaton had been appealed to by her as a woman in distress and had acted as a pastor to help her out. From Dr. Eaton of Cleveland, she carried his instructions to John R. Eaton to give her securities, her statements could be verified.

Dr. Eaton's Statement.

Cleveland, Dec. 12.—Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton said last night that he could best explain his connection with the Chadwick case by quoting from an interview with Banker Newton of Boston. In that statement Banker Newton told how he became financially involved, referring to the Eatons as follows: "I believe that both Eatons acted in perfect good faith in the introduction and that their confidence were abused, as were the confidence of many other persons."

The introduction of Mrs. Chadwick to Mr. Newton referred to resulted from a letter from Dr. Eaton to his brother, John E. Eaton, who presented the woman to the Massachusetts banker.

According to the most accurate estimate of the estate of Mrs. Chadwick that is possible before the receiver has investigated her assets and reported in his findings to the court, her creditors as a whole will receive about 1½ mills on the dollar.

Safe Blowers Are Active.

St. Thomas, Dec. 12.—The Postoffice at Union, a small place about five miles from this city, was broken into some time Saturday night or early yesterday morning. The safe was blown up and pillaged of its contents. Fifty dollars in bills were secured and some small change. Some bonds and other valuable papers were also taken.

Woodbridge, Dec. 12.—Early Saturday morning safeblowers used nitroglycerine on the big safe in Wallace Bros.' general store at Woodbridge. The noise aroused neighbors and frightened away the marauders, who left their tools behind them. There was $700 in the safe. County constables are investigating.

Tried to Kill.

Montreal, Dec. 12.—Mr. McLean Walbank, general manager of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company, was attacked yesterday at his own door by C. B. Patterson, a draftsman in the employ of Hutchison & Ward, who drew a revolver and tried to shoot. Patterson, who is supposed to be insane, was disarmed and sent to jail.

Sarah Pearson Arrested.

Montreal, Dec. 12.—Mrs. Sarah Ann Pearson, living in the outskirts of Montreal, who arrived in this city from Ireland last August, was arrested Saturday, charged with having poisoned her mother-in-law, Mrs. Alice Pearson, in the Emerald Isle. The case is a complicated one, but the officers of the law pretend to have a good case.

Loses $6 Diamond Rings.

Winnipeg, Dec. 12.—The jewelry store of Thomas T. Thurman, on Portage avenue, was entered Saturday night and rings to the value of between $2,500 and $3,000 were taken from a window. The total number of rings taken was twenty-four. There is no clue to robbers.

Fund For the Unemployed.

London, Dec. 12.—Lord Mayor Pound has issued an appeal for funds for the relief of the unemployed of London. King Edward has contributed $1,250, Queen Alexandra $1,000, the Prince of Wales $500, the Princess of Wales $250, Lord Iveagh $25,000, the Rothschilds $15,000, the Duke of Westminster $10,000, and the Peabody trustees $25,000.

CONSUMPTION

Hope, fresh air, rest and Scott's Emulsion are the greatest remedies for consumption. Scott's Emulsion will always bring comfort and relief — often cure. REV. J. A. WILSON'S FAREWELL SERMONS.

Preached Yesterday for the Last Time as Assistant Pastor of St. Paul's and St. Paul's Mission.

Large Congregations Gather to Listen to a Very Popular Young Pastor Who has Resigned.

Advises his Hearers to Make Progress in Christian Work and Quotes Divine Command.

Yesterday Rev. J. A. Wilson, who for the last two years and eight months has been assistant pastor of St. Paul's Church, under Rev. Dr. Torrance, preached his farewell sermon to the congregation that he has ministered to during the time he has spent here, and the regret of his many friends at his departure was apparent.

Rev. Mr. Wilson leaves tomorrow morning for Hamilton, where he will take the pastorate of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, one of te most progressive churches in that city.

To-night the congregation will gather and in a social way bid Mr. Wilson farewell and "God Speed". His assistant pastorate here has been marked by progress in the church's work, and especially in the young people's departments.

For two years and eight months, Rev. J. A. Wilson has most acceptably, and, as results will no doubt show, most successfully filled the position of assistant pastor of St. Paul's church, and yesterday he preached his farewell sermons to congregations which heard them with deep regret, for during the time in which he has administered to St. Paul's congregation, and that of the Mission, he has made himself not only popular, but beloved by them, and mingled with the pleasure at the advancement materially which his removal fro mPeterborough means, is the regret which accompanies his loss to the congregation here.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
The Assistant Pastorate of Which Rev. J. A. Wilson is Resigning.

Among the younger portion of the church Rev. Mr. Wilson is especially popular, and the loss made by his departure will be felt keenly. He practically organised the Young Men's Guild one of the most successful Guilds of the town, and since its organization he has been a prime mover in its operations.

But his popularity was not confined to any one department of the church, and with the whole congregation he was a favourite, whose departure will be considered as a loss.

Yesterday he preached farewell sermons in St. Paul's church and the Mission, and to-morrow, he will leave town to accept the pastorate of St. Andrew's church, Hamilton, one of the largest churches in the ambitious City, and situated in a part of the city which makes its growth and future prosperity assured.

Yesterday morning in St. Paul's church a large congregation gathered, composed not only of members of the church, but many were there from the other churches of the town, and it could easily be seen that the removal of the assistant pastor was a circumstance that was not viewed with pleasure by the congregation.

Rev. Mr. Wilson expressed his pleasure at the most happy associations which he had enjoyed with the congregation during the two years and eight months in which he had filled the position of assistant pastor, and he was sorry to part with them.

In closing his sermon he said that his best wishes were for those among whom he had spent so many happy days.

The sermon yesterday morning was one appropriate to the occasion. Rev. Mr. Wilson took for his text Exodus, 14, 15, "Speak to the children of Israel that they go forward," and he applied the lesson taught in those words, and the interesting circumstances connected with them, to the congregation, to which he was preaching his farewell sermon. Briefly he reviewed the story in connection with the utterance of this divine command; how that the children of Israel had been marvellously delivered from the bondage of Egypt, and were now on their way to the promised land, the difficulties which had confronted them in the way, and which had caused the halt necessitating the forward command.

The murmuring of the people of that day were repeated by Christians to-day, who are unsatisfied with God's leading.

The one main thought and central theme of the text is that of progress, and its application may be universal.

As God spoke to Moses in a command to tell the children of Israel to make progress and go forward, so He speaks to-day. The command to go forward is one of the great commands of the universe. It is seen in nature, in which under normal conditions, there is a constant progress and motion. It is also seen in the world of science and learning. The knowledge of our forefathers is surpassed by that of their children to-day, and scientific processes which were considered as wonderful years ago, are but ordinary compared with twentieth century achievements.

And so as progress is the law of nature, so it is the primary law of the religion of Christ. It is only necessary to think of the small beginnings of Christianity, to see that this law has been in operation. Christ's little band of twelve first grew to one hundred and twenty, then to five hundred, then to the thousands, and later the religion of Jesus was carried into Asia Minor, later into Europe, and then across the ocean to the New World, and now God calls upon us to send the Gospel still farther west, and to cross the broad Pacific to the Orient.

And so the Gospel has gone on leavening even the dark places of the earth, and making them bloom and blossom like the rose.

We all like to see progress in secular things, and it is right and proper that such should be the case, and why not also in spiritual? In the late war in South Africa the Canadian soldiers proved that they were ever ready to go forward, and in the present war the little Japs, are by their perseverance against a mighty foe, teaching the Christians lessons.

In this, his closing sermon to the people of St. Paul's church he wished to leave this word with them, "To go forward." God meant them as a congregation, and as individuals, to make progress. But to do this we must be in the right path and under the right leadership. If we are on the path that leads downward it is dangerous.

Before there is multiplication there must be the unit, and before there is growth there must be the germ. The speaker said that his best wish was for those among whom he had spent so many happy days. During his stay here he had tried to labour faithfully for Jesus Christ, and to work under His banner. He would speak to the people that they go forward, even though the dangers may be great, and he prayed that the Lord would bless them.

Rev. Mr. Wilson preached a farewell sermon at night at St. Paul's Mission, in the work of which he has been deeply interested.

The music at the morning service was of a pleasing nature. Miss Helen Davies sang in excellent voice "Nearer my God to Thee," by Holden and the choir rendered the anthem, "No, Not Dispairingly," Miss Davies taking the solo.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM ACCIDENT

Mr. J. Montgomery Failed to Hear a Freight Train, was Nearly Struck.

Mr. John Montgomery had a very narrow escape from a serious accident this morning. He was at work with the snow plough and when going east on Brock street failed to notice an approaching freight train which was leaving the station. Mr. Montgomery claims that neither whistle nor bell was sounded when approaching the crossing. When Mr. Montgomery was about to cross the track, a man passing by shouted to him just in time to prevent his being run down by the train. The horse attached to the plough became frightened and it was with great difficulty that it was brought to a stand still. Mr. Montgomery had a very close call.

ARMY CHIEFTAIN ROYALLY WELCOMED

Commissioner Coombs, the New Salvation Army Leader in Canada, at the Local Barracks Yesterday.

Prominent Citizens of the Town Present at Afternoon Meeting to Extend Hearty Welcome.

Large Audience Addressed by the Distinguished Visitor—An Eloquent and Powerful Speaker.

Commissioner Coombs, who on Dec. 4, assumed command of the Salvation Army forces in Canada, as a successor to Miss Eva Booth, honoured the Peterborough corps with a visit yesterday and spoke to large gatherings at three services yesterday. He was accorded a most hearty welcome.

Commissioner T. B. Coombs, who on the fourth of the month assumed charge of the Salvation Army forces in Canada, spent his second Sunday in his new work in Peterborough yesterday. It was indeed a day of joy and thankfulness for the local corps, which received the Commissioner with a welcome which could hardly have been more hearty or more sincere. The local corps esteemed it a high honour to have their new leader present on his second Sunday in the country, and the glad hand of welcome was extended to hand from all sides.

The Commissioner, accompanied by Col. Jacobs, Chief Secretary, Brigadier Turner, Staff-Capt. Morris, and Captain Coombs, his daughter, arrived in town on the 7.33 C.P.R. train on Saturday evening. At the station the party was met by the Salvation Army Band, and many of the corps, who accorded the visitors a hearty welcome. The party was escorted to the barracks on Simcoe street, where a short service was held, led by Col. Jacobs.

Yesterday three services were held—at 11, 3 and 7 o'clock. Each service was very largely attended, and the meetings were of a most beneficial character. In the morning the Commissioner spoke on "Holiness," giving a practical exposition of the subject. In the evening the subject was "The Battle for Souls."

In the afternoon a public welcome was tendered the Commissioner, when the barracks was crowded. Many prominent citizens of the town, including the Mayor, and a number of the aldermen, ministers, and others, were on the platform, and short addresses of welcome were given. Col. Jacobs was in the chair. The band led in the song service, which was of an inspiring character.

The Commissioner is a speaker of ability and power. His language is fluent, while his earnest and sympathetic manner of delivery is most effective upon his hearers, who can hearers who cannot feel otherwise than inspired with the great results of the Army's work, when they are presented by a speaker of Commissioner Coombs' ability. Though he is less fleshy, and has his beard trimmed slightly different to what it was when he was here before, he has not changed very much in appearance. His addresses yesterday were excellent discourses, and added a strong impetus to the cause of the Army in Peterborough.

AFTERNOON MEETING.

Yesterday afternoon's meeting opened with singing, followed by a prayer by Captain Coombs. Staff-Captain Morris sang a Salvation song after which Col. Jacobs called upon several of those present to say a few words of welcome to the new leader, who is succeeding Miss Eva Booth, as leader of the Army in Canada.

Brigadier Turner, on behalf of the Eastern Ontario Province, was the first to extend a welcome. He was glad to have the honour of being the first provincial officer, outside of Toronto, to welcome the Commissioner. The Commissioner was a man whose reputation had preceded him, and he would be welcomed because he was a converted man; because he had a passionate desire for the salvation of his fellows; because he was a Salvationist, and because he was an old comrade and friend, and was not a stranger to the town nor to the province. He had many commendable features and would receive the hearty support of every member of the Army.

Adjt. Jennings extended a welcome on behalf of the soldiers of Peterborough. There were some present who had known the Commissioner when he was here before, and in the old country, and all would rejoice in having such a capable leader for he believed that Commissioner Coombs had been divinely appointed by God.

Mr. D. W. Dumble was the next speaker. There were many names which shown out prominently in history, some for honour and some for dishonour. Among the names that Christians recognized as great men, were Luther, Knox, Wesley and Booth. The latter's work in connection with the Army would never die, and to-day it was being felt in all quarters of the globe. The influence of the Salvation Army was a great one in Peterborough, and Mr. Dumble wished the Commissioner every prosperity and success in his work.

On behalf of the clergy of the town, Rev. F. J. Scott extended a welcome to the Commissioner. He spoke of the great work which the Army was accomplishing, and expressed his great sympathy with the cause, and in so doing he felt he was only voicing the sentiments of all the churches in town, amongst which he was pleased to note that harmony existed.

Ald. McWilliams welcomed the Commissioner because of the great good which it was known that he and his men were doing. The Army had no reason to feel ashamed in its work, which was a great and glorious one. He hoped the time would soon come when denominationalism would be a thing of the past, and that all the churches, like the Army, would be working for the general salvation of mankind. He hoped that the Commissioner's work would be fruitful of success, and that the Army would be more prosperous than ever before.

Rev. William Bennett said he himself was a Salvationist and was in hearty sympathy with the Army's work. He expressed a warm welcome to the distinguished visitor.

Commissioner Coombs was very warmly received upon rising to speak. He thanked those present for the warm welcome accorded him. He was grateful to not only the officers representing the province and the district, but to the officers of the corps for their warm reception. He felt that he was not a stranger to this town and to the work of

FROM SATURDAY'S LAST EDITION

REPORTS ARE CONFLICTING.

American Cereal Company's Action Variously Attributed

C.P.R. Traffic Manager Tells Examiner the Freight Rates is not the Real Reason—The Cereal Company's Position Stated.

Some additional information with reference to the partial closing of the Peterborough mills of the American Cereal Works, announced at Friday's council meeting has been obtained from different sources.

Mr. Richards, the traffic manager of Company was out of town Saturday, having gone to Montreal, but another official was spoken to, and he confirmed the report that the mills were running now only to supply the domestic trade, and that no export business was being handled by the local mills at the present time.

The reason attributed for the cessation of the export trade was the fact that the expert rates imposed by the Canadian railways are such that the Canadian millers cannot supply export trade under the present conditions, and it was also learned that the prospects are that the mills will remain closed until the roads in Canada meet the trade conditions in this country and make the rates similar to those in the United States with reference to the freight rates on finished products in milled grain, which at present are higher than on raw material. The recent exports rates which were put into effect, have resulted, according to the local authorities, in the closing of the mills.

The Examiner's informant says that the rumour to the effect that the reason the mills are closed is on account of the difference in the price of oats in Canada and the United states, consequently upon the small crop in the former and the abundant crop in the latter country, is not true, and he points out that the Canadian oats are being export ed in competition with the American oats.

The Railways' Position.

The Examiner was in telephonic communication with the District Freight Traffic Manager of the C. P. R. in Toronto, and he states that the cause for the closing of the mills here was not with the freight rates, which he said were on the average no higher than in other years, after the increased export rates were put into effect in the fall.

He claimed that the mills were closed because oats in Canada were higher in price than in the United States, and that the export business, which in years when the grain was cheap here, was handled from this mill, was being thus year supplied from the Akron and Cedar Rapids mills.

He said that he could give no information on the subject of American freight rates versus Canadian, and could not say whether the latter gave the exporters as good rates or not.

DOWN TO DEATH IN RICE LAKE.

Mr. Wm. John Hall, South Monaghan, Meets Death by Drowning.

Returning Home on Skates He Went Through an Opening in Rice Lake Ice.

A distressing drowning accident took place in Rice Lake on Wednesday night by which a bright young man of South Monaghan, Mr. William John Hall, met an untimely end. Though the calamity befel so long ago it was not till Friday that the sad fact became a certainty.

The young man who is the eldest son of Mr. John William Hall, a prominent farmer of the township, who has filled the office of township treasurer for many years, left his home, south of Bemfort, on Wednesday last, for a visit to his brother-in-law, Mr. John Perrin, about two miles distant, and about three-quarters of a mile from Rice Lake. In the evening he decided to return home on skates, and set out for the return journey home, which he never reached. No thought of accident, however, was entertained till the next day. Mr. Perrin came to his father-in-law's Mr. Hall, when it was learned of his setting out to skate home, which he had failed to reach.

At once the conclusion was formed that he had met with accident. Search was at once instituted, but it was not till Friday that the fears entertained became a sad certainty. The body of the young man was found in ten feet of water, opposite Stony Point, Rice Lake, about two miles from his home. It appears that there is good skating on the lake and the pastime draws large numbers. It is thought that young Mr. Hall had skated too far out in the lake with the object of discovering one of the bon fires which are often lighted by skating parties. It appears that he went through a crack in the ice and was alone in the darkness vainly battling for his life in the chilling waters of the lake.

The deceased young man was 25 years of age and was a highly respected member of one of the most highly respected families of South Monaghan. The bereaved family will have, in their terrible bereavement, the sincere sympathy of the entire community.

The funeral took place from the family residence on Sunday at 2 o'clock.

HEAD-ON COLLISION

At Manvers Station Saturday Morning Delays Traffic

NO PEOPLE INJURED

The Engines and Several Cars Badly Wrecked—Brakes Refused to Work—Passenger Trains Delayed.

A bad railway accident occurred at Manvers station on Saturday at 8.55 o'clock, and as a result the traffic on the C. P. R. main line was obstructed for nearly four hours. The accident was caused by a head-on collision between two freight trains, but fortunately as one train was at a standstill, and the second one was moving but slowly, no fatal results attended the collision.

A heavy freight train, No. 1501, in charge of Conductor Dickey, was waiting at Manvers to pass an east-bound freight in charge of Conductor Abbs. As the east bound train approached the station, where there is a slight down grade, the brakes did not work properly, and as the rails were slippery, the train could not be brought to a standstill in time to avert a collision with No. 1501. The trains came together head on with a crash. The engines though badly disabled, were not thrown off the track, and the firemen and engineers were not injured. Four cars were derailed and badly shattered from the shock. Three of these cars were empty, while the fourth was filled with empty barrels, which were badly wrecked. There was no stock on either of the trains.

Word was at once sent to Havelock for the auxiliary wrick was soon on the scene of the accident, and the work of clearing the track was begun. After over three hours work the track was sufficiently free to allow trains to pass by means of a siding.

The 5.10 C.P.R. west-bound passenger train was delayed here until 9.30 o'clock this morning. There was a large number of passengers on board, and these were taken to several of the hotels in town for breakfast. The passengers on the 7.10 local were taken on the first train to their destination.

MUNICIPAL SLATE IN SOUTH MONAGHAN

Mr. Reeve Buckham Retires, Mr. W. R. Morrison is a Candidate.

The situation in South Monaghan is at present this: Mr. John Buckham, who has for several years been one of the best reeves the township ever had, will retire from the reeveship at the conclusion of the present term.

In view of this Mr. W. R. Morrison, who was a member of the council some years ago, has announced his intention of offering himself as a candidate. It is said that there is a possibility of opposition being forthcoming in the person of Mr. J. W. Dawson, who has been a member of the council, being reeve for one year.

It is understood that the old council will seek re-election. The present council is composed of Messrs. Wm. Robinson, Jas. Lang, Jas. Jackson and Harry Dawson.

Was Not Able To Walk For Three Months.

Was Given Up to Die. The Doctor Said So.

Burdock Blood Bitters

Saved Her Life.

Read what Mrs. Wm. Castilloux, Newport, Quebec, has to say about Burdock Blood Bitters:—"Last December I fell very sick after confinement. I was not able to walk for three months, and was given up to die by the doctor. My husband read of the many wonderful cures made by Burdock Blood Bitters, so procured me two bottles. After using it for about ten days, I was able to get around, and could mind my baby without help from anyone, and am now well, and able to do my own work. I told a lady friend of mine who was troubled in the same way, and she used it with equal success. I cannot too highly recommend your medicine, for I know just how good it is, and hope and wish that anyone suffering as I did will give it a trial."

Enjoins Navy Scheme.

London, Dec. 12.—The Admiralty has issued a circular to all naval commanders, explaining Lord Selborne's scheme, which becomes effective on Jan. 1, and detailing the organization of warships of the reserve. Each ship on the war list not in commission at sea will be kept commissioned in the reserve, and have a nucleus crew comprising all the important officers and two-fifths of the war crew, including all experts in torpedo and gunnar ratings. The reserve ships will be distributed between three home ports, and provision will be made for surplus crews in barracks to enable six battleships or first-class cruisers to be fully commissioned on emergency without dislocating the general mobilization arrangement.

Workmen Run to Escape Dynamite Explosion, But Rock Rises 200 Feet Away Catches Two of Them.

Halifax, Dec. 12.—A dynamite explosion on Saturday at Lockport, on Mackenzie and Mann's construction work, killed two men and seriously injured a third. The dead are: Mark Day of Lockport, and a man named McFadden of Port Hastings, C.B. The injured man is Ernest Blades. The circumstances are peculiar. The men were warned and retired to what they considered a safe distance, more than 700 feet away. The blast was then discharged and the group of men were startled to see a stone flying in their direction. They started to run, but an instant later the mass of rock struck McFadden in the back, and glancing, struck Day on the legs, completely severing one leg and mangling the other. Both men died in a couple of hours. Blades lies in a precarious condition.

Bronchitis Grows Chronic

AND RETURNS YEAR AFTER YEAR OR DEVELOPS INTO ASTHMA OR CONSUMPTION. CURE IS

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

Bronchitis is too serious a disease to trifle with.

Children are most likely to contract bronchitis, and, if neglected, it becomes chronic and returns year after year until it wears the patient out or develops into some deadly lung disease.

Chills and fever, nasal or throat catarrh, quick pulse, loss of appetite and feelings of fatigue and langour are among the first symptoms.

The cough is dry and harsh. There are pains in the chest which are aggravated by deep breathing and coughing. Expectoration is of a frothy nature, stringy, tenacious and sometimes streaked with blood.

Pains in the limbs or joints and extreme depression and weakness result from continuation of the disease.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is, we believe, the most effective treatment for bronchitis that money will buy.

It is the most effective treatment for bronchitis because it is so far-reaching in its effect on the whole system, not only loosening the hard, dry cough, but actually and thoroughly curing the disease so that it does not return.

Mrs. George Budden, Putnamville, Ont., says:—"I feel it my duty to recommend Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as I had the asthma very bad; could get nothing to do me any good. A friend of mine persuaded me to try this remedy, as he had it and it proved successful. I tried it and it cured me; I am thankful to-day to say I am a well woman through the use of this remedy. I keep it in the house all the time and would not be without it."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 35 cents a bottle; family size, three times as much, 60 cents, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.—13.

CHAPTER I.

THE evidence was all in. The speeches had been made on both sides of the case, and the attorney for the state had grown severe and eloquent in urging conviction. The jury had remained in retirement all the morning and at last had filed in and rendered their verdict. David Buckley, the prisoner at the bar, was found guilty of having deliberately and in the night stolen a bale of cotton from a neighbor's barn, branded it as his own and taken it to market the next day.

He was a short, thickset man near the age of sixty—gray, stiff haired and sullen faced, and just now more angry, it was thought, at certain neighbors who had testified against him than chagrined at the verdict of the court. He glanced at his wife, who sat against the railing behind him, and then stared steadily at the floor till the sheriff came and led him back to jail.

Later in the afternoon he was brought back to receive his sentence. The judge, a tall, powerful man, dark of hair and eye and as brown as a Spaniard, was about to order him to stand up when Hiram Hillyer, a well to do cotton and grain merchant of the town, rose and begged permission to speak to the judge in private before the prisoner was sentenced.

"Well, I reckon we've got time, Mr. Hillyer," the judge said pleasantly. "If it's anything in Buckley's favor I'd like to hear it. I've been on the bench seven years, and I don't think I ever had a man before me that was painted as black by his neighbors."

Making his way through the cluster of lawyers and students of the law around the stove to one of the vacant jury rooms, the merchant waited for the judge to join him, and when he came Hillyer, nervously pulling at his short, gray beard, faced him, an eager look in his mild blue eyes.

"I'm afeard it ain't nothin' in the old man's favor, Judge Moore," he faltered. "The truth is, I'm a-thinkin' about his son. Judge, ef thar ever was a finer, more honest an' upright boy than George Buckley, I hain't never run across 'im."

"Oh, you can't tell me anything about George," said Judge Moore. "He and I are friends. He voted for me and logged for me in the Upper Tenth district. Ah, so he sent you to me, did he? Well, what does George want? I was glad he wasn't in court to hear all that stuff against his daddy."

"You see, we thought—me'n' George both thought that maybe you mought—justice mought be carried out by imposin' a pretty heavy fine, an' "—

"Old Buckley isn't able to pay a cent," broke in the judge. "I've made inquiries, and if his little farm is sold it will leave his old wife without any means of making a support. No, the jig's up with him."

"But George's been savin' money for the last five years," said Hillyer anxiously. "I've got it borrowed from 'im at regular rates. I can lay my hands on the money at a moment's notice. Yes, he can raise a reasonable amount all right."

Judge Moore frowned, thrust his hands into the pockets of his trousers and turned to a window which looked out on the courtyard, where a few idlers lay on the grass near the hitching rack.

"I'm not going to be the medium through which deserving innocent people suffer for the guilty," he said firmly. "I've thought it all over. I was afraid George might ask this, but it's no go. I've made up my mind on that score."

"Oh, judge, don't say that!" pleaded Hillyer. "The boy simply can't bear it. You see, Judge Moore, since I tuck 'im an' sent 'im off to school he's been sorter away from his home, an' the feller's got so much feelin' as anybody else. Then when he got through college an' I give 'im a place in my business he's stood with the best folks in the town, an' it would go hard with 'im—to have his own daddy at the coal mines."

"I know all that, Mr. Hillyer. I've thought of it twenty times during this trial. I hardly slept last night trying to make up my mind what to do in case the jury didn't recommend Buckley to mercy. Well, they came down on 'im like a load of bricks, an' I'm not going to let George suffer for him. Why, the old rascal can't be cured of his dishonesty. Didn't you hear what Bradley said about his constantly stealing from his neighbors, many of whom never made any charge against him out of respect for Mrs. Buckley and George? No, sir; his son, who is my friend, shall not sacrifice his savings for him."

"Then I'll pay it, judge; you know I am able."

"You shan't do that, either," said the judge firmly. "Even if I'd consent to let an old a man as you be out of pocket for such a hopeless reprobate, George would find it out and insist on repaying you in the long run. No; five years in the mines will do the old scamp good, and I'm going to secure his transportation."

"You think that's final then, judge?" Hillyer had turned quite pale, and the quivering hand which had clutched his beard stayed itself in its downward progress.

"Yes, that's final, Mr. Hillyer. I wish I could help you, but I can't. I'll settle Buckley's hash in about two minutes after I give him a sound lecture. Right now the old devil would cut the throats of several of the state's witnesses if he was at liberty."

"Then I'll go back to the store an' tell the boy," Hillyer sighed as he moved to the door, a dead look of disappointment in his eye.

As Hillyer was making his way through the courtroom to the outer door the wife of the condemned man reached out her hand and stopped him. She had clutched the tail of his long frock coat.

"I want to speak to you," she said. "Go ahead. I'm goin' outside." He led the way down the stairs to the yard below and then paused to hear what she had to say.

"I need you inside the judge seat," she began. "I suspicioned you axed 'im to make it a fine."

"Yes, that's what I called 'im out fer, Mrs. Buckley," the merchant said, looking down commiserately on her fat figure clothed in dingy black calico, "but it wasn't a bit o' use. He's made up his mind to send the old man off for five years."

The woman nodded slowly. "Well, I reckon it's as good as we kin expect," she said. "If it had been a fine, George would 'a' had to pay it, an' I'm agin that proposition. He's worked hard to make his little start, an' it ain't right fer 'im to have to give it up when—Mr. Hillyer, I've heard that pore boy beg an' beg his pa to change, an' of he's predicted this thing once he has fifty times."

"I knew that, too," replied the merchant, with a dark frown. "But George is jest so situated right now, Mrs. Buckley, that he'd sacrifice all he expects to make in the next ten years to avoid the disgrace o' the sentence. He holds his own with the biggest folks in town, an' this is simply awful. You know how some o' these blue-blooded families look on a thing like this."

"Jest about as sensible as they look on most things," retorted Mrs. Buckley philosophically, "an' I don't see no use in humorin' 'em. They may know a man's a thief, but of he hain't publicly branded they don't care. But David has broke the law; thar ain't no change to be made in 'im, an' I'm agin lettin' it hamper George, no matter what these shallow minded aristocrats think. What's botherin' me is another thing."

"You say it is, Mrs. Buckley?" And the merchant glared expectantly.

"Yes, Mr. Hillyer. George hain't got but one weakness, an' that is, once in a long while, when he is in despair, he will take a drink to drown his trouble. I reckon he hain't tetched a drap but once since he's been with you."

"An' that was the time they threatened to jail pore husband for pennin' up Wilson's hogs, an' we succeeded in squashin' the charge."

"Yes, that was the time"—the old woman pushed back her gingham poke bonnet and looked straight into Hillyer's eyes—"an' I am anxious to find out of this thing has made him"—

"Not yet, Mrs. Buckley." Hillyer's voice had fallen very low; it was almost highy. "But I've been that afeard it would start 'im off that I hain't been able to sleep at night. He'n is a awful state o' mind, Mrs. Buckley, sh' when I go back an' tell 'im the judge's decision I don't know what he'll do. A fine piece o' metal will bend jest so fur an' then it'll break."

The old woman nodded again slowly and then said: "Well, I'll go back inside. This is a new wrinkle on me. It's considered right an' proper for folks to go to the grave with the'r kin, an' I reckon thar ud be talk of I shirked hearin' the sentence, but tell George I'll come down to the store after awhile."

"All right, Mrs. Buckley. I'll tell 'im."

As Hillyer turned toward the gate to reach the little street which stretched out, lined with cottages and brick law offices, to the red brick freight depot at the far end, one of the loungers on the grass rose and slouched toward him.

"Have they sentenced Buckley yet?" he asked. "I'm a witness on that barn burnin' case, an' of it ain't a-goin' to be called tonight I'm a-goin' home."

"It's next on the docket," the merchant informed him.

The man had another question ready. "What's cotton bringin' today?" he asked. "I've got a big white bale ready for the gin."

"Seven and three-eighths," answered Hillyer, and he walked on. On the main thoroughfare of the town he had to pass several brick stores where the clerks and merchants stood amid the bales of their wares on the narrow brick sidewalks, and many of them asked about the Buckley trial. Hillyer made short but considerate replies and hastened past. On a corner of one of the streets running back to a railroad sidetrack, in the rear, stood his warehouse. Here he found his negro porter busy with rattling floor trucks loading a box car with bags of grain. The office was a commodious room cut off at one of the corners of the big brick building next to the street. It contained a long walnut counter full of drawers, with shelves overhead for old ledgers, commercial reports, dusty letter files and wired bunches of bills, receipts and canceled bank checks.

George Buckley, a handsome, dark eyed young man of twenty-seven or eight, sat on a high stool writing in a ponderous ledger. Turning his head and seeing who it was, he removed his heels from the rung of the stool and turned round. There was a steady stare in his eyes as he fixed them on Hillyer's sympathetic, almost shrinking face.

"You did not succeed," he said, his lips tightening.

"No; he'd already made up his mind, George," replied the merchant.

George Buckley turned suddenly and bent over his ledger and took up his pen, but he did not dip it in the inkstand. Hillyer could not see his face, but he noted that the hand holding the pen was quivering. Suddenly Buckley laid the pen down, and Hillyer heard something resembling a sob or a gasp escape him, then the young man stood down on the floor and reached for his coat and pulled it on. He was deathly pale, his eyes were flashing strangely.

"George, where are you going?" The old man caught his arm, but Buckley wrenched it from his grasp.

"Let me alone, Mr. Hillyer," said he. "For God's sake, let me alone!"

"All right, George; I was jest about"— But his words fell dead on the air, for Buckley had taken his hat, pulled it on, and plunged out at the door. For a moment the merchant stood like a man turned to stone, and then he hurried back over the rough floor through the warehouse to the negro, a tall, middle aged man.

"Jake," he said excitedly, unable to control his voice, "drop yore work an' run after George. Don't let 'im see you, but come back and tell me where he goes."

"All right, Marse Hillyer," and, leaving his trucks, the negro hastened out at the side door of the building and sped up the street. Hillyer went back into the office and sat down at his private desk. Once he lowered his head to his crossed arms and it looked as if he were praying. In a few minutes Jake returned, swinging his slouch hat in his hand.

"Well?" gasped Hillyer—"well?"

"He went fust to de postoffice, Marse Hillyer, but he didn't put no letter in nur walk to git any. It looked to me like he didn't know whar he was goin' ur what fer. Den he come on down by Hillhouse's bar. He stopped dar an' looked in, den he come on slow like an' stopped ag'in. Den he turned an' walked back an' went in. I went round to de back end an watched. He was at de counter pourin' him out a dram, Marse Hillyer."

"You say he was, Jake?" said the merchant. "Jake, in the mornin' I want you to truck all that western wheat over on the other side. It's too damp where it is."

"All right, Marse Hillyer."

A moment after the negro had left the office George Buckley came in and resumed his seat at the counter. He opened the big ledger, dipped his pen and began to write. Hillyer watched him cautiously. His hand seemed steady enough, but his cheeks were flushed and his hair dishevelled over his brow. Just then Mrs. Buckley came into the office. She took off her bonnet, showing smooth, gray hair and a deeply wrinkled brow and cheeks, and stood for a moment behind her son. Hillyer fancied that their conversation might be of a private nature, and, taking up a grain sampler, he left the room. The sound of his heavy boots drew George Buckley's attention, and looking round he saw his mother. Her sympathetic eyes fell beneath his wild glare.

"He's in a awful state o' mind, Mrs. Buckley."

"I reckon Mr. Hillyer's already told you," she began.

"Yes, he's told me."

"Well, thar ain't but one thing for sensible folks to do," faltered the woman, "an' that's to make the best of it an' go on tryin' to do our own duty."

"Yes," he nodded vacantly, "you are right, mother. Are you going home tonight?"

"No. I 'lowed it ud look more respectful to stay till they tuck 'im off in the mornin'. The sheriff's wife axed me to spend the night with her in the jail house, so I could be nigh 'im."

In recovering from "grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fevers, or other exhausting diseases, nothing can equal it as an appetizing, restorative tonic to build up needed flesh and strength. It rouses every organ into natural action, promotes all the bodily functions, and restores health and vigor.

For every disease that comes from foul or Weak Stomach, a torpid Liver or Impure Blood, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, and the most stubborn Skin, Scalp, or Scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. Don't be hypnotized, wheedled, or over persuaded into accepting a substitute only that some selfish medicine seller may make a greater profit on the inferior article. The "Discovery" has a great record of nearly forty years with thousands of cures behind it.

Dear Sir—Several years ago my blood became impoverished and I became run down in health. I had no appetite, could not sleep, and was practically unfitted for work. I suffered from unbearable boils and was in bad shape. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery soon put me in excellent condition. The medicine built up my system and restored me to perfect health. I can recommend most highly also, of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as it has been used in my family for years in cases of female trouble.

The hockey boys had their first practice of the season at the Brock street rink on Saturday night. The ice was in fairly good shape and the players had a good hour's workout. Many of the junior players showed increased speed and will figure prominently in the game this year. Among those out to practice were Crowley, Meagher, Graham, Shaw, Hamilton, McFarlane, Hall, Cameron, Parnell, Kingscote, Ford, Fitzpatrick, Ferguson.

METHODIST CHURCH MISSIONARY SERVICES

Anniversary Services in Connection with the George Street and Charlotte Street Churches.

Rev. Dr. Antliff, of Kingston, and Rev. George Bond, of Toronto, Preached to Large Congregations.

Some Facts Regarding the State of the Work—Both Speakers Gave Eloquent Discourses.

Some interesting facts concerning missions were given yesterday in the the two Methodist Churches in town, in which missionary anniversary sermons were preached by Rev. G. J. Bond, B.A., of Toronto, editor of the Christian Guardian, and Rev. Dr. Antliff, of Kingston, the preachers alternating in the services, the former preaching in Gaorge street church in the morning, and in Charlotte street at the evening service.

That the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church in Canada is an important adjunct to the church is proven by the fact that the income of that Society last year was $343,335, and of this, George street church contributed $741, and Charlotte street $486, the whole amount being made up of:—Subscriptions $212,380; Juvenile offerings, $25,370; Epworth Leagues, $33,666; Legacies, $23,075; Indian Department, $47,017; sundries, $2,374. The funds of the Society are devoted to the maintenance of 521 missionaries. There are in connection with this church 402 missionaries, 117 assistants, 45 teachers and 10 interpreters, and in Japan alone during last year there were reported 217 Christian baptisms, and the membership of the church was increased by 144, the total membership in that country now being 3,766.

In China the work is being carried on by the Canadian Methodist church in a territory with a population of about 9,000,000, among whom eleven missionaries are working.

The greatest growth in missionary work has been evidenced in the Canadian North-west, where last year the membership was increased by 2,680 persons, and one of the striking instances of this rapid growth is furnished from Battleford, where, when the missionary went, there was one church member to greet him, but after one year's work he reported a membership of 100.

A mission to foreigners has also been established in Winnipeg, and is meeting with good success.

Rev. Dr. Antliff's sermon in George street church last night was an orthodox missionary sermon, in which the aims of the church in the prosecution of missionary work, and the principles and doctrines underlying the work were enlarged upon. The aim of the church in doing mission work was not to civilize the heathen, nor to educate them. These are good aims, but they are not the best. In Ontario a high estimate is placed on the value of education, and he believed in it, but this is not the aim of the church, neither is it to promote trade and commerce. To Christianise the countries is the great aim, and in Christian song them the civilization, education and commercial progress are bound to follow.

There are, said the reverend doctor, certain principles and doctrines underlying this object, the first of which is the fact that the world needs the regeneration of the Gospel, and the second is that redemption has been secured for all men. This is one of the great tenets of our faith; Jesus Christ has purchased the redemption of every man, and the third principle is that the Gospel is adapted to all, and is the only religion of which this can be said. All the ethical religions travel in zones and are adapted only to local conditions, whereas Christianity is found to suit everyone.

Then there are certain principles involved, one of which is the fact that we are responsible for the welfare of others, which is the first principle of Christianity.

Christ's command was to proclaim the Gospel, first at home, and afterwards to the world.

The speaker said that he sometimes smiled when he heard people speak of Apostolic succession, and he wondered if they had the apostolic spirit. He was sure the Methodist Church had the Apostolic succession because they had the apostolic spirit which was that of first preaching the Gospel at home, and afterwards to the world. He warned the church, however, that while they were Christianising the heathen, they must not heathenize the Christian, by not spending enough time and money on the home missions. But while charity begins at home it must not stay there or it will die of consumption.

Speaking of the method of operation of the church he said it was to send the living man with the living word in the power of the living God.

—A report of the services in the Charlotte street church will be published to-morrow.

the Army here. He had considerable to do with the erection of the building in which the service was being held, and he was glad to get back into it again. It was nearly 21 years ago that he received his commission to come to Canada and pioneer the work here, and during his stay of five and a half years there were few places of any size in the Dominion that he did not visit. He esteemed it an honour to have a part in the early struggles of the Army in Canada. The people took a firm hold upon his heart then and when he recently received instructions to return, it was with feelings of joy.

Since being here last he had been in command of the Salvation Army in the Australasian Colonies, and he was glad to say that the work there was a mighty one, and the Army stood high in the estimation of the good and true men of the country. It had not only gripped the great mass of the population, but the governing class as well was affected. So great a hold had the Army secured that over $100,000 was contributed to its support yearly by the Municipal, Provincial and Federal Governments, and after eight and a half years of work there he was made British Commissioner, having under his direction the work in England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. The powerful force of the Army in the old land was much felt and never in the existence of the movement was better work being done than at the present.

The Salvation Army had been in existence in some form or other for 60 years. It took a long time to lay the foundation but it was well and truly laid. Just twenty-nine years ago the speaker when a young man, went to an Army meeting and was converted. It was just twenty-seven and a half years ago since he became an officer and since then he had passed through all the grades from a convert to his present position. The more he knew of the Army, the more he admired and loved it, and he was the more devoted and determined to push forward the work. When he became an officer there were about thirty officers in the Army as compared with 1600 at the present time.

The Commissioner was glad to get back to this great and growing country. He was glad to return to Peterborough for there seemed to be some go and snap about the town. He had seen enough of it to recognize this fact. There had been a great improvement during the past 15 years and it was now likely to rank among the great cities of the Dominion. He was glad that there was a good, live Army Corps in the town and hoped it would continue to enjoy prosperity.

The Salvation Army should not be judged by the noise of the drum or any peculiarities that might be noticed in any of the members. The work was seen in the conversion of souls to Christ, the relief of the oppressed, the comfort to the fatherless and the widow, the message to those confined in prison walls, and in other ways. Every day the Army was being more respected and honoured for its work and more liberally supported by the public generally.

The Commissioner was indeed glad to return to Canada. His wife, two daughters, who were officers, and a son who would soon be an officer, were with him, while another one of the children was an officer in England. He had found the people here with bigger and more generous hearts than ever.

The Commissioner was prepared to exert every power he possessed for the good of the Army, which was the grandest, best and noblest organization on God's earth, he believed. In the 25 years that it had had a permanent form, it had extended its agencies far and wide and a glorious work for Christ was being accomplished. He encouraged those present to take fresh hope, assuring them that God would abundantly bless their efforts. He made an earnest exhortation for all who had not accepted Christ to do so at the meeting.

EVENING MEETING.

While the afternoon meeting was almost entirely devoted to giving the new Commissioner, a genuine Canadian welcome, that of the evening was of an evangelistic nature. The barracks was again filled to the doors, and the enthusiasm which had marked the preceding meetings of the series was again displayed. In fact before the gathering dispersed the religious fervour and zeal for the salvation of the unsaved was strongly reminiscent of former days. After the usual opening ceremonies, and a number of well-played selections by the band, Commissioner Coombs gave an address on the cleansing of the leper by our Lord, and his pointed remarks and well-directed thrusts at the unconverted had the desired effect. Over thirty towards the close of the service expressed a desire to lead a better life, and sought salvation at the penitent form.

ELECTION DAY JANUARY 25TH

Ontario Nominations to be Made One Week Earlier.—Legislature is Dissolved—Electors of Ontario Again Appealed to—Lieutenant-Governor Authorizes The Dissolution of The Assembly—The Effect of the Act of Last Session—Premier Will Open Campaign Next Week.

Toronto, Dec. 13.—The Ontario Legislative Assembly is dissolved. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor yesterday assented to dissolution and signed the necessary papers. The election for the new House will take place on Wednesday, January 25th, and the nominations one week earlier, January 18th.

Act of Last Session.

Owing to legislation at the last session, writs for bye-elections were to issue within three months from the date at which any seat was vacated for any cause. North Perth was vacated on September 6th, and the time for the issue of the writ expired on December 6th, although the notice to the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly was not received until September 15th. On the vacation of a seat the statute provides that the writs should, after the specified limitation, issue forthwith. There was some difference of opinion as to whether the writ should issue within three months from the date at which the seat was actually vacated, or from the time at which the Clerk received notice of the judgment of the trial Judges. The Government, not anxious to use the extreme limit of time on account of this doubt, has dissolved the Assembly. It is understood the writs will be dated December 29th.

Premier Ross Will Tour.

The campaign will open next week, when it is the intention of the Premier to commence a tour, during which he will address public meetings in a number of the constituencies.

The last general election for the Province was held on May 29, 1902, and the first session of the tenth Parliament of Ontario opened on March 10 of the following year.

Last year the session started on January 14, and prorogation took place on April 26. Under the British must assemble within one year of the date of the previous prorogation, but there is no fixed day within the period named for such an event. Therefore, the next Legislative session will be within the meaning of the act if it is commenced before April 26 next.

Only one other Provincial Parliament dissolved before running its natural course; that was the one which commenced its first session on January 28, 1884, and dissolved on March 25, 1886.

Local Merchants Complain of Theft of Goods.

Parents are Warned to Watch Their Boys—Some Specific Instances.

While this is the season of the year when the merchants like to get rid of their stacks of goods, there are some complaints being made that some of the leading stores in town are having their stocks reduced at a more rapid rate than the amount of cash in the till would indicate. In other words shop-lifters are reported to be operating in town. Some specific instances of the work of this light-fingered gentry are quoted, and it is learned that the operations are not confined to one store alone, but that a number have suffered in this respect, and it may be mentioned here that the local merchants have decided upon taking prompt and effective means of putting a stop to the practice. The Examiner was informed that a George street merchant had a bundle of hockey sticks standing at the front of his store when a boy who should, and did know better, came along and cut the string holding the bundle together. He was followed in a few seconds by a companion who extracted a stick from the bunch and shortly afterwards by another who followed his example, and still another, who did likewise, and it is hard to say how long the operation would have continued had not the theft been discovered, and the property removed inside the store.

Another case is reported of a valuable fountain pen being stolen from another store, and the dry goods merchants are finding themselves minus a number of small, but in some cases valuable articles.

A warning to parents in this particular may not be amiss. Those who find that their boys have hockey sticks, for instance, for the purchase of which they have not supplied the means, should make enquiries and find out if they got them by honest means, on failing to do this these parents may have the doubtful pleasure of defending their sporting offspring in the Police Court.

The local stores have decided that this practice has been going on long enough, and some exposures are likely to follow any further transgression of the law.

RINK OPENING WAS SUCCESSFUL

A Good Crowd at Brock Street Rink Last Night.

Last night the Brock street rink opened for the season with good ice, good music and a good crowd, and the prospects for a successful season are excellent. The caretaker was many golden opinions for his quick work in getting such good ice. It was just a week yesterday that the whole rink was given its first flooding and to have made ice in a week is a record to be proud of.

The band of the 57th Regiment gave a good programme of music, and the hundreds who were on the ice were highly pleased with it.

Skating will be given every night in the week except Thursday.

MUSICAL TREAT APPRECIATED

Gentlemen who Arranged Last Night's Concert Entitled to Thanks.

The concert given last night by the Meister Quartette, and assisting artists, afforded the music lovers of Peterborough an opportunity of enjoying a treat, concerning the quality of which there is no dissenting voice, among those who were present, and it was remarked by many that it was one of the best, if not absolutely so, that has ever been heard in Peterborough. The two gentlemen who were instrumental in bringing this company here did so not with the object of reaping any particular monetary benefits, and Messrs. H. M. Glover and Walter Stocker, who arranged for the concert, are entitled to the thanks of the music-loving people of Peterborough.

NORTH GREY TRIAL ENDS

Protest Against Hon. A. G. Mackay Was Dismissed.

Notice of Dissolution Causes Trial to Concluded.

Special to the Examiner

Owen Sound, Ont., Dec. 13. — The North Grey election trial came to an end this morning after a legal battle between the opposing council of over an hour, as to whether the telegram which announced the dissolution of Legislature was strict legal evidence, and many quotations from legal records that the enquiry should go on. Their Lordships decided that dissolution puts an end to these proceedings.

AMENDMENTS WOULD IMPROVE MATTERS

Mr Bengough's Views on Temperance Question.

When Mr. J. W. Bengough was in Peterborough last week he gave the Examiner an interview in the course of which he made some reference to the workings of the Scott Act in the towns and cities in Nova Scotia. Rev. J. G. Potter, who is a personal friend of Mr. Bengough, wrote to that gentleman after he had read the interview, expressing surprise that he should have given utterance to the words credited to him. To this Mr. Bengough replies as follows:—

Toronto, Dec. 10, '04.

Rev. James G. Potter,
Peterborough,

Dear Sir,—I have not seen the interview as published and do not know how accurately I have been reported. You will, I am sure, believe that it was not any part of my intention to protect the liquor traffic in my remarks. The moral I drew from the condition of things in Scott Act localities in N.S. was that the public must be educated up, not merely to voting for local prohibition but to the earnest enforcement of the law, which seems to be quite a different thing. My belief is that if the proposed amendments to the present law are secured—the cancellation of license for a second offence, etc., etc.,—it will greatly improve the situation. I was saddened by the condition of affairs in the Maritime Provinces and expressed that feeling in the interview. But it must be remembered that I was speaking entirely with reference to towns and cities. I should think strict enforcement would be easier in rural districts in any case, and I am not sure that even a violated Scott Act is not better for the rising generation than legalised bars.

Yours truly,
J. W. BENGOUGH.

WHERE DID THE MONEY COME FROM?

Where did the money come from? This certainly is a pertinent question in connection with the facts published in another column connected with the sale of La Presse newspaper. Here we have a full million paid for the purchase of an independent newspaper, in order to gain control of it, so that it could be turned against the Liberal Government. What are the motives behind this lavish outpour of money, is a fair companion question to the question of where the money came from. The money was not to be used to gain a journal simply for the mere sake of owning it. If a million was available to buy a newspaper to be used for smashing the Government, there must have been some strong motive, and strong interests, behind the transaction. And there is no room for doubt that that motive was to crush the Liberal Government by crooked methods. Who furnished the money? How was its investment to be made financially, as well as politically, profitable? One thing follows the other. If the plot succeeded in destroying the Government, then its railway policy would be reversed, and Mr. Borden's policy would have a chance — that of building the transcontinental line by the Government that would be formed on the ruins of the Laurier Government. A scheme of government construction of a transcontinental railway arrived at by crooked means, would naturally and inevitably be carried out crookedly. The "grafter" would have a tremendous chance to ply his arts, and the milking of contracts could be easily employed to get the money to cover the expenditure of the million used to overthrow the Government. A beautiful scheme to bring the Conservative party into power! Where did the money come from?

MAKE BEST USE OF OUR TALENTS.

Rev. G. Bond's Sermon Last Sunday Evening.

Preached Missionary Sermon at the Charlotte Street Church.

Missionary anniversary services were held Sunday in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church and were attended by large congregations. Two well known ministers of the church were present and presented the claims of the great missionary cause in a forcible manner. In the morning Rev. Dr. Antliff, of Kingston, preached a beautiful sermon at the outset of which he gave a few facts and figures with reference to the work at home and abroad, and the success which was being experienced.

In the evening Rev. George Bond, B.A., of Toronto, editor of the Christian Guardian, preached a thoughtful sermon from the text, "How many loaves have ye, go and see." The speaker outlined the circumstances under which the words of the text were used by the Saviour. In those days the Saviour looked after the needs and wants of His disciples and He still did not forget His people. It was God's way to make use of human agencies as far as possible and to supplement these agencies with Divine power in working out the salvation of men. Christ looked upon the hungry multitude and had compassion on them and supplied their bodily wants. He could have performed the miracle of feeding the multitude without first asking "How many loaves have ye," and of making use of the few loaves and fishes which were provided but He desired that human agency should be first used as far as possible. The question comes to each one of us "How many loaves have ye," or how many possibilities are there for us to reach our fellow men for good. The world was full of opportunities for doing Christian work and we would be responsible for neglecting to take advantage of the opportunities which lie in our pathway to do good to those about us.

Consecration to Christ, meant consecration to men; there was no such thing as the former except through the latter. We could serve God only by serving men. The only thing He recognizes as service to Him is in doing good, as far as we may, to our fellow men. Christianity was the divine plan of making good men, and of making men to lead a life after that of Christ, whose life was perfect. Christ's biography was well expressed in the words of one of His disciples, "He went about doing good."

We all had certain talents and possibilities, and we were responsible for the proper use of them. If we would put our talents in God's hand they would be multiplied a thousand fold. If the power of the Church was only in God's hands the world would soon be won for Christ. The speaker in closing exhorted all to ask themselves "How many loaves have ye?" and to make the best use of the talents God had given them for the betterment of mankind and the salvation of the world.

The music at both services was of a very enjoyable character. The morning anthem, "O Come, let us Worship," was given an effective rendition, the soprano solo being taken by Miss Bellegham. During the offertory Mr. Joe. Browne sang very acceptably "The Two Cities." The evening anthem, "Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem," was sung in a spirited manner, the tenor solo being taken by Mr. S. Mitchell. Miss Bellegham sang in clear voice, "Angels ever Bright and Fair," and during the offertory Mr. R. N. Jolliffe sang "The Ninety and Nine."

COLLISION BETWEEN BICYCLIST AND TEAM

Young Man Trampled Under the Feet of the Horses.

What might have been a very serious accident occurred in front of Mrs. F. J. Tate's residence on Tuesday last. A young man named Montgomery, employed at dam No. 5, was riding on his bicycle when he collided with Mr. G. G. Haedren's team, with the result that he was knocked off the wheel and was trampled on by the horses. He was picked up unconscious and Dr. J. R. Fraser summoned. On examination it was found that the young man had suffered no internal injuries, but received a number of bad bruises and his face was severely cut, several stitches having to be put in.—Lakefield News.

THE STORY OF THE MONTREAL CONSPIRACY

Initial Move Was the Purchase of La Presse Newspaper.

A Transaction Involving Over a Million Dollars—Based on an Immoral Agreement—What Were the Objects of the Conspirators?—How They Brazenly Denied Their Action—The Truth Comes Out—More Remains Behind—Where did the Money Come From?

Montreal, Dec. 10. — Everything is not known about the Montreal conspiracy, but enough is known to stamp it as a highly discreditable and corrupt plot to beat the Government, hatched by men whose aims in the main were not political but personal and selfish, in the worst meanings of these words. There is a kind of political partizan who is prepared to go great lengths for the triumph of his party. He will contribute his money, shout himself hoarse, canvass, man the polling booths, and do almost anything for the triumph of his side; but he does so without any ulterior objects of hopes of profit, or if he has such hopes they do not extend farther than having some benefit of the party patronage, or in its distribution. There is another type of man who strives for the success of a party, mainly for the gain that may be in it for him. His givings to the party funds or for party purposes are much larger in proportion to his means than any man would give who was merely prompted by party zeal. His givings are so evidently but the bait by which he hopes to hook some fish of ten times greater value that he may well be regarded as a gentleman who is in politics for what there is in it for the boy.

THEY DID NOT LIKE IT.

To this class of practical politicians, the Government's railway policy could not fail to be distasteful. When the Government was confronted with the necessity for extending public aid towards the construction of a second transcontinental railway an uppermost thought in the mind of Sir Wilfrid Laurier was very evidently how it could best be carried out in a clean, creditable and advantageous manner. The story of such public works has been a checkered one. Canada's first transcontinental railway was inaugurated by a scandal that has become historic. It was quite apparently Sir Wilfrid's ambition that this second one should be carried out so that it would always remain a monument to his large sagacity as an administrator and the purity of his ideals as a public man. It was undoubtedly his aspirations in this direction that induced him to hold the negotiations in his own hands and inclined him to favour the association of the interests of a private company in the construction and operation of the Government section of the railway. The conditions of the bargain made it vitally important to the private company as well as to the Government that the railway should be constructed free from scandal and as economically as was consistent with the building of a road of the highest order in every respect. Before vanality and corruption could have their way two interests would have to be chloroformed, namely, the public interests and the private interests.

NOTHING FOR CAMP FOLLOWERS.

Such an arrangement could hold out but little hopes to the camp-followers, who otherwise would have scented out a Government expenditure of $75,000,000 with unctuous anticipations. From their point of view Sir Wilfrid Laurier's plans were most objectionable. Mr. Borden's programme was far more enticing. It is true that Mr. Borden talked of constructing through a commission. But a commission is a Government-made thing, a partizan body, and is not likely to have a higher standing or promise a greater guarantee of probity and efficiency than those who create it. The only thing in which a commission is sure to excel the Government which creates it is in the matter of time for attention to the business in hand. Certainly a commission alone could not be as complete a defense against improper influences as a commission plus the jealous oversight and vigilance of private interest. It was clearly in the interest of any person or persons who had ulterior designs in relation to the great enterprise which Canada was undertaking to overthrow the Government, together with its railway-building policy, which promised so few succulent tit-bits for esurient personages.

In order to comprehend much of the story which follows it must be borne in mind that the Conservative campaign for the last three elections has been largely managed from Montreal. In 1896 Mr. Hugh Graham of the Montreal Star enrolled himself under Sir Charles Tupper's banner. The Star had made some pretences to independence, but in the 1896 election such pretences were thrown to the winds, and it has figured undisguisedly as one of the most intemperate, not to say frantically partisan, newspapers in Canada. But Mr. Graham did not confine his activities to his newspaper. He loaned his editor to the Conservatives as campaign organizer for Quebec, he took an interest in the campaign fund, subscribed to it handsomely and set in motion the agencies which turned out the campaign literature. The bogus Globe is said to have been one of the bright particular flashes of his genius for politics. When Mr. Borden became leader, Mr. Graham retained his position of guide, philosopher and Father Beautiful to the Conservative party. Why Mr. Graham should personally assume a role to which in his saner moments he was unwilling to commit his paper (for between elections The Star invariably returned to its neutral state of mind) has occasioned much speculation. His wealth prevented any reference to the more sordid motives. Vanity might, however, be found to account for it, in combination with a natural bent towards the more unremunerative type of partizanship. That he has no genius for sound political leading is demonstrated by the woeful want of results in the three elections in which he has taken part. So much is this the case that some Ontario Conservative journals have raised a cry for the dethronement of the "Montreal gang."

THE STORY OF LA PRESSE.

However this may be, it is evident that the gang were prepared to go pretty far in the realization of the aims in which in two former general elections they had signally failed. This is seen with startling clearness in the story of the sale of La Presse. La Presse is the leading French-Canadian newspaper of this continent. It claims the largest circulation of any paper in Canada. In politics it is independent, with a strong leaning towards Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Its commendations of his character, abilities and clean political methods were generous and unstinted. It was for that reason a powerful force for Liberalism in Quebec. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's opponents realized this as keenly as anybody, and it seems to have been decided that one of the most powerful moves that could be taken for his defeat would be to secure possession of this journalistic weapon and turn it against the breast of the man whom it had formerly defended. The proprietor of the paper was Hon. Treffle Berthiaume, its editor Arthur Dansereau. Mr. Berthiaume was a printer, and, becoming the proprietor of La Presse, it grew to great things under his hands. Mr. Dansereau is one of the best known journalists in the province of Quebec. His affiliations were Conservative. He was appointed postmaster of Montreal by a Conservative Government, but returned to journalism in 1899. It was his boast that he was a schoolmate of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and he professed on that account a devoted attachment to Sir Wilfrid. The little junta which sought to encompass the defeat of the Government, agreed that the first part of their programme must be to turn La Presse against the Government and for this purpose it would be necessary to secure control of it. It should be said at once that the honest purchase of a newspaper, and the avowed reversal of its policy, would be a perfectly legitimate transaction. But it will be seen as our story advances that those who purchased La Presse were of crooked and devious ways, and that it cannot be regarded as a legitimate transaction.

AN ALL-NIGHT SITTING.

The negotiations for the sale of La Presse took place in the home of Mr. J. N. Greenshields, the well-known lawyer. There were present besides Mr. Greenshields, who was Mr. Russell's lawyer and associate, Mr. Berthiaume; Mr. Beaudin, Mr. Berthiaume's legal adviser; Mr. Dansereau, Mr. David Russell, and Mr. A. J. Brown, another lawyer of large practice in the city of Montreal. The negotiations began on the night of October 11th, and were not concluded until five o'clock on the morning of the 12th. Mr. Berthiaume would have been indisposed to sell the paper, notwithstanding the splendid terms offered, if he thought the new proprietors would turn it against Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but Mr. Dansereau assured him that that part of it would be all right. The price agreed upon for the paper was $700,000, and the new proprietors agreed to assume a mortgage of something over $200,000 on the building and $112,000 of indebtedness. The day the contract was signed $250,000 was paid over as part of the purchase money. The obligations thus assumed were $1,012,000—not a small transaction by any means.

AN IMMORAL AGREEMENT.

The agreement signed by the various parties is said to have included a clause by which Mr. Berthiaume bound himself, if need be, to publicly deny in La Presse that he had ceased to control the paper. This was necessary to the plans of the schemers, for if it had become known that the chief French-Canadian newspaper had passed into the hands of persons of whom Mr. David Russell was the chief representative the paper would have been rendered powerless for harm. It was necessary to keep the transfer secret, therefore, and the clause arranging for a denial in case the tale leaked out was inserted in the document. Is it not fair, then, to say, that the agreement was an immoral one, to denounce the transaction as savouring of conspiracy and thoroughly discreditable to all connected with it. It has to be added moreover, that the agreement to meet the public suspicion with falsehood, was carried out with a daring which it would be difficult to parallel outside of the criminal annals. When La Nationaliste, a clever and ably written French-Canadian weekly, published the story of the sale of La Presse, the persons concerned were prompt and unblushing in their denials. In the columns of La Presse on October 17th, appeared this paragraph:

"The story published by La Nationaliste yesterday is false from beginning to end. La Presse has not been sold to Mr. Forget, nor to Mr. Hugh Graham, nor to any person or political party."

Mr. Greenshields, who was in New York, telegraphed from there to La Presse, Montreal:

"You may deny in my name that I have either directly, or indirectly, conducted any negotiation with you on behalf of Mr. Forget, or Mr. Graham, or of the Metropolitan Ry. Company, or anyone whomsoever."

Mr. Hugh Graham the same day wrote to La Patrie:

"Regarding the statement in La Nationaliste respecting La Presse, the statement is absolutely untrue so far as I am concerned."

With respect to this last denial it will have been seen that Mr. Graham was not one of the party which conducted the negotiations for the sale of La Presse. Mr. Greenshields was Mr. Russell's legal adviser in that transaction. Mr. Beaudin looked after Mr. Berthiaume's interests. Who did Mr. Brown represent? Mr. Brown is known to transact Mr. Graham's legal business. That Mr. Graham was lending his name and credit to Mr. David Russell in raising large sums of money at that time is known. What were these large sums for, if not to make the first payment on La Presse? These are not private matters. The public, when a public journal which serves it, changes hands has a right to know who are behind it, and when Mr. Graham's lawyer is found negotiating for the purchase of La Presse, and the names of Mr. Graham and Mr. Russell are found on negotiatiable securities for large sums of money, the public has a right to ask what such denials are worth. Some of those published above we now know to be absolutely untrue. Are any of them true?

That leads to the discussion of the aspect of the matter as a business transaction. The price paid was an enormous one, but La Presse is undoubtedly a fine property. A newspaper property is, however, the most fickle of all species of property. No one would know this better than Mr. Hugh Graham. In regard to La Presse Mr. Graham would be quite aware that the morning after it was announced that a junta of English-speaking politicians, hostile to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and bide-bound to his political opponents, had acquired control of the paper its subscription lists would begin to melt away like snow in April. We have only to imagine what would happen if a group of French Canadians purchased the Mail, to realise what would be the result in the first named instance. The purchasers therefore knew that their appearance on the scene endangered the whole property in which they put their money. They risked a property for which they were paying over a million dollars. Who was so tremendously interested in beating the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier? Individuals do not risk hundreds of thousands of dollars to gratify their mere political preferences or even spites. Where did the money come from? What were the objects of those who risked it? And then the resignation of Mr. Blair? But that is another story.

Why Smith's Triple Cure Cures Dyspepsia and Catarrh.

No treatment in the world cures dyspepsia and catarrh so thoroughly and completely as Smith's Triple Cure. The reason for such wonderful results is simple and obvious—because the grand triple cure system fully removes the usual causes of dyspepsia—the catarrh of the stomach. Smith's Triple Cure by its combined action on the blood, nerves and mucous membranes cures catarrh wherever located. It drives the poison out of the system and cleans the mucous membranes so completely that catarrh cannot exist or find lodgement. Dyspepsia may start with a neglected cold in the head or a sore throat extending down into the stomach and setting up catarrh of the stomach. The catarrhal process may result from too rapid eating, overloading the stomach, using badly cooked food, and indulging too freely in tea drinks and stimulants. Smith's Triple Cure cures any case of this kind because it is a foe to catarrh. When you once recognize the fact that dyspepsia is usually caused by catarrh of the stomach, you can understand why Smith's Triple Cure is invariably successful in curing dyspepsia.

People who eat too fast, too much, and too often, who suffer with dyspepsia, heartburn, indigestion, palpitation and nervous weakness, should use Smith's Triple Cure which gives such sufferers quick and positive help—its use always leads to cures that are lasting. This great treatment gives new vigor to the overworked and dyspeptic stomach. Begin its use at once. Ask your dealer for Smith's Triple Cure for Catarrh, Dyspepsia and the Blood. A grand new system of four separate remedies, a full four weeks' treatment, during catarrh in any part of the system, price only 50 cents, the greatest value for the money ever offered. If your druggist won't supply you send 50 cents in stamps and we will send it to you by mail and guarantee safe delivery. W. T. Smith Co., 499 St. James St., Montreal.

FIGHT OF 72 HOURS

Russians Compelled to Retreat to South Bank of the Hun.

JAPS REPULSED AT MUKDEN

Mukden Station Reported to Be in a Wild State of Confusion—Port Arthur Suffering From the Shells of the Japs—The Arsenal Is On Fire and Russian Ships in Harbor Are Now Out of Business.

London, Dec. 13.—The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, in a despatch dated Dec. 11, says that according to Pekin reports the Russians have retreated to the south bank of the Hun River, after seventy-two hours' fighting, with heavy losses. On the fourth day of the fighting the Japanese assumed the offensive. The Mukden station is reported to be in a wild state of confusion.

Japs Repulsed.

Mukden, Dec. 13.—On Friday night the Japanese several times attacked the trenches of the Russian right, but in each case they were repulsed.

Russians Used Searchlights.

Mukden, Dec. 13.—The Japanese opened a heavy fire on the Russian position east of the railway at four o'clock Sunday morning, but the Russians had searchlights in readiness and for the first time used them. These army lights proved very effective and a deadly rifle and artillery fire being concentrated upon the Japanese advance, they were driven back with heavy loss.

Japs Colonizing Manchuria.

It is reported here that the Japanese are largely colonizing southern Manchuria. It is said they are sending there 7,000,000 emigrants and that they are also sending many young Chinese from Manchuria to Japan, paying their traveling expenses.

Port Arthur Suffering.

Tokio, Dec. 13.—The commander of the Japanese naval land battery reporting yesterday says:

"Four Russian battleships, two cruisers, one gunboat and one torpedo store ship lying in Port Arthur harbor are completely disabled. There is no further necessity for bombarding the Russian naval force. Are now engaged shelling the town of Port Arthur, which is being heavily damaged."

The Arsenal On Fire.

London, Dec. 13.—A despatch to the Japanese Legation from Tokio yesterday says the bombardment of Port Arthur Sunday considerably damaged the wireless telegraphy station at the foot of Golden Hill and set fire to the arsenal.

Golden Hill Damaged.

Washington, Dec. 13.—The Japanese Legation has received the following cablegram from Tokio: "The Port Arthur army reports that its bombardment has inflicted considerable damage upon Golden Hill and also set the Port Arthur arsenal on fire."

Demands a Trial.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 13.—Captain Clado, who was arrested Dec. 9 for criticising the High Admiral, Grand Duke Alexis, and the Admiralty, demands a trial by court-martial, declaring that his arrest on the ground of distorted facts is a stain on his honor.

Put Under Arrest.

Cronstadt, Dec. 13.—Lieutenant Derivyrion, who participated in Captain Clado's newspaper campaign against the Admiralty officials, is under arrest.

Sufferers from sciatica should not hesitate to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The prompt relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. Sold by all druggists.

NORTH GREY TRIAL.

Protest Against a Seat Already Vacated—The Petitioner's Object—An Arrangement As to Costs Offered.

Owen Sound, Dec. 13.—After a recess of almost three months the trial of the North Grey election petition, in which Hon. A. G. Mackay, the recently appointed Commissioner of Crown Lands, is respondent, was continued here yesterday. The petitioner had a host of witnesses on hand, but at the outset Mr. George H. Watson, K.C., for Mr. Mackay, argued that no good purpose could be served by proceeding, as the election was already void by reason of the respondent having accepted an office of emolument: Mr. Watson offered an arrangement as to costs, but it was rejected. The court, Chief Justice Moss and Mr. Justice Street, however, granted the request of the petitioner to go on, and so the case was resumed.

A Haphazard Expedition.

It was largely a haphazard expedition. Mr. George A. Ferguson, who had had charge of the Owen Sound organization for Mr. Mackay, was the chief witness. One of the statements was that he had been paid $100 by Duncan Marshall for his services, that this did not appear in the return of election disbursements, that Mr. C. M. Bowman, M.P.P., had given a subscription toward the campaign expenses. Besides Mr. Watson for the respondent Mr. W. H. Wright appeared. Mr. Mackay was also present. The petitioner, Mr. George M. Boyd, was represented by Messrs. Geo. Tate Blackstock, K.C., Toronto; N. F. Paterson, K.C., of Owen Sound, and W. H. Price, Gore Bay. The court opened at 3 o'clock after the arrival of the Judges and counsel from Toronto.

MR. SMITH PROTESTS.

One Charge Is That the Ballots Were Illegally Marked For Sealey.

Toronto, Dec. 13.—E. D. Smith, the Conservative candidate in Wentworth at the recent general election, has entered a cross-petition, making W. O. Sealey, the Liberal nominee, the respondent. In this constituency Sealey received the majority of votes on the first count. At the recount, however, a number of ballots that had been numbered by the deputy returning officer at one of the polls were thrown out, this action upon the part of the County Judge giving the seat to Smith. A protest was then entered by Sealey, and his opponent yesterday filed a cross-petition at Osgoode Hall.

The majority of the charges are of the usual nature, bribery, treating, personation, undue influence, hiring rigs, paying traveling expenses of voters, intimidation, and advancing money to be expended in bribery. There are no personal charges, and nobody is named. One new charge, however, is that voters were given ballots that were already marked for Sealey.

The clause containing the latter charge reads as follows: "That the deputy returning officers for the various polling subdivisions, and also the Judge of the County Court, before whom the recounts were held, in counting the number of votes given or ballot papers cast, counted as votes for the respondent certain ballots which had not been supplied by the deputy returning officer, and also ballot papers by which votes had been given for more than one candidate, and also ballots upon which there was a writing or mark by given to the voter to mark, and that the certain ballot papers which were marked for said W. O. Sealey before they were given to the voters to mark, and that the votes so counted ought now to be struck off the poll and the number counted for the respondent reduced accordingly."

VERDICT OF THE JURY.

Thanksgiving Day Signal Car Fatality in Toronto Blamed On Railway Co.

Toronto, Dec. 13.—The jury enquiring into the Thanksgiving Day fatality, after considering the evidence for three hours last night, rendered the following verdict:

"We find that deceased, W. J. McKay, met with his death on the evening of Nov. 17, 1904, as the result of a collision between Street Railway car No. 642 and a freight train on the G. T. Railway at Queen street east crossing.

"We find no evidence to prove that Motorman Armstrong was guilty of any negligence in his duty.

"We further find that in view of the greater danger on the King street route that the Toronto Street Railway Co. are culpably negligent in not equipping this car No. 642 and other cars on this route with the most effective brake to meet any emergency that may arise, and that the system of inspection provided is very inefficient.

"We further find that the Grand Trunk Railway used every reasonable precaution to prevent the accident.

"We further recommend that some more effective method of preventing accidents at this and other level crossings be provided either with a spring switch placed against the cars or that the Scotch blocks be removed at least 50 feet away from the gates."

800 Italians Anxious.

Odgensburg, N.Y., Dec. 13.—Nearly 800 Italians are endeavoring to enter the United States from Canada, after having spent the summer in that country. The majority are said to be ignoring the immigration requirements of the United States Examining Board at Montreal, by crossing the border without certificates. Several are turned back each day for examination. Three who were refused admission re-crossed the river in a skiff. They were arrested and permanently debarred from entering the United States.

Sir Wilfrid's Journey.

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier and party spent Saturday and Sunday at Santa Barbara. They have now gone on to Los Angeles; from there on Friday they will start for the east, stopping for a day or two at Chicago. They will probably reach Ottawa about the 22nd inst.

CLEVELAND THE SCENE.

Mrs. Chadwick Likely to Meet Charges Made in Ohio.

New York, Dec. 13.—Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick was overwhelmed by the developments of her case in Cleveland yesterday, and the statement was made by one close to her that she would probably give up the fight here and return to Cleveland to-night in the custody of United States officers. She did not anticipate the double indictment which was found against her by the Cuyahoga County grand jury after the failure of the Lorain County grand jury to find probable cause of action.

It was said at the residence of Andrew Carnegie last night that he would be unable to go to Cleveland and testify in the Chadwick case, owing to illness. Mr. Carnegie is indisposed with an attack of lumbago, and his physician is of the opinion that it would not be advisable for Mr. Carnegie to take the trip.

Some Chadwick Stories.

Cleveland, Dec. 13.—Irl Reynolds yesterday said:

"She told me she was the illegitimate daughter of Andrew Carnegie."

Later Mr. Reynolds in detailing his transactions with Mrs. Chadwick, said: "In all my transactions with Mrs. Chadwick I believed from what she told me, that Andrew Carnegie was backing her, and all her indebtedness would be paid."

He then added: "And I have not had anything yet to make me doubt it."

Mrs. Chadwicks Barred.

Pittsburg, Dec. 13.—The millionaires of Pittsburg have established a new office rule since the Chadwick revelations. Now no well-dressed woman can get into the private office of one of the kings of finance, no matter how pressing may be her business. She must do all her work through a second person. Saturday afternoon two well-known Pittsburg women sought an audience with H. C. Frick to ask him a small donation for a public bath-house in a mill district. Mr. Frick sent word that he would be unable to see them, but accompanied it with a cheque for $5,000.

Healthy and Vigorous

Mr. John Shelton, the well-known bridge builder of 101 Sherwood street, Ottawa, says:—"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Pills for kidney and liver derangements brought on by exposure, and find them better than any pill or medicine I ever used. They cleansed my system and made me feel healthy and vigourous, and better in every way."

Prof. Robertson Retires.

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—Professor Robertson retires from the office of Commissioner of Agriculture and Dairying, on Dec. 31. Afterwards there will be a consolidation of the divisions which he had under supervision. The cold storage, fruit and extension of markets divisions will be probably added to the dairying branch under Professor Ruddick. The poultry division will be added to the live stock branch, under F. W. Hodson. Professor Roberston would have been fifteen years in the service had he remained until next spring. He was not on the superannuation list, and, therefore, received no retiring allowance.

Best Remedy for Constipation.

"The finest remedy for constipation I ever used is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets," says Mr. Eli Butler, of Frankville, N.Y. "They act gently and without any unpleasant effect, and leave the bowels in a perfectly natural condition." Sold by all druggists.

First Woman Lawyer Dead.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—Mrs. Mary M. Negus is dead of heart failure, at her residence here, aged 56 years. She was graduated from the Northwestern Law School, and was among the first women to practice law. Mrs. Negus had a national reputation as a temperance worker.

THIRTY YEARS OF STEADY PROGRESS

Sons of England Celebrate The 30th Anniversary of Inauguration of The Order.

Landsdowne Lodge's Annual Banquet Held Last Night in The Oriental.

A Delightful Function—Address by Mr. James Boxall, of Lindsay.

Last night was the night that Landsdown Lodge Sons of England celebrated.

Thirty years ago yesterday the first Sons of England lodge was formed, and it consisted of seven members, the organisation meeting being held in a log shack, but from this humble beginning the Order grew until to-day there are 259 subordinate lodges, with a membership of about 20,000, which, considering the fact that no paid organizers are employed by the Order, and the work of recruiting the ranks depends solely upon the efforts of the individual members, is a remarkably good record, and one which the members of the Order, at least, are proud.

The celebration of the 30th anniversary of the establishment of the Order was held last night by the members of Landsdown Lodge and took the form of a banquet which which was held in the dining room of the Oriental Hotel, and although it was not as largely attended as had been hoped, the gathering was a representative one, and those who were there most certainly thoroughly enjoyed the evening, no small part of that enjoyment being attributed to the excellent spread provided and served in splendid style by the staff of the Oriental, and it did credit to the reputation of the house. A number of brilliant speeches were given by members of the Order, and the company was favoured with the presence of Mr. James Boxall, of Lindsay, the Supreme Past Vice-President of the Order, and he delivered a short but interesting address, in which the record of the Order was reviewed, and its great progress shown.

Reference was made by nearly all the speakers to the lamented death of Dr. Pigeon, who until his death was physician of the local lodge, being re-elected to that office a short time ago at the annual meeting.

Another prominent member of the lodge was unavoidably absent last night and his absence was the cause of sincere regret by those who were present. This was "Daddy" Taylor, who for years has been a leading spirit in the lodge, and who was absent last night because of sickness, the first in nearly a quarter of a century. He was not forgotten, however, for the company drank his health during the evening, in response to a toast proposed by Mr. A. Kingscote, who paid a high tribute to the many good qualities possessed by Mr. Taylor, who he said had done more to build up the Order here than any other man, and had proved himself a true friend to Englishmen in this country, in many instances securing them work, and in other ways helping them.

Landsdown Lodge was organized about 22 years ago, and there are very few of the original members alive to-day, Mr. Thomas Gunn being one of the oldest. The membership of the Lodge is in the neighbourhood of 200, and is increasing at a satisfactory rate.

Those who surrounded the festive board last night and partook of the bounty of mine host Graham, were: E. M. Best, H. Long, John Brodie, Thos. Gunn, J. A. Brown, N. Waram, James Boxall, Lindsay; H. L. Beal, Geo. J. Tovey, Orys. Semmens, C. Wood, Walter Stocker, A. Kingscote, J. Johnston, John J. Grose, L. James, P. Bogart, John Richardson, M. Lyle, J. Penrose, Maurice Houdrey, Geo. Hutchinson, Alfred Little, Robt. H. Shepherd, F. Breininger, J. W. Tinker, Joseph Ball, Harry Dunslow, J. Gibson, J. James, J. Lewis, S. H. Baker,

After ample justice had been done the tempting viands, a very pleasing toast list was done through.

Mr. H. L. Beal, the president of Lansdowne Lodge, acceptably filled the duties of toastmaster, and in proposing the first toast, gave some interesting facts relating to the order, the thirtieth anniversary of the formation of which they were then celebrating. He first expressed his pleasure at being present at the pleasing function, and was sorry that out of a membership of 200, there was such a comparatively small gathering.

The constitution of the order was one of which every Son of England should be proud, for it was one of the best in this or any country, and if the members lived up to it, it is one of the best organizations he knew of.

The order was not only a fraternal society but it was patriotic, and it had helped a great many Englishmen in a practical way. There are now, after thirty years of life, 259 Lodges in Canada, from Newfoundland to Vancouver, and more than 20,000 members. In funeral benefits alone more than $18,000 has been paid, and last year $20,000 was paid in death claims, and $10,000 in doctors' fees for attendance on members of the Order.

There is to the credit of the subordinate lodges in Canada the sum of $91,000, while the Society has a surplus of over $100,000. For a society which does not employ paid organizers he thought that a membership of 20,000 was a pretty good showing.

Mr. Beal then proposed the toast to "The King," which was heartily responded to in the usual patriotic manner.

Mr. Alf. Kingscote then favoured the gathering with a song.

"The Supreme Grand Lodge," was the next toast honoured, and to this Mr. J. Boxall, of Lindsay, Supreme Grand Vice-President, responded. He assured them that it was with great pleasure he had consented to be present and celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of the grand Order.

Thirty years seem a long time, but really it is but yesterday, when it is remembered that the Order had sprung from a log cabin, with seven members, with a society of over 20,000 members. At the end of the first twelve years the Society had only 1,000 members.

As Englishmen, the society is one which all might well be proud of, and no other society in Canada is spending as much per member as the Sons of England. The membership of the Order is drawn from the better class of men, which does not necessarily mean that they are the more wealthy class. This membership is secured without the use of any paid organizers.

Last year it cost the small sum of $2.55 per member to run the Order, which is a very small amount, and there is a surplus of $11.27 per member, and the total reserve fund is about $150,000.

Lansdowne Lodge had been managed in 1903 for the sum of 56 1-2 cents per member, which was a good record, and the speaker paid a high tribute to the showing of Lansdowne Lodge in the administration of its affairs.

The Order is not only working in Canada, but a Lodge has been organized in South Africa, and is working there satisfactorily.

He thanked the members for the hearty way in which they had drunk the toast to the Supreme Lodge. He referred feelingly to the sudden cutting off of Dr. Pigeon, which reminded them forcibly of the desirability of doing the right thing.

Mr. R. H. Shepherd then rendered a vocal selection, which was well received.

"Canada our Home," was proposed and honoured enthusiastically, Mr. Thos. Gunn responding to the toast. A solo from Robin Hood, by Mr. W. Stocker, was well received.

The "Army and Navy," was the next toast, which was responded to by Mr. John Gibson, an old British officer. Mr. John James followed with a vocal solo.

The health of Mr. Wm. "Daddy" Taylor was proposed by Mr. Alf. Kingscote and drunk very heartily by the company. Mr. Kingscote extolled the many good qualities of Mr. Taylor who, he said, had done more for the Sons of England Lodge here than any other man in Peterborough. Three hearty cheers were given by the company for "Daddy" Taylor.

"Our Sister Societies," was honoured and responded to by Mr. Richwaram, after which Mr. Breininger gave a vocal solo. "The Manufacturing Industries" was responded to by Messrs. Shepherd and Tovey. "Our Visiting Friends," was proposed and responded to in a brief speech by Mr. Maurice Houdrey, in which he said he was in the whitest crowd he had ever met. Mr. Boxall asked permission to propose a toast to the ladies of Peterborough, to which Mr. S. H. Moore responded in his usual happy manner. Mr. Harry Dunslow proposed the toast to "Old England," which was heartily honoured. Mr. Gunn followed with a song, which was well received.

The last toast was that to "Our Host," which was heartily honoured and responded to by Mr. G. N. Graham after which the gathering was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

TWO SWELL NEW HACK SLEIGHS

For F. L. Robinson's Hack and Livery Stables—Swellest and Most Complete Outfits in Canada.

If the up-to-date hacks and pleasure sleighs which have been installed and ready for requisition at "Doc" Robinson's livery barn, are any criterion for the exacting demands of his patrons, it is safe to say that he has as fastidious and fashionable a trade as any of the big city liverymen.

Not satisfied with the up-to-date styles that have always been at the disposal of his patrons, he has added two more swell hack sleighs, which are in every respect equal to the finest of the kind in Canada. The designs are new, handsome and complete. One has a dark blue body, yellow gear with yellow decorated scrolls and panels, perfect wind and waterproof top and sides, heavy British bevel plate sidelights, rich crimson plush trimmings, and high driver's seat. The other has a dark green body, carmine gear, gold and carmine stripes and panel decorations, trimmed with plush, rubber top and waterproof sides, British plate sidelights, elevated driver's seat. These two handsome outfits were made specially for Mr. Robinson by Mr. James Halpin, of Montreal, a noted hack and pleasure sleigh designer, and reflect the highest class of work turned out by this factory. The gears are not the light ordinary bob-sleigh gears, but are set on regular hack springs, and are strongly constructed, ironed off and heavy braced to stand the severest ordinary uses. The bodies are strongly constructed, strongly braced and ironed all round. They are roomy, comfortable, wind proof and water proof hack sleighs, admirably adapted for family, pleasure or business driving.

These are fine, bracing days, with good sleighing, such as make driving not only a pleasure but a tonic. An outing is well begun that starts with a easily equipped sleigh, a pair of good steppers and an outfit of luxurious fur robes such as Robinson can promptly supply.

A sight worth seeing is the window display of this year's Christmas Fruits in White & Gillespie's window. Don't buy elsewhere until you see our selected Raisins, Currants, Figs, Peels, Mince Meat, Syrups, Walnuts, Oranges, Lemons, etc. We're under the Opera House George street.

EARLY FIRE DID MUCH DAMAGE.

Blaze This Morning at Mr. B. Laster's Store Simcoe Street.

Mr. Lastar Overcome with Smoke in Attempting to Extinguish the Blaze, Damage About $1,500

A bad fire did much damage to Mr. B. Laster's store and stock on Simcoe street, at seven o'clock this morning. The fire started from a stove in the store room at the rear of the building. Mrs. Laster was lighting the fire, and the flames shot into the air, and ignited some goods near by. Mrs. Laster called for her husband, who was upstairs, and the latter tried to extinguish the flames with a blanket. He was unsuccessful, however, and his hair was badly scorched by the flames. Finding it impossible to extinguish the flames, he ran to the front of the store to secure his books. He was there overcome by the dense smoke, and fell to the floor in an unconscious condition. By this time the neighbours had become aware of the fire and an entrance was made by the front door. Mr. Laster was found lying on the floor, unconscious, but he quickly recovered upon being carried into the fresh air.

The fire had secured a firm hold by the time the firemen arrived, and the back part of the store was completely gutted. The flames broke through the ceiling and did considerable damage to the bedrooms upstairs. The blaze did not reach the front of the store, but this department was somewhat damaged by the water and smoke.

A large quantity of drygoods, fancy articles, clothing of all descriptions, etc., were utterly ruined. Mr. Laster states that he had over 100 suits of clothes, which were all practically destroyed. The damage will amount to about $1,500, the loss being about covered by insurance.

Mr. Laster had recently increased his stock for the Christmas trade, and he is to be sincerely sympathised with at sustaining such a loss at this inopportune time. He expects however to have his store in running order again in a few days.

LITERARY SOCIETY'S FORTNIGHTLY MEETING

Rev. Father Fitzpatrick Gave Splendid Lecture Last Evening.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the St. Peter's T.A.S. Literary Society was held in the rooms last evening. The members were present in large numbers and as usual the hall was crowded. The very large attendance which these meetings have been attracting throughout the season speaks well for the quality of the programmes which are provided from time to time and last evening there was no exception to the rule and a most interesting evening's entertainment was afforded those present.

The feature of the evening was a lecture by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick upon Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" It was an elevating and instructive discourse, which was listened to with rapt attention by the audience. The reverend father showed himself to be a lover of the writings of this great dramatist and that he was fully conversant with his subject. He made his lecture most interesting and though the subject was an extensive one, he covered the ground most thoroughly in the time that was at his disposal. Everyone was highly delighted with the lecture.

A short musical and literary programme was presented and the different selections were heartily received. Vocal solos were sung in popular style by Miss Callaghan, Messrs. J. Browne and W. Williams while Mr. J. Doris gave a very enjoyable recitation.

Last evening's entertainment was certainly one of the best that has been been held this season.

THE FREE CONSUMPTIVE HOSPITAL.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—I have seen notices several times about this work and about the collection to keep up a Peterborough cot.

Can you tell me, and others who would like to know, whether there is any truth in the statements made about the advantages of the treatment at Gravenhurst, or is it simply a scheme to get money from people? What do the doctors say about it? They ought to know whether it does any good, and whether there are any people in Peterborough suffering from consumption whom it would benefit to send to the hospital. If it is a good thing there are plenty of people who would be glad to help it along. If not, we might as well leave it alone. Let us hear from the doctors or from some one who knows.

Yours etc.,

CITIZEN.

FAREWELL TO THE RETIRING PASTOR

Congregation of St. Paul's Said Good-bye to Rev. J. A. Wilson Last Night.

All Departments of the Church Pay Their Respects to Late Assistant Pastor.

A Very Popular Minister Leaving to Take Pastorate of St. Andrews' Church, Hamilton.

This morning Rev. J. A. Wilson, who, for nearly three years has been assistant pastor of St. Paul's church, left for Hamilton, where he will accept the pastorate of St. Paul's church, to which church he will be inducted to-night. Last night the members of the church which he is leaving, gathered at the church to bid him farewell and to wish him "God-speed."

Many kind words were spoken of the retiring assistant pastor, representatives of every department of church work bearing testimony to his zeal and efficiency, worth and devotion. The members of the senior Bible Class, of which he has been teacher, presented him with a valuable pair of otter gauntlets, accompanied by an appreciative address.

Mr. Wilson returned thanks for all the nice things said of him, and added that it was indeed a pleasure to find that he had so many warm and true friends in Peterborough.

There was a large attendance, the Sunday school room being filled. Rev. Dr. Torrance conducted the opening devotional exercises, after which Mr. R.E. Wood was elected chairman. He called upon Mr. J. W. Bennet, who spoke on behalf of the mission. He said that he detested farewells and added "If I were leaving Peterborough to-morrow, I would want to get out of town by a back street in the middle of the night, on a freight train, but I am not popular and submerged with messages of approval like Mr. Wilson is."

Continuing, Mr. Bennett said Mr. Wilson had been called to an important field of labour, and he believed that there, as here, he would give his best attention and ability to the work. Of Mr. Wilson's labour, at the mission he could not speak too highly. Very large prayer meetings had been held and the mission was going ahead by leaps and bounds. Mr. Wilson possessed the ability and qualities to make himself well-liked wherever he went. He had a special faculty for remembering names and faces. Down at the mission he could tell how many children each family had, the names of the little ones, in fact, all about them. He was a veritable church directory. Mr. Wilson had also rendered good support to the temperance cause, the Sabbath observance, the Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A. and he trusted that the time was not far distant when St. Andrew's church, Hamilton, would extend a reception, not only to Mr. Wilson, but to Mrs. Wilson, as well.

Mr. P. W. McLean, president of the Young Men's Guild, followed in an eulogistic reference to the departing assistant pastor, who had been the "father" of the Guild and one of its warmest supporters. Mr. Wilson knew each member intimately, and association with him was elevating and inspiring.

Owing to the absence of Mr. W. G. Ferguson, chairman of the Board of managers, Mr. T.A.S. Hay spoke on behalf of that body. He said they appreciated Mr. Wilson's work, and were very sorry to lose him. He had been a good friend to the Board, and had heartily entered into the organization of the Young Men's Guild and other bodies. Mr. Wilson had relieved the managers by taking off their shoulders the duty of providing ushers. This work was now well looked after by the young men.

GIVEN A PAIR OF MITTS.

At this juncture Mr. Wilson was not a little surprised to be presented, on behalf of his Bible class—the senior class of the church—with a handsome pair of otter gauntletts, accompanied by an address expressive of his worth and work. Mr. John Crane read the address and Miss W. Anderson, organist of St. Paul's mission, made the presentation. The address was signed by Etta Thompson, Mrs. J. Robertson, Adie Lee, Jessie Garrow, Lily Wallace, M. Deans, Josiah Robertson, Wm. Nichol and Douglas Baptie.

Mr. Wilson, in replying, thanked the Bible class of St. Paul's church for this evidence of regard. The class had been one of the bright features of his work, and he felt that in Hamilton he would be able to continue the task of teaching God's word, from which he, and he hoped others, has received a great blessing in Peterborough.

Mr. Robt. Harrison, session clerk, on behalf of the elders, also bore evidence to the great assistance rendered Rev. Dr. Torrance by Mr. Wilson. The divine spirit had honoured St. Paul's church by bringing many into the fold. During Mr. Wilson's time the number of communicants had increased by 173, and while too great stress should not be laid on numbers, still this was an evidence of the great work that had been done. There had been no complaints made to the session, either by Dr. Torrance or anybody else, about Mr. Wilson's work, and he took it for granted it was because no fault could be found. At the mission school, which Mr. Harrison hoped, would soon attain the status of a mission station, Mr. Wilson's labour was of the best possible character. An instance of this was that ten families who had not been connected with any church were now identified with the school. Mr. Harrison, in closing, paid a tribute to the morality of the town, and the excellent work done by the Peterborough police force, in preventing corner loafing and criminality to any extent that few, if any, similar sized places enjoyed.

DR. TORRANCE'S TRIBUTE.

Rev. Dr. Torrance said he could endorse all that had been said about Mr. Wilson as an earnest faithful, worker, and his relations with him had never been anything but of the most pleasant character. Mr. Wilson and his predecessor, Mr. George Yule, had been men of honour — men who would scorn to do a mean or underhand thing. He would give the departing minister two pieces of advice, which would tend to a happy and successful pastorate, if carried out. One was that he should have a certain period of time each day for study and communion with God, and the other was that he should get a good wife—one who, to use a colloquial expression — would not interfere with other people's business, and could hold her tongue. But some one might say, "Dr. Torrance, you did not set a very good example in getting married. "Yes," said the doctor, with a smile, "but look at the good wife I got when I did get one!"

The speaker felt sure that Mr. Wilson would throw himself into the work in Hamilton with the same energy, zeal and conscientiousness that he had in Peterborough. The object of the true pastor's work was to think less about self and more of Christ, to attract the eyes of the people to the Son of God, and to bring men and women into closer relationship with Jesus Christ.

MR. WILSON'S REPLY.

Rev. Mr. Wilson felt that he was not deserving of all the good things that had been said of him. He had tried to do his duty, and while reference had been made to the work in other organizations, he had always placed St. Paul's church first. Its welfare and spiritual progress he had always kept in the foreground; he had always gone according to Dr. Torrance's direction, being guided by his riper experience and superior judgment, and his relations with the senior pastor had been of the most harmonious character. He left the field here with great regret, but he believed there was a work to do in Hamilton, and that he had been called there for a purpose. He had in no way sought the invitation, and after receiving the letter inviting him to preach there, he had consulted Dr. Torrance, who had advised him to use his best judgment in the matter. After prayerful consideration he had decided to go. He trusted that Christ's richest blessing would rest upon them all, that St. Paul's church would go forward, and that everyone would rally around the pastor, Dr. Torrance, and the assistant pastor, whoever he might be. In the days to come he would often think of the happy years he spent in Peterborough.

During the evening Miss Helen Davies sang two solos in a pleasing manner. Miss Barbour of Luddington, rendered a song which was much appreciated, while Miss Georgie Denistoun contributed a delightfully executed piano solo.

At the close refreshments were served by the ladies, and Mr. Wilson said farewell to each one present, and they in turn wished him every success, prosperity and happiness in his new field of labour in Hamilton.

McWILLIAMS OUT OF MAYORALTY

Decides not to be a Candidate For Highest Office.

Does not Want to Introduce Party Politics With Municipal Contests.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams will not be a candidate for the Mayoralty in 1905. This decision was reached today by that gentleman, and communicated in response to a question from the Examiner.

He stated that he would have liked to be in the Council next year, but the fact that he is the Liberal candidate in the approaching Provincial election would introduce party politics into municipal affairs, should he decide to enter the Mayoralty contest, and he does not want to be the means of bringing party politics into municipal matters. For the same reason he will not be a candidate for Alderman.

Very Complete.

China Hall's stock is now complete for the Christmas trade, and is the heaviest and most varied carried for a number of years. Early shoppers will find the beautiful stock of new goods to choose from, at prices that will please. Store open evenings.

The Missionary Conference in St. Andrew's Church to-night promises to be most interesting. Rev. Drs. McKay and McTavish and Rev. Alfred Gandier, of St. James' Square Presbeterian Church, will give stirring addresses. The choir will render appropriate choruses, and Miss Florence Miller and Miss Margaret Bryce will sing. Everybody is invited. A free-will offering will be made.

MEISTER SINGERS GRAND VOCALISTS

Most Delightful Programme in Opera House Last Night.

Ensemble Work of the Quartette was Beautiful—Fine Soloists—Two Clever Entertainers.

A more thoroughly delighted audience never issued forth from the opera house than that of last evening, after having listened to an exquisite programme by the Meister Glee Singers. It was the treat of many years as far as music was concerned and those who were absent have every reason to regret it. Whether in solo, duet or quartette, every number was a gem, while the entertainers were also first class and kept the audience in the best of good humour. The hall was well filled and the audience was a most appreciative one. It is seldom that our town is visited by such a talented organization of musicians as these Glee Singers, who created unbounded enthusiasm by their delightful music.

It would be superfluous to comment at any length upon the singing of the quartette. It was as close to perfection as human voices can hope to attain and such exquisite harmony has never before been heard here from male voices. The ensemble work of the quartette was beautiful, the perfect modulation of the voices, the exquisite blending of the parts, the careful shading and phrasing, the distinct articulation combining to produce an effect which was irresistible. The singing was beyond criticism. The banjo imitation accompanent in "The Old Folks at Home" was a revelation to the audience and the number was one of the best presented. In humorous numbers the quartette sing very effectively. Their programme numbers were "Lull Me to Sleep" by Kidner, "Whether I find Thee" by Elgar, "Old Folks at Home" arranged by Van Lennep and a humorous number "Sunday Fishing". The encores which were most hearty were responded to with "They Kissed, I Saw Them Do It" "Spin, Spin, My Daughter, Spin" and a love song arranged for male voices.

But individually, as well as collectively, the singers won great popularity. Mr. Ford Wadham, bass, has, perhaps, never been surpassed in Peterborough. He has a magnificent voice, deep, mellow, resonant and full with a fine ring which sends a thrill through every listener. He sang Loir's "Chorus Gentlemen" and in response to vociferous applause sang in a manner which rivalled the rendition of even Watkin Mills, the well-known drinking song "In Cellar Cool." His "low F" in this number created the greatest of enthusiasm and after being three times recalled he sang a delightful number "A Cautious Lover" by Reynolds.

Mr. Alfred Cunningham, the baritone, is also a superb vocalist possessing a beautiful voice and splendid manner of delivery. He sang "The Devout Lover" by M. V. White and as an encore sang Adams' "The Veteran's Song" with fine patriotic spirit.

Mr. Ager Grover, tenor, has a voice of sweetness and much purity of tone. The voice is, perhaps, better suited to quartette singing than to solo work, though his number "Fragrance of the Mignet" was sung in a highly enjoyable manner.

Mr. William Sexton, the alto, was not heard in a solo number. A male alto is something which is practically unknown in this country, but the voice is certainly admirably suited to sing the first tenor score in male quartette work.

Messrs. Cunningham and Wadham opened the programme with a duet "Ladies Fly from Love's Smooth Tale" by Balfe and which was admirably sung.

With the quartette are two very clever entertainers. Miss Ethel Henry, a young lady of charming stage presence is an elocutionist of much talent and upon both her appearances on the programme was heartily received.

Mr. Roland Henry, in his humorous musical sketches had the audience completely convulsed with laughter from start to finish. He was a real humourist and wit and humour seemed to fairly bubble out of him. He was accorded a flattering reception and was recalled upon each appearance. Mr. Henry also accompanied the soloists on the piano.

A Heintzman & Co., piano is used by the Meister Singers throughout their entire Canadian tour.

The company leave in a few days for a trip to the Pacific coast where they will fill a number of engagements. It is just possible that upon their return they will again appear in Peterborough and if this is the case, they will no doubt be greeted with a crowded house.

Miss Henry will return to England in a few days' time to be one of the principals in an interesting nuptial event. Her place in the company will be taken by Mrs. Roland Henry, wife of the popular entertainer, who was, so well received last evening.

MRS. GEORGE PATON DIED IN CALIFORNIA.

An Estimable Lady who was Well Known Here.

Word has been received in town of the death of Mrs. George Paton, who passed away last Tuesday in Alameda, California, where she has been living with her daughter, Mrs. F. P. Condon. The deceased was for many years a resident of Peterborough, where her husband was for some time connected with the G.T.R. Her husband predeceased her by six years. While in town, the late Mrs. Paton was a faithful member of St. Andrew's Church, was president of the Ladies Auxiliary, president of the W.C.T.U. and connected with the W.F.M.S. She was well-known for her acts of charity and was greatly esteemed and beloved by all with whom she came into contact.

About a year subsequent to the death of her husband she left here and lived for a short time in Selinas, Cal., previous to going to Alameda.

Besides a daughter, Mrs. Condon in Alameda, there are four surviving sons, John, in Port Huron; Harry, in Stratford; James, in Thomasville; and Frank in California. Two brothers, Frank and George, who are living in California also, survive.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

COLONIAL JINGOES

More Blatant Than the Home-Grown of British Isles.

SO SAYS FREEMAN'S JOURNAL

It Likewise Thinks Ireland Contributes Disproportionately to the Navy—Miss Brooke-Hunt On Tariff Reform in Canada—Free Trade in Empire—Another Gold Medal to British Columbia.

London, Dec. 13.—(C. A. P.)—The Freeman's Journal thus comments on Imperial defence: Ireland, proportionally, contributes more to the army and navy, though she has no sympathy or interest in the policy which keeps these forces up to their bloated cost. The colonies, on the other hand, are more jingo, apparently, than the most blatant class of home-grown jingoes, and they paid their debt with men and money, sent to destroy the constitutional rights of the fellow-colonials in South Africa. Of course there it is more insignificant and less courageous than the same party at home.

Waits For Britain.

London, Dec. 13.—(C.A.P.)—Miss Brooke-Hunt, who has just returned from Canada, spoke on "Canada and Tariff Reform" yesterday. She said tariff reform did not come in at the recent elections, and was only mentioned in terms expressing the readiness of the country to receive it. Canada deprecated the haggling over fiscal reform that was going on in Great Britain as not representing Canada's feeling, which was a sentimental one. Canada was now waiting an answer to her proposal, but could not press the matter till a reply from Great Britain was received.

Free Trade in Empire.

London, Dec. 13.—(C. A.P.)—Lord Avebury, speaking at Essex Hall, agreed with the observation in the Tariff Reform League Land Book that: "Fiscal union with commercial reciprocity was the necessary basis of any stable federation," but he said the first necessary step was to have free trade within the Empire. Unfortunately the great self-governing colonies showed no inclination to admit British goods free as Great Britain did theirs. If that came about it would then be time to discuss whether Great Britain should impose special duties on foreign goods. He saw nothing in British commerce to call for anxiety.

Burden of Imperial Defence.

London, Dec. 13.—(C.A.P.)—Right Hon. Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking at Sparkhill, expressed doubts as to Great Britain being able alone to bear the future charge for Imperial defence, but there were other nations of our own blood growing up across the seas. "Should we not seek by every possible means to league them into one great union with us? We must invite them to partake fully of the Empire's privileges and responsibilities, and we must be willing to go into conference openly, but not to attempt to force on them our own view of what is best for the common good."

Gold Medal to B.C.

London, Dec. 13.—(C. A. P.)—The gold medal was awarded to the British Columbia exhibit of apples and pears at the Royal Horticultural Society show. This is the second time a similar distinction has been gained this year. The Dominion of Canada and Nova Scotia were also large exhibitors.

Calls It a Great Boon.

London, Dec. 13.—(C. A. P.)—The Governor of Newfoundland has cabled Colonial Secretary Lyttelton expressing the colony's acknowledgement to the King for the great boon conferred by the Anglo-French treaty. Mr. Lyttelton has suitably replied.

Special G.T.R. Meeting.

London, Dec. 13.—(C.A.P.)—A special meeting of the Grand Trunk Railway is to be held on the twenty-first for the purpose of sanctioning and confirming the resolutions passed at the director's meeting agreeing to guarantee the principal and interest of an issue not exceeding $7,500,000 for 50 years of 4 per cent. gold bonds proposed to be created by the Grand Trunk Pacific as a first charge upon the Lake Superior branch.

Canada's Defence Properties.

London, Dec. 13.—The Westminster Gazette on Imperial defence, says the contribution of Canada in proportion to population would be £3,500,000. The contribution of Australia and New Zealand, £3,150,000. There is, of course, no prospect that these sums or anything like them will be forthcoming. We must be grateful for what we can get, remembering that any gift to be of value must be voluntary, and unconditional. The Pall Mall Gazette says that in the colonies there is still much room for a broader knowledge of the principles of Imperial defence. The naval protection of the Empire concerns the whole Empire and every constituent thereof.

Oldest Commoner Dead.

London, Dec. 13.—Spencer Carrington, the oldest member of the House of Commons, is dead. He represented the Tower Hamlets in the Conservative interests for nearly twenty years. He was born in 1818. At the close of the last session he distinguished himself by sitting through two all-night debates, when he thought the Government's position was threatened, a feat of endurance which his colleagues recognized by presenting him with a commemorative silver cup.

Penitentiary For Three Years.

Toronto, Dec. 13.—William Kyle was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Morgan for stealing a bicycle.

KRUGER HONORED AT PRETORIA.

Hearse Escorted By Former Troops and Many Building Draped.

Pretoria, Dec. 12.—The funeral train bearing the remains of former President of the Transvaal Kruger arrived here Saturday, and an imposing ceremony attended the removal of the casket from the train to the hall in which the body will lie in state.

The hearse, which had been specially constructed for the occasion, was escorted by a uniformed bodyguard, composed of former members of the Boer artillery and police. Preceding the cortege was Generals Botha, Smuts, Delarey, Dewitt and other Boer leaders, who were followed by the town councillors and burghers.

The streets along the line of the funeral march were lined with thousands of spectators, who paid respectful homage to the dead President. Flags throughout the city were at half-mast, and many buildings were draped in mourning.

LINGERING COLD.

Withstood Other Treatment But Quickly Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I caught a very severe cold which lingered for weeks," says J. Urquhart, of Zephyr, Ontario. "My cough was very dry and harsh. The local dealer recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and guaranteed it, so I gave it a trial. One 25 cent bottle of it cured me. I believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best I have ever used." This is one of the most staple medicines in use. Thousands have testified to its excellence. It not only cures a cold quickly and effectually, but counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It is equally valuable for children and may be given to them with implicit confidence. It always cures and is pleasant to take. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no opium or other harmful drug. Sold by all druggists.

Grey's First Proclamation.

Washington, Dec. 13.—The arbitration treaty between Great Britain and the United States was signed yesterday.

Sailing the Air.

Air sailing may be only a dream, but it is a very persistent one, and it can be said that steady progress is being made. While the interest of the general public in the tests made is centred in the spectacular features, the inventors and manipulators of airships take a serious view of the matter and improve upon their failures.

FRANCE LEGALIZES DUELING.

Last Objection Seems Gone—Premier's Program An Assured Success.

Paris, Dec. 12.—Premier Combes and his Cabinet have weathered another storm, the vote in the Chamber of Deputies Friday evening having the effect of making the ministry stronger than ever. This assures the carrying out of Mr. Combes' program, of which the principal feature is the separation of church and state. The vote shows the growing stability of the French Cabinet and its power to resist popular excitement.

The Government's issuance of a permit to M. Deroulede to enter France and fight a duel with M. Jaurez is construed as being a formal official recognition of dueling. Hitherto the practice has been tolerated. Many unavailing efforts have been made to pass prohibitory laws. The socialists chiefly opposed the practice, but the action of the socialist leader, M. Jaures, in challenging M. Deroulede indicates that the chief opponents of dueling are now resigned to accept the practice as an established fixture.

Seymour, Admiral of the Fleet.

London, Dec. 12.—King Edward has approved the appointment of Admiral Sir Edward Hobart Seymour, K.C.B., to be admiral of the fleet on the retirement of Admiral Salmon in February. Vice-Admiral Sir Lewis Anthony Beaumont will succeed Admiral Seymour in the Devonport command. Prince Louis of Battenburg will become commander of the second cruiser squadron.

Fire At Belleville.

Belleville, Dec. 12.—Fire Saturday night destroyed the residence of an old man named Robert Campbell, who, with his aged wife, lived on Lewis street, in this city. The old couple were in bed when the fire was discovered, and were with difficulty rescued in their night-gowns by the neighbors. The building was destroyed with most of its contents.

Curzon in Calcutta.

Calcutta, Dec. 12.—Lord Curzon has arrived here and will resume his duties as viceroy to-morrow.

Bronchitis Grows Chronic

AND RETURNS YEAR AFTER YEAR OR DEVELOPS INTO ASTHMA OR CONSUMPTION. CURE IS

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

Bronchitis is too serious a disease to trifle with.

Children are most likely to contract bronchitis, and, if neglected, it becomes chronic and returns, year after year until it wears the patient out or develops into some deadly lung disease.

Chills and fever, nasal or throat catarrh, quick pulse, loss of appetite and feelings of fatigue and languor are among the first symptoms.

The cough is dry and harsh. There are pains in the chest which are aggravated by deep breathing and coughing. Expectoration is of a frothy nature, stringy, tenacious and sometimes streaked with blood.

Pains in the limbs or joints and extreme depression and weakness result from continuation of the disease.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is, we believe, the most effective treatment for bronchitis that money will buy.

It is the most effective treatment for bronchitis because it is so far-reaching in its effect on the whole system, not only loosening the hard, dry cough, but actually and thoroughly curing the disease so that it does not return.

Mrs. George Budden, Putnamville, Ont., says:—"I feel it my duty to recommend Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as I had the asthma very bad; could get nothing to do me any good. A friend of mine persuaded me to try this remedy, as he had it and it proved successful. I tried it and it cured me. I am thankful to-day to say I am a well woman through the use of this remedy. I keep it in the house all the time and would not be without it."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 35 cents a bottle; family size, three times as much, 60 cents, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.—12.

The Substitute

By WILL N. HARBEN,

Author of "Abner Daniel," "The Land of the Changing Sun," "The North Walk Mystery," Etc.

Copyright, 1903, by HARPER & BROTHERS

George Buckley shuddered visibly, but he said nothing. It gave Mrs. Buckley the opportunity she was looking for.

"George, I reckon bein' young as you are an'—an' mixin' with folks here in Darley that hain't never been in sech a mess, it goes harder with you than it does with me, away out thar in the mountains, but I wish you wouldn't take it so hard. You cayn't help yore pa's doin's. No, you cayn't, an' no right minded folks ain't a-goin' to blame you. As fer me"—she paused an instant as she began to roll her sunbonnet in her fat, red hands—"why, my boy, I feel jest like a awful load was tuck off'n me. I cayn't help it. It may not be human—I don't know—but I feel jest that a-way. You think yore cross is hard to bear, but fer fifteen year I've hardly slept a sound night's sleep, expectin' an' expectin' the officers o' the law to ride up an' hello at the fence. An' keepin' his secrets—law, that's the wust of it, fer he would tell me every blessed bit o' devilment he ever was in. It all began away back fifteen year ago, when he fell off his wagon an' struck his head agin a rock. He never got over that; it made 'im as ill as a snake an' mad at everbody, even his best friends. George, I want to tell you how he did once when"—

"Don't, don't, don't!" the young man cried. "I know enough. I don't want you ever to speak to me of his crimes."

"Well, I won't, then," promised the woman. "I reckon I've heard so much of his doin's that it don't horrify me as much as it would you. Well, I'll go on back. I'm goin' to Webber & Land's an' buy him a change o' underclothes an' some socks."

When she had reached the big entrance of the warehouse she saw Hillyer in the center of the building, walking back and forth, his gray head hanging low, as if in troubled meditation. Turning as if from a sudden impulse, she went and joined him. The two faced each other.

"I smelt liquor on 'im," she said tersely. "I stood nigh to 'im; he's had 'im a dram, Mr. Hillyer."

"Yes, he's had a drink or two, Mrs. Buckley."

"Whar'd he git his whisky?"

"Jake followed 'im an' seed 'im at Hillhouse's bar. I hain't said a word about it. It don't do one bit o' good to preach to a man all upset in mind, an' half full at that."

"No, yo're plumb right, an' nobody kin drive George. I'm powerfully afraid this is goin' to be his downward start, Mr. Hillyer."

"Don't say that!" The words were spoken almost in a groan, and the merchant's sympathetic face seemed wrung with inward pain. "Don't say that," he repeated, under his breath. "We mustn't lose hope—we mustn't do that!"

The old woman stared at the working face for a moment in silence; then she asked abruptly, "Mr. Hillyer, who is that family o' Cranstons that's come here from Virginia?"

"Oh, you've heard o' them?" said Hillyer, taking a breath. "Major Cranston's a member of a fine old family, a regular F. F. V.; he owns six or seven farms in this county an' has a lot o' investments all over the country. He moved here about six months ago beca'se the climate agrees with 'im, an' he hain't very strong. George got acquainted with his daughter, a pretty, likely gal, but as proud as a queen, an' they've been good friends ever since. She's well educated, an' so's he, an' they get along powerful well together. Have you ever seed 'er, Mrs. Buckley?"

"Yes, once," answered the woman, "an' I never shall forget it, fer it showed me plainer what a fine character George has than anything he ever done. That's a lot o' meddlin' folks out at the Cove, Mr. Hillyer, an' the report got out that since George got his schoolin' an' you tuck 'im in with you that he was ashamed o' me. They kept this talk up, an' when he got to goin' here an' yan with Lydia Cranston it got wuss, an' some of 'em 'owed that the girl didn't know what sort o' scrub kin George had. This got to George somehow, an' one day when I was at Grove Level camp ground with some o' my neighbors, George fetched 'er out along with some other couples of town folks. An' when he seed me a-settin' in front o' Mrs. Fellows' tent with some more women he fetched the gal right up to me. He was sorter pale an' excited, but he retched down an' tuck my hand an' lifted me up, an' says he, 'Miss Cranston, I want you to make the acquaintance o' my mother'—no, that wasn't it exactly. This was it, 'Miss Cranston, I want you to meet my mother,' an' me 'n' her shook hands. It was awful, Mr. Hillyer. I've got a little more sense 'n a jay bird, an' I seed through it. I seed, moreover, that while she was a perfect lady, she was sorter set back. She got red in the face an' was all flustered in what she said, but he stopped that talk out our way an' showed what he was."

"Yes, he's all right, Mrs. Buckley." The old man swallowed.

"Maybe," ventured the old woman tentatively, "maybe he's in love with that gal, Mr. Hillyer, an' knows she hain't the sort—that her folks hain't the sort—to overlook a—a"—

"That's just it, Mrs. Buckley," said the merchant with firmness, "an' that accounts for his misery an' the whisky. This thing has hit 'im away below the belt. That's no two ways about it. I'm dead afeard it's goin' to undo all that's been done."

The old woman raised her eyes to the troubled face before her and stared steadily. "Let's hope not," she said. "Shorely the Lord will show us some way to—to avoid that."

Hillyer dropped his eyes, and, turning toward the door, the old woman slowly shambled out.

CHAPTER II.

It was now about sundown, and Hillyer started home. He passed the postoffice, went into the little building, looked absently into his lock box, and then, taking a street that led past the town park and several of the most pretentious churches, he soon reached his house, which was a two story brick building with an old fashioned white veranda and an L. The house, like many others in the place, stood on a big lawn shaded by large oaks, magnolias and mulberry trees. A wide walk bordered with stunted rosebushes of some cheap variety and covered with gravel reached from the gate to the steps. Along the side fence was a row of beehives, and frisking about in the yard was a young calf.

Mrs. Hillyer was in the sitting room with her niece, a rather plain girl of thirty, Miss Hortense Snowden, who had been living with the Hillyers since the death of her parents, twelve months before. They both rose at the sound of the merchant's step in the wide, uncarpeted hall, and when he had entered they stood waiting for him to sit down before resuming their seats at the open fireplace, in which some dry hickory logs on old fashioned brass headed dog irons were cheerfully ablaze, furnishing the chief light of the shaded room.

"Well, anybody would know from his looks how the case come out," said Mrs. Hillyer as she sat down and spread out her calico skirt. "An' ef it had 'a' been dark I could 'a' read the news in the way he put his feet down in the hall." She was a short, cheerful looking woman past fifty. Her eyes were almost black, very keen, and they flashed at all times with a merriment that seemed as much a part of her as electricity is a part of an electric battery. Her hair was abundant and reddish brown and fell in intractable waves over her brow and ears.

"Yes, it not only went clean agin the old man, but Judge Moore p'intedly refused to cut it down to a fine." Hillyer's voice had a tone of deep dejection as he said this, and he kept his eyes on the fire.

"An' I kin see you mighty nigh had a spasm over it," replied Mrs. Hillyer. "Lawsy me, ef I never found anything to worry about till I worried over the just punishment lavded on his head, o' that old scamp I'd go to my grave without a gray hair or a wrinkle. That's the trouble with you an' George both. You are not ca'myin' out the Scriptural injunction not to kick agin the pricks. I don't know exactly what the good book says about it. I disremember. In fact, I don't know that I ever run across it in print myself, but you bet it's thar. My father, who eat an' slep' with the Bible in his hand, used to always keep sayin', when folks was continually a-complainin', 'Don't kick agin the pricks.' An' he was right. Ef you set down on a board with a tack in it, the harder you set the more tack you git, an' that's so with life. It's full of tacks, an' don't you forgit it. The Lord put old Buckley in jail to keep 'im in a bunch of his kind, so the devil wouldn't root around among good folks so much to keep up with 'im, but— Oh, no! You ain't a-goin' to put up with it, an' right now yore face is sour enough lookin' to spile cream in the middle o' December."

"I was thinkin' about George," said Hillyer softly. "He's mighty nigh killin' 'im."

"That's so, Aunt Martha," spoke up Hortense Snowden. "It's awful on him. Why, just think of it. The best people in Darley receive him and like him. He was rising rapidly, but a thing like this, as proud and sensitive as he is, will almost kill him."

"You kin laugh an' make sport as much as you want to," said Hillyer, more boldly, "an' you needn't kick agin nothin' unless you want to, but it's jest like Hortie says. He won't be able to face the music. He's all right when he ain't driv' too fur, but this has already started 'im to drinkin' ag'in."

"Oh, uncle, you don't mean it!"

"Yes, it has," groaned the merchant, "an' the Lord only knows whar it's goin' to end."

"Huh! I say, then, George Buckley hain't the man I tuck 'im fer," retorted Mrs. Hillyer. "I wish I could ketch 'im takin' a dram on account o' this thing. I'd give 'im a talk that ud make 'im"—

"Go git blind, soakin' drunk," interrupted Hillyer as he rose and went out through the kitchen to the stables to see if his favorite horse had been attended to. When he was gone, his wife got up and punched the fire with the poker.

"I reckon you think I'm hard hearted," she said to her silent niece, "but, Hortie, it's the only way to git on with 'im. You don't knew nothin'. I never let yore folks know what I've been through. I'd 'a' been crazy or dead long ago ef the Lord hadn't showed me how to make light o' serious things. I've had a heap o' tough times, but I believe this is a-goin' to be the hardest."

"Why, Aunt Martha, what do you mean?"

"Don't you see into it?" Mrs. Hillyer put the poker in the chimney corner and leaned forward. "This has fetched up yore uncle's old trouble. Things like this usually do upset 'im. He's been actin' quar ever since old Buckley was arrested. Ef I've ketched 'im prayin' once over it I have twenty times. He hain't slept without a light in his room fer a month, an' I hear 'im prayin' an' beggin' fer pardon in his sleep. It happened thirty years ago, an' yet I never have spoke to him about it nur has he to me."

The young woman stood up beside her aunt.

"You don't really mean that you've lived with him for thirty years and never mentioned that."

"Yes, I do, Hortie. I've always heard that that was one thing that never could be talked about betwixt two people. I knowed another woman that was goin' through the same trouble, an' she told me she never had mentioned it to her husband. It jest looks like a body cayn't allude to it somehow. Sh! He's comin' back!"

Hillyer trudged through the big, uncarpeted dining room, his arms full of firewood, which he carefully deposited in the wood box, and then he went back to his chair.

"We've had a power o' fun in this neighborhood today," Mrs. Hillyer said, with one of her impulsive little laughs. "I wonder ef the report got downtown about Mrs. Dugan bein' quarantined."

"I hain't heard nothin' about it," replied Hillyer. "I don't know what you mean."

Mrs. Hillyer laughed again. "Yes, Dr. Jobe quarantined 'er this evenin' about 3 o'clock. The marshal come up an' put a red flag on 'er gate an' left orders that nobody should leave the yard under penalty o' the law."

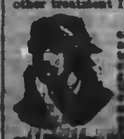
The Song of the Cradle.

Bye, bye! Hope rises high;
There's a sweet little cradle hung up in the sky;
A dear little life that is coming to bless;
Two soft chubby hands that will pat and caress;
A pure little soul winging down from above;
A darling to care for, a baby to love.

One of the grandest agencies which enlightened Science has discovered to relieve motherhood from excessive suffering is the "Favorite Prescription" devised by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y.

This wonderful "Prescription" imbues the entire nervous system with natural, healthy vitality; gives elastic vigor to the delicate organisms specially concerned in motherhood, and makes the coming of baby entirely free from danger and almost free from pain.

"I wish to state that I have used Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription with very good results," writes Mrs. Katie A. Annis, of Harrison, Boy Township, Ohio. "Had been in poor health for over four years and had been twice in the hospital. My husband brought home a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription,' and it has carried me easily through my last two confinements. We are now blessed with two healthy children, and I am sure your medicine has done me more good than all the other treatment I have ever received."



BAD HEADACHES generally arise from bad stomachs. Poor blood, bilious vomit, constant nausea, coated tongue, sour stomach, dizziness, and all symptoms of indigestion are promptly brought and all promptly relieved by "Favorite Prescription." In every case, no matter how severe, it will benefit or cure, or your money back. It's the only medicine for women sold by druggists, and is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it returned. Only one or two tablets to a dose. Sold in liquid form or tablets, 50 cents.

Pain Across the Kidneys For Three Years.

Suffered Great Agony. Could Not Stoop or Bend.

No disease is so quiet and stealthy in its approach as kidney disease. That is why it is so dangerous. It may become deep-seated before you realize the danger.

It is therefore of great importance to recognize the early warning symptoms, because in its early stage kidney disease is easily curable. Pain or dull ache in the back is one of the first signs. So are bladder pains, bearing-down pains, smarting sensation when urinating, frequent or suppressed urination, sand gravel or sediment in the urine, etc. You cannot be well if your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. In all ordinary cases of any derangement of the kidneys, a few doses of will put the patient right; in old or chronic cases, the treatment should be persisted in.

Mr. Michael A. McInnis, Woodbine, Marion Bridge, N.S., tells of his experience: "For the last three years I suffered great agony with pain across my kidneys, and was so bad that I could not stoop or bend. I consulted and had several doctors treat me, but I got none the better. On the advice of a friend I procured a box of that valuable life-giving remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, and to my surprise and benefit I immediately became better. In my opinion Doan's Kidney Pills have no equal as a cure for any form of Kidney disease.

A WORD TO OUR FRIENDS

Owing to the special nature of our business, which is largely one of trust and confidence in the ability, judgment and honor of the salesman, it is utterly impossible for us to fill our store with salespeople who know nothing about the watch or jewellery business, or of the quality of the goods they are selling. We wish, as a very special favor, to ask the many friends and customers of "Diamond Hall," who wish to look over our stock or make selections for Christmas, to be kind enough to come as early as possible.

LOCKETS FOR CITY LEAGUERS.

Examiner's Offer to Champions of the League.

Meeting Will be Held Thursday Night to Enter Teams.

The present outlook for the City Hockey League is very bright. It is expected that at least eight teams will be in the league, and the contest between the different teams promises to be very spirited and exciting.

Last night the committee appointed for that purpose waited on the president and secretary of the Rink Co., and arranged for one night each week on which to play the games, two games each week being played, both on Thursday night, from 7.30 to 9.30.

A meeting of the executive of the league will be held Thursday night in the Y.M.C.A. which is the last day to receive applications for membership in the league accompanied by the entrance fee of $2.00.

LOCKETS FOR WINNING TEAM.

As soon as it has been decided how many teams will enter the schedule will be drawn up, and the games will start as soon as possible. The interest in the league is being intensified by the offer of the Examiner to present each member of the winning team with a gold locket, at the end of the season and the chances are that the possession of this locket representing the league championship will be contested for. All the teams that have signified their intention of entering so far are composed of players of no mean ability and the public will have the opportunity of seeing some good hockey played in this series.

It is not the intention of the Rink Co., to take any of the hours usually given to skating for the time of the City League, so that while the skaters will have equally as much time, the lovers of hockey will have an opportunity to have their desires gratified.

The teams that have already signified their intention of entering are:—The Karnots, Farriers, T.A.S., Colonials, while others that will probably enter are:—St. Paul's Young Men's Guild, Hardware men, High Lifes and C.G.E. Co.

NEW HOCKEY CLUB WAS ORGANIZED

Colonials to Enter the City League.

There was a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Oriental Hotel last night, when the Colonial Hockey Club elected its officers for the season. It was decided to enter the City League. The colours of the team are green, white and yellow. The elections resulted as follows:—

Hon. President—Mr. R. F. McWilliams.
President—Geo. T. Rickerby.
Vice-President—A. Scott.
Recording Secretary—R. Nicholls.
Treasurer—B. Beard.
Manager—F. McCarthy.

The club will meet again on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

HOCKEY.

The annual meeting of the Trent Valley League will be held in the Oriental Hotel on Friday evening.

The O.H.A. districts will be arranged on Thursday. The grouping of the teams in the district will be of much interest to the hockeyists here.

• • • •

The hockey boys should get into the game this week in earnest. Condition will tell in the opening games and the sooner the players are in shape, the better will be their chances.

Winchester somehow didn't like Lindsay and refused to stay there and die. That's funny, too.

• • • •

The Karnots' new sweaters have arrived. They are very neat in design. The Karnots will place a very speedy septette in the City League.

Armstrong, of Peterborough, made his initial appearance with the champion Marlboros last night, and made a fine impression. He is a good, heady player, a neat shot and a clever stickhandler.—Globe.

The Guild League Executive meeting called for this evening has been postponed until Thursday evening at seven o'clock.

The hockey team will practice to-night at 7 o'clock.

The local team will have many more league games at home this year than was the case last winter.

Everybody out to practice to-night.

• • •

The following old-timers, but who are still young enough to win a championship are asked to be out to-night:—Wasson, Morgan, Glover, Cavanah, Graham and all other aspirants for a place on this year's team.

BASKET-BALL.

A basketball game will be played at the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday evening, December 14th, between the Brownies and the Class Team. These league games are very interesting, the league cup being hotly contested for.

CURLING.

At to-night's curling meeting the personnel of the rinks will be selected. It is very important that all skips should be on hand to make their own selections. The meeting will be called sharp at eight o'clock.

"CRITIC" SPEAKS HIGHLY OF HIS WORK

Mr Oscar O'Shea Meeting With Success in Theatrical Work.

The Minneapolis "Critic" makes the following mention of Oscar O'Shea, son of Mr. J. O'Shea, of town, who is acting an important role in the melodrama "Wedded, but no Wife" in which Selma Herman is the star. The Critic says:—"Oscar O'Shea created a favourable impression. He is a young man of fine physique and he reads his lines with taste and discretion. Few heroes of Melodrama have been as satisfactory this season as he showed himself to be."

ST. PAUL'S W.F.M.S. ANNUAL MEETING

Was Held Last Friday Afternoon in School Room.

Report of the Secretary Presented—Proceedings of the Meeting.

The annual meeting of St. Paul's Auxiliary of the W. F. M. S. was held in the school-room of the church on Friday afternoon, December 9th. There was a large attendance, more than one hundred ladies being present. The President, Miss Dickson, occupied the chair. After the opening exercises and prayer offered by Mrs. Dennistoun, the President gave an earnest address, dwelling upon the urgent need of consecration and self-denying service in the cause of Missions. This was followed by the Secretary's report read by Miss Hall and the financial statement read by Miss Kingan. The financial statement showed the receipts to be $477.85 and the expenditures $28.74, leaving a balance of $449.11. Miss Jean Cameron presented the report of the Fraser Mission Band and Miss Mattie Robertson the Faithful Workers' report, both of which were encouraging and satisfactory.

Miss McBain, of Toronto, gave a most helpful and deeply interesting address, on "Our Responsibilities and Our Opportunities in Foreign Mission Work". The speaker emphasized the magnitude of the work to be done, the need of immediate service and the promises of rich reward. This address was listened to with great pleasure by all present and a most hearty vote of thanks was tendered Miss McBain by Mrs. Torrance, seconded by Mrs. R. H. Hall.

Miss Best read an excellent paper entitled "Why Every Christian Should Engage in Mission Work." While the offering was being taken Miss Montgomery sang a solo most acceptably. The dedicatory prayer was offered by Mrs. W. Roger. Greetings were received on behalf of St. John's Church, from Mrs. Nesbett, Charlotte St. Church from Mrs. Kilgour, Murray Street Baptist Church, from Mrs. Hunter, and George Street Church from Mrs. Campbell. The meeting was closed with prayer offered by Rev. Dr. Torrance.

The Secretary's report was as follows:—

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

In presenting our 28th annual report, we do so with feelings of thankfulness to our Heavenly Father for His goodness to us throughout the year. The year just closing has been one of work, progress, and blessing, and we trust that the result may be more true-hearted service, so that our prayer, work and giving, may be honouring to our Lord, and worthy the high vocation wherewith we are called. Mission work has unlimited needs and ever calls for increased help. We must go forward if we would worthily occupy the place given us by our Lord. Prayer and self-denying service must have a larger place in the lives and hearts of God's people, before we may dare hope for the fulfilment of His gracious promises concerning the conquest of the World for Christ, or even look for any great extension of Missionary enterprise. Our total membership is 163 of the Auxiliary 53 are members of the General Society and 13 are life members, two having been added during the year.

It might be interesting to know just how we stand as an Auxiliary in the General Society and among a list of over 700 Auxiliaries, we are 1st in contributions, 2nd in total membership, and 3rd in average attendance. Our meetings have been both interesting and instructive, and we are glad to report a marked increase in the attendance as evidenced by the fact that last year the average attendance was 47, while this year it is 58. In June, we finished the study of "Lux Christes" and the following month took up "Ilex Christes" The programme for each month is taken in charge of by two ladies and papers bearing upon the studies we are taking up are read and are found to be most helpful. Our Thanksgiving meeting held in October was very largely attended and the Thank offering the most liberal ever received, amounting to $271.40.

This year we were asked to clothe a boy and girl at the Indian Boarding School, Regina, and in August a bale of clothing, quilts and other useful articles, valued at $59.77 was shipped for that purpose. The number of subscribers to the Missionary Tidings, remains the same 105. We regret that more of our members do not subscribe for this little magazine, being persuaded that the careful perusal of it would deepen the interest in the cause of Missions. The past year has been shadowed by the loss of one of our much loved and most faithful members. In September, Mrs. J. A. Hall, was called home. For many years she had been one of our most earnest and zealous workers, ever willing and ready to do what she could for the Master, Whom she loved and Whom she served. We continue to sent "The Interior", a most interesting religious paper to our lady missionaries in India. They find great enjoyment in the reading of it; the students also look forward to its coming. We would enter the new year hopefully and earnestly, rejoicing in what has been accomplished and ascribing all glory to Him Who has led and prospered us. For has He not said, Be strong and of good courage, fear not, for the Lord thy God He it is that goeth before thee; He will not fail thee nor forsake thee.

A. M. HALL,
Secretary.

VICTORIA AVENUE IS HEARD FROM

A Forcible Kick From That Vicinity.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—The residents on the western extremity of Victoria avenue, as well as those in the immediate vicinity desire to forcibly impress upon the town council that it is not their intention to hybernate during the winter, and emphatically object to being snowbound until spring. We were brought within the "pale of civilization" last July, and have been obliged to contribute a handsome sum in taxes to the town treasury for taking us under their municipal wing, but we consider we should have some of the blessings that usually follow in the wake of "civilization" such as a visit occasionally from the manipulator of the snow plough, and an electric light or two, in order to find out where we reside in the evening.

At present the snow-plough comes to the end of Downie and Reid streets, and gives Victoria avenue a wide berth. We are obliged to dig our way, in some cases through private property, in order to reach the path of the snow-plough. Victoria avenue is on the town map, and we feel it should be opened up for traffic, especially up the winter. You will hear from us again next spring.

Yours truly,
TAXPAYER.

MME. BRAZIER'S INNING.

Ald. St. Denis of Montreal Gets a Character From the Lady.

Montreal, Dec. 13.—During the progress of the judicial investigation yesterday morning before Judge Taschereau, a sensation was created by the evidence of Madame Brazier, one of the women who has been concerned with the charges against the police in connection with their relations to houses of ill-repute. Last week Ald. St. Denis, Chairman of the Police Committee, stated that a woman of that kind could not be believed under oath. Yesterday Madame Brazier had her inning, when she somewhat dramatically told the Judge that St. Denis was a man who had been supported by her for some time, fed from her table and drank wine with her guests.

Ald. St. Denis, chairman of the Police Committee, having heard what Madame Brazier had said in court, declared that the woman's story was false from beginning to end.

PURCHASES A SITE.

Will Build on Lot in North End of Town—Shovel Co's. Building Will be Erected at Once.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Peterborough Lock Company on Monday morning, the Secretary of the Company was requested to notify the Town Council that it was not the intention of the Company to accept the terms offered the Company by the Town Council in the bylaw which had recently been passed, giving the Company a site in the south end of the town.

At the same meeting the Manager of the Company was instructed to complete the purchase from the Auburn Woollen Company of that portion of land lying south of the Grand Trunk Railway and east of George street in the north end of the town. The Manager was also instructed to have the plans and specification completed with the least possible delay and that tenders be advertised for the erection of the necessary buildings for the Peterborough Lock Company, to be completed by the 15th of July.

The Peterborough Shovel Company have accepted the terms offered by the Town Council and will commence immediately the erection of buildings upon what is known as the Town Lot lying between the C.P.R. and G. T. R. tracks in Ward No. One. There were three theaders sent in in answer to the advertisement for tenders for the erection of buildings. The lowest tender was that of Mr. R. Sheehy. As the building was costing much more than anticipated, plans are being modified and it is expected that new tenders will be immediately asked for.

YESTERDAY'S SESSION OF PRESBYTERY

Business That was Transacted at the Quarterly Meeting.

The Presbytery of Peterborough concluded its quarterly meeting in St. Andrew's church yesterday afternoon. Sixteen ministers and four elders were in attendance. Rev. Mr. Lord, of Grafton, occupied the chair.

The following visiting ministers were invited to sit as corresponding members,—Dr. McKay, Secretary of the Foreign Mission Committee; Dr. McTavish, of Central Church, Toronto; Rev. J. J. Wright, of the Yukon, and Mr. Anderson, minister without charge.

The Rev. Geo. Yule, of Springville, was chosen Moderator for the next six months. Rev. John McDougal, of Spencerville, was nominated for the chair of Apologetics and Church History in the Montreal College, and Rev. Dr. Ramsey, of Ottawa, for the chair of Practical Theology in the same College.

After a lengthy discussion on the report of the Committee on the Reconstruction of Stations in the district lying between Omemee and Port Hope, it was agreed that the Omemee and Springville fields remain as they are at present. It was agreed to recommend that Millbrook should put forth effort to become self-sustaining, and that then Garden Hill, Oak Hill and Knoxville should become a pastoral charge.

The next quarterly meeting of the Presbytery will be in St. Paul's church, Peterborough, on the first Tuesday of March, 1905, at 9 o'clock a.m.

Rev. Dr. McKay and Rev. Dr. McTavish, addressed the Presbytery on the claims of Foreign Missions. These gentlemen received the hearty thanks of the Presbytery for their earnest and inspiring addresses.

Reports were given in as to the visits made to congregations paying less than $800 and a manse, with a view to increase of salary. The report showed that increase is likely to be made in every case.

Leave was granted to Fifth Church, Port Hope, to build a new church and to dispose of the old one.

From 6 to 8 o'clock a banquet was served in the school room by the ladies of St. Andrew's. The members of the Presbytery and many invited guests were present and a delightful repast was enjoyed. Speeches were made by Rev. Dr. McTavish, Rev. Dr. McKay, Rev. Mr. Gandier, of Toronto; Mayor Roger, Mr. R. E. Wood, Mr. R. B. McWilliams, Rev. W. Beattie, of Cobourg, Rev. J. G. Potter and others.

Otonabee Lodge No. 13, I.O.O.F. Spend Social Evening

Otonabee Lodge No. 13, I.O.O.F., celebrated its 22nd anniversary in the lodge room Monday evening when the members met in large numbers to enjoy a social time together. A most delightful evening was spent in amusements of various descriptions, there being no formal programme, but simply a social evening which went a long way to further the spirit of true brotherhood which the society aims to foster amongst its members. An oyster supper added to the enjoyment of the evening.

The society is, after an existence of 22 years in a more flourishing condition than ever with an increased membership and an increased influence in the community.

It might be mentioned in passing that the present recording secretary, Mr. W. F. Green, is the only senior member in office at the present time. Mr. Green has been an enthusiastic membr of the Lodge since its inauguration twenty-two years ago and he is still as useful a member as ever.

A CONFERENCE ON MISSIONS

Interesting Addresses on This Important Subject Were Delivered Last Night

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Was the Scene of Fine Missionary Gathering.

What the Presbyterian Church is Doing and Has Done for Cause of Missions.

The Presbytery of Peterborough closed its session last night with a missionary conference, arranged by, and held under, the auspices of the Missionary Committee of the Presbytery, the convenor of which is Rev. D. D. McDonald of Keene.

The conference was held in St. St. Andrew's church, which was well filled, and the addresses which were given by Rev. Dr. MacTavish, Rev. Dr. McKay, and Rev. Mr. Gandier, of Toronto, were much enjoyed by the large audience.

The speakers were most enthusiastic in the presentation of their subjects, and no doubt good results will follow the conference.

The chairman of the evening was Rev. D. D. McDonald, Keene, and the proceedings were enlivened by the music supplied by the choir, while two solos were given by Miss Florence Miller and Miss Margaret Bryce.

After singing, reading the lesson and prayer by Rev. Mr. Yule, the first speaker of the evening was announced.

The chairman in the name of the Presbytery Missionary Committee, welcomed the audience to the conference, which was to a certain extent, a new departure, but, he thought, a good one. The work was one in which he thought all were interested. He was pleased that he had the privilege of introducing three such excellent speakers as were on the platform last night, and he first introduced Rev. Dr. McTavish, who said he was here especially to speak of the foreign missionary department of the church, the needs of which were becoming more and more manifest.

The foreign mission work, with new knowledge, had been placed in a different light and with the new aspect of the case being learned, the church is taking a deeper interest in the work.

In the face of the fact that nearly two thousand years have elapsed since Christ issued the divine injunction to preach the Gospel to the world, there are about 200,000,000 heathen in the world. How can the Christians of Peterborough, he asked, be indifferent to this awful state of affairs existent in the world?

There never was a time when there was such an opportunity for preaching the Gospel as there was to-day. The era of steam and electric travel has enabled countries to be easily reached, and then again the heathen lands are open to the Gospel preaching, a state of affairs very different to what it was a few years ago. In China this is especially marked, and in 17,000 villages and towns in Central China there are opportunities for missionary work.

There is the need, the opportunity to supply that need, and men are offering themselves for this great work.

The speaker sought to impress the fact that the Christians in Christian lands are responsible for the carry-

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1904.

THE FIGHT IS NOW ON.

The Legislature has been dissolved and writs will be issued for the general elections, the polling to take place on Jan. 25th. The fight is now on and the election forces throughout the province, who have been, so to speak, lying on their oars, and more or less quietly mobilizing, will now enter actively into the fight.

The Liberal party enters into the contest with excellent prospects for success. The Government appeals for a renewal of confidence upon a record of progressive and productive administration, which it is safe to say has never characterized the five year term of any other Government in this province. Every material interest of the province has been adequately looked after. The development policy of the Government has been attended with most gratifying results. Our finances have been managed with exceptional success, and with liberal provision for all public services. In all respects there has been advance combined with efficiency such as cannot be expected from the application of the fragmentary and disjointed policy of the Opposition party which is claiming the suffrages of the people to advance it to power.

While the fight is on throughout the province that also applies to West Peterborough. In promotion of the interests of the local Liberal candidate, a grand rally will be held in the Liberal Committee Rooms, on Saturday evening, next, when addresses will be delivered by the candidate, Hon. J. R. Stratton and others. The meeting will be held on the second floor of the committee rooms, where work can be done under more comfortable conditions than on the ground floor. The friends of good Government are requested to bear in mind this meeting and be present to help on the good work.

HYPOCRISY.

The Orillia Packet, (Conservative), has this to say: "Clergymen were numerous and painfully prominent at the Ontario Liberal Convention." Why "painfully prominent?" Is it because their presence indicates a practical lack of faith in Mr. Whitney's howlings against the Liberal party, or because they were painfully lacking at the Conservative convention. Mr. Whitney, in his hysterical and hypocritical appeals for purity in politics, has frantically called upon "ministers of the Gospel" to rally around his stainless standard, but none have responded. Ministers of the Gospel can be more usefully employed than endorsing pharisaism. In politics and on behalf of his party, Mr. Whitney takes a position analogous to that of the Pharisee, who unctuously and hypocritically uttered the blasphemous sentiment that he "thanked God that he was not as other men are." Can Mr. Whitney make anybody, even ingenuous ministers, believe, that because he professes purity, he is better than other politicians, especially with the black record for political iniquity of his party, stultifying himself and discrediting his claims? One can have a sort of admiration for the courage of an outspoken sinner, but nothing but contempt falls to the lot of the oily hypocrite, who professes righteousness, and winks at, or practices iniquity in his own person, or that of chosen associates.

LATE PROVINCIAL SECRETARY.

The Globe, in the course of a sketch of the late Legislature, has the following:—

"The two vacancies in the Cabinet, by reason of the retirement of Hon. E. J. Davis and Hon. J. R. Stratton, remove men who have performed long and valuable service in the House. Mr. Stratton was first elected in 1886, and has been the representative for West Peterborough ever since. He early showed a clear grasp of public affairs, with which as a newspaper editor he had been for years familiar, and before long he was made Chairman of the Committee of the Whole House. His careful preparation of all his speeches soon made him a debating force, and as an effective worker in the ranks of the party he soon came to the front. When Mr. Ross became Premier in 1899, Mr. Stratton became Provincial Secretary, and in that position he performed zealous and faithful work as an administrator, particularly in the care of the unfortunate occupants of the Provincial institutions."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The California experimentor who has developed stoneless plums, has also developed a spineless cactus. Ontario has been ahead of him in one respect. Here politics has developed the spineless temperance men who preaches temperance 364 days in the year and votes politics the other day.

The reduction in the duty on petroleum, and the granting of a bounty has, the Hamilton Times points out, resulted in a great decrease in imports, and a corresponding increase in the production of oil in Canada. In the first four months of the fiscal year in spite of a reduction in the duty from five to two and a half cents a gallon the imports of coal oil, kerosene, distilled, pumped and refined oils fell from 6,427,521 for the first four months of last year, to 3,858,069 for the same period this year. In the first four months of last year the imports of crude petroleum, fuel and gas oils amounted to 635,123 gallons and during the first four months of this year there has been only 45,760 gallons brought in.

COAL BIN ECONONY

A Damper to Coal Merchants, but a Boo to Consumers.

Moisture in a room in winter saves fuel. This tip is not given by the coal dealers, but has been published in the weekly bulletins of the health departments. And it is perfectly consistent, too. Scientific tests, moreover, have amply proved that a percentage of moisture of about 50, with a temperature of 65, yields the best heat and comfort. With a temperature of 74, and a relative humidity of 30, as compared with a room heated to 68 degrees, and a relative humity of 60, the latter has been found to be the most comfortable.

BUSY TIMES AT THE SOO.

The Pulp Mill Will Run all the Winter.

One Hundred and Thirty Thousand Dollars was Paid out in Wages Monday—How Obligations are Being Made.

Mr. C. N. Smith, ex-M.P.P. of of Sault Ste. Marie and the Liberal nominee for that riding in the coming Provincial election, was among the Premier's callers at the Parliament buildings on Monday morning. "This is pay day at the re-organized Soo works," said Mr. Smith to a Globe reporter, "and something like $130,000 is being paid out to over 3,800 men. The steel rail mill, blast furnaces, iron works, the pulp mill and the Helen Mine are all working, and naturally the Soo is prosperous. Recently 10,000 cords of pulpwood were purchased from the Spanish River Company, and this, with the Soo company's supply from their own limits, will keep the pulp mill going all the winter.

"The recent payment of $50,000, the first half-year's interest on the loan guaranteed by the Ontario Government, and $250,000 interest on the mortgage bonds, out of the company's earnings, is sufficient proof of what the re-organized concern is accomplishing. In former times payments of a somewhat similar nature had to be met by further calls on Philadelphia and other shareholders."

Mr. Smith said the prospects for other Liberal victory in the riding were excellent.

WONDERFUL JOURNEY.

Mounted Policeman and a Voilent Lunatic.

Constable Took the Poor Fellow Safely Over 1,300 Miles of Snow-covered Wastes.

Ottawa, December 12. — The records of the Mounted Police Department, contain the account of a rather remarkable journey made by an officer of the Mounted Police. It was a journey of 1300 miles in the North-west Territories through the snowy wastes of winter. Corporal Field, of Fort Chipweyan received a summons to attend a case of lunacy in the north country. He started on Feb. 2nd, with dog trains and it took him fourteen days to reach his destination. The object was to bring down a violent lunatic, who, while engaged in mission work, had lost his reason. On the way down the man became so violent that he had to be strapped to the sleigh. With great gentleness, although the lunatic bit, scratched and even spat in his face, the officer waited upon him, and when he refused other food made beef tea for him. Frequently the officer had to feed his prisoner with a spoon like an infant. He would ask for food but would not eat it unless it was placed in his mouth bit by bit. Starting on February 18th, by March 1st, after covering 700 miles, Corporal Field reached Chipweyan. This was scarcely half the journey, however. On March 6 the officer set out for Fort Saskatchewan, 600 miles distant. On this trip also dog trains were used, and the same difficulty in handling the prisoner was encountered. On March 24th, however, they arrived at Fort Saskatchewan, having covered 1300 miles through winter solitudes. The demented man was safe and sound, not having sustained the slightest injury and was afterwards sent on to the Brandon Asylum.

Mrs. Rev. Potter and Mrs. McPherson, of Peterborough Auxiliaries were present and addressed the meeting. It was decided to organize a branch here which will affiliate with the Ladies' Aid Society, whose executive shall officiate for both.

The Sunday School teachers are arranging a treat for the scholars at an early date; further announcements later.

The Bell Telephone Co., has been extending its line west as far as Mr. Jas. Staples'. They have placed six 'phones along the route. The building of rural lines is no longer an experiment, Springville's enterprising citizens having solved the problem. A talk with any of the original subscribers who have had the convenience of their 'phones for one year will convince all of the fact, while the community in general bears evidence of appreciation. The village is being benefitted thereby—property has increased in value. It is claimed by some that lives were saved during the past year by obtaining the services of physicians in critical cases which occurred. A number of others are anxious to have the accommodation. The Company anticipate placing additional wires to add to the efficiency of the increasing business. The subscribers speak in highest terms of Mr. Doane, the manager; also the staff of operators to whom the credit for such satisfactory results belong.

What's the matter with the C.P.R.? When may we expect the completion of stock pens and right of way to spur, has been frequently asked by shippers of live stock and others interested in handling freight. The delay is certainly no in line with the usual enterprise of this company, whose executive decided last March that it was in the interest of the company to provide facilities for handling freight, also to improve the accommodation for the passenger traffic and other concessions as set forth in a memorial presented by Mr. T. Wilson. For the information of all it is stated that as far as the executive of this company is concerned there has been no delay. Plans for the erection of a platform and building for the comfort and convenience of passengers have been in the hands of employees for some time. The reasons for not carrying them out is not legitimate. The inclemency of the weather at this season calls for immediate action if their patronage is desired or the comfort of those who travel a part of the policy of this usually enterprising company. As for freight, the spur is complete and negotiations under way for a right of way for the public which will no doubt be provided. An early completion is urgently desired and of mutual interest.

Business in all lines is brisk. Mr. D. V. Trew reports over six thousand dollars of sales during the year of groceries. He states that wholesale men claim bigger sales here than at the three small burgs south of us.

Mr. Geo. Moncrief has purchased Rev. Dr. Campbell's property. He intends moving into our town next fall.

The turkeys have reason to think Friday an unlucky day. Many of them have went to the G.T.R. station at Peterborough, where F. E. Wilson has been buying for foreign market. He expects quite a lot on Friday next. He buys ducks, geese, chickens; also the chickens' mothers if they be fat. The price of fowl is sufficient to encourage that industry. Mr. Wilson reports that he paid Mr. John Johnston, of Gonabee, $49.12 for 28 turkeys. Good turkeys, good feeding, good weight and good price did it.

WHAT IT IS.

The Mucous Membrane and the Im portant Part it Plays in the Health or Sickness of the Body.

The Mucous Membrane is the inside lining of the body, and of all its vessels and organs. The moment this mucous membrane becomes out of condition, ever so little, illness, follows swiftly, in some form or other.

In ninety-nine cases of a hundred disease has its beginning in some derangement of this Mucous Membrane.

It is very delicate and extremely sensative, and consequently very liable to disease.

If you are not feeling well you may be sure that the Mucous Membrane of some organ is sick and requires immediate treatment.

There is one medicine that is intended to act, and does act, directly and curatively on the Mucous Membrane. It is Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, and Constipation disappear as soon as Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill has restored the Mucous Membrane to its natural healthy condition. 50 cents a bottle, at all Druggists, or The Wilson-Fyfe Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont. Sole agents for Canada. 110

Took Laudanum For Toothache.

Buffalo, Dec. 13.—Miss Frances Dolen, a pretty and elaborately dressed woman, about 23 years of age, was found unconscious in a room at the Moeller House, suffering apparently from cocaine poisoning. She had said she came from Toronto and had a card of an employment agency at 572 Church street. Enquiry there, however, failed to elicit any clue to her identity. Later it was said that the woman had taken laudanum for a severe attack of toothache and was recovering. She is a Lindsay girl.

ELEVEN INCHES OF SNOW.

Storm Raging On Atlantic Coast Seriously Impedes Traffic.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 14.—The snowstorm which began Monday seriously impeding trolley traffic and steam railroad business during the night, raged yesterday morning with apparently unabated strength. Up to 8 o'clock eleven inches of snow had fallen in this city. On all the lines of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad in the northern part of Connecticut the morning trains were all behind their schedule, in some instances two to four hours late.

Schooner Goes Ashore.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Dec. 14.—A three-masted schooner, lumber-laden, went ashore during the night on Squash Meadow Shoal, off this port, and it is believed to be in a dangerous condition. A high wind and a tremendous sea prevented tugs from venturing out.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 14.—The worst gale in fifteen years swept this island Monday night. The barque Fanny and the schooners Hibernia, Tidal Wave and Herald Parks were driven ashore and totally wrecked. Many other vessels were damaged. A number of ships, including the steamers Sicily, Neptune, Algerine and Dares, and several sailing craft have been delayed by the storm.

FOR TRIAL AT CLEVELAND.

Mrs. Chadwick Left New York Tuesday Night At 8 O'Clock.

New York, Dec. 14.—Mrs. Chadwick started for Cleveland on the Buffalo Limited, which left the Grand Central Station, on the New York Central, at 8 o'clock last night.

Before leaving she made a statement, in which she declared that she would pay all her obligations and that her sole purpose in going was to face her creditors. She said that she could have obtained bail here if she wished to, and that one of the most prominent men in the country had offered yesterday to go on her bond.

Mrs. Chadwick left here in custody of U. S. Marshal Henkel and Deputy Marshals Kumb and Kelker. Marshal Henkel said that he would leave the train at Poughkeepsie, but that the other marshals would go on to Cleveland with the prisoner. The train is scheduled to arrive in Cleveland at 10 minutes before noon to-day.

CAME TO QUICK END

Sudden Stoppage of the North Grey Election Trial.

CAUSED BY DISSOLUTION

Conservative Council Opposed Decision of Judges Until Corroboration of the Official Telegram Was Obtained—Raised Technical Objections and a Lengthy Argument Ensued—Suit Proceedings Dropped.

Owen Sound, Dec. 14.—The North Grey election trial came to a rather sudden termination yesterday morning, when the petition was dropped owing to the announcement of the dissolution of the Legislature. Counsel for the petitioner, who had marked time, so to speak, at Monday's sitting, raised technical objections yesterday morning, and a lengthy argument ensued. They disputed the effectiveness as evidence of a telegram from the Clerk of the Legislature, and made a plea for better proof, after the court had decided that the fact of dissolution would stop the proceedings. The Conservative counsel were finally satisfied as to the fact of dissolution by telephoning to Toronto, and the proceedings of the trial then dropped.

Telegram From Toronto.

Immediately on the opening at 10 o'clock the Registrar, Mr. C. S. Grant, handed the Judges a telegram, which Chief Justice Moss informed the audience announced that his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor had been pleased to dissolve the Legislative Assembly.

"What is the effect of that, Mr. Blackstock?" asked the Chief Justice.

"It is quite impossible that we should affect any surprise when met by any move of that kind," replied the Conservative counsel. "We have been threatened with it, and told that the proceedings were not to be allowed to go on. In the first place there is no evidence before the court to act upon."

"Don't you admit this telegram?"

"We are not here to admit anything. We submit that the court ought not to act upon information of this kind. Unless some legal evidence is forthcoming this investigation ought to go on. In addition to that, we think that dissolution does not affect these proceedings." Mr. Blackstock further argued that the fact of dissolution stopping proceedings was based on the old procedure, when election cases were tried by the Committee on Privileges and Elections, which was dissolved by the dissolution of the House. Further, the seat being vacant by the acceptance of office, dissolution does not make the seat vacant. There was thus an anomalous position. It was a case where the court could only act upon evidence which was strictly legal in its character. The petitioner had at great expense on two occasions been prepared for trial, and on one occasion five weeks ago it had been suggested that dissolution would take place. Now they were in the middle of the trial, when it was said to have taken place.

Court Justified in Waiting.

Chief Justice Moss said that the only thing to do would be to adjourn until they were satisfied of the facts. They could not ask the court to proceed when there was doubt of their having proper authority.

"Unless your Lordships are in possession of legal evidence of dissolution," said Mr. Blackstock, "we submit that you are bound to treat it as though there was no evidence."

"You can hardly say there is no evidence," returned the Chief Justice. "Isn't there enough to justify the court in saying that the proceedings should stand to give opportunity for the production of proper proof?"

"We submit not," Mr. Blackstock replied, and the Chief Justice added that the court did not want to stultify itself by proceeding without any authority.

Judge Street said the telegram was from the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.

Mr. Blackstock admitted there was some evidence, but wanted to go on until there there was some legal evidence. In addition he contended that the dissolution did not affect the proceedings.

Mr. Watson, for the respondent, said there could be no doubt of the dissolution. The evidence before the court was of the highest character—from the highest and one of the most honorable officials of the Assembly. It was important the information should be given, so that the court would not be proceeding without authority. "My learned friend," he added, "thinks this is a move to put an end to the proceedings."

"We must not drift into politics," corrected the Chief Justice gently and there was a laugh.

Mr. Watson pointed out that dissolution had been contemplated for some time. At the same time the election they were investigating had taken place nearly two years ago, and it was six months after the filing of the petition before application had been made, so that the delay arose from the petitioners' default. "And one can concede—"

Chief Justice Moss—There is a good deal of inconsistency in this matter.

Mr. Watson—That the petitioner did not wish to proceed.

An End to the Proceedings.

The decision of the court on the matter was then given by the Chief Justice. Assuming that dissolution has been ordered, they had no difficulty in coming to the conclusion that the dissolution would put an end to the proceedings. The Legislature act was silent on the point, but the trial of petitions having been transferred from committees of the House to Judges and dissolution having put an end to trials before committees, they saw no reason why they should not be bound by the old rule of Parliament which affected the committee. The same view had been taken by the Supreme Court in the Halton case, and he thought also in Lisgar case. He was not aware there was any difference on this point between the Dominion and the Provincial Acts. The question was, then, simply one of fact as to the dissolution. The telegram from the Clerk of the House was not legal evidence, but it certainly was something they could not disregard or pass by and treat as waste paper or mere idle words. The case should stand adjourned until absolute proof could be made. If it could not be made, of course the trial must proceed.

Mr. Blackstock further objected, and the court adjourned till 11.35, when he said he had learned, though not from an official source, that the dissolution was a fact.

"It being now taken," said the Chief Justice, "that the dissolution has occurred, the result is, as we have already said, the petition is dropped and nothing remains for us to do in the matter here."

Mr. Blackstock asked if the court would make an order for the return of the petitioner's deposit, to which the Chief Justice replied that that might be made by one of the judges of the Court of Appeal in the usual way. The court then adjourned.

A STRENUOUS OPPOSITION.

Drove Out the Premier's Guard and Wrecked the House.

Buda-Peath, Hungary, Dec. 14.—Violent as have been the scenes at past sessions of the Hungarian Parliament, they have been entirely overshadowed by the wreckage effected by members of the Opposition party yesterday morning in their successful effort to prevent the opening of Parliament. Not one of the Government's supporters had arrived, and the Opposition had the House to themselves, with the exception of the personal guard of forty men provided for the protection of the President of the House. The presence of these guards, who occupied the approaches to the Presidential platform, seemed to inflame the Opposition Deputies, who shouted opprobrious terms at the "Hungarians who could perform such shameful service." The Deputies then approached the platform, and a scuffle with the guards ensued, and Deputies fought their way to the platform, tore it to pieces, scattered the debris over the House, tore to atoms the codex of law occupying the President's tables, smashed the tables and chairs, and destroyed the platform and distributed the broken pieces among the Deputies, who, thus armed, attacked the guards, and after a brief fight, drove them from the House. The desks were then torn down and the interior of the House was practically completely wrecked. None of the Liberal members ventured inside the House, and the Opposition members, after completing the ruin, established themselves on the site, erstwhile occupied by the Presidential rostrum.

Vessel Stopped and Searched.

Perim, Aden, Dec. 12.—A boat from the British cruiser Fox yesterday afternoon boarded the British steamer at Leonard's, credited with carrying coal for the Russian second Pacific squadron, and brought her into port. After an inquiry she was released and resumed her voyage to Mozambique.

A CONFERENCE ON MISSIONS.

ing of the Gospel to those who have not the privileges it gives.

In connection with the Presbyterian church, there are nine fields of operation. There is the Maritime Section, including Trinidad, New Hebrides and Corea. The other six are those in the North-west, for the Indians and the Chinese; in China, where Miss Dickson, formerly of Peterborough, is working; in the centre of India, and in Formosa. The difficulty with the work is that the church is unable to extend it as fast as they would like. It has recently been necessary to send word to foreign workers that they must retrench, because the funds would not allow the present expenditure. The society was face to face with a deficit of $35,000, a great portion of which was incurred by expenses incidental to the recent Boxer movement in China, in which much property had been destroyed, and in other portions by the caring for orphans in China.

It had been said that the church was doing all that it could, but this was not the case, for out of the 45 Presbyteries in Canada only 14 of them raised enough to support a single missionary.

This Presbytery is giving at the rate of 25 1-2 cents per communicant for foreign missionary work, which was not as much as it should be, although it is better than those on the east and west of it. The average giving of each family in this Presbytery for missions is one cent per week.

The people are willing to do their share when the facts are known and they become alive to it.

The only way we can look for the largest success in this work is by showing sympathy in it, giving our prayers and means to it.

Miss Florence Miller followed Dr. MacTavish's address with a vocal solo, which she rendered in splendid voice.

Rev. Mr. Gaudier was the next speaker, who said that his work was to tell the story of the growth and progress of the missionary enterprises in Honan, China.

There is no doubt that the missionary enterprise of the last century was inspired by the revival of Whitfield and Wesley. Between twenty-five and thirty years ago there was a religious revival in the neighbourhood of New Glasgow and Picton, and many of the converts were young men, who after their conversion went to Queen's College and inspired there a revival of spiritual life which found expression in a desire to go into missionary work. Many offered their services, but the funds would not allow all of them to be sent into the foreign field, and a Missionary Association among the students was formed. Two students, one each from Knox and Queen's Colleges offered their services to their respective Associations and their applications were favourably considered, and they were sent to the foreign field. Messrs. Smith and Goforth were the men who offered their services and were accepted.

Honan, an unassailed fortress of heathenism in China, was the field chosen, and it is a province of 15,000,000 population with no Protestant missionaries except the two who were sent there by the two colleges. But since that time reinforcements have been sent, contingent upon the revival of interest in the work there.

The result was that inside of 18 months seven missionaries had been sent out, six of them married, and all that due to the revival of religion in Queen's College. But the way of the redemption is not easy, and the way in Honan was hard, but gradually a foothold was secured, although great difficulties were encountered, not the least of these being the Chinese-Pap war and the Boxer movement.

But after the trouble had died away the missionaries again returned to their work, who were welcomed back warmly by the people, who showed a marked change in their attitude towards them, and were more willing to receive the Gospel.

Two centres have been firmly established, and the missionaries are trying to establish a third station. But while there are men willing to go, the funds to send them are lacking.

The speaker made a stirring appeal to the audience to do their part in supplying the necessary money to prosecute the work in this part of China.

Miss Margaret Fox then rendered a vocal solo in a happy manner.

Rev. Dr. McKay was the next to address the meeting and he said that he would not take up the time of the meeting after two such addresses as had been delivered.

He spoke of the extent of the work in China, where he said there were 1,700 counties, in each of which there are from 300,000 to 400,000 people. The missionaries there have asked for one missionary for each of the 24 counties in Honan, and he said that he believed that the Presbytery of Peterborough is able to supply the remaining twelve men necessary to make one for each of the 24 counties.

The whole world is now open to Christian missions, the last country to open being Thibet, recently opened by the British Armies.

The money is coming too, said the speaker, and this last few years have seen some large subscriptions to the work of missions, which is a hopeful sign. "We are going to see the fulfillment of the promise—that the Gospel shall be preached to every creature," prophesied the speaker.

There are some discouragements, but there are also hopeful signs, and he believed that the world was on the verge of a great revival. The people all over are giving more money than ever for missions.

Mr. McKay closed his address with an appeal to his hearers to support missions more liberally in future.

The meeting closed with the benediction.

POSITION OF AURTRALIA.

Premier Deakin Does Not Want to Make a Bargain.

London, Dec. 14.—In the resumed discussion of Premier Deakin's preferential resolutions in the Australian Federal House, Premier Reid said he foresaw a difficulty in extending their exchanges with the Mother Land, and at the same time protecting their own productions. British statesmen at one time thought the welfare of the Empire lay in restriction of the colonial trade, yet, in spite of the great liberty given to the self-governing colonies, the feeling of loyalty was worth many armies, and had grown. He did not wonder at Premier Balfour and the labor members showing horror at the taxing of food.

Referring to the increased cost of Imperial defence, he said. "We are bound to look at the responsibilities of the Empire in the face, and must not forget the only thing between us and invasion is the British fleet. We should not, however, mix such feeling with the desire of making a bargain. The question is, what we are prepared to give in exchange for the British market. If nothing, we are face to face with a spectacle which doesn't command admiration."

The motion authorized the Government to offer preference for preferences. This was impossible in the present state of politics in Great Britain. He favored Mr. Balfour's idea of a conference. If the British favor a preference, his objection would go. If a preferential tariff were to be avoided, he was in favor of making the Australian tariff as nearly as possible a revenue tariff as against the Mother Land. The debate was adjourned.

BIG SHUFFLE IN MUNICIPAL POLITICS

Alderman Best Proposes to Withdraw From Mayoralty Contest at the Last Minute in Favour of Mr. W. H. Moore, Who is to be Elected by Acclamation---His Motive to Remain in Council as Chairman of Board of Works---Wants to Complete the Work on Streets and Bridges---A Proposition Made to Ald. Morrison, Who Declares He is out of the Contest for Good.

The present prospects are that Ald. Best may not be Mayor of Peterborough in 1905. During the last few days a considerable change has been made in the complexion of things, and what looked like a walk-over for Ald. Best, after the withdrawal of Ald Morrison, is changed somewhat.

The Examiner learns from the very highest authority, although not from Ald. Morrison himself, that recently Ald. Best approached him and enquired if he was out of the Mayoralty fight for good, and upon being assured that he was, the former said that he was beginning to think that he would like to stay in the Council as Alderman for another year instead of being Mayor, in order to complete some work on the streets, which has been inaugurated under his chairmanship of the Board of Works. He proposed then that he would ostensibly remain in the field until nearly the end, and at the last minute drop out in favour of Mr. W. H. Moore, who, he thought would then be elected by acclamation.

MR. W. H. MOORE
Who, According to Ald. Best's Proposition, is to be the next Mayor.

Mr. Moore's name has been mentioned frequently recently as a possible candidate for the Mayoralty, but it was not generally thought that he entertained the idea seriously.

Mr. Moore is a member of the Board of Water Commissioners, which office, of course, he could not continue to fill were he to accept the Mayoralty. If the plan as outlined is carried out, and Mr. Moore is made Mayor for 1905, Ald. Best will again run for Alderman, with a view of holding the chairmanship of the Board of Works in the next Council and finishing up his contemplated improvements to the streets, which include the repairing of the bridges over the creek on Hunter, Simcoe, Charlotte and George streets, and the Ashburnham bridge.

Mr. Moore was interviewed this morning on the question, and said that he had no intention of running for Mayor, and had heard nothing of the arrangements as above. He was thoroughly satisfied with the present position held by him, that of chairman of the Town Trust Commissioners, and member of the Board of Water Commissioners, and it would be impossible to continue in the occupation of these offices if he were Mayor. He has served for a number of years in the council, and on two occasions was a candidate for Mayor, but he stated that since on each of these occasions he was told by the electors that he was not wanted, it is now his turn to tell those who want him to stand for Mayor that he does not want the position, and will not accept it.

Mr Moore's denial of any knowledge of the plan proposed by Ald. Best, does not, however, prove that such a plan is not contemplated, it may be without the knowledge or consent of Mr. Moore, and the Examiner's informant is positive in his assertion that such a proposition was made to Ald. Morrison with respect to Mr. Moore, but it now seems certain in the face of that gentleman's denial that he will not be a party to Ald. Best's proposal.

Next year's Council and who shall compose it is a subject which might well be given serious consideration.

There will be very few of the older members of the Council in that body next year, and the matters which will come up for consideration then are those which will require the best thought of the best men procurable, and it is to be hoped that the Board of Trade will be successful in inducing some of the business men to accept nomination.

STREET CAR ACCIDENT.

Mrs. Jos. Moncrief of Otonabee, Seriously, if not Fatally Injured.

AT NOON TO-DAY.

Car Struck Gutter at Corner Dublin & George Streets—Base of Skull and Collar Bone Fractured—Still Unconscious.

Another accident, in all probability the most serious that has happened since the inauguration of the street railway service here, occurred about one o'clock this afternoon at the corner of George and Dublin street, and as a result of it, Mrs. Jos. Moncrief, of Otonabee, was very seriously, if not fatally, injured. At the hour of going to press she was still lying unconscious at the Nicholls Hospital, where she was taken after the accident. Medical examination revealed the fact that she had sustained a fracture of the base of the skull, and that her right collar bone was broken. The side of her head was badly cut, and one of her arms much bruised. Her condition is considered to be most critical.

Mrs. Moncrief was driving alone in a single rig along Dublin street westward. She attempted to cross the car track on George street in front of a south-bound car, No. 13. Mrs. Moncrief evidently misjudged the speed of the car, which was moving at a fairly rapid rate, and the cutter in which she was seated was struck by the car and Mrs. Moncrief was hurled to the ground. The car was brought to a standstill as quickly as possible, and the injured lady was carried by the conductor and motorman to Mr. Warne's grocery store, on the corner of George and Dublin street. Mrs. Moncrief was in an unconscious state and was bleeding from the wound in the forehead.

Mr. Warne hastened to the nearest telephone and sent for medical aid and the Dan Spence ambulance which were quickly on the scene. Doctors Carmichael and Young were the attending physicians.

Mrs. Moncrief was still unconscious after reaching the hospital and it was some time before she regained consciousness.

Inquiry was made at the office of the Street Railway as to the names of the conductor and motorman, but no information of any description could be obtained from the office.

A full investigation will no doubt be made into the cause of the accident. A person driving west on Dublin street would, under ordinary circumstances be able to see a car approaching from the north, as there is no obstruction of view. There are no houses on the corner, but simply the grounds of the George street school. It is therefore difficult to explain the cause of the accident except it was that the speed of the car was misjudged or that the horse become unmanageable. The horse, however, did not run away and neither the animal nor the sleigh were injured to any extent.

CARNEY TO ANSWER SERIOUS CHARGES

Arrested Last Night on two Charges of Stealing--Remanded for a Day.

John Carney was arrested last night at Dunn's Hotel on two charges of stealing. He appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the Police Court this morning and was remanded until to-morrow morning.

Yesterday Chief Ramsel received a letter from Arch. Sloan, Chief Constable of Gravenhurst to the effect that the latter had a warrant for the arrest of John Carney, supposed to be a resident of Peterborough. He was dressed in a gray suit of clothes and mixter overcoat. He was accused of stealing the clothing in which he was dressed, also a pair of new shoes, a pair of pants, a pair of nickel plated skates, a quantity of underwear, one white shirt, a yellow coloured belt and telescope valise. He left the railway camp near Bala on Sunday, Dec. 11.

The local police at once instigated a search for the party in question. It was soon learned that Carney was in town and that he had stolen a quantity of goods from his father, Robert Carney, of town, in the latter's absence. It seems that he carried off from his father's house on Tuesday last a valise containing a suit of clothes, a hat, a pair of boots, two suits of underclothes, a pair of rubbers.

At the Court this morning he was charged with stealing the above mentioned articles, in value over $10.00, from Robert Carney. He will have some defence to make to-morrow.

Case of Wilson vs. Mann at County Court Yesterday.

The December sittings of the County Court before His Honour Judge Weller, and a jury opened here yesterday at the Court House. As there was no criminal business the Grand Jury were dispensed with, and the only other case on the docket proceeded with.

The Wilson Company, of Toronto, claimed $400.00 from Mr. John Mann, baker of town, the price of a bread moulding machine, which they claimed to have sold to him. Mr. Mann disputed this and produced evidence to show that what he ordered was a Thompson Bread Moulder to be the same as that in use by Mr. Nehemiah Lamb. The evidence was very conflicting and a great many witnesses including local bakers were called as witnesses.

The evidence was all in at 9 o'clock and the jury were addressed by Counsel for both sides, and the evidenced summed up by the Judge. The jury retired to consider the case at 11 o'clock, and after about an hour's deliberation returned a unanimous verdict in favour of the Wilson Company.

The defendent's solicitor was Mr. D. W. Dumble, K.C., and Mr. S. F. Medd and Mr. Davidson, for the plaintiff.

Bargains in Winter Millinery.
Store changes, alterations and improvements at Miss Delaney's necessitate immediate removal of our stock of millinery to enable the workmen to proceed. Ladies who are interested will know that to sell quickly we have had to reduce prices on every hat, trimmed and untrimmed, as well as on every other article in the store. This is the only way to get the desired room. We may confidently say that this is the great millinery chance of the year. Enough cut off prices to almost buy two hats for the price of one. RE-ELECT OFFICERS AT ANNUAL MEETING

Y.M.C.A. Active Members Held Enthusiastic Meeting Last Evening.

Different Departments of the Work Presented Favourable Reports—Need for Dormitories.

Separate Building for Boys Needed—Col. E. B. Edwards is Again President.

The annual meeting of the Active members of the Y.M.C.A. was held last evening when the officers were re-elected, Col. E. B. Edwards being president. The meeting was a most enthusiastic one and the prospects in every department of the work were reported to be bright. The need for domitories was shown to be an urgent one owing to the great influx of young men into the town. Mr. Richard Hall was present and strongly recommended the building of a separate building for boys. The date of the annual meeting was changed to May 1st.

The annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association was held in the Association parlours last, evening and was attended by a fairly large representation of the active members. The meeting was full of interest and enthusiasm. "It was the best annual meeting I ever attended, and I have attended a good many" said one member of long standing at the conclusion of the meeting and this sentiment seemed to prevail amongst all present. All seemed determined to go forward to greater things and to accomplish more than ever in all departments of Association work. The past work had been good but the future must be better was the general feeling manifested.

The general opinion of the meeting was that dormitories should be erected and a boys' separate building constructed at the earliest possible date.

A delightful tea was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the active members in the Board room and at eight o'clock the annual meeting was opened in the parlour by the singing of "Blest be the Tie that Binds." The chair was occupied by Col. E. B. Edwards, President. After prayer by Mr. Wm. Madill, the chairman gave a short address,

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

Col. Edwards pointed out the many great privileges of the Association, afforded both by the advantages of the building and the work being accomplished. He referred to the responsibilities of the members to the Association and to the advantages which Peterborough had over other towns by reason of possessing so many young men. An advance had been made during the past year by appointing a trained graduate as a Physical Director, and in the agitation which was now on foot for installing a system of dormitories. The Y.M.C.A. had its unselfish side and the foreign work of the Association gave plenty of scope for that. He referred to Mrs. Nicholls' great gift to the town in the Y.M.C.A. building and her kindness would always be remembered with feelings of gratitude by the members.

RICHARD HALL'S REMARKS.

Mr. Richard Hall, one of the Executors of the Nicholls Estate, a trustee of the Building, and one who has much to do with the erection of the building spoke of the work of the Association comparing the present conditions in the town with that when he come here forth-three years ago as a young man. He heartily favoured the erection of a special building for the younger boys, on the south side of the present structure and while he had nothing to say against the dormitory idea he thought the claims of the younger boys were more pressing. He wished the Association every success in its work and in its efforts to extend its influence and increase its membership.

RELIGIOUS DEPARTMENT.

The presentation of reports was the next order of business.

Mr. Geo. Robinson presented a report of the Religious Department. The work in this department had been well maintained. Forty Sunday meetings had been held with an aggregate attendance of 2,160. Shop Bible Classes had been conducted in five shops at the noon hour; there had been 33 sessions with a total attendance of 1,320. Ten Bible Study Classes had been conducted for all classes of membership. There was an enrolment of 167 and a total attendance of 2,015 at the 216 class sessions. The sum of $36.00 had been raised by contributions from the members for the Farquhar Fund. A most encouraging start had been made for the new season's work. A Gymnasium Men's Bible Club had been organized with an enrolment of twenty-five. The Men's Sunday meetings had never been as large or the interest as deep. The Association should contribute more largely to the Farquhar work department Twenty-four had professed Christianity as a result of the Sunday meetings.

PHYSICAL DEPARTMENT.

Mr J. H. Connal presented a report of the Physical Department under the leadership of Mr. Aplin, from Oct. to April with the help of Mr. E. E. Lord and other leaders a slight increase was made over last year. The senior classes were smaller and the junior larger than ever before. The total attendance was 6,700 in 18 weekly classes, the total enrolment being 366. A basketball league covered three months of the year and was composed of six teams. The Athletics won the cup after some splendid contests. A tennis club had been conducted during the summer, the football club figured in the Midland League; special attention had been given to swimming, the instructors being Messrs. F. H. Brittain and M. Maguire, Sergt-Major Brittain conducted the fencing class. The boys closing gymnasium exhibition in April marked a very successful season. The coming of Mr. Holmes a graduate in the Training School was a forward step in the part of the management. The senior classes have increased and a business men's class organized. Special apparatus had been secured for examination of the physical capabilities of the men, before entering and before leaving the classes. Reference was made to W. S. Maguire, assistant physical director in Toronto.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.

Mr. C. D. McFarlane presented the report of the Educational Department. Classes were conducted in the following subjects, the plan being, to have the courses of special help to shop men:—Arithmetic and geometry, writing, spelling, mechanical drawing, algebra, and trigonometry. The total enrolment was 65 and 7k class sessions. The teachers were the best in town. There was an increasing number using the reading room and the accommodation was altogether inadequate. There was need for a well-equipped laboratory for electricity and other scientific subjects.

One of the most encouraging reports presented was that of the Boys' Department presented by Mr. G. L. Gaffey. It had been a banner year for boys' work and this was largely due to the splendid work of Mr. Aplin. Thirty Sunday afternoon meetings were held with an average attendance of 35. During the Easter week Mr. Alpin conducted a mission for boys. Seven meetings were held with a total of 210. Twenty boys had decided to begin the Christian life at these meetings. Two boys' prayer circles were held with a membership of twelve. The boys' rink was a good success with a membership of sixty boys and intermediates. The annual boys' camp was attended by 32, including leaders and was one of the best ever held. The boys' library had now 300 volumes and was well used. New books were needed. The Boys' Bible Study groups, six in number met every Sunday morning from October to April, sixty-five being enrolled.

Mr. J. W. Bennett remarked that this report was the best yet presented and certainly showed an encouraging condition of affairs.

MEMBERSHIP ROLL.

Mr. R. Dormer reported regarding the membership. There had been a slight increase over last year in spite of very heavy losses by removal and from other causes. The committee was still hopeful of reaching the 1,000 mark. The state of the roll at present was:—Honourary, 16; sustaining, 63; seniors, full, 280; seniors, limited, 715, intermediate 105; boys, 112; total, 796. Of these 396 are active and 660 associate. Forty-six members were transferred to other associations. Peterborough offered better privileges than any other town of its size in the Dominion and the membership should be consequently larger than it is at present.

THE SOCIAL SIDE.

Mr. R. B. Harding spoke regarding the social work and the Strangers' Fel-

OYSTER SUPPER AND BAZAAR.

St. Luke's Mother's Guild's Successful Venture.

Good Crowd and Pleasant Evening at St. Lukes, Last Night.

The oyster supper held last night under the auspices of St. Luke's Mothers' Guild, was a gratifying success. The attendance was large and the financial returns were entirely satisfactory. The congregation of St. Luke's turned out in large numbers to encourage the ladies in their work. The oysters were there in plenty, and the seat with which they were appropriated by the visitors was sufficient evidence of their quality. Two booths were supplied with fancy goods and candy and did a splendid business during the evening, and the ladies in charge of them are to be congratulated upon the alacrity displayed by the purchasers in parting with their money in exchange for the goods, which alacrity was accentuated, no doubt by the smiles of the ladies in charge.

The fancy goods booth was well looked after by Mrs. T. B. Maniece, Miss Alice Dawson, Miss Letitia Quirk and Miss Alice Carter, while the Candy counter was in charge of Miss Edna Rogers and Miss Vivian Bennett.

The returns from the sale and oyster supper were such as to satisfy the ladies that their efforts had met with success.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

OUR NEW GOVERNOR

His Excellency and Party Arrived at Canada's Capital.

SALUTE OF NINETEEN GUNS

Warm Welcome By the People of Ottawa —Presentation of the Civic Address and the Reply of Earl Grey—The Influence of National Character Strongly Emphasized By His Excellency.

Ottawa, Dec. 14.—The new vice-regal regime opened in Ottawa yesterday under most favorable circumstances. His Excellency Earl Grey and party arrived in the capital at 11 o'clock in the morning and were given a right royal welcome by hundreds of citizens. The trip from Halifax to Ottawa was greatly enjoyed and was made in the record time of 35 hours. It was an ideal winter day, cold but bright and bracing. Flags and bunting in profusion made the station platform very attractive. As the train pulled in sharp on time, a detachment of the Second Field Battery thundered out a salute of 19 guns. Earl and Lady Grey and party, on stepping off the train, were greeted by a royal salute from the band and guard of honor, and by enthusiastic cheers from the assembled throng. After inspecting the troops the vice-regal party took their seats in the comfortable fur arranged carriages and, accompanied by the mounted escort of dragoons, drove to Rideau Hall. Among those at the station to extend a welcome were: Brigadier-General Lake, Lord Aylmer and the officers of the headquarters staff, Sir Elzear Taschereau, Bir Richard Cartwright, Acting Prime Minister; Hon. Sydney Fisher and Hon. R. W. Scott representing the Cabinet, the Mayor, aldermen and civil officials.

Address of Welcome.

Yesterday afternoon, the Mayor, aldermen and officials drove to Rideau Hall and presented a civic address of welcome. They were received by Col. Hanbury Williams, military secretary; Capt. Newton, A.D.C., and Capt. Toller, A.D.C., and were assigned a position to the right of the raised dias. Shortly after their Excellencies, with their daughters, Lady Sybil and Lady Evelyn, entered. Col. Williams presented the Mayor, who read the civic address, which was handed to His Excellency in illuminated book form, by City Clerk Henderson. His Excellency made a patriotic reply, expressing appreciation of the cordial welcome which he said he did not take as personal, but because he came as a representative of His Majesty the King. His Majesty, he said, remembers with pleasure his visit to Canada, in 1860, and is pleased at the remarkable development taking place in the Dominion. In conclusion, he said:

"If you will keep the character of your people high, strenuous, virtle, imaginative, heroic, and Imperial, no one can venture to set a limit to the degree of the influence which will be exercised on the future of mankind by the great Canadian nation composed as it is of all that is best in England, Scotland, Ireland and France, and privileged as it is to be a factor of ever increasing importance in the British Empire. There is no reason why the sons of Canada should not, in the life-time of your children, by reason of their numbers and of their character, exercise an all powerful, and in time to come, perhaps a controlling influence on the development of the majesty and destiny of the Empire whose standard is righteousness and whose path is duty."

Refreshments were then served and the aldermen were presented to the members of the vice-regal party. Last evening the party attended the Russell Theatre.

Revolutionists Triumph.

Buenos Ayres, Dec. 14.—A treaty of peace between the Government of Paraguay and the revolutionists was signed Monday night by President Escurria and Gen. Ferreira. The treaty marks the complete triumph of the revolution, and is based upon the resignation of President Escurria and election of Senor Gauna, a supporter of the revolution, to the Presidency. Minister of the Interior Emilio Perez and Minister of Justice Cayetomo Carreras, both members of the present Government, will be nominated by the revolutionists. The present army will be dissolved to be reorganized later by officers of the military school. The revolutionary forces will be dispersed only after the constitution of the new Government and army and the amnesty of political offenders.

Gendarmes Fire On Mob.

Madrid, Dec. 14.—During the feast of the Virgin at Valencia, a procession of 600 women, bearing lighted tapers to the cathedral, came in conflict with a Republican demonstration, and a general fight ensued. Gendarmes fired several rounds from their carbines into the mob. Many persons, including women, were wounded.

Von Plehve's Assassins Sentenced.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 14.—The trial of Sasonoff, who assassinated Interior Minister Von Plehve in July last, and of Sikorifsky, his accomplice, took place yesterday behind closed doors before the Court of Appeals, and resulted in the sentencing of Sasonoff to penal servitude for life and Sikorifsky to 20 years' penal servitude.

Will Meet Dec. 20.

Paris, Dec. 14.—The International Commission to enquire into the North Sea incident is expected to meet here Dec. 20 and proceed with the selection of a first admiral to complete the commission, and arrange the procedure. The real work will begin early in January.

Traveler Ends His Life.

London, Dec. 14.—Rufus Cobleigh, a traveler, committed suicide at his home, 58 South Euclid avenue, London, yesterday morning by cutting his throat with a razor. Cobleigh was 55 years of age, and one of the oldest employes of Frost & Wood, implement manufacturers. His accounts were straight. No reason whatever can be assigned for the act. Cobleigh left a note, saying that he was afraid he was going insane.

There is nothing like Sunlight Soap for Household Utensils.

When you have to use hard water it is not an easy matter to wash household utensils. To do good washing you should have good soap and soft water (rain water). If you use hard water you must have good soap, and the best soap you can get is Sunlight Soap because it softens the hard water and makes a copious creamy lather. Use Sunlight Soap for all household purposes and the results will surprise you.

Felt Weak and Nervous.

Had Faint and Dizzy Spells.

These symptoms arise from a weak condition of the heart and nerves. Wherever there are sickly people with weak hearts and deranged nerves, will be found an effectual remedy.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Through the medium of the nervous system, they impart a strengthening and restorative influence to every organ and tissue of the body.

They restore enfeebled, enervated, exhausted, devitalized, or overworked men and women to perfect constitutional power.

Miss Maggie L. Cleveland, Bayswater, N.S., tells how she was cured in the following words:—

"I was sick for the past year, and became thoroughly run down. I had faint and dizzy spells, and felt weak and nervous all the time. I tried numerous remedies, but could get no help. I then read in the paper about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and got a box of them. Before I had used one-half the box I began to get better, so got another one, and by the time the two were finished I was as well as ever."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25. All dealers, or THE T. MILBURN CO., LIMITED, TORONTO, ONT.

Colonies Protective.

London, Dec. 14.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Hugh Cecil, speaking at Henley, said that though a majority in Great Britain who were in favor of free trade, the colonies were protective so that each approached the preference question from a different point of view. If German and American imports were an injury to Great Britain, then British exports were an injury to Canada. Canada was thus being asked to submit to an injury, which was a very poor way of showing her Imperial regard.

Venice Church Crumbling.

Venice, Dec. 13.—Engineers report that the condition of the Basilica of St. Mark's is almost alarming. The whole building shows weakness. The foundations are bending and cracking, the walls are sinking, and the ceilings of two of the vaults threaten to give way. If they fall it may cause most of the Basilica to give way. The engineers recommend the immediate erection of scaffolding, and propose a thorough restoration of the whole building, including reparation of the foundations.

May Remove the Poles.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

No Tariff Changes Yet.

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—Hon. Mr. Fielding's departure for Europe is taken to indicate that there will be no interference with the tariff this year. Had any revision been contemplated he would have remained to consult with his colleagues. The next budget will be uninteresting, but will probably announce the fact that during recess the tariff commission will undertake an investigation. During Mr. Fielding's absence Sir Richard Cartwright will be acting Minister of Finance.

Why Do Women Worry

AND THEREBY EXHAUST THE NERVOUS SYSTEM AND RUIN HEALTH?

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The worry habit is an unmitigated evil.

Worry is by far the most frequent cause of nervous disease.

Because of the multitude of household and family cares, and because of the nature of their employment, women are especially liable to give way to worry and anxiety.

The result is wasted nerve force, weakness and disease.

It may be nervous headaches, sleeplessness, irritability, indigestion, discouragement and melancholy, or weakness and irregularities peculiarly feminine.

The only way to restore health and strength is by increasing the nerve force in the body, and this is best accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Make a test of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food by noting your increase in weight from week to week while using it.

Notice the improvement in your appetite, and how much better you rest and sleep.

The healthful appearance of women who have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the best proof of what it will do in the way of steadying and strengthening the nerves, rounding out the form and replacing weakness and disease with new strength and spirits.

Mrs. M. A. Sharp, 346 Dublin street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "For some years I was troubled with indigestion, which developed into nervous dyspepsia, and besides suffering from nervousness, strange dizzy spells would come over me. Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine, I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. It seemed to be the very treatment that I needed, and as a result of the use I am quite restored to health."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 1

"What's the matter with 'er?' asked the merchant.

"Nothin'," Mrs. Hillyer made answer. "I believe it's jest Dr. Jobe's devilment to git even with 'er. You know Mary Hough's a-livin' in Mrs. Dugan's three back rooms with 'er new baby. Well, it got sick—couldn't nurse an' one thing another—an' she got scared an' sent fer Dr. Jobe. You know him an' Mrs. Dugan has been at outs fer the last year. It seems that she kept totin' tales about town in regard to his doin's in Rome 'fore he moved here, an' the upshot of it was that she has about busted his chances with Hallie Irwin. They say he was awfully mad at Mrs. Dugan. Well, when he come to see the baby several of us 'lowed thar'd be some fun, so we went over, the last one of us with a different remedy of some sort an' dead loads o' advice. The fust thing Dr. Jobe did was to drive us all acrost the hall to the settin' room an' begun to examine the baby. But Mrs. Dugan, bless yere soul, accordin' to her that was her house, an' she was Mary Hough's stay an' support, an' she wedged 'erself in the sick-room. Some of us went in the kitchen so we could git a look an' hear what tuck place. He told 'er in plain English to git out, but she didn't budge; he ordered 'er ag'in, but she only stood the firmer. I don't think I ever seed a madder man. His black eyes was jest blazin' an' his hands shook so he could hardly mix his medicines. Then the crash come.

"I'ee ketched 'im prayin' over it."

"Says he to her, 'Have you been handlin' this baby?' An' she says, 'I reckon it's hardly been out o' my lap fer the last two days.' Then says he, with a satisfied grin, 'You'd better not go out to the rest o' them hens in the other room, fer this child's got scarlet fever.' 'Scarlet fever!' yelled Mrs. Dugan, an' she looked like she'd sink in astonishment. 'Why, you don't mean it!' He told 'er yes, that's what ailed the baby, an' that he was goin' to report it to the authorities an' put up a quarantine. Us women all scattered like a flock o' scared blackbirds, but we heard 'em jowerin' clean out to the fence. 'I'm not a-goin' to stay cooped up here that long,' Mrs. Dugan said. 'Yes, you'll have to,' we heard 'im say. 'Gaddin' about like you do, you'd scatter more microbes than a Texas tornado.' After he went off old Dr. Stone passed along on his hoss, an' she went to the gate an' called out to 'im an' tried to git 'im to contradict what Dr. Jobe had said about the disease, but he jest sorter laughed an' said it would be contrary to professional etiquette fer 'im to express an opinion. Further down the street he met Miss Cynthia Gibbs, an' she hauled 'im in an' axed 'im what he thought about the case. It looked like he thought it was powerful funny, fer he mighty nigh split his sides a-laughin'. 'The baby's got some'n',' he said, an' that's all she could git out'n 'im. The marshal come up an' put the red flag on the gate, an' the two women an' the baby's housed up till Dr. Jobe lifts the quarantine. I was jest a-thinkin' me an' Hortense will have a rest. Mrs. Dugan would 'a' met you at the gate to find out about— But I clean forgot to tell Mandy to put the biscuit in the stove an' warm over yore tater pies." And, with a little flush on her face, Mrs. Hillyer rose and tripped from the room.

Hortense Snowden turned from the window, where she had been standing while her aunt was talking, and stood before her uncle.

"George is in love with Lydia Cranston," she said softly. "That's one reason this is going so hard with him."

"Yes, I think he is," replied the old man, "an' I was jest wonderin' of the conviction would have any—you know—effect on her."

"I don't think he's ever spoken one word of love to her," said Hortense. "She is the proudest, haughtiest creature that ever lived and yet at the same time as simple and unaffected as she can be. It seems like she gets the sweet side of her nature from herself and the other from her people. Uncle, they are just about the most aristocratic family that ever lived here."

"Oh, I know that. I don't think I ever seed the major without his silk hat, kid gloves and gold headed cane. Somehow it seems a pity George looked so high, but, Hortie, the boy is jest that way about everything; he will have the best or nothin'. But I reckon he knows about how the Cranstons will look at it—I say I reckon he knows that, an' that's what's made 'im so low spirited."

"That must be it, uncle." And silence fell between them. The sound of the coffee mill came harshly in from the kitchen, and then they heard Mrs. Hillyer singing a hymn as she moved about in the adjoining dining room.

CHAPTER III.

GEORGE BUCKLEY did not come to supper, as usual, and the meal passed awkwardly. Even the efforts Mrs. Hillyer made to enliven the little group fell flat, and she soon found herself as moody as the others. The merchant gulped down a cup of hot, black coffee, ate very lightly of what was on his plate and then went out on the front veranda to smoke.

The evening passed slowly, and about 10 o'clock the family retired. Hillyer could not sleep. His wife, tired as she was, was kept awake by her husband's constant movements. About midnight he got up, half dressed himself and took his hat.

"Whar are you goin'?" asked his wife.

"I'm a-goin' down to satisfy myse'f about George," he said sheepishly. "Thar ain't no use tryin' to hide it; I'm worried."

"Well, I'll be switched!" exclaimed his wife. "But I reckon you mought as well. I don't believe me nor you nuther is goin' to close our eyes tonight unless you do. I'll bet you'll find 'im in bed. No doubt he jest went to the hotel an' got his supper rather than let us know he was drinkin'. He still sleeps at the warehouse, don't he?"

"Yes, he still rooms thar," answered Hillyer, "an' ef thar's no light I'll come right back. Sometimes when he's bothered he sets up an' works on his books."

When her husband had gone Mrs. Hillyer crept up the stairs to Hortense Snowden's room. The girl was sitting up in bed.

"Why, are you awake?" Mrs. Hillyer cried. "I declare, we are all a set o' night owls."

"I haven't slept a wink," was the reply. "Do you know, every sound in your room comes right up that stove flue. I could hear the creaking of your bed, an' just now I heard you talking. Oh, Aunt Martha, where do you think it's going to end?"

"I'll end in a madhouse ef it keeps up," said Mrs. Hillyer, with a little, forced laugh. "I'm goin' to crawl in yore bed. I'm not to say afeard o' sperits, but I am of niggers an' tramps. Phew! I'm all of a shiver. Let's cover up. Hortie, you've always said I was a good woman. Well, I try to be, but I hain't perfect by a long shot. I say I hain't perfect, an' I mean it. You'd say so ef you could see through my outside. I've got one whalin' big fault, an' that is suspicion. Somehow I cayn't root it out. Now, I like George Buckley as well as you or Mr. Hillyer does, but what on earth has made Mr. Hillyer so wrapped up in that boy an' the whole layout o' Buckleys? Why, he's as crazy as a bedbug right now about this trial an' George's condition. Oh, I know you kin say he likes the boy an' all that, but thar are heaps o' boys in the county an' heaps o' folks that's jest as worthy of assistance as the Buckleys."

"Oh, Aunt Martha, you surely don't mean"—

"I don't mean nothin'," interrupted Mrs. Hillyer, "but I'm as sure o' one thing as I am that I got my cold feet agin yore'n, an' that is that Mr. Hillyer hain't told me everything about them Buckleys. He may think I wouldn't keep it, but he hain't let me on to his game."

Hortense had no observation to make, and they lay silent for several minutes. Then the girl spoke:

"George could really bear it much better if he had not met Lydia Cranston. I don't blame him for caring for her, Aunt Martha. She's a splendid girl; we all like her; she's just as frank and open as can be. She's always making fun of her father's family pride. He's got a Cranston tree in the library, but Lydia gets all mixed up when she tries to tell any one who her connections are. I was just thinking. She'll be apt to be disgusted with George if she hears that this has driven him to drink, and"—

"Don't you bother about that," retorted Mrs. Hillyer. "Thar never was a woman that turned agin a man she cared fer on that account; they'll make excuses fer 'em, an' the Lord knows she could fish up a good many to justify George. I know I could. Pore fellow! Jest think o' him tryin' an' tryin' to git his head above water an' that old scamp of a daddy jerkin' 'im down—an' right now when he was gittin' sech a fine start. He could 'a' married that Cranston gal of this thing hadn't come up—I mean he could in time, beca'se it was in 'im."

CHAPTER IV.

HILLYER went out into the starlit night and made his way down to the business portion of the town. He was about to pass the barroom run by Luke Hillhouse, when, hearing the clicking of billiard balls and the rapping of cues, he looked in at the screened door. Two countrymen, without their coats and under broad slouched hats, were playing at the green table, over which hung a glass lamp under a tin shade constructed from a paw dishpan with a hole cut in the bottom, and three or four half drunken negroes were engaged in betting small amounts on a fortune wheel against the wall. Seeing the merchant, Hillhouse, a fat, red faced man with a dyed and waxed mustache, came round to him from behind the counter.

"Lookin' fer George, I'll bet," he said in a friendly, half confidential tone. "He's jest gone, squire." Hillyer had years before been a justice of the peace. "I went with 'im clean to the door of the warehouse an' seed that he went in."

"Then he was"—

"The wust I ever seed, squire. Oh, he could walk all right an' knowed what he was about, but he's a reg'lar rippin' terror. He come in here, I reckon, about an hour ago an' tuck a couple o' drinks an' then sat down over thar at the little table. I 'lowed he was asleep, he was so quiet, an' I reckon everybody else did, fer Bascom Truitt from over in the mountains come in an' begun to talk about old man Buckley's sentence. He hadn't said a word that was wrong, but George heard it an' ris suddenly an' come up to him. 'Yo're a-sayin' that to insult me,' he said, right in Truitt's face. As big as Truitt is you could 'a' knocked 'im down with a feather, but he told George as straight as he could that he never knowed he was thar an' didn't mean no harm nohow; but, sir, George hauled away an' hit 'im in the jaw. It popped like the report of a pistol, an' Truitt mighty nigh went down. We parted 'em without any trouble. In fact, Truitt thinks the world an 'all of 'im. George did 'im a favor a long time back, an' instead o' gittin' mad about it Truitt is worryin' over offendin' the boy. He would have apologized to 'im, but we all persuaded 'im to wait till George was at his-se'f."

The merchant took a long, trembling breath.

"I wish, Hillhouse," he said, "that you wouldn't let 'im have any more liquor if you kin git around it."

"Git around it?" laughed the barkeeper. "If you'll show me a mixer o' drinks in this county that would refuse that feller when he's off I'd like to see 'im. It would cost 'im his life. He's one man, squire, that ortn't to tetch a drap, an' between you an' me I don't think anything but this scrape of his daddy's would have started 'im. George Buckley is the high strung sort that makes either the finest citizens ur the scum o' creation."

"I reckon yo're right," agreed Hillyer, and, turning, he went down to the warehouse, which was in the next block below. He found the front door ajar and saw a light burning in his clerk's room in the rear. Entering and softly treading over the rough floor, which was strewn with chaff and grain and the metal ties of cotton bales, Hillyer stood in the doorway of the young man's room. In a cloud of cigar smoke George Buckley sat near a little table, without his coat, his collar off and his powerful neck showing through his open shirt. He glared up at his employer and then rose to his feet and looked straight at him.

"George," the old man began in a voice that quivered through excessive embarrassment. "I was troubled so much about you that I couldn't sleep, so I got up an' come down. I seed yore light an' couldn't keep from comin' in."

"I don't see that you need bother about me," was Buckley's surprising retort. "I'm no blood kin of yours, Mr. Hillyer."

"George, I'm as good a friend to you as I know how to be, an' I jest want you to know that, an' of thar's any way under the sun that I kin help you I'll do it."

"Then let's me 'n' you come to an understanding," said Buckley. "I don't know exactly how to size you up. I've been thinking about you all this evening, and if I don't understand you better than I have done for several years you and I will part. You can keep the money I've made and saved up, and if I could do it I'd throw the education you gave me in your face. My intelligence has been insulted. You have done all these things for me under the pretense of love, but it was not that. Now let's understand each other."

Hillyer turned as white as death could have made him. His eyes sank to the floor, and, with a halting step, he went to the young man's bed across the room and sat down on the edge of it.

"You do me a great wrong, George," he faltered. "If you knowed my heart"—

"Well, that's all I'm asking. I want to know what it all means. I tell you I'm no fool. It's not whisky in me talking either, for I've puzzled over it for years, an' now that this thing has happened—an' I don't care whether I stay in your town anyway—I'm goin' to be told the truth. What did you give me my education for, and this start in the world? Why, as I look at you gazing at me now it seems to me you are the very personification of the fate that has mocked me ever since I was old enough to know I was alive. Curse it, what's the matter with you? Can't you talk?"

Hillyer rose to his feet. "I'm goin' to leave you, George," he said. "Tomorrow we'll talk this over. You are in no condition to"—

Taking a swift, steady stride forward, the young man laid his hands on the merchant's shoulders and forced him back to his seat on the bed. "No," he said; "you don't leave here tonight until you have answered my question and satisfied me."

Hillyer leaned forward, his face in his hands, and groaned.

"Then, George, I'll be obliged to speak of something that has not passed my lips in thirty years, but maybe it is best fer me to do it, considerin' everything. Set down. I kin talk better if you won't stand so close an' look at me so straight. You've had yore trouble, an' ef you have the heart I think you have you'll be sorry fer me, an' me an' you maybe will be truer friends in the future. Gi' me time. I'll git it out."

George Buckley threw himself into the chair at the table. There was a pause. A train passed on the track within twenty yards of the rear door of the warehouse, and the floor shook. A pistol shot was heard, followed by the yelping of a wounded dog at the other end of the street. The town slept.

Treated by Three Doctors for a Severe Attack of Dyspepsia,

Got No Relief From Medicines, But Found It At Last In

Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mrs. Frank Hutt, Morrisburg, Ont., was one of those troubled with this most common of stomach troubles. She writes:—"After being treated by three doctors, and using many advertised medicines, for a severe attack of Dyspepsia, and receiving no benefit, I gave up all hope of ever being cured. Hearing Burdock Blood Bitters so highly spoken of, I decided to get a bottle, and give it a trial. Before I had taken it I began to feel better, and by the time I had taken the second one I was completely cured. I cannot recommend Burdock Blood Bitters too highly, and would advise all sufferers from dyspepsia to give it a trial."

A SUDDEN TWINGE

Of pain is generally the first warning of an attack of rheumatism. It feels as if the disease were in the bones or muscles, but the real cause of rheumatism is found in impure blood. In order to cure rheumatism the blood must be cleansed of the poisonous impurities which are the cause of the disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been very successful in the cure of rheumatism, because it entirely cleanses the blood from the poisonous uric acid which is the cause of the disease.

"Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me of rheumatism after I had tried a dozen remedies without relief and also gone West in search of health," writes Harry Risser, of No. 1855 6th Street, Denver, Colo. "Only those who have suffered from this dread malady know the pain and misery I endured for over five years. Whenever the weather was damp or cold my troubles were increased so that my joints would be so stiff and sore that I was hardly able to move about, and often unable to dress myself. I used a number of highly recommended medicines, but they had no effect whatever on me, and I came to Colorado hoping to regain my health, but failed to obtain the relief I had hoped for. A gentleman in the house where I lived advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and in four months and a half after I began using it I was a well man, and have had no touch of it for the past seven months."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

HAD TO HIDE IT

A mother wrote us recently that she had to keep Scott's Emulsion under lock and key—her children used to drink it whenever her back was turned. Strange that children should like something that is so good for them. It's usually the other way. Scott's Emulsion makes children comfortable, makes them fat and rosy-cheeked. Perhaps that's why they like it so much—they know it makes them feel good.

TRENT VALLEY HOCKEY NOTES

Annual Meeting on Friday, Port Hope and Brighton in Line.

As the hockey season draws near, the interest in the Trent Valley Hockey League increases and the prospects for another successful season are quite roseate.

The annual meeting will take place on Friday evening in the Oriental Hotel at 9 o'clock, after the arrival of the evening trains from the east and north.

The secretary has received a letter from W. F. McLean, of Port Hope, stating that a strong team from that place will enter the league.

The secretary of the Brighton Club, O. L. Morrow, writes to the effect that Brighton will again be in the running.

Mr. Wm. Crowley, who has for the past year held the office of president has signified his intention of retiring.

The name quite frequently mentioned for secretary is that of T. J. Wallace of town, formerly of Keene. Mr. Wallace is one of the oldest members of the league, having attended its first meeting and he has been more or less connected with it since then. He is at present on the teaching staff of the local Pub. Schools. Mr. D. J. Devine's name is also being considered in this connection.

As far as Peterborough is concerned, the T.A.S. will again be in line and will make a great effort to capture the cup for the third time. It is not definitely known whether or not another local team will be entered.

HOCKEY.

CHALLENGE.

The machinists of the C. G. E. Co. challenge the brass department to a game of hockey, to be played the first time the rink is available. The line up of the dirty-faced machinists will be as follows:

Goal—Knocker Derocher.
Cover Point—Jumbo Craig.
Point—"Do More" Holland.
Centre—Sprinter Callahan.
Rover—Heifer Staunton.
Left wing—Grinder Ford.

The machinists are composed of apprentices only.

Trainer—Pea soup Beyette.
Mascott—Jas. Brownlee.
Spare men — Robt. J. Laing, the box car desperado.

For further particulars apply to Farmer Davidson, manager.

There is another team out after the Examiner hockeyists for the City League championship, the latest addition being a team selected from the Suicide Club, called the Riverside Team, the officers of which are Howard Ellis, manager, and W. Weatherstone, captain. The team is confident of its ability to give the other teams in the League a hard run for the lockets.

The hockey boys had a splendid work out at the rink last night, and for so early in the season the players showed good form. There were about fifteen in uniform, and a hard hour's work was put in. The senior players are getting into the game slowly, but, it is hoped, surely. Last night Cavanah, Morgan and Graham of last year's septette were out. Cavanah figured at cover point, and he will no doubt turn out a shining star this year. He showed good speed and clever stick handling. Morgan will also be heard of this season. He worked in several dodging runs last evening, and shot well. Graham is playing well on the wing line, where his speed is an important factor. Parnell was on the ice again last night and worked well with Morgan and Graham.

Ford put up a good game at point last night, while all the juniors did creditable work. Some of the others out last night were McFarlane, Greene, Shaw, Kingscote, Ferguson, Hall, Carmichael, Cameron and Hamilton.

Kingston, December 13. — "Chaucer" Elliott has been offered the position of official referee of the International Professional Hockey League at Houghton and Calumet, Michigan. He is considering the proposal.

Mr. E. M. Best, the manager of the Happy Thought team, resists all efforts to be interviewed on the subject, but it is learned this year from an authentic source that the team this year will be a strong one. It is stated that some Ottawa and Glasgow men will be seen on the line-up this year and they are believed to be very fast.

• • • •

There will be a meeting of the basket ball committee of the Y.M.C.A., to-night, as soon as the game is over, to discuss the advisability of changing the night of the game from Saturday to Wednesday, and also the organization of a representative team for playing outside associations. All the members of the committee are requested to be present.

• • •

There will be another league basket ball game at the Y.M.C.A. to-night between the Brownies and the Class teams. The games are creating considerable interest among the friends of the players, and also the public in general. A good fast game of basket ball is interesting and fascinating to everybody. The game commences at eight o'clock, the admission being ten cents. See press notices about following games.

RE-ELECT OFFICERS AT ANNUAL MEETING

township Club. There had been a prevalence of a social club atmosphere and social events which had greatly helped in the general work. Sufficient funds had been raised to pay for the folding organ. During the year 534 visitors' tickets were issued and 276 were found lodgings. Nine monthly strangers' teas with a total attendance of 198 had been held, men from almost all parts of the globe having been present. Club meetings were held on the first Saturday of each month when papers on different aspects of the work were read. If there is an influx of young men into the town next spring, as there was last a great opportunity would be lost of the association did not erect dormitories. The roof could be raised and about 35 bed-rooms constructed at a cost of about $5,000.

Mr. J. W. Bennett favoured the dormitory plan and thought a handsome revenue could be derived therefrom. Mr. J. Connal also spoke in favour of the plan.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

Mr. W. D. Campbell presented the treasurer's report as follows:—

There were outstanding liabilities to the extent of $150, which would be covered by unpaid subscriptions.

THE SECRETARY.

Mr. Geo. H. Williamson, the secretary, was called upon for a few remarks. This was the 23rd annual meeting in connection with the Association, the work of which was for and by the young man and was just what its members made it. The Y.M.C.A. offered great advantages for the small sum of money which it cost the members and he thought the membership should be at least 1,000. He thought there should be greater results in the religious department and that the Sunday afternoon meetings should be attended by 500 instead of 100 young men, though the attendance this fall was ahead of that of other years. He would like to see 200 men in the Bible Class and would also like to see a representative in the Foreign Field supported by the Association. The physical work was encouraging this year though the number of members was not in proportion to the advanced policy of the Board. The advantages of the educational classes were many and there was room for an increased attendance here. He hoped that there would soon be a laboratory for the studying of electricity and other scientific subjects. The separate building for boys would also prove a boon to the Association. Advances were being made along social lines and in other departments of the work.

Mr. R. S. Cotton said he had been in several towns and cities in the province and had heard no Y.M.C.A. so highly spoken of as the local one. In Kingston, Gananoque and Brockville he had heard of Peterborough's good athletes and of her Y.M.C.A. and he was glad to come here to live. He thought the townspeople did not look upon the Y.M.C.A. as it was looked upon by others outside of the town.

Two other young men who had recently come to town spoke of the value of the Y.M.C.A. to strangers. A commendable feature in connection with Y.M.C.A. work was that the Association, whenever possible, secured boarding houses for strangers coming to town.

PHYSICAL DIRECTOR.

Mr. Percy K. Holmes, physical director, said that while the religious work was the fundamental work of the Y.M.C.A., the physical was of great importance. A sound body was essential to all who desired to make a success in life and to those who were confined in offices or shops all day long, a course in the gymnasium would be most beneficial.

RESOLUTIONS.

It was moved by Mr. R. E. Harding, seconded by Mr. J. Connal, that as the present date of the annual meeting was inconvenient and unsatisfactory, the date of the closing of the year be changed to May 1.—Carried.

It was moved by Mr. R. D. Dormer, seconded by Mr. J. W. Bennett, that the officers and the active members place on record their hearty appreciation of the continued services of the Ladies' in connection with the work of the Association.

It was moved by Mr. Harding, seconded by Mr. A. E. Dixon, that the active members express their entire confidence in the secretary, the physical director, and the assistant secretary, whose work was heartily appreciated.—Carried.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

The Nominating Committee reported recommending the election for another year of the present officers as follows:—

President.—E. B. Edwards, K. C.
1st Vice-President.—J. C. Shook.
2nd Vice-President.—J. J. Howden.
Treasurer.—W. D. Campbell.

And of the re-election for another three year term of the following Directors:—

G. M. Roger, W. D. Scott, R. J. Kidd, B. F. Ackerman, J. J. Howden, J. H. Connal.

The report was received and adopted. The meeting then adjourned.

Twenty Years of Piles

"I suffered from itching piles for twenty years and cannot imagine any greater distress. Dr. Chase's Ointment gave me relief from the first application, and has now entirely freed me from this horrible disease."—Mr. J. S. McLaren, Farmer and Contractor, Tiverton, Ont.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — Where now are all the rampant "temperance" advocates, and hustlers, who were so conspicuously in evidence two years or more ago, at the time of the general elections of 1902. It seems that all the noise that was raised by these noisy gentlemen is now represented by a silence that may almost be felt, so dense is it. Where is Mr. H. P. Lindsay, who was in the foretront of the fight, battling night and main, for Colonel Miller, the representative of all that was good and true in temperance and moral movements — the candidate of a party expressly opposed to prohibition. We all know how busy he was in having him endorsed as the temperance candidate at the County Prohibition Association meeting in 1902. Where is Mr. Lindsay's zeal now? How is he showing his zeal for the cause today? Where are he and Colonel Miller now on this question? They are backing the Conservative candidate to the hilt. Are they bombarding him with questions, as the candidates were bombarded at the elections of 1902? Are they committing him to a hard and fast pledge on the temperance question? Would he give such a pledge if these ardent temperance advocates could be brought to the point of embarrassing him with the demand for it? They know he wouldn't. Neither the Conservative candidate, nor his party, has any sympathy for temperance. We might just as soon expect a pledge to support advanced temperance or prohibition legislation from John Carling or Harry Corby, as from Mr. Bradburn. The attitude of these gentlemen now serves only to bring into high relief the hypocrisy of their attitude only two short years ago. Then they prejudiced the interests of temperance to serve political ends. Now they are by a policy of silence serving political ends at the expense of the cause they pretend to have so much at heart. If they and others like them who played the same game two years ago were sincere then they are dishonest in their attitude now.

I am in favour of temperance reform, but like thousands of others, I am disheartened and disgusted by the inconsistency of people who preach temperance and practice politics at its expense. Such persons do more to block the way to prohibition than all the hotel keepers between here and Montreal. Real progress will never be made till some of the friends of temperance become as honest in practice as they are blatant in profession. Unfortunately these bogus friends of temperance when political schemes are to be served, are found at the front and they generally have plausibility enough to hoodwink honest temperance people and draw them in their wake, which would not be the case if the latter were really awake.

Yours truly,
"CONSISTENCY."

THE ANNUAL CRUSH.

When Christmas Day is drawing nigh,
Amid the shopping crowds you'll sigh,
And vow next year that forth you'll go
More early by a month or so.
And when next year the time comes 'round,
The self-same sorrow will be found,
And you will make the self-same vow
And break it as you break it now.

The Store is Ready for Christmas

And back of this sentence is the combined work and judgment of our whole working force. For months we have been busy getting in the stock. We had to go Christmas shopping for all Peterborough, and that was a gigantic task. Then, after this part of the work was done, the goods must be received and placed so that they would show well. But we have forgotten the work and trouble it took us to get ready just as on Christmas morning you will forget your work and worry in the pleasure you have caused) and we are proud of the store and all it contains—so proud that we want every Christmas shopper to come out and see it. Let this be your invitation.

AMENDED FRANCHISE BYLAW WAS PASSED

Last Night's Special Council Meeting Was Devoted to the Consideration of the Franchise Bylaw by the Aldermen, Which was Passed, With the Exception of Two Clauses, Which Were Struck Out—The Companies Objected to the Clauses Referring to Expropriation and the Use of Conduits, Which, at Their Request, Were Left Out—The Amalgamation Clause Was Passed—The $5,000 Cheque to be Released.

The Town Council held a short session last night at the close of the meeting of the Committee of the Whole, called for the purpose of discussing and disposing of the much talked of Franchise bylaw, when the representatives of the two electric light and power companies were present, and a conference between the Aldermen and the representatives took place on the terms of the bylaw, at some clauses in which the latter took exception to, and these exceptions evidently had their effect, for the clauses to which the strongest objection was taken were left out of the bylaw as it was finally passed.

Those present at the committee meeting were, His Worship Mayor Roger and Aldermen Morrison, Clinkscale, Adams, Batten, Scott, Mason, Hicks, Best and Johnston, and Messrs. R. R. Hall, Adam Hall and W. G. Ferguson, of the Otonabee Power Company, and Dennistoun and Learmonth, of the Peterborough Light and Power Company.

The Companies took strong objection to clauses 10 and 13 of the bylaw, the former relating to the use of conduits, and the latter to expropriation, and the council finally decided to drop these two clauses out and pass the rest of the bylaw. The position taken by the companies was that it would be unfair to ask them to sign an agreement giving the town the right to expropriate that part of their property in the town limits and leave the power house and dam on the Company's hands, as they might do under the terms of the bylaw.

The council in committee decided to recommend to council that clauses 10 and 13 be left out of the bylaw. These clauses are as follows:—

10. If the said Corporation shall hereafter lay down ducts or conduits, or if ducts or conduits sufficient for the purpose should be laid down by any person or company authorized by the said Corporation in that behalf on any of the streets of the town on which the poles of any person or company authorized to erect and place the same are erected or placed, then if the same is required by the said Council, such poles shall within one year after such ducts or conduits are ready for use be removed from said streets on which the said ducts or conduits are laid, and the said wires shall be laid in such ducts or conduits and the expense of such removal shall be borne by the person or company then owning or controlling the said poles, and the charge for the use of such ducts, if not agreed on by the parties shall be settled by arbitration in the usual way.

13. Any person or company authorized hereunder to erect and place poles on the streets shall if required by the said Corporation at the expiration of the term of occupancy granted by the bylaw or agreement giving such right, sell, transfer and convey to the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough the whole or any of the poles then on the said streets for the then value thereof, such value to be ascertained and fixed, if not agreed on by the parties, by three arbitrators to be appointed in the manner provided for, and with the authority and powers of arbitration appointed under section 459 of The Consolidated Municipal Act, 1903, and sections 450, 454, 455, 457, 458, 459, 460, 463, 464, 465 and 466, so far as they are applicable and sections 9, 10, 11, 12, 15, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 41, 42, 43 and 44 of the Arbitration Act shall apply to any arbitration to ascertain and fix such value, but in determining such value, the Arbitrators shall ascertain and fix the actual value of such property, having regard to what the same would cost, if constructed at the time of entering in such arbitration, making due allowances for any deterioration and wear and tear and by reason of the system or appliance having become in whole or in part obsolete, and making all other allowances and shall not allow anything for prospective profits, franchises or street or poling rights.

At the conclusion of the committee meeting the Council met in special session, and the amended bylaw as recommended by the Committee of the Whole was passed.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, solicitor for the Radial Railway Company requested the Council to release to Mr. Stuart his marked cheque for $5,000 deposited with the treasurer to ensure the fulfillment of the contract to have the street railway in operation by September 1st, as the terms of that agreement had been complied with, in every particular. It was decided that this request will be dealt with at the meeting of the Council to-night, when the report of the Town Engineer with reference to the grade on the street railway will be received.

The council then adjourned.

REV. J. A. WILSON'S WARM WELCOME.

Induction and Ordination, at Hamilton, Tuesday.

Members of St. Andrew's Church, Welcome Their New Pastor.

The Hamilton papers of yesterday give reports of the induction and ordination of Rev. J. A. Wilson to St. Andrew's Church in that city. The Times publishes a out of Mr. Wilson and says:

Last evening St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was crowded to the doors by the members of the congregation and their friends to witness the ordination into the ministry of Mr. J. A. Wilson, late assistant pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough, and his induction into the pastorate of St. Andrew's. Previous to the congregational meeting the Hamilton Presbytery met in the Sunday school room, where Mr. Wilson was examined in accordance with the rules of the Presbyterian Church. Rev. John Young, the Moderator of the church, conducted the public services, and Rev. Mr. McDermott, of Locke Street Presbyterian Church, preached the ordination sermon, choosing for his text Rom. viii., 15, "For ye have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father."

Rev. Mr. Young then recited the various steps that had led up to the call of Rev. Mr. Wilson to be the pastor of the church, and the service of ordination and induction was then proceeded with, Mr. Young leading in prayer while the members of the Presbytery joined in the "laying on of hands," while Mr. Wilson knelt and the brethren placed their right hands on his head. Those who did so were: Rev. Dr. Fletcher, Rev. John Young, Rev. Robert Martin, Rev. Mr. McDermott, Rev. Mr. Anderson, Rev. Mr. Ratcliffe, Mr. A. I. Mackenzie and Mr. W. R. Leckie. Rev. Mr. Young then read and Mr. Wilson assented to the questions prescribed by the General Assembly for the occasion.

Rev. J. H. Ratcliff of St. Catharines, then addressed the newly-ordained and inducted pastor. He said two principal things that should concern him were the minister and the message. The minister should be under the power and the dominion of the Holy Spirit. He should watch the inner life. There were many temptations that were peculiar to the minister. He should be much before the public in preaching and in visiting. A minister's life was a busy one, although some people did not think so.

Rev. D. Anderson of the Presbyterian church, Burlington, addressed the congregation. He said Mr. Wilson was their own choice, not the choice of a bishop nor a stationing committee. They should be regular in their attendance at the church services. They should attend in a proper spirit, and when opportunity offered, speak a word of encouragement to him.

The meeting was a very pleasant and successful one and everybody appeared pleased that the choice of the congregation had at last been settled in their midst. Rev. Mr. Young spoke very hopefully and kindly of Mr. Wilson's pastorate, and the addresses were all interesting and impressive. At the close the new pastor was introduced to the members of the congregation as they passed out of the church by Mr. Leckie and Mr. Croal. Rev. Mr. Wilson comes to a united and progressive church, with great possibilities for the future, on account of its location. With a young, energetic and eloquent minister, such as he is, St. Andrew's prosperity is assured.

During the reading a telegram was read from Rev. Mr. MacWilliams and Mrs. MacWilliams, of St. Mary's, (the former pastor and his wife) bearing their congratulations. This evening a reception will be tendered Rev Mr. Wilson by the congregation.

The Spectator says in part:

"St. Andrew's church again has a pastor. The induction of Rev. J. A. Wilson of Peterborough, the minister upon whom the choice of the congregation fell, took place last night. A very large attendance was ample evidence of the interest of the congregation in the services, and when at the close Rev. Mr. Wilson bade the members good bye at the door he was doubly assured of a warm and cordial welcome."

THE CHRISTMAS ROBIN AGAIN

Mr. John Bickell Sees one in the Fifth Ward, This Morning.

Mr. John Bickell, milk dealer, reports to the Examiner that this morning he saw a real, live robin flying about among the trees at the eastern part of the town, a short distance from the Mft look. If Mr. Bickell's eyes did not deceive him, it is certainly a remarkable discovery.

But it is very easy to make a mistake in this matter. We do not expect to find robins hopping about, with no apparent harm, from a temperature of ten degrees below zero, which was registered this morning. But we expect, or, at least, would not be surprised, to see the Pine Grosbeak, which spends the winter with us, to be straying occasionally from the pine woods, upon whose cones it largely finds its feed in winter.

The Pine Grosbeak, (so called from its strong beak, which it uses in forcing open pine cones,) is, to describe it in simple language, a coccothraustine finch, or fringilloid bird. The red-breasted variety (habia ludoviciana,) is about the size and, at a glance, so greatly resembles the robin in appearance, that to mistake it for a robin is quite natural. It is not asserted that Mr. Bickell was mistaken, but it is very possible, and it is with no intention of robin him of the merit of his discovery that the snake editor interjects a little scientific touch of ornithological differentiation.

PRETTY WEDDING IN ST. LUKES CHURCH

Nuptials of Miss May Ida Mackey and Jas. Thompson Yesterday.

St. Luke's Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding at 4.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the principals being Miss May Ida Mackey, eldest daughter of Mr. Hugh Mackey, of Douro, and Mr. James Thompson, of Otonabee. The ceremony was performed before a large number of relatives and friends, by the Rector, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt. The bridesmaid was Miss Clara Madill, of Bal.'s Glen, while the groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Adam Thompson.

The bride was handsomely gowned in brown lady's cloth, with trimmings of silk applique and over lace. She wore a hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid wore white crepe de chene over blue and carried pink carnations.

The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. Mackey.

After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the residence of the bride's parents in Douro, where a delightful time was spent. About 80 sat down to a wedding breakfast after which the young people enjoyed a dance. Many beautiful presents testified to the esteem which the bridal couple enjoyed amongst a large circle of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside in Otonabee.

CONSERVATIVE LEADERSHIPS.

Why should there be any question of the leadership of Mr. Borden? It is true that he has not been a shining success. He even failed to retain his own seat or to capture a single seat in Nova Scotia. In Quebec his influence and leadership met with very little, if any more success. It is pointed out that in Quebec Mr. Borden made Mr. Monk his first lieautenant. Mr. Monk was set aside, and Mr. Tarte substituted. Mr. Tarte gave way to Mr. Casgrain, and Mr. Casgrain is now among the slain. In Ontario Mr. Borden's leadership has apparently provoked rival claimants for his position, and in the last election he had not perhaps the hearty support from the prominent Conservative element which could have been expected. Mr. Borden's connection with the Montreal element and the connection of that element with the Blair-Russell matter connects him, though as he says, he may not be responsible, with the peculiar methods which seem to have been employed with a view of "smashing" the Government. All these things taken together certainly do not form very strong arguments in favour of Mr. Bordens retention. But what can be done, not what should be done, is the point. Where is there another man of prominence in the party of as high character as Mr. Borden? There may be some of as great ability, but they are handicapped by the possession of qualities that do not make for successful leadership, which argues the confidence and enthusiasm of a following. In regard to this the Montreal Herald says: "Had the Conservatives come to Mr. Borden with a whole hearted and practically unanimous request to continue, part of the retreat would have been retrieved But for him to meet them, after weeks of delay, secretly, under the auspices of the Montreal Junta, with most of the admittedly big men, and possible rivals absent, to have his position frankly challenged by one who last session carried half the Ontario delegation into a division against him, to be obliged to give, instead of a hearty, hopeful, "yes," a diffident "I'll see," was not all that of a nature to make continued leadership practically impossible?"

The question of the leadership in Ontario is settled for the present, but it is doubtful if Mr. Whitney commands much more enthusiasm than Mr. Borden. A leading Toronto journal, rabidly Conservative in tone, has long combatted the idea of his being a capable leader, and crystallized its opinion into the saying that one "could fling a brick into almost any country law office and hit a J. P. Whitney." Not only do the faithful in the Conservative ranks drop disparagement in the shape of exploratory bricks upon Mr. Whitney's personal aptitude and ability for the leadership, but the faithful haven't much faith in the aptitude and ability of his following for Cabinet positions Sir William Meredith, whose counterpart could not be found in every country law office, and Mr. J. Ross Robertson of the Telegram, were suggested to Mr. Whitney as Cabinet material worthy of even his leadership, a mild hint that the material now in active politics behind Mr. Whitney, might be improved.

DR. PITCHER CURES A PETROLIA MAN

A Splendid Tribute From Mr. G. F. Stone of That Town.

Backache and Bladder Trouble Made Him Unfit for Work Now He is Splendid

In the town of Petrolia there are many people who have a good word to say for Dr. Pitcher's Backache-Kidney Tablets as being the best remedy for backache, kidney, bladder and urinary troubles.

Mr. G. F. Stone, when spoken to a short time ago, related his experience as follows:

"I had been having so much lameness in the small of my back, constant dull aching over my kidneys, that I was depressed and unfit for anything. It did not pass off as formerly, but began to affect my kidneys; the bladder was also affected, causing frequent inclination to urinate. After I began using Dr. Pitcher's Backache-Kidney Tablets, all those troubles disappeared. I have had no remedy that acted so promptly before. They caused no inconvenience whatever. I would not have known that I was taking medicine where it not for the beneficial affects.

In purchasing Dr. Pitcher's Backache-Kidney Tablets see that Dr. Pitcher's portrait and signature are on the package.

Price, 50 cents a box, or three boxes for $1.25, at druggists, or by mail. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont. 45

THE STORY OF THE MONTREAL CONSPIRACY

The Second Incident in the Plans of the Plotters.

The Men Who Began Their Campaign With Deceit and False Pretences "Persuade Mr. Blair to Resign" —But the Trail of Futility is Over it all—Bombs Refuse to Burst—What Were the Inducements that Persuaded the Chairman of Railway Commission to Create a Crisis?—Grave of Great Reputations.

Montreal, Dec. 12.—Although the conspirators had arranged and covenanted together to deny the story of the transfer of La Presse should the news leak out, they had also made provision to allay the resentment of the Liberal subscribers of the paper by furnishing Mr. Dansereau with the following document:—

"Montreal, October 12th, 1904.

"C. A. Dansereau, Esq., Montreal:

"My Dear Sir,—In view of your large experience in public life and your knowledge of public affairs, I am desirous that you should assist, in so far as possible, during the next thirty days in the editorial department of La Presse, which I have this day acquired, I understand, that in the past you have largely directed and moulded the public opinion of this paper, and upon three questions particularly, namely:—

"(1) That you have advocated a higher protection for the manufacturing interests of the country.

"(2) That you have been opposed to the policy of Imperialism, as generally understood in England and by the Imperial party in this country.

"(3) That you have advocated the contract entered into by the Grand Trunk Pacific with the Dominion Government and ratified by the recent act of Parliament.

"I am prepared that the paper should support the protective policy advocated by the paper in the past, and also should oppose the doctrine of Imperialism in this country.

"You should also continue to defend the contract made between the Government of Canada and the Grand Trunk Pacific against attacks that may be made against it by the public press opposed to the policy of the Government until after the general election.

"In the event of your death before November 3rd next Mr. Berthiaume shall have the rights herein conferred upon you.

"On all other questions I shall control and govern the policy of the paper.

"Yours truly,

"(Signed) David Russell."

A DECEPTIVE LETTER.

This document was to be shown in case the fact of the transfer of La Presse came out so plainly that it would be useless to deny it. The sixth paragraph is worth particular attention. It is supposed to authorize the editor to defend the Grand Trunk Pacific bargain but it read more carefully the authority is limited. He is only to defend the contract against attacks made "by the public press opposed to the policy of the Government." This, it can be seen, would not indicate attacks made by Mr. Blair or any other gentleman on the platform. Notwithstanding the terms of this document, efforts were almost immediately made to hurl the paper against the Liberal Government. A complete story of this part of the affair cannot as yet be given. The chief actor in it is Mr. Thomas Cote, Mr. Dansereau's first lieutenant. The latter gentleman, for his services in promoting the transfer of the paper, had been provided for in the agreement. Mr. Russell had covenanted to pay him at the rate of $1,000 per month for ten years, whether he was employed on La Presse or not.

AN UNEXPECTED OBSTACLE.

Soon after the conclusion of the negotiations Mr. Dansereau left Montreal on a trip, and during his absence Mr. Cote remains in charge. Mr. Cote keeps his own counsel, but the game of cross purposes which was played in La Presse office for a few days could not be kept from the observation of the staff. Typewritten documents in English, emanating, the editor was told, from persons in authority, began to arrive. Mr. Godin, the Business Manager, was the channel through whom these documents were conveyed to the editor. Mr. Cote was amiability and politeness itself, but—he would put nothing in the columns of La Presse which changed the policy of the paper as he knew it. Appeals and promises and veiled intimidations were alike unavailing to change the serene immovability of the Man in Charge.

THE EVIL BREAKS IN.

There is one incident, however, that necessarily became known to the whole office which is related with gusto by some of the witnesses. Mr. Cote watched the columns of the daily with the vigilance of a cat. I never occurred to him that the enemy might break in by way of the weekly, which has a very large circulation. One day a copy of the weekly which was then being run off on the presses was brought to him, with an article in it dealing with election bets. It said that betting, which had started at three to one on the Government, was now three to one on the Opposition. The whole tenor of the article was that the Government's chances of winning were almost nil. The article was absurdly untrue to the facts. The staff will tell you that for the first time Mr. Cote lost his imperturbability. His first action was to stop the press; his next was to start a mighty vigorous inquiry as to how this piece of "news" had got into the weekly. There were wigs on the green that day. The form was taken off the press and the offending matter removed. This, it is said, was the expiring effort of the mysterious outside editors. It may be said that these precious typewritten productions were traced to the offices of one of the lawyers who had been prominent in conducting the negotiations for the sale. It is believed, however, that if they could have been traced still further back they would have landed the investigator not very far from a back room in The Star office. The ludicrous feature of the whole thing is that the mighty combinations formed, the employment of vast sums towards a definite end, were all rendered of no avail by the veto of a sub-editor who knew his own mind. It will be seen as the story progresses that the same infirmity, the same insufficiency of means to ends, characterizes the whole operations of the junta who on behalf of the Conservative party had determined on the destruction of the Government, not by the honourable and usual methods of political warfare, but by crooked and illegitimate proceedings.

MR. BLAIR'S RESIGNATION.

The second incident was the resignation of Mr. Blair. It will be remembered what capital the Conservative newspapers from one end of the Dominion to the other made out of this event. Their general tone was represented in the despatch to The Mail from St. John, saying, "Mr. Blair's action is regarded as a deathblow to the Laurier Government, and some startling revelations are expected before the close of the campaign." The changes were rung on this theme. Mr. Blair's act was described as a great and patriotic protest. We now have Mr. David Russell, the gentleman who a few days before set his signature to a document binding his co-signatory to utter a brazen lie if need be, telling the people of the Dominion that he "persuaded Mr. Blair to resign." How did he "persuade" Mr. Blair to resign? That it was concocted in concert with the Conservative junta in Montreal is attested by the fact that for days before Mr. Blair's resignation intimations were sent out from The Star office to many Conservative newspapers in the Dominion to prepare for the bursting of a tremendous political bombshell. The bomb burst all right, but it burst as it left the gun, and when the smoke had cleared away the flying party were found completely flattened out.

MR. GRAHAM'S FOREKNOWLEDGE.

That Mr. Hugh Graham knew of it before Mr. Blair had announced it in Ottawa is proved by the fact that on the day of the resignation he advised a friend on the streets of Montreal to be sure and get a copy of the last edition of The Star. "It will contain some sensational news," he said. The friend said he was on his way to his country house and would not see The Star. After exacting a promise that he would not open it until six o'clock that night, Mr. Graham enclosed a slip of paper in an envelope and sealed it. When the envelope was opened at six o'clock it contained the information, "Blair has resigned the Chairmanship of the Railway Commission."

THE PERSUASIVE RUSSELL.

How did Mr. Russell "persuade" Mr. Blair to resign? A morning Conservative newspaper has stated bluntly that Mr. Blair was paid $50,000 and was promised $80,000, but that he was "bilked" out of this balance. Mr. Blair has absolutely and particularly denied this statement, and, indeed, no proof has been put forward in support of it. It must be said, however, that Mr. Blair was ill-advised in meeting such a serious charge made by a prominent daily newspaper by a mere denial. He knows, or he ought to know, that his action has set all sorts of rumors flying, and only the most drastic measures, we can assure him, will restore him to public confidence. He is "persuaded to resign" by a man who, as we have seen, was a party to a deceptive transaction based on a most immoral agreement. That such a man could persuade Mr. Blair to resign calls for much greater particularity of explanation than Mr. Blair has yet attempted. What were those "persuasions" which a man of Mr. Russell's calibre was able to exercise over one who had been the Premier of a Province for many years, the Minister of Railways for seven years, and at the moment of persuasion occupied the most highly remunerated post, with one or two exceptions, in the gift of the Government?

A REPUTATION AT STAKE.

This is a question which will be the grave of Mr. Blair's reputation until it is satisfactorily answered. People will continue to ask why he resigned in the midst of a general election, declaring in the first place that he was doing so for more remunerative employment, but subsequently on the same day, in a despatch to a newspaper, giving his act a political tinge, by "reaffirming his opposition" to the Government railway policy; why he allowed his friend Mr. Russell unrebuked to promise that within 48 hours he would take the stump; why Mr. Russell made elaborate preparations in the way of hiring cabs and preparing rockets and torches for taking Mr. Blair in triumph through the streets of Montreal. Subsequent facts have confirmed none of these preparations and representations. Mr. Blair did not take the stump, the rockets, etc., were dead stock on Mr. Russell's hands. And yet this resignation of a high officer of the Crown was engineered by the same "gang" which obtained possession of La Presse by the crooked ways we have seen, and at the risk of thousands of dollars invested therein.

WAS IN ITS GRIP FOR 25 YEARS

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured his Kidney Disease.

Remarkable Cure Reported From Quebec—The Lesson it Teaches.

Hunterstown, Que., Dec. 14.—(Special.) — The thousands of Canadians who suffer from chronic Kidney Complaint, will be interested in the cure of Maxime Boucher, of this place. For twenty-five years he suffered from Kidney Complaint. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him. Speaking of his case Mr. Boucher says:

"It was Dodd's Kidney Pills that cured me. For twenty-five years I suffered with a malady of the kidneys. I felt always feeble and was often in pain. One day I received a Dodd's almanac, and read of many wonderful cures in it. Then I decided to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. I took twenty-five boxes in all, and now I am perfectly cured."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure sick kidneys. If the disease has got a firm hold it takes them longer than if just starting. But there is no form nor no stage of the kidney disease that cannot be cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Tried to Smuggle Turkeys.

Buffalo, Dec. 12.—But for the vigilance of the Canadian revenue officers many Buffalonians would have eaten Ontario turkey at their Thanksgiving dinner. Although the revenue officers know the names of the poultry men concerned in the deal, they refuse to make them public. It is not believed that the turkeys were to be consigned to any Buffalo's butchers, but brought to town in farmers' wagons and sold to the different markets.

GUNNING ACCIDENT

Accidental Shooting of Leonard Wallace of Woodbridge.

FEARS THAT VICTIM MAY DIE

W. W. Reid's Thumb Slipped and the Gun Discharged Its Contents in Mr. Wallace's Right Side Below the Breast —Wounded Man Walked Quarter of a Mile to Nearest House.

Toronto, Dec. 15.—With but slight hope of recovery, Leonard Wallace of Woodbridge, second son of the late Hon. Clarke Wallace, lies in the Toronto General Hospital, shot through the liver. The tragedy occurred while he, with three friends, were out rabbit shooting yesterday afternoon, and the circumstances were purely accidental. After receiving local attention, the wounded man, on the advice of Dr. G. A. Peters, of Toronto, who was also called, was brought to the city, and late last night an operation was performed by Dr. Peters and Dr. I. H. Cameron. Several of the leaden pellets were removed. Some, it was found, had gone right through the body.

In company with W. W. Reid of the Lakerman House and the two Robb brothers, Mr. Wallace had gone out after rabbits. The party had a ferret, which Mr. Reid carried. Reaching the sixth concession, about three miles from Woodbridge, a rabbit burrow was found. The others having gotten into position, Reid loosed the ferret in the hole. Then he got his own gun.

When the ferret got the rabbit, there was some screeching and Leonard Wallace ran forward. He shouted to Reid to "catch him." Reid took a couple of steps forward and at the same time went to let down the hammer of the right barrel of his gun. His heavy gloves were wet from snow and the thumb slipped.

There was a report and at 20 feet range the full charge of No. 2 shot struck Wallace. The shot entered his right side, below the breast. He staggered and fell, but raised himself and walked part of the quarter of a mile which had to be traversed to the nearest house. There a rig was procured and he was driven to his home in the village. He was able to walk from the rig to the house, but Dr. P. D. McLean, who was sent for, realizing that the injury was very bad, had Dr. Peters sent for.

The accident came as a great shock to the people of Woodbridge and surrounding country, where the Wallace family is so well known. Leonard and Capt. Tom Wallace compose the firm of Wallace Brothers, who conduct the general store. The injured man is 23 years of age, and is most popular among all classes. He has always taken great interest in athletics and has been prominent as a lacrosse player.

TWO DEAD---ONE DYING.

Children of Alfred Plante Caught in a Burning House.

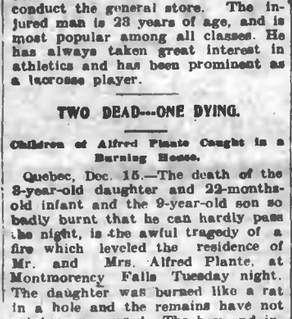
Quebec, Dec. 15.—The death of the 3-year-old daughter and 22-months-old infant and the 9-year-old son so badly burnt that he can hardly pass the night, is the awful tragedy of a fire which leveled the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Plante, at Montmorency Falls Tuesday night. The daughter was burned like a rat in a hole and the remains have not yet been recovered. The boy and infant were saved from the burning building, the latter dying yesterday morning, after suffering indescribable agony all night long, and it is feared the boy would die last night or today. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Plante and their little family was on the main road on the heights and near the Kent House. The children were left alone in the house while the mother went to the grocery store near by. The father works at night in the cotton factory.

Barney McGrotty Killed On C.P.R.

Toronto Junction, Dec. 15.—Barney McGroity, 60 years of age, a resident of Woodbridge, was instantly killed in the C.P.R. yards at Toronto Junction yesterday morning by No. 4 express from the west, which reached the Junction at 8.15 a.m. McGroity was discharged Tuesday night, and was on his way to the yard office with his time sheet when the accident happened. He failed to notice the approaching train, and was struck just as he was stepping on the track. There are no marks on his body. McGroity leaves a widow and a family of grown-up sons and daughters.

Mrs. McMaster's Escape.

Kingston, Dec. 15.—Mrs. William McMaster, widow of the late Senator McMaster of Toronto, had a thrilling experience with a spanking pair of horses owned by her son-in-law, Captain W. A. Grant of Roselawn, Kingston. The horses dashed up Princess street, turned down Barrie and Stuart streets towards the water. To save them going into the lake the coachman endeavored to turn the carriage, and it upset. Mrs. McMaster was badly bruised and Miss Alice Grant was severely shocked.



YOUR EYES TELL THE STORY

Sparkling, bright eyes indicate vigor and health. Drooping, weak and watery eyes show some internal ailment which in ninety cases out of one hundred is a weak heart. When the heart becomes weak, the blood thickens and moves sluggishly and the organs become diseased for want of a proper stimulant. So we invariably trace these ills to a weak heart.

DR. AGNEW'S HEART CURE

has saved the lives of many heart troubled people. It gives strength and health to the body through its action on the heart and relieves the severest attacks in thirty minutes.

Mrs. Mary Johnson, Georgiana Island, Ont. writes—"Send a bottle of Dr. Agnew's Heart Cure as quickly as possible. I have used it before and it is the best Heart Cure I ever tried. It gives relief in ten minutes and is excellent for Stomach and Nerves."

Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills 25 doses 25 cents, are not only the cheapest, but best pills made.

A ROUGH RECEPTION.

Mrs. Chadwick Received At Cleveland With Jeers and Hoots.

Cleveland, O., Dec., 15.—Five times indicted by the United States Government at the exact minute that her train rolled into the station, Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick came home to Cleveland yesterday. She was greeted by jeers, hoots and hisses by the crowds that gathered in the depot when her train arrived, howled at by hundreds gathered in front of the Federal Building. The last sound that reached her from the outside world, as she passed into the stuffy, ill-smelling office of Sheriff Barry, in the county jail, was the hoot of derision from the people massed in front of the doorway. She made no attempt to give bail, and after a brief stop in the office of the clerk of the United States Court, was taken to jail. She was held last night in cell 14, and her palatial residence in Euclid avenue, of which the furnishings alone are valued at $200,000, is occupied by her maid.

Her courage held to the last, but her body failed her, and when she had mounted to the three flights of stairs leading to the tier of cells in which she is to remain, she fainted.

WRECKS FEW ON LAKES.

Past Season Most Profitable One For Ship Underwriters.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—The season just closed has probably been the most profitable one to ship underwriters in the history of that business on the great lakes. Vessel owners who carried no insurance were equally fortunate, the dangers of lake navigation reaching the lowest point since boats sailed the lakes. This showing is due to freedom from great storms, the nearly complete absence of fog, and a mysterious rise in the stage of water on all the upper lakes.

Because of the strike of masters and pilots, general navigation did not begin until after June 1. From that time until the close of navigation 480 disasters were noted in the official record of the underwriters. In 1903 there were 522 losses.

The aggregate losses on vessels in 1904 were $1,260,760, and on cargoes $299,100.

Thirty-seven vessels were completely wrecked or lost. Their total tonnage was 17,627. The total tonnage lost the preceding year was 31,644.

THE LOYALTY OF CANADA.

Much Has Been Offered By Dominion to Mother Country.

London, Dec. 15.—The Manchester Courier, commenting on Mr. Asquith's speech, says: It could hardly be called "disloyalty" on the part of Canada if, after granting a 33 per cent. preference and offering every able-bodied man in the Mother Country 100 acres of free land in vain, she turned to the United States for reciprocal trade.

Doctors Find Him Insane.

St. Catharines, Dec 15.—On Sept. 29 the barns and driving sheds of James H. Walker, near Beamsville, were burned. A tramp named Isaac Ziebler, who was found nearby, was arrested and charged with the crime. At first he admitted that he had set the barn on fire because the Walkers had refused him food that morning. Afterwards he denied all knowledge of the fire. His looks and actions clearly indicated that he was out of his mind. Yesterday afternoon in the sessions Ziebler was put on his trial upon a charge of arson. He pleaded not guilty. Doctors testified that he was mentally unsound. The jury found him not guilty. He will be taken care of at an asylum.

Fire in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 14.—Fire broke out shortly before midnight in the wholesale house of O. H. Peck & Co., furnishers, and is spreading rapidly. Relief from St. Paul has been asked. The loss, it is feared, will be heavy. There is a strong wind blowing from the north, carrying the flames toward the retail district.

WHAT TO DO FOR AN UNHEALTHY COMPLEXION.

There is Only One Way to Get a Good, Healthy Complexion. You Can Have Red Cheeks, Rosy Lips and Bright Eyes All Your Life Without Using Poisonous Lotions, Washes or Powders.

It has come to be a habit with many women to make use of powders, cosmetics and other beautifiers, to cover up defects and to conceal the fact that their skin is rough, mottled or pimply. It is foolishness, however, to attempt to correct a bad complexion by the use of beautifiers. There is only one way to secure a lasting result and that is to remove the cause. If you have an unhealthy complexion you may depend upon it that your blood is also unhealthy. It must be purified and enriched and this can only be accomplished by keeping the liver active and establishing regularity of the bowels. Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills act directly on the liver, regulate the bowels, cleanse and enrich the blood, and in this way purify the complexion. Never use cosmetics, many of which are poisonous, containing lead, arsenic and other mineral poisons, and all of which eventually are sure to make a bad complexion even worse, but use a remedy which is known to cure all stomach and bowel troubles, cleanse the blood of all impurities and regulate and strengthen the functions of digestion and assimilation. If you would have red cheeks, rosy lips and bright clear eyes, keep your bowels regular by the use of Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills. Their daily use will establish conditions of perfect health. Remember these little pills are purely vegetable, and not only quickly restore the complexion, but are a positive cure for sick headache, constipation and biliousness in one night. FOR THE ELECTIONS

Preparations To Be Completed Before Nominations.

CAN'T BE BALLOT-PLUGGING

Col. Clarke, Clerk of the Legislature, a Very Busy Man—Scope Idea of the Work He Must Do Before Election Machinery Will Run Smoothly—Writs Issue Dec. 30—Two Appointments Made.

Toronto, Dec. 14.—Col. Clarke, Clerk of the House, was very busy yesterday and will continue so for some time to come, in consequence of the great amount of work which develves upon him, owing to the coming general election. He must issue the writs, send out the necessary papers to the returning officers in the respective ridings—there are 20 official papers for each officer—send out the ballot papers, and attend to a hundred and one things of a similar nature. The ballot papers for the constituencies are distinct. The name of the constituency in which they are used is clearly stamped upon them, and the numbering is complete. If, for instance, 20,000 ballots are required for use in Toronto, they are numbered from one to 20,000; in Hamilton from one to the required number, and so on for every riding. Ballot-plugging under these circumstances would be almost impossible, and, in any event, would be detected immediately the counting commenced.

Date of the Writs.

The writs for the election will be dated December 29, and registration in cities and county towns will be held thereafter. Those entitled to register are British subjects, 21 years of age or over, who have resided one year in the Province; three months in the municipality and 30 days in the electoral district in which they vote.

An extra issue of The Ontario Gazette was published yesterday afternoon announcing the dissolution of the Legislature, and the date of the elections.

Two Appointments Made.

It was announced yesterday that Mr. John Richardson has been appointed Clerk of the County Court of the County of York, and Mr. Samuel Russell, Registrar of Deeds for the County of Hastings. Both were members of the Legislature for a number of years, and are well known throughout the Province.

Both parties are fairly well prepared for the struggle throughout the province.

Protests in Ontario.

Toronto, Dec. 14.—There was only one protest received yesterday by Register Holmstead. Four o'clock was the time when period should expire for protests to be filed, and those who expected several to come in at the last moment were disappointed.

Early in the day, however, James Baird, acting for the petitioner, John Agar, County of Grey, appeared with a protest against the election of William P. Telford, the Liberal candidate, returned in the recent contest, with a majority of 23, for the north riding of Grey. The usual charges of bribery and corruption were put forward. The petitioner has a week in which to submit his specific charges. Mr. Telford's opponent was Thomas I. Thompson.

Protests already filed are the petition and cross-petition in Wentworth, and the petition of Hal Donley (Lib.), against Col. Tisdale (Con.), in North Norfolk.

TUESDAY'S NOMINATIONS.

West Simcoe—John Bernie, Liberal.

Thirteen Nova Scotia Protests.

Montreal, Dec. 14.—Word comes from Halifax that thirteen protests against members-elect in the recent Dominion elections are to be entered in Nova Scotia on grounds of general wholesale corruption. It is said to be settled that protests will not be entered in Digby, Annapolis, Guysboro and Hants.

Their Seats Protested.

Montreal, Dec. 14.—Messrs. Gallery, M.P., Liberal, of St. Anne's, and Ames, Conservative, in St. Antoine, are the two seats in this district that have been protested.

Another Protest.

Montreal, Dec. 14.—It is learned that the election of Mr. Hunt, Liberal M.P. for Compton, has been contested.

Protests in the West.

Regina, N.W.T., Dec. 14.—Three petitions were entered at the Court House here yesterday afternoon against the return of Conservative members to the Dominion House. They were directed against the elections of R. S. Lake in Qu' Appelle; Maitland S. McCarthy in Calgary, and John Heron in Alberta. The charges made are the usual ones, and the court has directed that Justices Sifton and Penredgrast will sit on the Alberta and Qu' Appelle cases, while Justices Whitmore and Newlands will try the Calgary case.

Sufferers from sciatics should not hesitate to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The prompt relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. Sold by all druggists.

Killed His Stepdaughter.

Sherbrooke, Que., Dec. 15.—The Patrie murder case was concluded yesterday, when the jury returned a verdict of "guilty" against the accused, Napoleon Foquet. Foquet was charged with having murdered Amora Dubois, his stepdaughter, aged 23 months, on Oct. 11, 1903. It was shown in the evidence that the man had given the child brandy to drink, and that he had also beaten her and thrown her to the ground. It was also shown that he had admitted that he was the cause of the child's death. He will be hanged Jan. 27.

Convicts Plead Guilty.

Kingston, Dec. 15.—At the county court yesterday, three of the convicts who recently escaped pleaded guilty to the charge of attempted escape and robbery. Biddle pleaded not guilty. Judge Price adjourned the trials till next June, to let the men secure counsel.

LOCAL OPTION IN SMITH TOWNSHIP.

To the Editor of the Weekly Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In view of the approaching vote to be held on January 2nd, in the Township of Smith with regard to the banishing of the bars, it is my duty with your kind permission to write a few words to the electors of Smith, among whom are many in whose welfare I take pleasure to be interested. The question is often raised why should one part of a community force such a system on the rest? 1. We do not raise the question in other matters. Laws regulating health are passed and must be observed by all. We may not like the provisions laid down, but on discovery we find that they are for the public good. 2. This is part of the machinery established by law, viz: That each locality shall have the opportunity of saying "yes" and "no."

Much is said of "waiting" for public opinion. This gives rise to the question, What is public opinion? Well, it is not the pulpit. However, lofty the sentiments and ideals may be that are held by preachers and however rapidly they may lead public opinion, they cannot express public opinion. Then, is it not the press, for like the pulpit, while it has a great work to do in the moral uplifting of a community, it stands to do a special work in reporting the special activities of the day, and in affording ample opportunity to discuss great public matters. In both cases public opinion cannot make itself known to the fullest extent, and this can only be done by allowing each voter to express his opinion regarding the matter. We are forced to accept the statement that government by "party" or "Majority rule" is best, as a recognized Canadian principle. If this is the case, no one will murmur if the majority wants to be free from that which is considered a great hindrance to municipal as well as to domestic happiness. We live and labour to help each other, and by building up artround the homes in and country all the facilities that will help to form good character, while we seek to destroy and eliminate what is destructive.

Many will say—If you stop it in one locality they will go and be drunk in the next. Precisely. This is the condition of things in Smith township. With a staunch township on each side of her, Smith has had to endure the evils of the intemperate on both sides. It is most important, therefore, that a solid strip of territory should be entirely free from the blighting element in intemperance. To take advantage of local option is to place the burden just where it belongs. We all see the difficulties in getting large political parties to be unanimous on this matter. I fancy all have been expecting too much. Then no community that is prepared to take a step a step ahead is compelled to wait for those who take longer to learn their lesson, and thus the amount of apparent coercion is reduced to a minimum.

The matter of compensation has been referred to because of the idea that if bars are abolished the hotels will close. This is not the case. Many of the best summer hotels are well patronized, and flourish, because of the absence of the "bar." This might be a debatable assertion in cities, but it is not questioned with regard to summer resorts. We have a waterway through Smith Township and adjoining second to none in all America and its places of accommodation will be used beyond their present capacity by tourists and others who, during the summer desire all the pleasure possible with their families.

The reference so often made regarding revenue is so trifling in the case of Smith township that I will not use more of your valuable space. Perhaps we might add that when townships and counties are being called upon to pay into institutions for their paupers, we can see that the apparent loss of revenue will be made up many a time over by the continued happiness, health, vigor and prosperity of all the people of Smith.

Yours very sincerely,

JAS. C. POTTER.

President Peterborough County Alliance.

BOTH VIEWS OF THE STORY PRESENTED

Some Additional Information Concerning the Story Published in Yesterday's Examiner ---A Misunderstanding Between Aldermen Morrison and Best as to Which "Contest" was Referred to---Ald. Morrison Gives an Interview Confirming Substantially the Facts as Published Yesterday ---Mr. Moore Says he was Spoken to by Ald. Best, but he thought it in the Nature of a Joke and did not Further Consider it.

Yesterday the Examiner printed a statement to the effect that Aldermen Best wished to retire from the mayoralty contest in favour of Mr. W. H. Moore. This statement was based on the account of a conversation alleged to have been held between Ald. Morrison and Ald. Best. Ald. Best does not deny that such conversation took place but he asserts that he was referring to the aldermanic contest, whild Ald. Morrison understands it to have referred to the mayoralty contest. peared in the Times of this morning:

"Mr. Best was seen by The Times last night, and gave the above a most emphatic denial. He says that he never approached Ald. Morrison in regard to the Mayoralty, nor did any one do so for him with his knowledge or consent. When the requisition signed by several hundred ratepayers asking him to stand for Mayor, was presented to him, he could hardly do anything else than accept, and he accordingly at once placed himself in the hands of his friends. He would not be so faithless to those who were good enough to sign that requesition to even for a moment contemplate withdrawing from the contest. He was not seeking the office, as his friends well knew, but if elected, he was prepared to serve the town to the best of his ability. So far as the Mayoralty is concerned, he was out to stay."

In face of the above denial the Examiner may show how the use of the statement published yesterday was justified as being on good authority.

As this paper stated yesterday, the information given was not obtained directly from Ald. Morrison, but came from a source which put all doubt as to its truth at rest. For a good reason, the Examiner did not interview Ald. Morrison yesterday to obtain a statement from him, on the matter, but he was waited on to-day, and, from his understanding of the conversation with Alderman Best, confirmed the statement as published.

He said that on Friday night last, after the special meeting of the Council he was approached by Ald. Best and asked if he was out of the contest. He was informed by Alderman Morrison, who understood that he referred to the Mayoralty contest, that he was, but the idea was intended to be conveyed, though it was not absolutely stated in so many words, that he was out of the contest as against Ald. Best, but he was not necessarily out of it should that gentleman withdraw.

Upon being assured as above, Ald. Morrison informs the Examiner today, Ald. Best then confided to him his desire to retire from the contest in favour of Mr. Moore, whom, he said, he had already approached on the subject.

The reason given by Mr. Best for wishing to retire from the contest, was that he thought there would be so few old members in the new council, he thought he would prefer to remain in the council as alderman.

This is the only conversation that Ald. Morrison had with Ald. Best on the subject, but that this conversation passed between them, Ald. Morrison affirms.

The Examiner published the statement in good faith, believing it to be true, and though it is denied by Ald. Best, the gentleman with whom he had the conversation on the subject, asserts that the conversation was held, and that he understood it to refer, as was reported by the Examiner, to the mayoralty contest.

Mr. Moore was seen again by the Examiner this morning, and gave some additional information in regard to the matter.

Mr. Moore states that while he was not waited on by Ald. Best with any definite proposition to accept the nomination if Mr. Best retired, he met that gentleman at the corner of Hunter and George streets one morning, and Ald. Best said to him: "I hear that you are coming out for Mayor," to which Mr. Moore replied that he had no such intentions; and Mr. Best further said, "Well, you can have it, and I will drop out if you will take it." Mr. Moore said that he looked upon the matter in the nature of a joke, and thought no more about it. Alderman Best gives practically the same version of the conversation, and also alleges that it was of a jocular nature.

To those who were speaking to Ald. Best about the matter last night at the council meeting, he denied the truth of the published statement and said it would all be denied to-day.

The Examiner only reported the incident, as it was alleged by one of the principals, to have taken place. Mr. Best does not deny that he had a conversation with Ald. Morrison, but he asserts that in this conversation, he was referring to the contest for alderman, while Ald. Morrison declares that he understood the conversation to refer to the mayoralty contest.

Mr. W. H. Moore sends the Examiner a letter in connection with the above. The conversation which took place between himself and Ald. Best on the occasion referred to, is given in the interview which the Examiner had with Mr. Moore this morning, and it is mentioned there that Mr. Moore considered the thing in the nature of a joke, so that his letter but confirms the Examiner's statement of the facts.

The letter follows:—

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — In reference to what appeared in last evening's Examiner, I think that in the interests of the ratepayers I should say, I have not thought of accepting nomination for Mayor. I am not in the field, and do not intend to be. I may further state that no overtures of any kind have been made by Mr. Best to me on the subject of the Mayoralty, and that we have not discussed the matter in any form, if I except a joke passed on the street, which did not occupy half a minute.

Your obdt. servant,
W. H. Moore.

15th Dec. 1904.

Mr. Best was offered the privilege of the Examiner's columns in which to make a statement, but he did not accept the opportunity thus offered.

I made so many friends here that I wish to meet you all once more, just to give you a hand or a handshake, and to show you the great pile of gifts I have been making for you since last Christmas. You ought to come and take one peep into my sack. Oh! it's a wonderful storehouse, this pack of mine.

My workshop is away up at the North Pole where the explorers are trying to get. Up there the nights are long—as long as the months are here, but by the light of the stars I work at my bench with millions of little fairies and busy little elves to help me.

You ought to see my doll factory, girls! It is the greatest shop of all.

Come in and see me when you get a chance and bring your mamma and papa along—I have presents for them too. Good-bye till I see you. You'll find me on the main floor of the Peterborough Bookstore.

Your loving friend,
Santa Claus.

QUICK ORDER FOR SKATING TENT.

Messrs. J. J. Turner and Son's Progressiveness.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons have received a rush order for a tent from Fort William for a skating rink. The tent will be 90 by 200 feet in size, and will require 4000 yards of duck, and since the order calls for the completion of the tent in a week, the firm had to telegraph for 3000 yards. Needless to say the order will be filled at the time specified.

The firm has at present two travellers at almost the extreme ends of the continent. Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr., is at Winnipeg to-day, and Mr. A. E. Isaacs is at Halifax. They will be home for Christmas, however. The factory of the firm is in full operation with the complete staff.

A TESTIMONY TO ITS BENEFITS.

Mr. J. W. Bennett Answers Question in "Citizen's" Letter.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—I was disappointed to see no replies from the doctors to the enquiries of "Citizen" in Tuesday's Examiner, on the subject of The Free Hospital for Consumptives at Gravenhurst.

I know perfectly well that the doctors of Peterborough approve of the Institution, because they have sent numerous patients there at different times during its history. There were no less than six patients from the town and county of Peterborough at the two institutions at Gravenhurst at one time last spring.

The writer was himself a patient at the Cottage Sanatorium in 1902, and can bear testimony to the beneficial effect upon all who go there in the incipient stage of tuberculosis. Since the Cottage Sanatorium was opened some six years ago, a large number of patients from all parts of the Dominion have been sent out apparently cured, and it is very gratifying to learn from the many letters received by the Medical Superintendent, who keeps in close touch with former patients, that those who leave as apparent cures are still living and well and earning their livelihood in their respective occupations, with one or two exceptions.

The Free Hospital for Consumptives is run upon exactly the same lines as the Cottage Sanatorium. The terms of admission are different, however, in the former one may become a free patient, or pay anything up to $6.00 per week, according to the financial ability of the individual, while at the Cottage Sanatorium the rates are $12.00 and $15.00 per week.

Such cities as Hamilton, Ottawa, and Stratford, have after a careful consideration of the merits of the institution, given the Free Hospital very handsome support, and it would seem that the very least Peterborough can do in the meantime is to preempt one or two cots, which, if not taken advantage of by patients from Peterborough, will be available for the benefit of patients from some other section of the land.

At the same time I believe, sir, that the effort now being made is only a make shift so far as the interests of our town and county are concerned, because there must be a great many cases of incipient tuberculosis amongst us that should be receiving the open air treatment which, particularly at this season o fthe year, can only be successfully carried on at a Sanatorium where there are proper facilities.

If this general information is not sufficient to give "Citizen" confidence in the work at Gravenhurst, there are many more details that can be furnished which would put the matter beyond all question of doubt.

Yours truly,

J. W. BENNET.

CANDIDATES OF TRADES COUNCIL

Peterborough Trades and Labour Council Endorse the Candidature of Three Men for Aldermen for 1905---Ald. Johnston and Messrs. T. J. Begley and Joseph Crowe the Trio---A Platform Adopted at Last Night's Meeting---Includes Free Postal Delivery, Plumbing and Building Inspector, Assessment Commissioner and Street Reform---Candidates Will Appeal to All Ratepayers for Support.

CANDIDATES OF TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL

ALD. W. J. JOHNSTON.
MR. T. J. BEGLEY.
MR. JOS. CROWE.

Last night the Trades and Labour Council held what was probably the most important meeting in its history in Peterborough, when the platform to be endorsed by the Council in municipal matters, was adopted, and the candidates for aldermen, whom the council will support, appointed.

The meeting was attended by a full representation of the fourteen different trade unions forming the Council, the total membership of the Trades Council being forty-two, composed of three men from each union.

The municipal affairs of the town were fully discussed up to nearly midnight, when a platform, composed of seven planks, was adopted.

The condition of the streets of the town came in for some pretty severe condemnation, at the hands of the different speakers, and the department in charge of which they are, was criticised, the opinion being that satisfactory results had not been obtained from the money expended on the streets during the past and preceding years.

In this connection the Canadian Machine Telephone Company came in for some commendation for the way they had left the streets after making their excavations for their conduit work, and the streets, after they had completed their work, were contrasted with the appearance of the same streets after a sewer or water main had been laid, to the great disadvantage of the latter.

The Trades and Labour Council stands for a progressive industrial activity, and the belief is expressed that it is advisable to offer reasonable inducements to manufacturers to locate here.

The men who will be endorsed by the Trades and Labour Council for the office of aldermen for 1905, are

ALD. W. J. JOHNSTON,
THOS. J. BEGLEY,
JOSEPH CROWE.

Only three men will be brought out as candidates endorsed by the Labour Council, but it is not understood that these three gentlemen are representing only the section of the ratepayers included in the trades unions. They appeal to all people who are in favour of the adoption of the municipal platform, laid down by the Trades and Labour Council, to support them.

These three men have signified their willingness to accept the nomination, and will, no doubt, make their claims for election known on the platform between this and election day.

The platform, as adopted by the Trades and Labour Council, last night, is as follows:

(1.) The abolition of the present system of assessing, and the appointment of an assessment commissioner, who shall be a permanent official.

(2.) An enlargement of the corporation limits, and the passing of a by-law compelling all who intend to erect buildings in the limit specified to apply for building permits.

(3.) The appointment of a building and plumbing inspector for the town.

(4.) The payment of cement sidewalks by the system of frontage tax.

(5.) Public ownership of street and commercial lighting plants and systems.

(6.) A general progressive and economic policy tending to the upbuilding of the town by encouraging industries to locate in Peterborough.

(7.) A reform in the present unsatisfactory method of dealing with the streets of the town, after the making of public improvements, and the encouragement of beautifying and placing the thoroughfares in proper condition.

(8.) The inauguration of a free postal delivery system.

PLANKS IN LABOUR COUNCIL PLATFORM.

(1) Assessment Commissioner appointed.
(2) Building permits to be procured.
(3) Building and plumbing inspection.
(4) Sidewalks by frontage tax.
(5) Public ownership of electric lighting plants.
(6) A progressive industrial policy.
(7) Programme of street reform.
(8) Free postal delivery.

The press of the town was last night accorded a vote of thanks for the publishing of items of news in connection with the Trades and Labour Council.

REV. H. R. GRANT ON SCOTT ACT.

Says That it is a Vast Improvement on Licenses.

The Examiner has been supplied with the following:—

That the testimony of a lecturer who happens to stop over night in some two or three places in a province is of very little value when dealing with great moral problems is illustrated by the interview given the Examiner last week regarding the Scott Act in Nova Scotia. On reading the interview, Mr. Potter, who is conversant with affairs in that province, and having made enquiries on the spot during the past summer, sent a copy of the Examiner to the Rev. H. R. Grant, of New Glasgow, who a few months ago resigned his pastorate to enter upon the work of carrying out the provisions of the Scott Act. Mr. Potter received the following telegram last night.

New Glasgow, N. S.,
December 14, 1904.

Rev. Jas. G. Potter,

Article in Examiner not true to facts. Scott Act not failure. Vast improvement on license. Closed many bars. Intemperance greatly lessened.

H. R. GRANT.

The word "article" in the above telegram is misleading, for there was no "article" in the newspaper acceptance of that word. Simply an interview given voluntarily by Mr. Bengough.

YOUNG LADIES SUCCESSFUL VENTURE

Entertainment Under Auspicies of All Saint's Girl's Junior Auxiliary.

The Junior Girl's Auxiliary of All Saint's Church held a most enjoyable reception and entertainment in the school room of the Church yesterday afternoon and evening. From 4 to 8 o'clock a reception was held to the friends of the society who were present in large numbers. Dainty refreshments were served by the young ladies. The room looked very attractive in decoration of red and white, the tables including a candy table, which was liberally patronized, being adorned with carnations.

At 8 o'clock a programme was presented to a large audience. Rev. Wm. Major, Rector, was in the chair. Musical and literary selections were given by Misses Mabel Hooper, Gladys Mulholland, Marion Elliott and Lillian Lightfoot, while several young ladues took in dialogues. Each number was heartily received and encores were numerous. Mr. H. Latimer gave several enjoyable selections on thee gramaphone.

The Auxiliary, which is under the leadership of Meadames Molden, Hicks and Dobbin, is to be congratulated upon the success of the affair. The proceeds which amounted to a handsome sum are in aid of the fund to purchase a new font for the church.

VIEWS OF ORIENTAL UNPLEASANTNESS

Graphic Reproductions of Scenes in the Russo—Japanese War.

Mr. R. M. Roy has received a large number of most interesting views of scenes in connection with the great war now on. SEVASTOPOL'S GONE

Tokio Report Says Ship Was Successfully Torpedoed.

ADMIRAL TOGO MADE REPORT

Attack On the Sevastopol By Jap Torpedo Boats Furnishes Him With Thrilling Theme—Japs Struck, and One Torpedo Boat Had to Be Towed Into Safety—Gen. Oku Across Hun.

Tokio, Dec. 15, noon.—It is reported that the Japanese have successfully torpedoed the Russian battleship Sevastopol.

The Sevastopol Attacked.

Tokio, Dec. 15.—The report of Vice-Admiral Togo was received Tuesday night. It is as follows:

"Capt. Kasado, commanding the torpdo flotilla, on Monday night at midnight attacked the Russian battleship Sevastopol, lying outside Port Arthur The result of this attack has not been ascertained. Subsequently two torpedo boats under Commander Masado attempted several attacks, facing the enemy's vigorous fire. The shock of the explosions of torpedoes was felt but the next day the Sevastopol remained in the same position. None of our vessels were damaged. On Tuesday at 2.30 a.m. another torpedo flotilla under Commander Arakawa attacked the Sevastopol, but the result of this attack was not learned. In this attack a shell from the enemy struck the funnel of one of our torpedo boats. Another struck the engine-room, disabling the vessel, and she lost her freedom of action and was towed away by her comrades. There were no casualties.

"Again, at 6 a.m. of the same day, a torpedo flotilla under Commander Seki attempted an attack, but was exposed by the enemy's searchlights and, being subjected to a heavy fire, was unable to accomplish its purpose.

"Simultaneously Lieut. Adachi, commanding two torpedo boats, approached the enemy's ship and discharged two torpedoes, which were seen to explode, but with what effect is not known. These attackers were also exposed to a heavy fire and both were hit once and three men injured."

The Russian battleship Sevastopol, the only Russian ship that escaped destruction, being docked when the other vessels were sunk after the Japanese captured 203-Metre Hill, escaped from the dock and harbor Tuesday night and is now anchored under a protecting mountain. Some torpedo craft are also outside of the harbor.

The tremendous price in life paid by the Japanese for the capture of 203-Metre Hill has been redeemed by the utter destruction of the Russian fleet.

The Japanese fleet will now go into dock.

Raked By Jap Shells.

Headquarters of the Third Japanese Army, via Fusan, Dec. 15.—Every part of the city and harbor of Port Arthur is visible from 203-Metre Hill. The streets of the city are deserted and but few soldiers are doing patrol duty. Many buildings have been burned and others shattered. The shelters of the harbor present a strange appearance, with the turrets, masts and funnels of warships showing just above the water. There is not a vessel afloat in the harbor. The docks and buildings on the waterfront are torn and burned. The Japanese shells reach every part of the city and harbor.

An Awful Sight.

Before Port Arthur, with the third Japanese army, via Fusan, Dec. 16.—The work of removing the dead from the slopes and crests of 203-Metre Hill had been completed on the north side. The south slopes are still covered with bodies buried under the debris of trenches and bomb proofs. The long lines of Japanese dead laid out on the top of the hill and the slopes previous to interment, presented an awful appearance. The effect of dynamite used as an offensive weapon in the form of hand grenades is instanced in an appalling manner by the condition of the dead bodies, which are torn and almost unrecognizable masses of flesh and bones. Fragments of hundreds of killed unearthed from the filled-in Russian trenches, presented a scene of awful horror. The heavy timbers and steel plates of the bomb proofs were torn to splinters by shells and dynamite.

Fierce Firing.

Washington, Dec. 15.—The Japanese Legation has received the following cablegram from Tokio:

"Commander of naval artillery reports that bombardment on the 13th was principally aimed at the arsenal and the torpedo depot at Tiger Tail, and at steamboats in its vicinity. The torpedo depot was ablaze one hour. Three ships were destroyed and one was sunk. The buildings were greatly damaged. Indirect bombardment upon the Sevastopol, staying outside the harbor, was suspended owing to the bad weather, which prevented observation. Togo reports that the torpedo flotilla attacked the Sevastopol twice on the night of the 13th. The result is uncertain. Each time they met the enemy's fierce fire and one of our torpedo boats was disabled, but was towed back, while three received one shot each. Our total casualties were only three men wounded.

Gen. Oku Across Hun.

Tokio, Dec. 15.—A despatch from the Manchurian army, dated the Sha River, Monday at midnight, announces that the left wing of Gen. Oku's army crossed the Hun River on its westerly side north of the Sha, and burned three villages which were occupied by Russian Cossacks. After three hours of fighting the Japanese division was able to capture an entrenched hill held by three battalions of Russian Infantry and two batteries of guns. Forty-six Russian dead were left on the field and 14 prisoners taken. No report comes of any movement by the centre or right army, or if such a report has come to Tokio it has not been made public by the Imperial army board. It is believed here that the entire Japanese army is advancing and is receiving both men and heavy guns from Port Arthur.

200 Japs Drown.

London, Dec. 15.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Che Foo gives a rumor of the sinking of a big Japanese warship off Port Arthur on Nov. 30, three hundred persons being drowned, and of two Russian torpedo boat destroyers by Japanese on Nov. 25. The first of these reported disasters is probably only another version of the sinking of the Japanese cruiser Saiyen.

POISON IN HIS COFFEE.

Boston Millionaire Makes Serious Charge Against Standard Oil.

New York, Dec. 15.—"Thos. W. Lawson's attacks on the stock market have caused me to lose $1,500,000 the last two days trying to protect the stockholders of my Greene Consolidated Copper Mine," said Col. W. C. Greene, president of the company, Tuesday night. "It was this loss that enraged me and made me publish this open letter denouncing Lawson as a liar, a fakir and a charlatan."

Greene seemed to regret that he had published the letter. He did not go to Boston to denounce Lawson in his own office, as he had promised he would. Lawson waited all day for him, then sent him a letter calling him a liar and inviting him to come and bring his pistol with the notches in it.

Lawson also intimated that the Standard Oil party had tried to bribe a servant to put poison in his coffee.

Children to Canada.

London, Dec. 15.—(C.A.P.)—Miss Miles of the Fulham Board of Guardians, who recently returned from Canada, when questioned regarding the advisability of the guardians sending pauper children to Canada, said that for the present she thought emigration through recognized philanthropic agencies was decidedly the best and it must be remembered there has been among a certain party in Canada great objection to allowing British pauper children to enter the Dominion at all. That feeling at present is nearly quiescent, but she feared any large scheme to send out pauper children as such would revive it again and damage the present conditions all round.

Civic Ownership Pays.

Kingston, Dec. 15.—The municipality-owned waterworks closed the year with a surplus of over $8,000. There were 3,640 consumers, to whom 629,059,829 gallons were provided during the year. The revenue of the department for 1904 was $44,864.12; working expenditure, $14,123; capital account, $6,348.66; expiring debentures and interest, $11,154.21; balance on hand, $3,038.25. The city gets $9,000 worth of water per year. It allows $4,750 for taxes, thus receiving $4,250 as a gift for backing the works debentures.

Best Remedy for Constipation.

"The finest remedy for constipation I ever used is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets," says Mr. Eli Butler, of Frankville, N.Y. "They act gently and without any unpleasant effect, and leave the bowels in a perfectly natural condition." Sold by all druggists.

Dead By Her Own Act.

Toronto, Dec. 15.—Coroner Crawford last night concluded his enquiry into the death of Mrs. Annie Patterson of 16 Grove avenue, whose body was found on the lake shore Dec. 7. The jury brought in a verdict: "That she came to her death by drowning. We believe her death was due to her own act."

Healthy and Vigorous

Mr. John Shelton, the well-known bridge builder of 101 Sherwood street, Ottawa, sates:—"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Pills for kidney and liver derangements brought on by exposure, and find them better than any pill or medicine I ever used. They cleansed my system and made me feel healthy and vigourous, and better in every way."

Mr Just Suspended

London, Dec. 15.—Owing to differences regarding administration of the Canadian emigration office, W. T. R. Preston has suspended C. F. Just, the chief clerk, pending inquiry. Mr. Just is a Britisher and has been in the employ of the office for ten years.

Embezzler Extradicted.

London, Dec. 15.—James Wallace, accused of stealing stock certificates to the value of $30,000 from a banker of Marquette, Mich., was yesterday committed for extradition.

Some time ago he caused a careful technical inspection to be made of the quality of steel rails now being made at the works of the Algoma Steel Company of Sault Ste. Billy Boyd Arrested.

London, Dec. 15.—Billy Boyd, a sprinter, known far and wide in Canada and the United States, has been arrested at Chatham at the instigation of ex-Ald. C. N. Douglass of this city. Douglass is said to have lost $10,000 on the event. Anderson has not been located.

One pill at bed time, and the result is a thorough cleansing of the filtering and excretory systems, and new vigour and regularity for liver, kidneys and bowels.

(Commenced Dec. 12)

"George," began the merchant in a strange husky voice, "you are now meetin' the biggest trouble of yore whole life. I was jest about yore age, an' everything was about as promisin', when my trouble overtook me. George"—the old man gulped—"did you ever hear that I—killed a feller jest at the close o' the war?"

Buckley stared steadily, his brows raised.

"I think—yes, I knew about it. But I didn't think you"— The young man seemed unable to formulate his thoughts into words. "I knew you were acquitted and that nobody blamed you."

"Yes, I was acquitted, but how—ah, how? You wonder why you was selected to go through yore present trial, an' I've wondered many an' many a time why mine was put on me. The whole world thinks I don't bother about it, but few folks know about the vermin that's gnawin' at the secret souls of their neighbors. Why, my own wife don't know my feelin's. I reckon she thinks I'm as happy as the average man. That's the trouble with jest—jest that sort of a thing. It hain't what folks will dare mention to the person concerned, an' somehow he never kin bring it up. I said I'd never had it mentioned to me, but I did about five year ago. I'd been makin' a sort of a pet of a little, yaller haired child stoppin' at the Johnston house with her ma fer the summer, an' one day, settin' up thar in the office, I tuck 'er on my knee. She sorter squirmed off, an' when I asked 'er what was the matter she said she'd heard I'd killed a man. It set me back so that I didn't detain 'er, an' she looked scared ever' time I passed whar she was at. Hub! Talk about trouble, George, yore'n hain't a circumstance! I had jest got married, an' ever'thing looked bright.

"It was at an election. The feller was a friend o' mine, but a few years younger. We was on opposite sides an' had sharp words. The lie was passed, an' then we come together. Some o' the crowd parted us, but I was a ragin' demon. I was a drinkin' man then—that is, I took a dram occasionally—an' I got full an' went home fer a revolver. Then I set out to find 'im. It was about 10 o'clock at night when I run acrost 'im at a livery stable, a old shack at t'other end o' the town. He was in the back end with Hank Williams, the man that run it, an' I heard 'im tellin' Hank good night an' seed 'im a-comin'. I didn't know what I was a-doin'—as God is my judge, I didn't. I hated 'im with the hate of hell, an' I wanted—I wanted 'im out of the way. I drawed as he come nigh, an' I think I cussed 'im. I remember he was a-gazin' right at me—scared—scared mighty nigh out o' his senses. He raised his han's sorter, like a body will to ward off anything, but the revolver was aimed right, an' cocked an' easy on trigger, an' it went off."

Hillyer paused. His hands were folded one in the other, and both were quivering. George Buckley was staring at him with bewildered fixity, his long, slender hand stayed in his heavy hair.

"I'm sorter scared at the sound o' my own voice," said Hillyer. "It's like somebody else was a-tellin' about it. I hain't even whispered it to myse'f. An' in all my prayers in regard to it I never have spoke his name or the name o' the crime. I always said, 'You know what I mean, Lord. Show me how to unload it!' Well"—Hillyer swallowed—"he fell dead in his tracks. I was sober in a second. I heard Williams a-comin', an' when he seed me an' the smokin' pistol an' my dead he give a little cry an' started to break an' run, but I th'owed the revolver down an' called to 'im an' begged 'im not to leave. Then I stood in a hoss stall while he went an' examined—the body. I couldn't fetch it. Then he come back to me an' told me Lynn Hambright was a corpse. Thar was a pile o' dirty hay in the stall, an' I remember I jest fell on it, face downward, an' begun to cry an' beg the Lord to save me.

"Williams had a heart like a child's. He stood thar an' watched an' listened to my ravin's of fear an' regret till all at once he begun tryin' to pacify me. He told me I'd come clear; that it was in self defense; that he had seed it all an' would go on the stand an' testify in my behalf. I know now—in fact, I knowed when I heard him on the stand—that he was lyin' to save my neck, but I wanted to escape the penalty an' couldn't 'a' stopped 'im. The fear o' meetin' my God was awful. I wasn't even jailed. It was in unsettled times jest after the war. My folks was prominent, an' public sympathy fer me, young as I was, was high. The hardest thing of all to bear was the grief of Hambright's mother. It looked like it nd mighty nigh kill 'er. He was her youngest an' pet. Her other boys never amounted to anything an' had gone west an' left 'er. Finally I come clear in the eyes o' the world, but, as God knows, not in my own. That crime is before me, wakin' or sleepin'. I often dream that I never done it, an' daylight gives that the lie. Seemed like ever'thing I went into turned out money, an' I prospered, though I did all I could to alleviate suffering an' help the different churches. Mrs. Hambright jest had a little farm over in the mountains that turned out a bare livin', an' I sent a friend to 'er to offer her help, but she indignantly refused it. She'd come in town once in awhile, but she'd never come nigh whar I was at. Then I heard she was tryin' to git a pension through congress. Her husband had claimed to be a Union man, an' that he was forced into the Confederate ranks, whar he fit an' was killed, an' somebody told 'er she was entitled to a pension. Old Trabue tuck up the claim an' writ on about it to Washington, an' one day he happened to tell me that he had had a final decision an' that she couldn't git it an' that he hated to have to tell 'er the outcome. Then I got him to pretend to her that the pension was allowed, an' I paid the $15 a month. I've been doin' it fer twenty a year now, an' it has kept 'er from sufferin', but I'm in mortal dread o' her findin' out whar the money comes from an' sellin' her place to repay it. She's still in good health over thar in the mountains.

About once 'n year, generally in the fall, she comes in town, but she shicks meetin' me. Somehow I always breathe freer when she's gone out o' town. The sight of 'er fetches it all back wuss than anything else. I've tried to find out what she thinks about it now, but she never mentions the subject to a soul. I've suffered the torments of the damned. I made a public confession in meetin', as well as I could, to show my contrition without implicatin' Hank Williams, but it didn't do a speck o' good. All the members swarmed round me and patted me on the back an' said I was nigh the throne, but the'r pats jest seemed to beat my guilt deeper in. I was afeard o' the slightest sound at night or my shadow in daytime an' was always countin' on bein' tuck off by disease. One mornin', in shavin', I noticed a little red spot on my cheek an' tuck it fer a cancer. I was shore then that the Lord intended to make me die a slow, loathsome death, an' all at once I felt weak at the knees an' couldn't hardly stand. My wife come an' found me. I didn't tell her about my cancer, an' she thought I was jest sick from some'n' I'd ent, an' when the doctor come I was afeard to tell 'im about the sore place. He left some medicine, an' I made out like I tuck it, but I th'owed it away. After that I'd make a point to stop an' talk to 'im every day to see ef he'd notice my face an' speak of it, but he didn't. I've started up to his office fifty times an' backed out, jest beca'se I couldn't bear to be told that it was a cancer. Howsomever, one day, when it was more inflamed than ever, I went to his office—as weak as a sick kitten, feelin' jest like a man goin' to the scaffold. I went in an' set down an' waited fer 'im to git through with somebody else, an' when he turned to me I said, 'Doc, I want you to take a look at my face.' He put on his specks an' examined it; then he laughed an' said: 'I'll bet a dollar you thought it was a cancer. Folks nowadays is more anxious to raise cancers 'an they are good taters.' 'But ain't it?' I axed 'im. 'No,' said he, 'it hain't nothin' o' the sort. Ef you'll quit rubbin' it every minute in the day an' stop thinkin' about it, it'll go away in a week.' I felt as light as a feather when I left him, but it wasn't twenty-four hours 'fore I had some other ailment.

"I was always lookin' fer the Lord to show designs agin me. Fer one thing, no children come to me 'n' Martha, an' I interpreted that as meanin' that, sence I'd put life out o' the world, I shouldn't fetch it in. Most married folks worry when they hain't got some offspring, but it worried me powerful. I never seed a happy child or a proud mother an' father without feelin' the Lord's rebuke. Oh, George, George, I've led the most awful life that was ever led by a human bein', it seems to me—an' I kept it all to myself, smilin' along with the rest, an' tryin' to find some loophole of escape. Now here's whar you come in, an' you'll think it odd, but I've started in to explain in full, an' I'm goin' to do it. You know I used to pass yore pa's place pretty often, goin' to my river mill an' farm, an' at the mill I frequently seed you comin' on that swaybacked old mare, a-struddle of yore bag o' shelled corn, barefooted even in winter, with yore hands an' feet cracked with the cold. It was common report about how bad you was treated by yore daddy an' what a awful character he had. Maybe you remember the talk me 'n' you had, an' how you told me how anxious you was to git schoolin' an' books. That was the fust day after my crime that I got a beam of spiritual light. It come all over me like a flash that ef I could take you out'n yore degradation an' raise you to a respectable, useful place in life I could atone in part for what I'd done. Do you remember that day, George?"

George Buckley started, raised his eyes from the floor in a sharp stare at the haggard face before him and said:

"Yes, sir, I remember that day."

"Well, I couldn't git away from the idea. As I say, it was the fust bit of light I'd had. The following winter you remember my proposal. Somehow I was even then afeard you'd refuse, but you went off to school. An' then the weight and bitterness of my heart seemed to lessen, for every report I had was glorious. You stood head: you made the best speeches; you had the most friends among teachers an' pupils. Oh, George, George, you don't know what it meant to me; you seemed to be totin' me out of a rushin' river—a river rushin' toward hell! Then you know about the job I give you here after you graduated; every dollar you laid up an' properly invested was proof to me that God had heard my long prayer an' was answerin' it in his own way. I was puttin' into life a man fer one I had tuck out. Only one hitch occurred, an' that was when they threatened yore pa with arrest fer pennin' up them hogs. Then you got desperate an' started in to drinkin'. But we squashed that, an' it went on smooth again till this—this late matter. And now—oh, George, I'm afeard—I'm afeard the Lord or the devil, or both combined, have been leadin' me through all this road o' promise jest in order to let me fall the harder. I've come here tonight to pray to you—yes, to you—to save me. If you go down, I do too. Now you see what it all meant an' what it means to me. I'm in yore hands, my boy. As God's agent, you hold me in the palm o' yore hand."

The old man's voice broke. He made an effort to say something more, but choked up, and, with his gaze on the ragged rug in front of him, he sat quite motionless except for his heaving shoulders. George Buckley bent forward, his hands tightly clasping each other. Without a word he rose and went with a steady step out into the darkness of the warehouse. Hillyer heard his crunching tread as he walked back and forth over the grain strewn floor, and he knelt beside the bed and tried to pray the prayer that had rung in his old brain for thirty years, but somehow the worn words refused to come. George Buckley's silence was against him. His long delayed doom lurked in the dark silence of the great house, and in a moment George Buckley would calmly bring it forth and show it to him. Suddenly from the darkness he heard a stifled cry as of pain; then a heavy weight went down—George Buckley had fallen. A cold sweat broke out on the merchant's face. He feared he knew not what, but he feared. Was his doom about to show itself in a more tragic shape than he had ever dreamed of its taking? He stood up and slowly crept rather than walked to the door of the room. Standing there, he found his voice and cried out:

"George, are you hurt?"

His voice rang harshly through the big room. There was no answer.

"George! George! Are you thar?" Still no response.

Hillyer leaned against the door facing. His knees were weak; he was about to sink to the floor. Then he heard George Buckley calling to him.

"Mr. Hillyer," came in a faint voice, "please bring the lamp back here!"

The lamp! Great God, what could that mean? What did Buckley intend to show him—what?

Taking the lamp in his quivering hand, the merchant went back in the rear. At first he could see nothing, for he was dazed by the light, but he groped on. Presently he came upon Buckley lying on his side behind a great pile of corn in bags.

He came upon Buckley lying on his side.

"I'm sorry to bother you," the young man said humbly, "but I've got my foot caught in a hole in the floor, and I can't possibly get it out."

"Oh, George!" the merchant gasped, and, placing the lamp on the floor, he raised the young man in his arms, and together they managed to release the imprisoned member.

"Thank you, Mr. Hillyer." The arm of the young man still lay on the old man's shoulder, and instead of removing it he pressed it down tenderly.

"I want to say something," he said, "but I'm afraid I can't. Mr. Hillyer, you have made a man of me tonight. You've taught me a great lesson. You met your trouble as early in life as I am meeting mine, and yet you have borne yours like a soldier for thirty years. I've been a coward, weak and shirking, but from tonight on I'm going to fight as you have done. You've saved me, Mr. Hillyer." Buckley turned the old man's face toward him. "You know I never had a father I could love and respect, but I love and venerate you, sir. You can count on me, Mr. Hillyer. I was drunk when I spoke as I did just now. I'm sober now. I hope you will pardon me."

"Oh, George!" That was all the old man could say; he had begun to sob like a child.

Buckley took up the lamp. "Yes," he said as he led the way back to his room, "I'm all right now, Mr. Hillyer. An hour ago I had nothing to encourage me to keep on, but you have set me on my feet. Your long trouble has made a good man of you; perhaps Providence intends to give me the same sort of chance. If that's the plan, I'll accept the terms, for I'd go through it all to be as good as you are, even when my head is white and I stoop over the grave. What you did in blind, youthful passion was nothing—nothing! My actions tonight on account of what I cannot help were simply insanity."

When life's autumn comes, women, worn out by the burdens of motherhood, yet shrink from that second "change of life" which will banish these burdens forever. They fear a change in form, in feature, in personal attractiveness. Such fears are largely warranted by the effects which this change produces in many women. But no woman need let these fears fret her. Those who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription do not suffer from the change of life either in face, form or feelings as do other women. This fact is due to the intimate connection of the general health with the health of the organs peculiarly feminine. By preserving the health of these organs, and relieving the system from the debilitating drains, ulcers and inflammations which sap its health, "Favorite Prescription" paves the way for this natural change to come in Nature's way, without the loss of capacity to please others or personal inability to enjoy life.

"Your 'Favorite Prescription' brought me safely through that difficult period called 'change of life,'" writes Mrs. Mary Hamilton, of 33 E. Ankeny St., Portland, Oregon. "My change came in a very unpleasant disturbance through my entire system. I had hot and cold flashes, sick headaches, became excited, nervous, nervous and irritable. My appetite was fitful most of the time and I was unable to eat a fair meal. My friends recommended me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it made a great change for the better. Within two weeks the unpleasant feelings had disappeared. I have a husband and eight children so have the care of a large family but was able to attend to my household duties without any difficulty and passed the period without any more trouble. I can recommend your 'Favorite Prescription' as a grand medicine for women."

You may be willing that somebody else shall say that their baby is "just as good" as yours, but you don't want that baby substituted for yours. Let dealers say what they like about other medicines being "just as good" but don't let them substitute anything for "Favorite Prescription." It is absolutely unequaled.

TOOK A SEVERE COLD.

Pain In The Back The Result.

Catching cold and having it settle in the back is often the cause of Backache—the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches it is a warning that the kidneys are liable to become affected.

Heed the warning: check the Backache, and dispose of any chance of further trouble.

If you don't, serious complications are very apt to arise. Mrs. R. Williams, Hamilton, Ont., caught cold, and it settled in her kidneys. She used and is thankful for the immediate relief they gave her. She writes us as follows:

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS,

"It is with pleasure that I add my testimony in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills. Some time ago I took a severe cold, which settled in my kidneys. The soreness and pain in the small of my back bothered me greatly. After suffering for some months, and finding numerous remedies fail, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and received immediate relief from my sufferings.

Christmas

A WORD TO OUR FRIENDS

Owing to the special nature of our business, which is largely one of trust as to confidence in the ability, judgment and honor of the salesman, it is utterly impossible for us to fill our store with salespeople who know nothing about the watch or jewellery business, or of the quality of the goods they are selling. We wish, as a very special favor, to ask the many friends and customers of "Diamond Hall," who wish to look over our stock or make selections for Christmas, to be kind enough to come as early as possible.

We are giving a special discount on all of our lovely New Goods.

HOCKEY CLUB WAS ORGANIZED

Charlotte Street Young Men's Guild Will Have Strong Team.

The regular monthly meeting of Charlotte Street Young Men's Guild was held Tuesday evening in their parlours, when it was decided to enter a team in the Guild Hockey League. The following officers were elected:—

Manager.—Wm. Galbraith.
Secy.-Treas.—E. T. Carr.

The club's colours are blue and old gold.

CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE MEETING

The Last Opportunity to Enter Teams To-night.

The Executive of the City League will meet to-night at 8 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, when the schedule for the season will be drawn up. To-night is the last opportunity to enter teams, and the fees must be paid at or before to-night's meeting.

The present prospects are that there will be about ten teams in the League, and the Examiner lockets are not to be won without a hard struggle. The qualifications of players will be decided at the meeting to-night.

The T.A.S. seniors and juniors will practice to-night from 10 to 11.

The T.A.S. hockey boys had good practice last night.

Two of the star performers on our forward line Whitcroft and Armstrong will be missed this year, but a quartette will be put on the ice which can be relied upon to puncture the nets a few times. The boys are working hard at combination play which will be a feature in their play this year.

The Toronto Telegram says:—There is a lesson to learn in the fact that the Sce team has released two players who are now too professional to play amateur and too amateur to draw salaries. The man who thinks of playing professional should get up on his hind legs and do some hard thinking. He must realize that if he doesn't "make good" in the professional class he's out of hockey for good and all. And never till he stands at the side and tries to do his share of the hollering, fully realizing that the applause will never be for him again—never till then will he realize how much he lost when he tried to be a professional and was found wanting.

The Marlboros will have a strong line-up, something like this, says The Star:—

Goal.—Jack Winchester.
Point.—Pete Charlton.
Cover Point.—Dr. A. B. Wright.
Centre.—Herb Birmingham (captain).
Rover.—Harold Armstrong.
Right Wing.—Redpath.
Left Wing.—Winchester.

Of the foregoing, four were members of last year's champion team. J. Winchester was with Belleville, Armstrong with Peterborough, and Redpath with the Westerns. Armstrong, who has been ill, made his first appearance last night at practice and made a favourable impression. He is a fine stick-handler and a very speedy all-round player. Redpath has develop ed into a dandy. He played junior last year.

BUSY DAY AT POLICE COURT

Carney Committed for Trial—Fined for Assault

There were several cases before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning.

Frank Meehan made his 'steenth appearance before the Magistrate. Sometimes Frank appears after being drunk, and then by variation the charge against him is vagrancy. It could have been either this morning. Meehan asked for one more chance and promised to go to work; his word could be depended upon this time. He was allowed to go with a warning.

Evidence was heard in the case against John Carney, charged with stealing a quantity of goods from his uncle, William Carney. No witnesses were present for the defence and the evidence against the prisoner was such as to warrant the Magistrate in committing him for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction. R. E. Wood appeared for the Crown, and R. F. McWilliams for the defence.

A charge of assault was laid against George Doig by Lucinda McMaster. A fine of $2 and $6.65 costs, or ten days in jail, was imposed.

A young man was charged with assaulting and ill-treating two women on the street, on Monday night. A fine of $20, and $5.95 costs, or 20 days in gaol, was imposed. O. Leplante appeared for the defence.

CHRISTMAS NEWS WORTH READING

THE ANNUAL CRUSH.

When Christmas Day is drawing nigh,
Amid the shopping crowds you'll sigh,
And vow next year that forth you'll go
More early by a month or so.
And when next year the time comes 'round,
The self-same sorrow will be found,
And you will make the self-same vow
And break it as you break it now.

The Store is Ready for Christmas

And back of this sentence is the combined work and judgment of our whole working force. For months we have been busy getting in the stock. We had to go Christmas shopping for all Peterborough, and that was a gigantic task. Then, after this part of the work was done, the goods must be received and placed so that they would show well. But we have forgotten the work and trouble it took us to get ready (just as on Christmas morning you will forget your work and worry in the pleasure you have caused) and we are proud of the store and all it contains—so proud that we want every Christmas shopper to come out and see it. Let this be your invitation.

MAYOR'S SERVICE WAS APPRECIATED.

Aldermen Pass Resolution Expressing that Appreciation.

Has Given the Town Excellent Services During his two Years as Mayor.

Last night just before the close of the Council meeting a resolution of appreciation of the services of Mayor Roger during the two years in which he has filled the office of Chief Magistrate, was passed by the Council, each member of which expressed his personal regret at the Mayor's retirement, and extended him their best wishes. Each speaker paid a high tribute to the Mayor's many good qualities as a civic administrator, and to his faithful discharge of his duties as Mayor of the town.

They were unanimous in their expressions of appreciation of his ability in the office which he has filled for two years, and it was remarked by more than one speaker that no occupant of the office had given as much time to the town's business as had Mr. Roger.

The resolution, which was moved by Ald. Best and seconded by Ald. Adams, was as follows:—"That as His Worship Mayor Roger has expressed his intention to retire from the Mayoralty, at the close of the present year, and as this is the last regular meeting of the Council for the year, this Council desires to convey to him, and place on record its appreciation of his diligent labours on behalf of the Town, and his close attention to its interests during the time he has been a member of the Council; and also to acknowledge the unvarying tact he has manifested as presiding officer during the two years he has been at the head of the Council."

This resolution was carried unanimously, amid applause.

Ald. Best in moving the resolution said that he was pleased to be able to do so. He believed that the Mayor had always worked in what he believed to be the best interests of the town. He had not always agreed with His Worship in all the matters that had come up for discussion, but he thought that the latter had in every case acted conscientiously. The Mayor had given a great deal of time to the town's affairs, and he thought the resolution was but a just recognition of his services. He expressed the hope that His Worship would be successful in all his future undertakings, adding significantly—business or otherwise.

Ald. Adams seconded the resolution, and said that it was a pleasure to him to have that duty to perform. He was one of the newer members of the Council, but he had been in it long enough to see the splendid service which the Mayor had given the town. He had spared neither time nor energy in working for the interests of the town.

Short addresses along the same line were given by Aldermen McWilliams, Johnston, Edgcumbe, Hicks, Mason and Batten, who occupied the chair. Mr. C. H. Mitchell added a few well-chosen words on behalf of the press representatives.

The Mayor in acknowledging the resolution said that it was a complete surprise to him. He had thoroughly enjoyed his two years' association with the members of the Council. His relations with all the members had been most cordial, and although they had sometimes differed, as intelligent men will differ, the result had been beneficial to the town's interests for out of the discussions they had been able to devise plans to the greater advantage of the town.

His work in the Council had been made easier by the co-operation of the different members, who had all worked together for the town's interest.

He would like to see men elected to the new Council who had had some experience in municipal work, because it took two or three years for one to become familiar with the affairs of the town to give the best service as alderman.

He also suggested, now that it could not be said that he had any personal interest in it, that the Mayor should be paid more for his services. The amount received now is not sufficient to enable him to give the time to the town's business that he would be able to give were he paid $1,00 or $1,200, and he believed if the latter sums were given it would pay the town over and over again.

He also thought that Aldermen should be paid a small amount which would be an incentive to them to spend time in the services of the town.

He thanked the aldermen heartily for the expression of the resolution, and assured them that the last two years had been pleasant ones to him.

MRS. MONCRIEF DIED THIS MORNING

Wednesday's Street Car Accident Resulted Fatally.

Deceased Was Never Conscious After the Accident—Funeral on Monday —No Inquest.

Mrs. Joseph Moncrief, who was injured in the street car accident on Wednesday afternoon, at the corner of George and Dublin streets, died at the Nicholls Hospital at 12.30 o'clock this morning. She was unconscious from the time of the accident until death ensued.

The late Mrs. Moncrief, whose maiden name was Mary Anne Brecken, was born in Ireland and came to Canada when a girl of five years of age. She was 54 years of age at the time of her death and leaves a husband and no children. Mrs. Moncrief's mother, Mrs. John Frost, is the only member of her family, who is still living and she has been living with Mr. and Mrs. Moncrief at their residence, "Dickson Farm," Otonabee.

The most sincere sympathy of the community is extended to the sorrowing husband in the hour of his irreparable loss of a loving wife. Mrs. Moncrief was a lady of many estimable qualities and her tragic death will be deeply lamented by a very large circle of friends.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, Dickson Farm, East Ward, on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery.

NO INQUEST NECESSARY.

Coroner Gray has made a thorough investigation into the cause of the accident which resulted in the death of Mrs. Moncrief and he does not deem an inquest necessary. From the information he has secured it was a pure accident and no blame can be attached whatever to the Street Railway Company. It seems that the horse became unmanageable and ran across the track in front of the car. After crossing the track, the horse turned northwards, throwing Mrs. Moncrief out of the sleigh. The fender on the car did strike the back of the sleigh, but not in such a manner as to cause the upset. The bell was rung upon approaching the crossing and the moment Motorman Londerville saw there was danger, the power was reversed and the brake applied so that the car was brought to a standstill a few yards from the scene of the accident. The Coroner attaches no blame whatever to the Street Railway Company and consequently no inquest will be held.

Mr. J. J. Kelso, of Toronto, Government Superintendent of Children's Aid Societies, will be in town tomorrow and will deliver an address at the annual meeting of the local Children's Aid Society to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. KING'S DAUGHTERS APPEAL TO FRIENDS

Much Destitution in Town Which They Wish to Relieve.

The King's Daughters, a very worthy charitable organization, connected with St. John's Church, are again appealing to the people as they have done in the past, for donations of clothing or money, or in fact anything which may be used for charitable purposes. This organization of ladies finds that calls are coming in for help earlier in the winter than was the case last year, and they are fearful that there will be considerable destitution in town this year. They want it understood by those who donate to them that the charity thus given is used in all cases of destitution without respect to denominational preferences, the poor of all churches being helped as far as the funds at the disposal of the Society will permit.

Donations may be sent to Miss Helliday or Miss Ruby Burnham, and will be gratefully received, or a note or postal card sent to either of these ladies will be attended to and the articles sent for.

This work of the King's Daughters is, as all charitable impulse and action, should be, entirely undenominational — the only claim that need be preferred is the need of the applicant or recipient. There should be a liberal response. In every household there is sure to be found large quantities of clothing, and underclothing, partly worn, or outgrown by boys and girls, which, with a little trouble, could be looked up, and turned over to the King's Daughters, who will see to the distribution, without distinction of religious belief, nationality or other considerations, except the need of such things.

When you read this, don't dismiss the matter from your mind, but do yourself the kindness of the deep feeling of satisfaction that comes from the doing of a kindly act. Look up clothing and other things that have been laid by. Don't let them accumulate in attics and closets, to gather dust, and be marks for moths, but turn them over for distribution to those who need them, and you will be laying up treasures, that dust or moth cannot mar.re.

DEATH IN OTTAWA OF MR. RICHARD PARKER

Father of Mr. Alfred Parker, of Peterborough.

The following is from the Ottawa Citizen of Dec. 15th:—

By the death of Mr. Robert Parker head of the Parker Dye Works, which took place at the family residence, 479 Cooper street, this morning, the capital loses one of its solid business men and progressive citizens. Mr. Parker was 72 years of age and died from a general breaking down of the system.

For 26 years he had been intimately associated with the business life of the city and his reputation for probity and straight business methods was an enviable one. While naturally conservative in disposition, he combined with cautiousness a keen business instinct and always kept fully abreast with the progress of the city. Mr. Parker was born in Manchester, England, and when 27 years of age came to Canada, settling in Montreal, where he lived up to the time of his removal to Ottawa. He was twice married, his first wife dying 17 years ago. He subsequently married Mrs. Fenton, sister of Mr. T. Birkett, ex-M.P., who survives him. Of the first marriage he leaves five children, three sons, Alfred Parker, Peterborough, and James and William, of Ottawa, and two daughters, Mrs. T. H. Gemmell, Guelph, and Mrs. J. S. Allen, Ottawa.

In religion Mr. Parker was a Methodist and pillar in the church. He was practically the founder of the McLeod street church, previously having been connected with Dominion church. As an official he always brought the wisdom of his wide business experience and was one of the mainstays in the business administration of the church. As a class leader and worker he was devoted to the high principles which guided his life and in an exceptional degree enjoyed the respect and confidence of everyone who knew him, as a man of upright life. His death will prove a severe shock to McLeod street church and indeed to the church at large, for his interests were much larger than the confines of a single congregation. In his death a good man has been called to rest.

WILLIAM WILL NOT WILT.

The Conservative Opposition, in the Dominion Parliament, would not seem so strong in able men as to afford to sacrifice them freely. Events of recent occurrence have shown that rival ambitions and jealousies, have resulted in the expulsion or retirement of prominent Conservatives from the ranks of active politics. Mr. Monk, an erstwhile power in Quebec, is gone. Mr. Tarte, a returned prodigal, from whom much was hoped, is down and out, and Mr. Casgrain, another political power in Quebec, is out of it. Now, the noblest Roman of them all, "the man with the knife," the public ownership propagandist, par excellence, is marked for decapitation. This is Mr. McLean, of the World, whom a Conservative member describes as "the man with the knife," and the author of "cock and bull yarns about about Blair, Russell, Borden, Railway Magnates, etc." It is alleged by this same member that these "yarns" were "timed in order that, if possible, Mr. Borden might be discredited at a period when his leadership, so to speak, came under review." This "Conservative member-elect," in a letter to the Montreal Star, practically reads Mr. McLean out of the party. If anything like this is insisted upon we shall see something doing. Mr. McLean is not a luminary to quietly submit to eclipse — not the man to bow his neck to the headman's axe. Lookers-on at the game now being played, will see some wigs on the green, if Mr. McLean is rudely pushed aside, and shut out of a voice in the councils dealing with the question of the settlement of the Conservative leadership.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

They have close election contests in Prince Edward Island. Premier Peters whose Government was returned by a very large majority is defeated by one vote on the "Special Votes" being counted. There a man has a vote in every electoral district in which he has property qualifications in addition to his residential vote. These outside votes are called "special votes," and when this special vote, which appear to be enveloped separately, were counted Premier Peters' majority of six was reduced to a minority of one.

It is a remarkable fact that in no general election contest in Ontario since Confederation, has the Liberal Government on any occasion been attacked on its administrative record. When the basis of attack was not some sectarian appeal it was some issue apart from the merits of the administration of the Government, which has always been progressive and never more so than to-day. To-day the Conservatives are seeking power because of their political purity, but if they appeal on their record in this regard their chances are as slim as they were in general election contests in the past.

BUSINESS IS BUSINESS.

Rightly understood and applied, few maxims are of more value than "Business is business," and there is a man in Cleveland, Ohio, just now who has very potent reasons for wishing he had been guided by it. A lady, the wife of an intimate friend of his, came to him with a neatly done up package containing, as she said, securities to the value of $5,000,000. She wanted to leave the in his custody, but she naturally wished to have his acknowledgment that they were in his possession. Would he sign a form of receipt that she had prepared stating that he had received from her securities to the value mentioned?" She was a very plausible lady; her husband was, or had been well off, and she assured the gentleman that she was herself very wealthy, much more so than her husband, whom she had only lately married, had any idea of.

Well, this was the time to remember the motto, that "Business is business." A man who is asked to sign an acknowledgement that he has taken over $5,000,000 worth of securities, is entitled to know positively that the securities are there. The gentleman had a certain conaciousness of this and did not at once assent. Noticing this, the lady assumed a little air of injured innocence, and asked if he wanted to examine the contents of the package before signing. The representative of the alleged stronger sex weakened at this. How could he distrust a lady? "Oh, no;" he said, "I am sure it is all right." So he sealed up the package for her, let her sign her name across it, and signed a paper attesting that he held bonds, etc., to such a value, and that he was to pay her interest as it accrued, and deliver the bundle back to her on the first of January, 1907. Armed with this document the lady had no difficulty in raising money right and left. When the package was lately opened it was found to contain only a collection of worthless papers —nothing on which one dollar would be advanced by any banker or broker.

This incident, as many of our readers may recognize, is one taken from the celebrated Chadwick case. It ought to bring home a lesson to all weak-backed, weak-kneed people, who do not stand up for their business rights in a business transaction. Had the man referred to been a confederate of Mrs. Chadwick's, he could not have more effectually helped her to swindle the public, than he did by his weak compliance in this case. He did not like to doubt the word of a lady, the wife of a friend; but if the lady was doing business she ought to have observed the etiquette of business, and asked the other party to verify for himself the amount and nature of the security she was placing in his hands. It is not every day that people ask us to sign acknowledgments for sums in the millions, but no one need wait for so large a proposition in order to put into rigorous execution the sound maxim that "Business is business." —Star.

THE BRIBER'S PROGRESS.

But the practice of bribery, once tolerated, became too slow a sin for some men. Personation, which the old bribers would have scorned as unsportsmanlike, was therefore invented. Here was theft preached as a political expedient. The vote of teh man personated was certainly stolen. There were, however, dangers appertaining to personation. The system did not always work out as required. This brought the spoiling of ballots into operation.—Mail and Empire.

And so it went on. Then, the Hamilton Times explains, the Conservatives sent an emissary to Manitoba to teach the faithful how to swindle the voters. They drafted a circular of instructions and opened schools to teach deputy-returning officers how to spoil Liberal ballots with a bit of lead under the finger nail. One of their agents was caught at his crooked work and sent to Stony Mountain penitentiary. In Ontario they planned a grand coup, and set about buying up the Ontario Legislature, but the plot failed and some of the plotters got into the hands of the law. If we mistake not, some one pretty high up in Mail circles was found to be pretty deep in the mire. Perhaps the organ would like to tell its readers all about it. It might use the case as an awful example.

HALL'S GLEN SHOWS SIGNS OF PROGRESS

An Agitation for Cement Walks—Other Late News.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Hall's Glen, Dec. 13. — Mr. and Mrs W. S. Hamblin of Warsaw, were in the village last week.

Messrs. D. and W. Crowe have been very busy hauling out their grain to the Lakefield market.

The quilting bee at Mrs. W. Carveth's last Monday was fairly well attended by the ladies of the neighbourhood.

We extend our hearty congratulations to our new resident, Mr. G. Zinstine, who moved here early this fall, and is at present open for engagements.

Mr. F. Darling of Peterborough, a former resident of this neighbourhood, was cutting wood for himself here last week.

Foxes are playing havoc with some of the poultry yards here this fall, one farmer having lost several fine fat geese.

Rev. H. McQuade of Warsaw, who has recently concluded a series of revival services on the Bethel appointment, has commenced a pastor's visitation at Zion.

Mr. D. Little employed an inexperienced hand to dehorn his cattle this fall, and he declares the operation satisfactorily executed.

A small gang of hunters after traversing the eastern section of this district in search of game this week, returned home weary and discouraged, being obliged to leave the most of their game behind.

We believe that if the general merchant of this village would join us in the agitation of erecting cement sidewalks, the village council could not refuse to grant sufficient means for their construction the coming summer.

Mr. Wm. Carveth on visiting his timber limits on the ninth line, preparatory to the winter's work, reports everything in a fair and satisfactory condition, so he will commence operations at once.

Mr. F. Jory is at his old trade once more and finds plenty to do. It will be late this fall when he gets all his engagements filled.

The Massey-Harris agent is as busy as usual. As he cannot give proper attention to his farming duties he has been advised to sell out and give his entire attention to the company's interests, in whose employ he has so faithfully laboured for the past few years.

Mr. F. W. Payne has again commenced his winter's work, taking out cedar, and judging from the number of teams and men in his employ will carry on an extensive business this winter. Good men will receive ready employment at the highest wages.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PURSE FOR FATHER KEILTY.

Douro Congregation Honours Their Parish Priest.

A Pleasing Event, Which Happened Last Sunday.

Special to the Examiner

Douro, December 14th. — On Sunday, December 11th, Rev. W. J. Keilty was waited upon by his parishioners and presented with a well-filled purse. The presentation was made by Councillor Allen in the name of the Reeve, Councillors and Municipal Officers of Keene. The congregation was represented by Messrs. Martin McManus, and Wm. Condon of Douro, John O'Grady and Jas. Devlin of Otonabee, and Petrick Fitzpatrick of Dummer.

Councillor Allen was spokesman in the unavoidable absence of Reeve McElligot. He said that the congregation of St. Joseph's, men, women and children, wished to place on record their love and respect for Father Keilty, who last July celebrated his 25th year as a parish priest in the County of Peterborough.

Father Keilty in his reply, said that the people of St. Joseph's had made his jubilee year a happy year in many respects. But their thoughtfulness on this occasion was phenomenal. He prided himself on the fact that though poor himself, personally, he had enriched two parishes during the past 25 years. The people had always made it their study to make him happy, and thrice happy was he just now in the fact that the boy who had served mass for him 25 years ago in Ennismore, was now a Bishop in God's Church — the first Bishop of Sault Ste. Marie. He had always looked upon Bishop Scollard as a vessel of election, and it was no surprise to him to learn that our gloriously reigning Pope, Pius X, had honoured him with a mitre.

Father Keilty concluded by saying that every boy could not expect to be a Bishop but every boy could be what Bishop Scollard had been when a boy — thoroughly conscientious, thoroughly unselfish, thoroughly God-fearing. Every boy with these characteristics would be a hero in the strife, and would be beloved, like Bishop Scollard, of God and man. Viator.

Harvey Hunting Party Misrepresented.

A despatch from Harvey some little time ago, to the effect that a party of hunters known as the Lakehurst Hunt Party was published in the Examiner. It stated that a party of sixteen had got six deer, but the facts are that the party, only numbered five, which puts a somewhat better face on the matter. The party consisted of Messrs. Thos. and A. Fulton, J. Cumns, Wm. Smith and Fred Johnston.

WINS BYE-ELECTIONS

Another Liberal Sweep by the Nova Scotia Government.

ONLY 3 CONSERVATIVES RAN

All Were Defeated By Large Majorities—Tories Met Their Waterloo in Old Time Tory Hives—Railway Officials Disfranchised—The Premier's Reply to Mr. Borden's Charges of Corruption.

Halifax, Dec. 16.—The Liberals of Nova Scotia won another signal victory yesterday when the Government carried five contested seats in the bye-elections for the House of Assembly. The Federal elections caused the vacancies in the Legislature, seven followers of Premier Murray having been elected to support Sir Wilfrid Laurier. In only three did the Conservative party make a fight. In Lunenburg and Guysboro' no candidates could be found to carry the Opposition banner and in the former O. U. Mader and in the later Dr. J. F. Ellis were elected by acclamation. In Cape Breton the Tories also avoided battle and gave their support to James Boyd, Labor candidate. The splendid victory won by Dr. A. S. Kendall, ex-M.P., who has over two thousand majority, shows how strong the Liberal party is in that riding. In Richmond the contest was between two Liberals, A. J. Boyd and Dr. C. P. Bissett. The latter won by 800 majority.

The Tories selected as their battle-ground Pictou, Colchester and Cumberland, and in these old-time Tory hives met their Waterloo. In Pictou, A. C. Bell, ex-M.P., R. L. Borden's first lieutenant, was put down and out by Mr. R. M. McGregor, a young son of Senator McGregor of New Glasgow, who has over two hundred majority. In Cumberland E. B. Paul of Springhill, Liberal, defeated J. A. Gay, Conservative, by seven hundred, and in Colchester Colonel H. T. Laurance, brother of F. A. Laurence, the Federal member, beat John Suckling by two hundred. The result in these three counties disproves R. L. Borden's claim in Montreal that his party candidates were beaten by the Intercolonial Railway vote. By the Provincial election law the railway officials are disfranchised, and consequently did not vote. The splendid victory won yesterday is Nova Scotia's reply to Mr. Borden's hints of crookedness in the Federal elections, made in Montreal, and affirmed in his ten election petitions, filed here, and proves that in local as well as Federal politics Nova Scotia is solidly Liberal.

The standing of the parties in the House now is 36 Liberals and 2 Conservatives. The vote polled yesterday was much smaller than on November 3rd, although the contests were keen in Pictou, Colchester and Cumberland.

THE NEW SECRETARY.

Mr. Fred. G. Inwood Appointed By New Reform Association of Ontario.

Toronto, Dec. 16.—Mr. Fred G. Inwood of Toronto, for the past five years one of the license inspectors of the city of Toronto, and who resigned that position on Wednesday, was yesterday appointed General Secretary of the new Reform Association of Ontario. The new official will not do any organizing which the ridings themselves can do, but will lend assistance where such is desired. His chief duty, however, will be the superintending of the central office work. His office address will be 36 Toronto street.

Banquet to Premier Ross.

The banquet to the Hon. Geo. W. Ross, which has been arranged for by the Ross Club, will take place at the Temple Building on December 30th, when it is believed the Premier will make one of his most important speeches during the campaign. The tickets will be limited to 400, and the price one dollar.

Premier Ross will address a public meeting at Napanee on Tuesday night in the interests of Mr. M. S. Madole, the Liberal candidate. He stated yesterday that he had not yet definitely completed his arrangements for other meetings.

Mr. Whitney Still in the Dark.

Mr. J. P. Whitney leaves for his home at Morrisburg this morning, after a stay of nearly three days in the city. He stated last night that he could not announce any of his plans yet. "The position is just the same as it was last night," he said, referring to his non-committal interview of Wednesday.

The Province's Cash.

Toronto, Dec. 16.—Provincial Treasurer Ross reports a balance to the credit of the Province of cash in the banks amounting to $2,952,272.

HAWKEYE DENIES STORIES.

Written From Chicago About Conduct of Frontenac Poll.

Kingston, Dec. 16.—The Whig prints the following letter from Joseph Hawkeye, the Chicago wrestler who had charge of the poll at Clarendon and Miller, No. 2, which is is stated a bogus ballot box was used on Nov. 3:

I came from Chicago of my own accord, and paid my own way and expenses, and for the purpose of wrestling a match in Gananoque on Nov. 1. I never knew anything of my appointment as a D.R.O. until I came from Chicago.

Again, on election morning at Ardoch, when I opened the poll, I gave the gentlemen present every chance to examine my box. In the evening, when I closed the poll at 5 o'clock, after I took the ballots out I took the box off the table, turned it upside down, and said: "Gentlemen, you see the box is empty." If Mr. Tapping got information, as he claims he did, that I was using a bogus box, why did he not examine my box more carefully? From the time I put the box on the table, until it was sealed, no man ever looked inside of it or moved it, because it was dark, and we only had a small oil lamp, sitting on the table, which was not nearly as high as the box. After we were through, George Hamilton, my poll clerk, said to Tapping and Thompson, "Well boys, are you satisfied?" and Mr. Thompson said, "Yes." I do not understand what they are kicking about now.

I can see nothing peculiar about our movements around Clarendon. As far as the private room was concerned, Mr. Sproule did invite Taylor and I up to have a drink, and to change his collar. He had a bottle of wine and one of whiskey. I wish to say right here, that I will give any man $100 who can prove that I took a drink of whiskey on that trip, for people who know me know that I never indulge.

It has also been insinuated by certain papers that I have bought and sold wrestling matches in Canada. I also understand that certain parties swore that I am a professional wrestler. Such is not so, but I am wrestler enough for anything in Canada, and I have from $100 to $1,000 that says so.

I had no intention, whatever, of contradicting any statement made in regard to myself by those implicated but when they begin to shove it on a little too hard it is time to call a halt. I am prepared to swear to these statements. I remain, yours respectfully, Joseph Hawkeye, 3618 Lake avenue, Chicago.

Will Inspect Ballots.

Ottawa, Dec. 16.—In Chamber, before Judge Anglin yesterday, upon application of George E. Shepley, K. C., representing the Dominion Government, an order was issued allowing Commissioner Sherwood of the Dominion Police and counsel for the Crown, to inspect all ballot papers returned from polling sub-division No. 2, Clarendon and Miller, after the Parliamentary election, held on the 3rd November last in Frontenac. These ballots are now in the hands of the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery at Ottawa. The judge's order directs that the production and inspection of the ballots shall take place in the presence of the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, and of counsel of such of the Parliamentary candidates in this same election as may desire to be present. The examination of the ballots will probably be made to-day in Ottawa.

DEATH IN THE RAPIDS.

Two Brothers Named Lecompte Lose Their Lives.

Valleyfield, Que., Dec. 16.—A double drowning accident occurred in the rapids here, just below the Canada Atlantic bridge. The victims were Pierre and Alexander Lecompte, aged 19 and 20, respectively, who were engaged in drawing wood in a scow from Isle aux Pommettes. They were crossing, but unfortunately they had on too heavy a load to handle the scow properly, owing to the quantity of flow ice. Before they could reach the shore the icy water had done its work. Both became so benumbed that they were unable to row. Two young men, Charles and Bid Lavallee, who went to their rescue, only got near enough to see them embrace each other as their boat went into the rapids.

Crushed Beyond Recognition.

Walkerville, Dec. 16.—The badly mutilated body of a colored man was found on the Grand Trunk tracks, three miles east of here, yesterday morning. His head was so badly crushed that it is impossible to estimate his age. He was probably stealing a ride.

Two Dead, Five Injured.

Charlestown, W. Va., Dec. 16.—Two persons were killed and five others seriously injured yesterday by the collapse of the suspension bridge across the Elk River, which connects East and West Charlestown. On the bridge when it went down were six children on their way to school and other pedestrians, together with six teams. Those who went down with the wreckage fell 40 feet into the ice cold waters of the river

They cleansed my system and made me feel healthy and vigourous, and better in every way."

Diet Turbulent As Ever.

Budapest, Dec. 16.—The Parliamentary truce has been short-lived. The session of the Lower House yesterday witnessed a repetition of the turbulence which has marked most of the recent sittings. The Opposition members declined to recognize the new rules of procedure, and greeted the Premier's attempts to speak with a storm of invectives and other noisy interruptions. Premier Tisza stood for thirty minutes appealing for a hearing, but was finally forced to desist by an unceasing chorus of "resign" from the members of the united Opposition.

Coast Schooner Ashore.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec 16.—The schooner John R. Halladay, from New York for Norfolk, went ashore on the point of Cape Henlopen early yesterday, and is still aground. A wrecking tug went to her assistance and in an attempt to launch a surf boat the craft capsized in the heavy sea and one of the crew was drowned.

McDougall Case Again.

Toronto, Dec. 16.—The case against Alfred McDougall was called in the sessions yesterday, but defendant was still too ill to attend. He is said to be declining. This is the 9th adjournment.

Joseph Chamberlain's Prophecy re Tariff Reform.

WHAT SIR WILFRID SAID

His Views Were Confirmed By Other Premiers—Great Britain Not Rich Enough to Bear the Whole Burden of the Vast Fabric of Empire—Address to London East Enders.

London, Dec. 16.—(C. A. P.)—Joseph Chamberlain addressed a meeting of London east enders last night. C. A. Pearson, the well known newspaper proprietor, presided. The hall was filled to overflowing and an immense gathering outside showed a disposition to create a hostile demonstration of the unemployed, who paraded in front of the building and greeted Mr. Chamberlain on his arrival with groans. This was offset by the reception of the audience in the interior of the building. Mr. Chamberlain, who was greeted with cheering, which lasted several minutes, when he rose, devoted his speech largely to a discussion of the fiscal question. Mr. Chamberlain spoke two hours.

The Sceptre May Pass.

Dealing with the Imperial question, Mr. Chamberlain asked "what were our future relations with the colonies to be?" He felt most deeply because he believed it was most urgent. If we did not grasp the opportunity then the sceptre of our dominions passed from our hand, and we should be held responsible by our descendants. Sixty years ago the colonies were in their infancy; they were so far distant that they were almost out of the minds of the statesmen of the day. The idea that they should ever combine into one great Empire would have been laughed at as distinctly impracticable; now the great majority of the people of the land have no dearer wish than to bring all the men of British race into one great organized union.

He went on to say that Great Britain, great as she is, is not great or rich enough to bear alone the whole burden of the vast fabric of the Empire built up by our ancestors. The Empire was now supported by the ties of sentiment alone. It was inconceivable that the ties of sentiment would be enough in the time of crisis which was contingent with new Empires springing up. His opponents seemed absolutely incapable of understanding the colonial question. It was not a question of the loyalty of the colonies which he sometimes thought "were more loyal to us than we were to them." It was a question of organization.

Should Be Bound Together.

The colonial Governments considered this to be the great problem, and had come to the conclusion that while the union which has existed for the last 50 years was sufficient in the infancy of the colonies, especially if the whole question of union was to prepare the way for a separation it was altogether insufficient if Britons throughout the world are to rise to the splendid conception of a united family of kindred states. It was necessary for the existence of the Empire that every part could count on the support of the others when mutual interests were threatened. He was disappointed in Lord Rosebery, who did not act up to his speeches, but retired to his tent in the time of crisis and scoffed at those doing the work. If Lord Rosebery had been willing to lead us effectively he would have found no more loyal follower than himself.

During his long stay at the colonial office he had more opportunities than most men of meeting distinguished colonial statesmen. The question of closer union was one which interested them, and most of them showed their sincerity by offering a preference on most articles we desired to send them voluntarily and without asking any return. It was mean, contemptible and unworthy for some members of the opposition to say now they are seeking gain at the expense of Great Britain, some personal advantage for themselves. Instead of that they gave us all that they thought was fair to their own people without seeking anything in return.

Contemptible Quibbling.

More than that, they had made us another offer, "I use the word advisedly," proceeded Mr. Chamberlain, "because there had been some contemptible quibbling on the part of some Opposition speeches as to whether there was an offer or not—quibbling which, though childish, is insulting to the colonies, and may promote mischief. I will give the offer in the words of Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself, whom now forsooth, the free importers are claiming as a supporter of their own selfish policy. Just before the recent elections he said, 'My vindication of our preference policy was given not at Ottawa, but in the heart of the empire, when I declared that I and my Governmental colleagues were ready to make a trade treaty.' What Sir Wilfrid Laurier said was, 'we are willing to discuss with you the articles on which we can give you a preference, and the articles on which you can give us a preference.' That was Sir Wilfrid's offer and it has been confirmed by other Premiers.

Will Never Die.

Mr. Chamberlain went on to say that Great Britain should not have lost a moment in accepting this offer, at the same time warning his audience that there were other nations not so pedantic, wanting to step into our place. He said the Prime Minister was as anxious as himself to secure the objects for which he was working. He welcomed a free and unrestricted conference to discuss the question of preference or any other subject the people of the colonies may desire to bring up. In conclusion, Mr. Chamberlain said he was told his policy was discredited and defeated and he himself demolished, pulverised and smashed. He refrained from prophesying, but whether the Liberal party was victorious or not at the next election, the question of tariff reform, once raised, would never die.

YEAR ENDS WITH A GOOD SURPLUS

Financial Statement Presented by Town Treasurer Last Night Shows a Surplus of $1,492.77—"A Good Showing in View of the Extra Expenditure Incurred This Year"—Last Regular Session of Town Council Last Night—City Incorporation Bylaw Will be Laid Over Until Later—The Question of Paying for Granolithic Walks by General Tax Discussed—Resolution of Appreciation to the Mayor Unanimously Passed---Lengthy Session.

The statutory meeting of the town council was held last night, when the financial statement of the year was presented, showing a surplus that there has been some extra expenditure incurred this year, including nearly $1,000 for the ceremonies in connection with the opening of the Lift Lock, and other expenses, which were not anticipated when the estimates were struck at the beginning of the year. plus of $1,492.77, held to be a good record, when the fact is considered

A detailed statement of the expenditure and receipts is published to-day.

A number of other important matters were discussed last night, among them being a bylaw providing for taking the vote of the ratepayers on the advisability of paying for granolithic walks by general tax, instead of by the present frontage system. This bylaw was introduced by Ald Adams, and was discussed fully, and two readings were given, but the third reading was postponed until the next meeting of the council. The Mayor and Ald. Best were strongly opposed to the bylaw, and in deference to them Ald. Adams decided not to press for the third reading.

A resolution was moved by Ald. Best and seconded by Ald. Adams, expressing the council's appreciation of the services rendered the town by His Worship Mayor Roger.

There were present at last night's Council meeting, Mayor Roger, in the chair, and Aldermen Johnston, Morrison, Rush, Mason, Adams, Batten, Hicks, Best, Edgcumbe and McWilliams.

The minutes of the last two meetings were taken as read and approved.

The report was adopted.

Ald. Best presented the following report of the Board of Works:—

Your Board of Works begs leave to report that they advertised for tenders for snow-ploughing for this winter and awarded the contracts to the lowest tenderer for each district as follows:—Southern district, Robert Nicholls, $115; western district, N. Rusaw, $150; northern district, Z. Blodgett, $170; south eastern district, Albert Valels, $100; north western district, B. Revoy, $87.50.

The report was adopted.

Ald. Adams presented the report of the Special Sewer Committee, recommending that chairman of the committee and the Town Solicitor be authorized to negotiate a conditional agreement of purchase of lots 109, 110 and 111, north of Maria street, for outfall sewer purposes, subject to the making of suitable arrangements for connection through the C.P.R. and G.T.R. rights of way, and that they also be authorized to arrange with these railways for the connecting rights.

The report was adopted.

Ald. Adams moved the first reading of a bylaw authorizing the expenditure of $3,000 to pay for the repairs to the heating apparatus in the Central School, incurred by the Board of Education. The bylaw was passed, subject to the passing of a subsequent act to be introduced into the legislature.

CITY INCORPORATION.

Ald. Morrison introduced a bylaw providing for submitting to the ratepayers at the coming elections of the the question of incorporating Peterborough into a city and asking for legislation to that effect.

Mayor Rogers thought that in view of the fact that there would be a number of money bylaws to be voted on at the next elections, those to provide for city incorporation and paying for sidewalks by general tax might be left over until some later date, particularly since neither of the changes suggested by them could be effected without recourse to the Legislature.

Ald. Adams who had a bylaw, providing for taking a vote of the ratepayers on the question of paying for sidewalks by general tax, thought that while the city incorporation bylaw might not be prejudicially affected by proposing the one which he proposed introducing, was one which should be dealt with at once, before the matter became more complicated.

Ald. Best was of the opinion that if such a bylaw was passed it would work an injustice to those who have already paid or partly paid for their sidewalks by the frontage tax system, and some form of compensation would be necessary.

Speaking of the question of city incorporation Ald. Morrison said that in view of the numerous money bylaws to be submitted he would be agreeable to withdrawing the bylaw for the time, and allow the next Council to deal with it, but he would like some reasonable assurance that the next Council would deal with it.

Ald. Johnston counselled delaying action in the matter until next year, when he thought that the population of the town would probably have reached the 15,00 mark, and the town become a city automatically.

Ald. Hicks asked if it would be necessary to have a special census to ascertain if there were a sufficient number of population. The Town Solicitor was of the opinion that a special census would be necessary and it would cost as much or more than the special legislation.

Ald. Best thought it would do no harm to submit the question to the people and if they voted in favour of it, he thought that by all means they should be given city government.

Ald. Johnston seconded the first reading of the bylaw introduced by Ald. Morrison, to provide for the submission of the city incorporation bylaw.

The Mayor, with Ald. Hicks in the chair in committee urged the Council to postpone dealing with this matter. He was afraid that if it was voted on at the last election, the effect would be that the money bylaws would be defeated in the confusion of the numerous bylaws.

Ald. Best thought it would not have that effect, and if the people wanted this town to be a city, it should be made one.

Ald. Morrison withdrew his bylaw in view of the fact mentioned by the Mayor of the danger of the important money bylaws being defeated.

Ald. Adams then introduced his bylaw to provide for the submitting to the ratepayers at the next municipal elections of the advisability of changing the method of paying for granolithic sidewalks by a general, instead of a frontage, tax.

The Mayor was of the opinion that this was not an opportune time to submit this question, but Ald. Hicks, who seconded the first reading of the bylaw was of a different opinion, and thought that the proper time was now to deal with the matter.

The bylaw was given two readings after a lengthy discussion on the merits of the question, in which nearly all the members of the council participated. Ald. Adams said, that that in view of the fact that the attendance of the aldermen was small, he would be willing to postpone the third reading to some later date.

SNOW-PLOUGHING.

Ald. Adams presented the financial statement for the year, and stated that the surplus for the year was over $1400, which was much better than he expected, in view of the increased expenditure during the year, but there had been no marked increase of expenditure, all the departments keeping well within their estimates. The actual surplus would be nearly $2500.

The Mayor congratulated the town and "the finance minister" on the excellent showing made by the town, which had the lowest rate of any town in the province he knew of. The rate had been lowered half a mill this year, and he thought the showing was one which the ratepayers would be well pleased with.

The statement was as follows:—

Ald. Johnston moved, seconded by Ald. Adams, that the two assessors in the East Ward be paid $30 additional each on account of the extra work in the assessing. The motion was carried.

Ald. Johnston again called the attention of the council to the matter of the Dickson dam bridge, and asked what had been done in the matter.

Ald. Best said that to raise the bridge and repair it, would cost about $200. Mr. Larmouth had written to find out upon what terms the company would allow the council to repair the bridge and use it for foot traffic.

The Mayor referred to the matter of the release of the $5000 cheque deposited by Mr. Stuart, and Ald. Adams moved that the cheque be returned to Mr. Stuart. Ald. Johnston seconded the motion, which was carried.

Ald. Best moved that the cheque for $300, deposited by the Lakefield Cement Co. as a guarantee of the fulfillment of their contract for cement, be returned to them, in view of the fact that the contract had been filled.

Mayor Roger stated that a number of persons had asked him to call a public meeting for the purpose of discussing public questions before the day of election. The council was favourable to the proposition, and it was decided that the meeting be held between nomination and election day.

The Mayor said that the District Superintendent of the C.P.R. was expected in town in the course of a few days to consider the question of the Simcoe street siding, and suggested that the council might meet him.

It was a Robin.

Mr. J. Bickell, milk dealer, called to-day on the Examiner to complain of the injustice done him by suggesting that the "robin" he saw yesterday was a "grosbeak." He says he is absolutely positive that he saw a robin. He says he can't be mistaken—he drinks nothing stronger than milk, and his milk is of the first quality, and its use is not likely to superinduce optical delusions, especially to the extent of mistaking a grosbeak for a robin.

POST OFFICE IMPROVEMENTS

Correspondent Writes to Complain of Crowding.

The Addition of Another Wicket Will Relieve the Congestion.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Permit me to say a few words in your columns in reference to the Post Office arrangements as to mail matters generally. The present way of dealing with callers' letters is ridiculously antiquated, and to many people a visit to the Post Office is calculated to impress them with anything but admiration of the muddling, unbusinesslike manner in which the business is transacted, especially at busy times, such as Saturdays, and on special occasions when there is a general holiday—for instance, on Christmas day, when the office is open for an hour or so for handing out mail, the crowding and pushing to get near the solitary wicket, and the subsequent struggling to extricate oneself afterwards, the crowd rendering it difficult to get back again as if one does move a little, another probably crowds in his place, so that a person has to somehow use considerable force to at length emerge from the closely packed mass; like a warrior returning from the fray.

It is most disagreeable for men, and must be much more so for ladies, and it could be very easily altered by simply adopting the system used at public buildings, theatres etc., in all large towns in Europe, where people simply take their turns, the last people taking the rear, and by this means, if the people were to take their places as they come in, and pass the wicket from one side, either the right or left side, and walk away after they have been attended to, all this struggling and almost fighting for letters would be a thing of the past.

I have travelled all over the United Kingdom, and in France, Germany, Switzerland, Belgium and other parts of Europe, and for the size of the place, I never met with such wretched facilities as obtain here.

I have read for some years of the improvements that are to take place at the Post Office—but it seems as if we are liable to have the usual Spion Kop struggles again, when Christmas time comes around.

Peterborough is in many respects such a thriving prosperous and up-to-date town that it is extraordinary to find such poor postal arrangements.

A town of this size should have postal delivery.

I am not writing much on my own account, but I think it is a matter of vital public interest, and would be much more satisfactory, both to the Post Office staff and the public if some arrangement could be made to prevent the present state of affairs continuing.

The "queue" system is universal in France—that is for people to stand in pairs, or groups, and move along in their turn; here to reverse the old proverb it often is "First come, last served."

Surely until free delivery is in force something ought to be done to do away with the absurd and unbecoming state of affairs now prevailing.

Yours faithfully,
FRANK H. BRITTAIN.

The matter complained of in Mr. Brittain's letter is one, the remedy for which rests largely with the people themselves, although it is recognized that the general wicket is not sufficient to accommodate the persons who get mail at the general delivery, but the facilities now are equally as convenient as those that the people have had for years past, but some months ago Mr. R. H. Hall, who is now the representative in the Dominion Parliament took the matter up with the Government and secured a promise that the improvement asked for would be provided. $4,000 will be spent in these improvements, which will, no doubt, be made in the near future, and which will relieve very largely the present condition of things.

To-night the 57th Regt. Band will be at the Brock Street Rink. The best ice of the season will be given to-night.

A PLEA FOR CAREFULNESS

On the Part of Both Street Car Drivers and the Drivers of Vehicles.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The lamentable death of Mrs. Moncrief should furnish a double warning—a warning to street car motormen and conductors to be untiring in their vigilance and also a warning to drivers of vehicles and pedestrians to be careful—to be on the look-out for street cars, especially when about to cross. from intersecting streets, the streets upon which the lines are laid. I don't know where the blame, if any, lies in connection with the late fatal accident, but I do know that too much pains cannot be taken to avoid accidents. I appeal to the drivers of street cars to be more careful than I know one to have been this morning. I was in Warne's grocery shop, corner of Charlotte and Park streets. The proprietor and myself were discussing the recent accident, and inquiry by 'phone at the hospital revealed the fact that it had resulted fatally. The moment this sad word was received a car came down Park street and turned the corner at the ordinary rate of speed and there was no warning sound of a gong. The curve in the track is a sharp one, the grocer building hiding an on-coming car from Park street till it has almost swung into Charlotte street. If at the moment of the car turning into Charlotte street a team were driving westward on Charlotte on the right hand side of the street, a collision would be inevitable, unless warning were given of the approaching of the car. I am not blaming anybody, but I do appeal to all concerned to be careful. It is to be remembered that precious lives are at stake. With due care on the part of both street railway employees and the public, the possibility of accident will be reduced to the vanishing point.

Yours truly,
CAREFULNESS.

A PARTIAL SUCCESS

Rewarded Brave Japs in Torpedo Attack on Sevastopol.

THE BATTLESHIP SETTLED

Under Individual Commanders, in Driving Snowstorm and Through Heavy Seas, the Jap Torpedo Boats Attacked the Sevastopol Independently—The Mikasa Exploded a Torpedo Against Her.

Tokio, Dec. 16.—The partially successful torpedo attack on the Sevastopol was made in the face of almost insurmountable obstacles, and writes another inspiring story of the splendid bravery of a number of officers. The entire crew of the torpedo boat destroyers and torpedo boats volunteered for the attack on the only floating Russian battleship at Port Arthur. Facing a driving snowstorm and heavy seas, the flotillas separated, and under individual commanders the vessels attacked independently. The decks of the destroyers and torpedo boats were coated with ice and the men suffered acutely from the cold.

The Russians resorted to the utmost precautions to protect the Sevastopol. They dropped torpedo nets, which shielded the bows of the warship, but the Sevastopol was further protected by a specially constructed wooden boom of logs and cables and heavy chains. From the surface of this boom hung a deep curtain made of torpedo nets taken from the sunken vessels.

Forced the Openings.

The Japanese refrained from attempting to cut the net or jumping the booms, but evidently forced the openings the Russians left so as to allow communication with the harbor. At 8 o'clock on the morning of Dec. 14 (Wednesday), Commander Otaki, leading a flotilla of torpedo boats, and Lieut. Miyamoto, leading another flotilla, began attacks against the Sevastopol and the transports. Otaki's flotilla failed to accomplish its purpose, owing to a snowstorm. Miyamoto's flotilla succeeded in reaching the intended spot by taking advantage of the fact that the enemy's searchlights were exposing Otaki's fleet. In the thick of the snow, while Miyamoto's flotilla was searching for the enemy's ships, one torpedo became lost from its comrade ships.

At 4 o'clock Lieut. Nakamuda's torpedo boat independently attacked a military transport. Another torpedo boat, under Miyamoto, discharged and exploded a torpedo against the Sevastopol. Both returned safely, but failed to meet the missing torpedo boat and crew. Yesterday the watch tower guardship reports that the stern of the Sevastopol appeared to have lowered 3 feet.

Second Squadron Sails.

Jibuitil, Dec. 16.—The vessels of the Russian second Pacific squadron, which had been coaling here, sailed Wednesday night.

Fever At Harbin.

Harbin, Dec. 16.—Gen. Kaulbars, commander of the third army, met with a hearty reception on his arrival here yesterday. There are twenty-two hospitals, each with 180 beds, here. There are many cases of typhoid fever.

Too Cold to Fight.

Mukden, Dec. 16.—The Japanese column on Gen. Oyama's right, which Gen. Rennenkampff recently drove back to the Taitse River, is again reported to be moving northeast and strongly holding the Siaodagai-Sianchan region. The extreme cold keeps things quiet along the front.

Reforms in Russia.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 16.—A special council was held yesterday at Tsarskoeselo, under Emperor Nicholas, at which President of the Ministeral Council Wittee, Minister of the Interior Sviatopolk-Mirsky and Minister of Justice Muravieff discussed the question of reforms. It is understood that the Emperor advised with them on the subject of a manifesto, which will be published on Dec. 19, on the occasion of His Majesty's name day. This document, it is believed, outlines a policy of cautious conservative reform.

Rear Troops Disaffected.

Berlin, Dec. 16.—Telegrams received here are to the effect that the situation in Warsaw continues, and that anti-Government street demonstrations occur daily. The movement extends to the highest military circles, and many officers, participants in the revolutionary propaganda were recently arrested and imprisoned in a fortress.

Left Sixty Dead On Field.

Berlin, Dec. 16.—Lieut.-Gen. Von Trotha, commander-in-chief of the German forces in German Southwest Africa, telegraphing from Windhoek, says fifty or sixty dead Hottentots were found on the field after the native fight with Col. Deimling's force, Dec. 5. The latter captured 3,000 head of cattle. Thirty-six settlers have been murdered by Witbois in the southern part of the colony since the rising and five settlers are missing.

Patti's Farewell.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 15.—Madame Adeline Patti gave a concert here last night for the benefit of the Red Cross Society, which netted over $37,000. Emperor Nicholas, members of the Imperial family and all the wealth and rank of the Russian capital were present. Mme. Patti announced that this was her final farewell to the concert stage.

Town Burning Up.

White River Junction, Vt., Dec. 16.—The business section of Hortford, two miles from here, is threatened by a fire which has already destroyed the White River chair works, and has extended to a nearby factory. Several stores, residences and a church are directly in the path of the flames, which the local fire department is unable to check. Help has been summoned from Lebanon, N.H.

Lights Out.

Colchester, Dec. 16.—Colchester Reef light will be discontinued from this date, Captain John Manson having left yesterday.

PREMIER DEFEATED.

Polling "Special Votes" in Prince Edward Island Leaves Mr. Peters in a Minority of One.

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 15.—The Provincial election in Prince Edward Island has apparently resulted in the defeat of Premier Peters by one vote. Under the Provincial law a voter is entitled to vote in as many electoral districts as he may have property qualifications in, in addition to voting in the district where he resides. These votes outside of residence districts are called "special votes." The regular vote gave Premier Peters in his district of St. Peter's a majority of six, but when the special votes were counted yesterday the Premier was left one behind his opponent.

Great excitement prevails and a scrutiny will be held. The defeat of Mr. Peters leaves the Liberal party, although having a large majority in the Legislature, without a leader. If the Premier is ultimately counted out an effort will be made to get a seat for him. Protests have been filed against four Federal members in the Island.

Protests in Quebec.

Montreal, Dec. 15.—A despatch from Sherbrooke says: "Three election protests have been entered in this district, namely, Lovell, Liberal, Stanstead; Compton and Worthington, Conservatives, Sherbrooke. Protests have also been filed in the Federal elections in Terrebonne, Nicolet and Maskinonge. The defendants are Dr. Desjardins, Terrebonne; Hon. R. Lemieux, Nicolet, and Mr. Mayrand, Maskinonge. All are Liberals."

WEDNESDAY'S NOMINATIONS.

Parry Sound—D. E. Best, Prohibition.
Monck—Hon. R. Harcourt, Liberal.
Manitoulin—W. J. Tucker, Liberal.
South Norfolk—A. C. Platt, Conservative.

Mrs. Theodosia Stewart.

By the recent death in Melbourne of Mrs. Theodosia Stewart in her ninetieth year the first lady who sang the title role of "Maritana" in the southern hemisphere has passed away. She herself always maintained that she sang the part in Sydney before the first production of the opera in Drury Lane in November, 1845. She was well acquainted with its composer, the gifted but erratic Irishman, William Vincent Wallace, who was a resident of Sydney in the late thirties.

One Came Out After The Other.

Suffered with Boils for Six Months.

Mr. Elie Braizeau, Meadowside Station, Ont., tells of his experience with Boils and

Burdock Blood Bitters.

He says:—"In the Spring of 1899 I was continually troubled with boils—one coming after another for about six months. I suffered terribly, and was in a very bad condition. In August I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and began to feel better after taking it. I kept on until I had used five bottles, and can truthfully say that I was cured, and have remained so ever since. I have not had the least sign of a boil."

There is nothing like Burdock Blood Bitters for bad blood, boils, pimples, dyspepsia, indigestion, or any trouble arising from the Stomach, Liver, Bowels or Blood.

Union Men Found Guilty.

St. Catharines, Dec. 16.—A jury in the sessions last evening found Edward Day, William Hodgins and William Beattie, members of the local union of the International Brotherhood of Decorators and Paper Hangers of America, guilty of a conspiracy to prevent Albert A. Clay, a painter, from working at his trade. The judge said he would not deliver sentence until Jan. 24, and the men were bailed out in $100 each.

"What for?" asked his wife.

HE IS IN A FOG AS YET

Leader of Opposition Says His Plans Are Unformed.

CONSULTING HIS ADVISERS

Mr. Whitney Has Made No Arrangements For His Campaign—Hopes He Will Not Have to Speak Every Night, But He Will Be Largely in the Hands of His Friends—The Dissolution.

Toronto, Dec. 15.—(Globe Interview.)—"My pores are all open, ready to take in the news," said Mr. J. P. Whitney, settling back in his chair, when a representative called on him at the Queen's last night. The Opposition leader had come up from Morrisburg to consult with his followers and advisers with reference to the Provincial campaign. Further questions confirmed his own intimation that he was in a receptive rather than a communicative mood.

"My plans are altogether unthought of and unformed. I have not considered the question of how many meetings I will hold, or whether I will go alone. I expect perhaps to be able to put my mind to it tomorrow or next day. At present I do not know when I will start, nor how extensive my tour will be. I hope not to have to speak every night, but, of course, I will be largely in the hands of my friends."

The Question of Organizers.

"Were you taken by surprise at the announcement of dissolution?"

"I do not know that I was, although I have a strong suspicion that the announcement would not have been made so soon but for the proceedings in the North Grey trial."

Mr. Whitney was asked as to whether it was true, as The News had said, that the Conservatives would have one or two general organizers and the Liberals none.

"I cannot answer for the Liberals," he replied, "and I do not know that the plans of the Conservatives are formed yet."

When the Opposition leader was asked on what platform he would base his campaign, he replied that it would take too long to go into that; it would be made known later. He added that he would be in the city for a couple of days.

As the reporter was leaving, Mr. Andrew Miscampbell, stated by The News to be Conservative organizer, entered. When he was asked when the Conservative campaign would begin, he replied: "It is going on now."

To Loosen the Cough

AND BRING ABOUT A THOROUGH CURE OF COLDS, USE

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP of LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

It is sometimes dangerous to stop a cough.

The aim should be to loosen the cough, relieve the tightness and pain in the chest and aid expectoration so that the obstructing and irritating mass may be passed out of the air passages.

This is exactly what is accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

It is not a mere cough mixture, and not intended to stop the cough, but rather to cure the cold.

If you have tickling in the throat, pains and tightness in the chest, sensations of irritation, of oppression, or suffocation this great family medicine will afford almost instant relief and thoroughly overcome the cold which gives rise to these symptoms.

Not only is Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine a positive cure for croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma and severe chest colds, but is also a preventative of all diseases of the lungs.

It has time and again proven its right to a place in every home, and is the standby in thousands of families.

Mrs. F. Dwyer, Chesterville, Ont., says: "My little girl of three years had an attack of bronchial pneumonia. My husband and I thought she was going to leave this world, as her case resisted the doctor's treatment. I bought a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine from our popular druggist, W. G. Bolster. After the first two or three doses the child began to get better and we are thankful to say is all right to-day, after seven weeks' sickness."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 3

Did it ever occur to you after your noon-day meal why you are unequal to further exertion for an hour or two? You are quite played out, feel almost unhappy, unfit for labor and for exertion of any kind. CHAPTER V.

THE next morning the open space at the side of the warehouse was filled with mountain wagons. Those which contained chestnuts, ginseng, fruit, chickens, eggs, butter or smoke cured bacon had white canvas covers over them, the others were cotton wagons, upon which the great, bulging bales were heaped. The year's crop was abundant, and little of the product had been stained in the boll, for the ripening period had been dry and blessed with sunshine.

As Hillyer was about to enter the front door of the warehouse after breakfast Bascom Truitt slouched toward him from a group around a little campfire between two cotton wagons. Jerking his long thumb over his shoulder, and hitching up his suspenderless trousers at the waist, he drew the merchant to one side.

"Heard Hillbouse say you was out lookin' fer George last night," he began awkwardly, "an' I 'lowed thar'd be no harm in havin' a word with you. That's all right 'twixt me 'n' George, squire. He told me jest now he never knowed what he was about an' that he's sorry. Shucks! he never hurt me, Mr. Hillyer. Besides, I'd let that chap maul me in the face as much as he likes after the friend he's been to Jeff. Ef he's done my boy one favor he has a hundred. My wife feels jest like I do about George, an' ef she was to hear I'd got 'im in trouble over a little thing like that last night she'd quit me."

"So thar won't be no charge agin 'im, then?" said Hillyer in relief.

"Not a bit," said the mountaineer, unconsciously stroking the jaw George Buckley had bruised the night before. "The marshal come to me jest now an' axed me ef I wanted to make a case, an' I told 'im he was crazy, that me 'n' George was jest playin', an' some o' them darn niggers 'lowed we was fussin'."

"I'm glad you feel that way, Truitt," said Hillyer, and he went into the office, sat down at his desk and began to read his mail.

Two citizens of Darley made the warehouse their business headquarters, using the desks without pay. Henry Hanks, a tall, lank, married man about fifty-five years of age, had a desk in one corner of the office. He wore a long brown beard, was dyspeptic, yellow skinned and nervous. He was a Confederate veteran who had, after the war, developed a surprising capacity for making money out of the unfortunate section he had bravely fought for. He was a well to do note shaver, and sold farmers their yearly supplies at an enormous profit. Anything from a cooking stove to a yoke of oxen was considered good security when once described in the "iron clad" mortgage note of which he was the inventor. He never wore a vest, and the pockets of his thin coat were always bulging with notes and accounts which he carried on his person to have them ready at a moment's notice when he ran across a delinquent. The other citizen was Jim Kenner, a jovial cotton buyer, a bachelor about forty-five years of age, who was the very life of the little circle. When he had business to transact he could be as long faced and serious as any one else; but even then his humor was apt to bubble up and burst at the very moment no one was expecting it. His chief amusement was in teasing Hanks, whom he sarcastically called "Old Liberality," or "Lib" for short. He spoke with a whine that always ended in a rasping laugh that was very infectious. Hanks had never been known to smile, and yet a close observer would have seen that, in his own way, he seemed to enjoy all his associate's levity. It was a chilly day and there was a good fire in the long wood stove, and the two men bent over it. George Buckley sat on his high stool at his desk at work on his big ledger.

"Say, George," whined Kenner, as he threw a cigar stump under the stove and leaned back in his chair. "Did you ever hear that tale Bill Gower is a-tellin' on Lib, about his burn out when he used to be in the junk business?"

George smiled indulgently and said, without looking round, that he had not.

"Lib made his start in the junk business down at the fur end o' the street," said Kenner. "Jest after the surrender thar was a lots o' scrap iron an' the like lyin' around, an' he made money buyin' it up an' shippin' it to iron foundries. Then he added wheat an' peas an' corn as a side line, an' one fall when he had a purty big stock of everything his shack tuck fire. A wind was a-blowin' an' things looked shaky. A line o' bucket passers was formed to the nighest well, an' we was doin' purty fair work when Lib come lopin' down the street, makin' a noise like a hoss full o' water. When he seed what we was doin' he got awful rattled an' yelled for us to tote out the stuff. I wasn't nigh 'im, but Bill Gower says when some o' the crowd laid hold o' the wheat sacks Lib yelled at 'em, 'Let the wheat alone, it's insured; tote out the scrap iron!'"

George laughed at this recital, but Hanks simply swung his foot back and forth and chewed the end of his unlighted cigar. To all appearances he had not heard a word of what had been said.

"We put the shanty out," said Kenner, "but Lib didn't help a bit. He was hoppin' about like a chicken with its head off doin' its last dance. We rally saved his life. I believe he'd 'a' dropped dead in his tracks ef he'd 'a' lost by that blaze that night."

"Ef thar's anybody that loves a nickel more'n you do," grunted the note shaver, "I'd like to see 'im. I never heard o' anybody gittin' anything out'n you."

Kenner laughed. "When I fust started out I'll admit I was purty close, Lib. You know my daddy sold a little farm o' his when I was twenty-one an' set me up in the retail grocery business. He talked to me so much about the deadbeats lyin' in wait fer suckers that I suspicioned even the preacher whar I attended meetin'. He got behind in his account once, an' I hauled 'im up an' told 'im the reason I wasn't attendin' church more reg'lar was because he wasn't totin' fair, an' that I couldn't"—Kenner laughed impulsively—"git any spiritual good listenin' to a man an' wonderin' ef I'd ever git my money. He paid up an' quit me; but I didn't care; my religion improved, an' when his term was out he went off owin' brother Lampkin seventy-two dollars an' odd cents. Lampkin refused to he'p the heathens fer four year afterwards."

Hillyer turned round in his chair and smiled. His face had a healthier glow and his eye a deeper twinkle than usual. To look at him one would not have suspected that he had passed through a storm the night before that had almost shaken his soul out of his body.

"I've always thought you'd insist on your rights," he said to Kenner. "An' the truth is it's the only way to get on in business."

"Well," answered the cotton buyer, "I had to hold folks down, Mr. Hillyer. I was a green hand, but I reckon I ripened purty quick. Thar was a young storekeeper next door to me, Joe Gibbs, as sharp as a brier. He could multiply four figures by four figures in his head an' give you the answer in a minute. He used to tell me who would do to credit an' who wouldn't, an' I always relied on his judgment.

"But, Lord, I cayn't set here tellin' yarns all day. I'm goin' to handle a sight o' cotton 'fore sundown; it's rollin' in like a circus parade."

The day's business had really begun. Mountain men came in with samples of their cotton or grain. Bascom Truitt had an armful of the snowy staple. "Thar's a whole gang o' ten wagons from beyant the Tennessee line," he said to Kenner. "They want to know what's yore best figure."

Kenner pulled the wads apart at the window and answered:

"Seven-eighths is the best I kin do, Bas. If they take my offer git 'em to drive it up to the side door. I've rented space fer 500 bales here. I hope they ain't water packed or got any dead niggers stowed away in 'em. Slavery's over, an' we never did buy 'em by the pound nohow."

Truitt smiled.

"They'll let you have it," he said. "They want to tank up an' go back home."

He was turning away when Hanks detained him. "Thar's several in that gang that owe me fer supplies," he said, pulling out his bunch of notes. "Bas, tell 'em I'm prepared to cash the'r checks."

"All right, Mr. Hanks," said the long mountaineer, "I'll tell 'em."

Kenner went out to receive the cotton, and Hillyer followed to indicate the space Kenner was to use. This left George Buckley and the note shaver alone together. George was writing when Hanks stood up and leaned on the desk near to him. He cleared his throat and chewed his cigar for a moment, then he said awkwardly:

"I hain't much of a hand to talk, but I've been wantin' to say some'n' to you ever since yore pa got in his trouble, but somehow I couldn't git to it. I jest feel like tellin' you that I'm yore friend, an' ef it had been in my power I'd 'a' helped you out o' all that mess."

"I thank you, Mr. Hanks," George returned, with a flush of gratitude. "I'm glad to know yon felt that way."

The old man coughed and stroked his beard with his scrawny hand. "I've been watchin' yore progress, George, ever since Hillyer tuck you up. I reckon I was more interested in it on account o' my bad luck with my own boy. George, Bob hain't wuth his room in hell, nur never will be."

George avoided the eye bearing down on him when he answered:

"Of course I can't dictate to you, Mr. Hanks," he said cautiously, "but I think you are wrong about Bob. I think he will turn out all right when he's a little older. He's in with the society set here and half of them have well to do parents, and the truth is he doesn't know how to begin. I think he wants to, but"—

"He's always after me to put up the money fer 'im to do business on," sneered Hanks. "Now, wouldn't I be a daddratted idiot to put money in his hands when he hain't got enough energy to keep wood cut to run our fires at home? He's got to fust show that he's got business capacity 'fore I'll reak 'im. He's the biggest trouble I ever had, George, an' when I see what a man you've made o' yerse'f on yore chances it makes me mad enough to kick 'im. Oh, he's jest rotten! I hain't got no money fer 'im to dabble with, but I'm here to tell you ef you need a stake at any time all you got to do is to call on me. As I say, I've watched you."

George flushed as he thanked the old man again and assured him he was not in need of money. Kenner came in rubbing his hands. He was followed by Hillyer with a telegram in his hands; he seemed excited as he spread it open on George's ledger. "Turbell & Co. offer $1.05 a bushel for our entire lot o' wheat," he said. "What's yore judgment, George—is it sell or not sell?"

"I'd let 'er slide like a sled on a snow mountain," spoke up Kenner. "Goodness knows thar's enough profit in it at that. You bought the Charleston an' Atlanta lots under eighty."

No one spoke for a moment. Hanks was paying only slight attention to the conversation. He was seldom interested in what did not personally concern him.

"I jest want yore judgment, George," said Hillyer in the proud tone a man might have in addressing a successful son. Buckley's eyes held the eager look of the young speculator as they met the old man's excited stare.

"I don't like to express myself," he answered finally. "If it were my money I would, but it is yours."

"Well, yo're welcome to a fool's advice," put in Kenner, deeply interested. "I've watched the market for twenty

"I jest feel like tellin' you that I'm yore friend."

odd year, an' you'll hit the ceilin' in this thing if you don't git out while you got a chance. Why, Hillyer, anybody can see"—

"George," the merchant broke in, with firm earnestness, "I am simply asking you for yore judgment. I want that an' nothin' else."

"Well, there is nothing else for me to do but give it, then," said Buckley. "If it were my investment I'd hold on."

"Thar, thar, you old skinflint," cried Hillyer triumphantly as he slapped Kenner on the shoulder. "You cayn't scare that boy to death; he's got grit; he'll hold on till it thunders."

"Yes," retorted the cotton buyer, "an' George will be like the little boy a-hold o' the calf—he'll be yellin' fer somebody to come help 'im turn loose."

Hillyer's face was beaming. He sat down at his desk, and, taking up a telegraph blank, he began to write. Kenner pointed to him as he touched George on the arm. "Got back his senses at last," he laughed; "he's goin' to take that offer."

Hillyer looked up with a smile.

"Goodale & Banks, Nashville, offered me 10,000 bushels by this mornin's wire at $1.05 a bushel," he said. "I'm goin' to nab it 'fore Tarbell & Co. find out whar it's at."

Kenner whistled softly, growled out something to himself, and went out of the room. Hanks turned from the window and leaned on George's desk. "Do you reckon yo're safe on that?" he asked, and, when George replied in the affirmative, he said slowly: "By gum! you make me want to reak a little myse'f. Somehow it seems to me you could turn the thing yore way, jest with that dern steady eye o' yore'n. But I reckon I'll stay outside. I never was a hand to take reaks, an' it'll be fun to watch you uns tussle with it."

Tight Lacing and Great Men.

A correspondent says that the tight lacing periods of history have always been productive of the greatest geniuses, the loose dressing periods the reverse. Bacon, Shakespeare, Drake, Marlborough, Thackeray, Dickens, Scott—to mention only a few names—were born when chroniclers and fashion artists reveal to us the fact that "women were never satisfied till they could span their waists," and "while eighteen inches was the fashionable standard, many fashionable girls and women possessed waists fully two or three inches smaller."

But Thackeray said he would as lief marry a girl with a humped back as one with an eighteen inch waist.

Perishable Pearls.

Pearls are perishable. They cannot be considered a first rate investment like diamonds. After a time they decay. Sometimes a fine specimen will lose its luster and beauty within a few months, so that the possessor of such treasures does well to keep them put away in a sealed place. They consist of thin films overlaid one upon another, with more or less animal matter between the layers, and it is no wonder that they deteriorate.

Qualified His Statement.

She—To think that you once declared that you would love me as long as you lived! And now, although we have not been married a year, you care nothing at all about me! He—But, you see, when I told you I would love you as long as I lived I wasn't feeling very well, and I really didn't think I should live long!

Plenty of Advice.

"His trouble was just due to a neglected cold."

"A neglected cold? I don't believe there ever was such a thing. No man ever had a cold without having at least a dozen friends attending to it for him."

A Ringing Speech.

Grayce—In a ringing speech last night George declared that he could not live without me, and asked me to be his wife. Gladys—In a ringing speech, eh? Grayce—Yes; and if you don't believe it, there's the ring!

Pride.

"Why did you tip that waiter? You can't afford to give away money."

"I know it, but I didn't want him to find it out."

STOMACHS ON STILTS.

The man who puts on stilts does not increase his actual stature. He only feels taller. Stimulants are the stilts of the stomach. They make a man feel better for the time being, but he feels a great deal worse for them afterward.

The need of the man whose stomach is "weak" is not stimulation but strength. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery perfectly answers that need. It contains no alcohol or whisky. It cures the weak, foul stomach with its attendant bad smelling breath, coated tongue, bad taste, poor appetite and kindred symptoms.

"In the year 1888 I had an attack of indigestion and got so bad that my home doctor said he could not do me any good," writes Mr. G. Trout, of Gordonville, Texas. "I wrote to you and you advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, so I bought six bottles, and when I commenced using it I was so weak could hardly walk about the house. By the time I had used one bottle my stomach and bowels commenced to heal. There were strips of the lining of my stomach or bowels (I don't know which) as large as a man's two fingers passed and I had a good deal of misery in my stomach and bowels, and also in the rectum especially. I could not eat anything without having much distress afterward, but by the time I had taken eight bottles of the Golden Medical Discovery I was sound and well, and could eat anything I pleased without suffering in the least. Could also do as much work in a day as I ever could. I have not suffered from the trouble since, and it was four years ago that I was so sick."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make a little more profit. He gains; you lose. Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

Could Not Walk Ten Yards Without Resting.

Mrs. D. Herkimer, Hall's Bridge, Ont., was Troubled with Weak Heart and Sleeplessness.

How many women are troubled with a weak heart? How many lie, night after night, trying to sleep, and can't? Perhaps you are one of them? If so, read what Mrs. Herkimer says. It may save you years of suffering if you take her advice:—

"I am now enjoying the best of health, after having used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled with a weak heart, and was afraid to draw a long breath, for the pain it would cause me. I could not sleep at night, and it was impossible for me to walk ten yards without resting myself. I cannot speak too highly of your Heart and Nerve Pills; they are the greatest pill I have ever used, and can recommend them to all sufferers."

The price of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills is 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25. For sale by all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price.

NO SUBSTITUTE

has yet been found for cod liver oil. There are so-called extracts, wines and cordials of cod liver oil that are said to contain the active principles but not the oil itself. This is absurd on its face. You might as well extract the active principles of wheat and make bread with them. The best form of cod liver oil, that can be digested and assimilated most easily, is Scott's Emulsion.

Christmas

A WORD TO OUR FRIENDS

Owing to the special nature of our business, which is largely one of trust and confidence in the ability, judgment and honor of the sale-man, it is utterly impossible for us to fill our store with salespeople who know nothing about the watch or jewellery business, or of the quality of the goods they are selling. We wish, as a very special favor, to ask the many friends and customers of "Diamond Hall," who wish to look over our stock or make selections for Christmas, to be kind enough to come as early as possible.

WHO CAN PLAY IN CITY LEAGUE

Resolution Passed Deciding This Matter, Last Evening.

Five Teams Paid Their Fees and Others Will Enter—Some Resolutions—League Opens Next Thursday.

An enthusiastic meeting of the City Hockey League, was held in the Y.M.C.A. last night. Representatives of five teams were present, and paid the admission fees, as follows: Karnots, Farriers, T. A. S., Colonials as "Earl Greys."

The time for applications, and entrance fees to be handed in, was extended till Monday night at eight o'clock, when the executive will meet and draw up the schedule. It was decided to start the League next Thursday night.

The secretary read the following letter:

Peterborough, Dec. 15, 1904.

Mr. H. Kingscote, Secretary Peterborough Hockey League,—

Dear Sir, — Being in sympathy with a city league, and having a strong desire to assist in developing players for senior company and to help in some little way to create a strong rivalry for honours throughout the season, we would be pleased to tender the winning team an oyster supper providing it meets with the approval of the executive.

Awaiting your desire, we remain,
Yours very truly,
Lang & Maher.

The secretary was instructed to send a letter to Messrs. Lang & Maher expressing the approval and thanks of the executive of the City League.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Examiner for their kindness in offering gold lockets for the winning team of the League.

The following resolutions were passed:

"That no O.H.A. seniors or intermediates, nor Trent Valley seniors, be permitted to play in the City League."

"The players of a team defaulting a game cannot under any circumstance, play with any other city league team in a league game during the season, and will forfeit their certificate.

"Names of players in each team must be handed to the secretary at Monday night's meeting, when players' certificates will be issued.

The O.H.A. new rules were adopted by the league for all games. The league will furnish pucks to be used in league games.

Prices of admission, including both games on each night, gentlemen, 20c, ladies, 15c., and children, 10c.

The following were appointed referees for the season: Messrs. Glover, Wasson, Lynch and Crowley.

ANNUAL MEETING OF T. V. L. TO-NIGHT

Many Clubs Will Send Delegates—Warm Contest for Secretaryship.

The annual meeting of the Trent Valley League which will be held at 9 o'clock this evening in the Oriental Hotel promises to be one of the most enthusiastic meetings yet held in connection with this organization. Much interest is being displayed and there will be a large representation of Clubs. The contest for secretary promises to be a warm one between Mr. T. J. Wallace and Mr. D. J. DeVine. Both are capable men to fill the office.

It is understood that a draft of a new constitution will be submitted for the approval of the meeting.

Among the clubs which will be represented to-night are Brighton, Colborne, Belleville, Picton, Cobourg, Port Hope, Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon, Campbellford, Keene, Warkworth, Peterborough T.A.S. and possibly another Peterborough team.

Owing to the collapse of the Norwood rink no team will be put in the league from that place this winter. It is not improbable, however, that a combination team from Keene and Norwood will be entered.

A movement is on foot to increase the fees of the clubs which hitherto has been only $1.00. The league was then absolutely certain of only $15 or $20 revenue and were it not for an occasional tie match which happened to be controlled by the league, there would not have been sufficient funds with which to carry on the management of the league. The Clubs should at least pay $2.00 or $3.00 entrance fees.

The name of Mr. E. S. Clarry, the retiring secretary, has been mentioned as the probable president for the coming year. Mr. W. Crowley, who at present holds this office is withdrawing and it is the general opinion that there is no one more deserving of the honour of president than is Mr. Clarry. For six years or since the league was first organized he has filled the office of secretary to the entire satisfaction of the league and a better president could not be secured for the coming year.

MR. F. J. McGRATH AN AMATUER.

C.A.A.L. After Making Thorough Investigation Remove Suspension.

Cannot Discover Any Evidence of Professionalism, and He Has Been Given Medal Won At C.A.A.L. Event.

The sporting editor of the Examiner has received a letter from Mr. J. Howard Crocker, secretary of the C.A.A.L. confirming the amateur standing of Mr. F. J. McGrath. The letter which speaks for itself is as follows:—

"Some time ago information was laid before the Canadian Association Athletic League that Mr. F. J. McGrath, of Peterborough, was a professional. We have taken very great pains to carefully investigate the matter and find that statements made were untrue, and we would like very much if you would publish in the columns of your paper the decision of the Governing Committee, that Mr. McGrath is no longer under suspicion and I have sent him his medal won at Athletic Meet here on October 1st."

Mr. McGrath has thus been redeemed from any suspicion of professionalism in the eyes of the C.A.A.L. and it is a pleasure to his friends, who were all along satisfied of his amateur standing that this connection has been verified by the Association.

TURF CLUB RAISES AMOUNT OF PURSE

Will Give $1000 for Next Winter Meet.

The Turf Club is considering the advisability of increasing the purses for the four races in connection with the winter meets from $150 to $250 for each race, which will make the prize list $1000, instead of $600.

The prospects are that a large number of the fastest horses in the country will be entering for this meet. Mr. J. O'Shea, the secretary, has already received a number of enquiries from horse owners. The track is rapidly being put into good shape, and there is also a track on the Little Lake.

HOCKEY.

The annual meeting of the Trent Valley League will be held to-morrow. This league is one of the best feeders the O.H.A. has and it deserves the prosperity that promises to be its share this winter.—Toronto Telegram.

Harold Armstrong was a find for the Marlboros, as he is one of the beatm on that has come to town in a long time. He can play either on the forward line or on the defence. —News.

The hockey team had another good practice last night. The ice was in fine shape for fast work, and the boys mowed about in lively fashion. As yet only three players have turned out who can be termed certainties for the seniors, Cavanah, Morgan and Graham. But there are several others showing good form, and there will be no difficulty in filling up the septette.

The annual Trent Valley League meeting will be held this evening in the Oriental Hotel at 9 o'clock.

The B. A. C. which figured so prominently in baseball circles last summer, winning all their games, will be heard of in the hockey arena arena this winter. They will be speedy.

The senior, junior and intermediate O.H.A. districts will be arranged to-night.

The Marlboros and Wellesleys meet in Toronto to-morrow night.

The senior St. George's will be stronger than last year, it is expected.

The Karnots go to Bobcaygeon on Friday, Dec. 30th, to play an exhibition game.

The Peterboroughs will practice again to-night at seven. The following teams are asked to turn out:

Goal.
Ferguson ... ... Fitzpatrick
Point.
Meagher..... ....Ford
Cover point.
Cavanah... ... ...Green
Rover.
Crowley... ... ...Long
Centre.
Parnell... ... ...McFarlane
Right wing.
Morgan... ... ...Winch
Left wing.
Graham... ... ...Hall, Cameron

Ridpath, who is playing for the Marlboro seniors this year is a Lakefield boy, and a graduate of the Trent Valley League.

St. Paul's Young Men's Guild, will enter a team in the City League. The Guild refused to play in the Guild League, as the games in the League are to be played on an open rink.

An executive meeting of the Guild hockey league, was held last evening in the Y.M.C.A. Four Guilds, St. John's, All Saints, George street and George street, have signified their intention of having teams in the League. There was a lengthy discussion as to what players should be eligible and though no decision was made it was generally agreed that no players who had played in an O.H.A., senior, intermediate or junior team, or in the Trent Valley League, last year, or in a Trent Valley, or intermediate, or senior, O. H. A., or city league, this year, would be allowed to compete in a Guild League game. A constitution embodying the above will be drafted by a committee and submitted to a meeting of the executive next week. It was agreed that the matches be played on Wednesday nights, two games each night, and that the series open on Jan. 4th, and that a double schedule be arranged. The prospects are very bright for a successful season, and the object of the league, to develop young players, promises to be fully realized.

CURLING.

Last evening two sheets of ice were in excellent condition at the Curling Rink and two scratch games were played between rinks skipped by G. K. Giroux and C. N. Brown and R. Neill and J. Stanger, skips Giroux and Stanger winning handily. These were the first games of the season. The following was the personnel of the rinks and the scores:—

W. D. Campbell	W. J. McCallum
S. Clegg	W. E. Talbot
Robert Kerr	Thos. Brightman
G. H. Giroux, sk 20.	C. N. Brown, sk 6.
G. F. Jackson	R. Matchett
W. S. Dodds	Wm. Smith
R. S. Broad	David Hall
R. Neill, sk. 6.	John Stanger, sk 14.

BASKET-BALL.

There will be no league basketball game to-morrow night at the Y.M.C.A.

In a league game of basketball on Wednesday night the Brownies won from the Class Team by 35-15 after a good contest. The standing of the teams is now:—

	Won.	Lost.
Athletics	2	0
Brownies	2	1
Harriers	1	2

SIDEWALKS BY GENERAL TAX

Ald. Adams Strongly Favours Proposal in an Interview.

Will be a Benefit to the Whole Town Says the Alderman—His Reasons for Supporting it.

The question of paying for granolithic walks by the system of general tax, instead of by the present system of a frontage tax, is one which is engaging the attention of the town council at present, and at the next meeting the bylaw introduced and given two readings at Thursday night's meeting, will again be brought up for its final reading.

This bylaw provides for submitting to the ratepayers on January 2nd, the question, and asking them to express an opinion as to which plan they prefer, that of a general tax or a frontage tax.

In introducing the bylaw on Thursday night, Ald. Adams gave some of the reasons why he thought the general system of paying for the sidewalks, was preferable, and since the matter is of general interest to the public, and it was impossible to give Ald. Adams' remarks in full in the lengthy report of the council meeting, the Examiner had an interview with that gentleman this morning, in which his position in reference to this question was given.

Ald. Adams was very strongly of the opinion that the only equitable way to pay for granolithic walks, which he considers are as much public property as the streets, is by a general tax on the ratepayers. The plank sidewalks were paid for by a general tax, and he sees no reason why the granolithic walks should not be paid for in the same way. As a matter of fact, when repairs have to be be made to the granolithic walks, they have to be paid by a general tax, all the ratepayers contributing to the same.

In conversation with a large number of the more extensive property owners, who are now paying considerable to the frontage tax, Ald. Adams finds that they are favourable to the new plan as proposed by him.

He points out that those who have been paying for the sidewalks for four years, the longest period that any have paid, would suffer no injustice if the general tax system was now reverted to, and he points out the reasons.

The cost of the walks laid first, was 15 7-8 cents per square foot, while the cost this year is not more than 10 cents, a difference of 5 7-8 cents per foot, and Ald. Best claims that the walks being constructed today are equally durable as those constructed at the higher price.

Those who have had their walks for four years have paid one-quarter their cost, or about 4 cents per square foot, leaving 11 7-8 cents per foot still to pay. Ald. Adams contends therefore that those persons will be benefitted, because instead of paying their share of 11 7-8 cents they will only pay their share of 10 cents. He further points out that the present system is cumbersome and expensive, the actual cost of construction being added to by nearly 25 per cent. for the extra expenses in connection with clerical work made necessary by the mode of procedure under the present system. This will not all be done away with under the system of general tax, but it will, according to Ald. Adams, be materially decreased.

At present there are two ways in which a granolithic walk may be procured, first by a petition signed by at least half of the ratepayers affected, representing more than half of the value of the property to be taxed, and second by advertising it. Both of these methods Ald. Adams claims are costly, and the increase of work will in the near future require an extra clerk if the present system is continued.

There will be, contrary to the opinion held by some, very little addition to the tax rate, Ald. Adams states. The present debenture debt for walks is $32,000, which would increase the tax rate four-tenths of a mill, or on a $1,000 assessment the increase would be 40 cents.

Ald. Adams anticipates the only real difficulty will be in securing the necessary authority from the Legislature to enable the town to raise the money necessary to construct the walks by a general tax without submitting it to the ratepayers.

If the bylaw is submitted to the ratepayers and the proposal is endorsed by them, application will be made to the Legislature at its next session asking for the change as suggested.

COMPLAINTS OF RAILWAY SERVICE

"North End Citizen" Says They Were Neglected Last Night.

A "North End citizen writes to the Examiner complaining of the service given on the street railway last night. He says that during almost the whole evening the cars which were supposed to go to the north end of the town stopped at Brock street, and carried passengers to the skating rink at the south end of the town, and those who got on the car on the up trip had to get out at this point and continue their journey on foot. He states that he and others stood on the street corner for some time waiting for a car, but he waited in vain.

He points out that the best revenue producing cars on the system are those going to the north end and he thinks that the would-be passengers for the northern part of the town should be given some consideration.

XMAS EXERCISES BY THE CHILDREN

Of Ashburnham Kindergarten Prove Delightful Afternoon's Programme

Large Number Was Present Yesterday Afternoon—Teachers are Deserving of Much Credit.

That the Christmas season, the happiest of all the year, is not far away was strongly impressed upon the minds of those who were so fortunate as to be present at the Christmas exercises in connection with the Ashburnham Kindergarten yesterday afternoon. The little children provided a delightful two hours' entertainment for the very large number of friends and relatives who crowded the building. The exercises were most interesting throughout and the manner in which each number was carried out reflected the greatest credit upon the teachers. The singing of the little tots was hearty and in remarkably good tune for children while the childlike grace and simplicity of those taking part made the exercises most enjoyable. The games were indulged in with a heartiness and frolicsomeness and it was apparent that the teachers had entirely won the hearts and confidence of the little ones.

The solo numbers were very enjoyable and were sung in a most creditable style. The soloists were Georgina and Prudence Long and Jean Anderson, while recitations were given by Dewart Lewis and Harry Smith.

Miss A. Williamson is deserving of the highest praise for the very efficient manner in which her class has been trained. The results of careful and sympathetic training were clearly manifest. She is assisted in her work by Miss May Denne and Miss Edna Rogers. Miss Williamson and Miss Rogers presided at the piano for the musical numbers.

At the close of the programme Santa Claus appeared, much to the mingled awe and delight of the children who were presented with presents from a large Christmas tree.

Mr. J. J. Hartly, chairman of the Board of Education, was in the chair, and several clergymen and other well-known citizens occupied places on the platform.

The programme was as follows:—

TO-DAY'S MARKET

Was Exceptionally Large — Some of the Prices Asked.

There was an exceptionally large market this morning, the largest for many months, in fact. Everything gave indication of the approaching festive season, and there were evidences of great destruction among the fowl of the land, during the past week. There was poultry galore, though despite the plentitude the prices were quite elevated, but the sale was a large one nevertheless. Chickens ranged from 45c. to 75c. per pair; ducks were worth 90c. to $1.00; turkeys were on sale for $1.10 to $3.00, while geese cost from $1.00 to $1.25. Eggs sold for 25c. per doz, and butter from 18c. to 20c. per lb. There was an abundance of beef at 5c. and 6c. per lb, pork sold at 7c. and 8c. Potatoes brought 75c per bag and apples 40c. and 50c. per bag.

Semi-Ready Dress Suit.

The essentials for a satisfactory dress suit are fit, style, proper balance and fabric.

The dress suitings we buy are from Sir Titus Salt, Bart., Saltaire, England, and Joshua Garnett & Sons, Idle, near Bradford, England—so much for the fabric.

Fit, style and proper balance are the result of artistic designing — expert cutting and thoroughly knowing hand workmanship throughout.

Semi-ready dress suits fit better than those custom-tailored, because every process of tailoring is in the hands of the best tailors of the craft — men who are instinctively, intuitively and naturally artistic tailors.

That's why a Semi-ready dress suit becomes your personality—possesses style—fit and permanent shape retention.

MR. KRUGER'S FUNERAL.

Two Thousand Burghers Attend Burial At Pretoria.

Pretoria, Dec. 17.—Two thousand Burghers attended an impressive religious service yesterday prior to the burial of the body of former President Kruger. Several ministers of the Dutch churches spoke eulogizing the ex-president for his exemplary religious life, and as a lover of his people, and exhorting the Boers while remaining loyal to the new flag never to forget the principles of their late leader or their own language.

An immense crowd filed through the death chamber throughout the morning. The coffin was draped with the Transvaal and Orange Free State flags, and on it were the tributes of Queen Wilhelmina, and the Queen Mother of Holland.

Unify White Races.

At Kruger's funeral yesterday Gen. Botha spoke. His speech strongly recommended the unification of the white races in South Africa, as that is the only means by which they can become a great people and realise Kruger's ideal.

Dominion Draught Horse Breeders.

Clinton, Dec 17.—The eighteenth annual meeting of the Dominion Draught Horse Breeders' Society was held in the Town Council chamber. The secretary's report showed 17 new members added, the total now in good standing being 60 Entries received during the year, 79; fees and annual dues, $149. The balance now in Molsons Bank, with no liabilities, was $681. D. McIntosh, V.S., Brucefield, was elected president, and James Mitchell, Goderich, secretary.

Gaynor-Greene Case Again.

London, Dec. 17.—The appeal of the United States against the decision of the Justice of the Crown at Quebec in the case of Greene and Gaynor came up before the Privy Council yesterday. Sir Edward Clarke, K.C., who, with Donald MacMaster, K.C., of Montreal, represents the United States, opened the court, reciting the well-known facts. Mr. MacMaster continued and was speaking when adjournment was reached.

Many Kings Will Attend.

Copenhagen, Dec. 17.—The correspondent at Copenhagen of The Daily Mail says he learns that the Emperor of Austria will visit Copenhagen next spring to take part in an international conference of monarchs on the subject of peace. There is reason to believe, the correspondent adds, that Emperor Nicholas and King Edward have already agreed to attend, and Emperor William is also expected.

Will Have Surplus.

Mexico City, Dec. 17.—Finance Minister Limantours' budget for the ensuing fiscal year estimates the revenue at $88,104,000 and expenses at $85,474,000. The previous fiscal year showed the largest surplus on record, over ten millions.

HOW ANXIOUS.

The Montreal Witness thus deals with a matter which illustrates the burning anxiety of the Conservatives to get at the bottom of the tremendous political wrong doing which they assert characterized the late general elections. The Witness says:

"Only three seats have been contested in Ontario in connection with the recent Dominion elections, which at first sight, looks as though things were getting better in our political life. But the gentleman who entered one of these protests in North Grey let the cat out of the bag by saying as he did so, 'That is a set-off against Norfolk; if, there had been no protest filed there, we would not have filed this one.' We are further told that the same gentleman exhibited a further protest for North Simcoe in case there should be any more protests against Conservatives. Things have surely come to a bad pass when such immoral reasons for taking action, and also for not taking action, are openly alleged and vaunted by men trained in legal ethics. If criminal acts were known to have been committed in North Grey it was certainly the duty of good citizens to expose them in the interests of righteousness, but it was certainly wrong to do so in the interest of a friend in Norfolk accused of doing the like. It is open to question that the purpose of these protests is not to promote the ends of righteousness, but to screen those charged with like unrighteousness."

This is the high morality practiced by Conservatives, who are appealing to the people of Ontario, for support on the plea that they are pure and have a mission to purify politics, Bah!

CAMPAIGN OF LYING.

The Conservative party is out in Ontario to win, for the sake of getting office. The claim is, however, made that it is politically stainless, and sinless, and support is appealed for since that party only is worthy office, because its main mission is to purify politics. This is a laudable ambition, and the proof of the fitness of the Conservative party to lead such a crusade, is furnished by the plan of campaign — misrepresentation, and when that does not seem to be strong enough, straight lying. A notable exeple of this sort of tactics is recalled by the Hamilton Times. The Conservatives organs have been passing around this statement, alleged to have been made by Ald. McCoig, of Chatham, when asked to accept the Liberal nomination:

"Definitely and positively, I will not be the candidate. I couldn't if I would, and I wouldn't if I could.

"What use would it be to me to go down to the Legislature, and sit in some back bench in Opposition? And what use would it be to my constituents to have me there?

"I think the Ross Government is a goner. They've been there altogether too long, and they've got too many hookers and hangers-on.

"The whole thing is corrupt and rotten, and I believe they should be turned out.

"No, I tell you solemnly and honestly, I wouldn't be their candidate if I could."

Ald. McCoig never uttered a word of that. It is made out of whole cloth, and is quite in keeping with the Conservative policy of lying and plunder. Ald. McCoig, on the contrary, accepted the Liberal nomination, and he is confident of holding the constituency and representing it on the Government side of the Legislature. He has given prompt and unequivocal denial to the yarn and to the sentiments, but in spite of that not a Conservative organ has the decency to retract the slander, and publish the denial. Is a party that resorts to such immoral and snakey methods fit to be trusted with the government of Ontario?

Why did Mr. Blair resign the Chairmanship of the Railway Commission?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

We hope it is the Grey dawn of a happy gubernatorial regin.

The statement is made that the immigration into this Province for the season just closed was fifty per cent. larger than it was last season. The immigrants were mostly composed of farmers or farm labourers, just the class of people needed.

There is a probability of some rousing political meetings in Conservative circles in Toronto. There is a lively fight between the Bristol and Nesbett factions of the Conservative party over the nomination for North Toronto. Dr. Beattie Nesbett was the sitting member, but Mr. Ed. Bristol is disputing the honour of nomination. Dr. Nesbett was successful in crowding out Mr. Marter in the interests of temperance, and he may be inclined to this, to his mind, higher interests of the Conservative party to "turn down" Mr. Bristol in turn.

CARRIES TROUBLE RIGHT WITH HIM

Fate of the Dyspeptic Who Has Not Learned the Relief That is Found in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The dyspeptic is the man who carries the troubles of the world on his shoulders. He is racked with pain and filled with despondency. Life's not worth living to him.

It's his own fault. Relief, complete and permanent, is within the reach of all. It is contained in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They digest the food themselves, so there can be no indigestion where they are used. Listen to what Mr. R. A. Burton, 23 Tyndall avenue, Toronto, says:

"I had indigestion in its worst form. The doctors could not do me any good, and I began to think my case was hopeless. As a last resort I tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I am thankful to say they had the desired effect.

"I was afraid to eat many things that would have suited my taste. Now I can eat anything that is set before me, asking no questions."

The meeting was largely attended, and the addresses were clever, logical presentation of the subject, from the speakers' stand-point. All shades of opinion were represented, and after the regular meeting an organization meeting was held, when the township organization was effected. The chairman of the meeting was Rev. J. W. Bunner of Bridgenorth, and other clergymen present were Rev. J. McKinnon of the Gilmour Memorial Church, and Rev. E. Bowerman of Selwyn.

LINGERING COLD.

Withstood Other Treatment But Quickly Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I caught a very severe cold which lingered for weeks," says J. Urquhart, of Zephyr, Ontario. "My cough was very dry and harsh. The local dealer recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and guaranteed it, so I gave it a trial. One 25 cent bottle of it cured me. I believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best I have ever used." This is one of the most staple medicines in use. Thousands have testified to its excellence. It not only cures a cold quickly and effectually, but counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It is equally valuable for children and may be given to them with implicit confidence. It always cures and is pleasant to take. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no opium or other harmful drug. Sold by all druggists.

London, Dec. 17.—The Chronicle asserts that the fate of the international steel rail pool hangs on the report of J. "It is possible," said the mamamammmn is possible," said The Chronicle, "that American hostility may wreck the scheme. Practically all the leading British firms have joined the combination, but the keystone of the whole edifice is the United States Steel Corporation, without whose support it must fall to pieces. If America joins, their preserve will probably be Mexico and South America."

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY REPORTS.

Secretary and Agent Reviews Work of Last Year.

Annual Meeting Held This Afternoon in Council Chamber,

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society is being held in the Town Council Chamber this afternoon. As the Secretary's and Agent's reports below will show the the work has been successfully carried on during the past year. The children at the Shelter have received nothing but the kindest of attention from Mr. and Mrs. Henry and no complaint has been made regarding the management of the Shelter. The services of the agent, Mr. Cochrane, have also been most efficient and the success of the Society during the past year was, to a great extent as stated in the Secretary's report, due to his energetic and sympathetic efforts. The Society is doing a great work in town and is a worthy object of support.

The Secretary's and Agent's reports follow:—

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Peterborough Dec. 17th.

To the President, Officers and Members of the Children's Aid Society of the Town and County of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I have the pleasure to present the Secretary's Report for the past year, and to give a brief review of the work which has been done.

In the first place, it is our duty to express warm and grateful thanks to the County Council and to the Town Council for valuable contributions, without which the work could not be carried on. We also acknowledge the kind co-operation and assistance given by Mr. Dumble, K. C., Police Magistrate for the Town of Peterborough, and Mr. Edmison, K. C., Police Magistrate for the County of Peterborough; both these gentlemen have taken a deep personal interest in the work, and have not hesitated to make use of the society when dealing with juvenile offenders. We also acknowledge our indebtedness to Chief Rossel and the members of the Police force of the Town of Peterborough. Their services have always been at our command for which we desire to express our thanks.

To the ladies of the town we make our annual payment of thanks for much work done at the Shelter, and for assistance given in other ways, and to the King's Daughters we pay tribute for the unselfish charitable work they are doing, and for the assistance they have given this Society during the past year, in bringing to our attention a number of cases which required immediate action.

As in years past we have received kind contributions from many sources, and one in particular from North Harvey, which was sent in through the agency of Mrs. Nathan Crowe, which gave particular pleasure as it showed that the work of the Society is appreciated outside the limits of the town.

The following is a reference to the cases dealt with during the year; it does not include the numerous instances referred to in the Agent's Report where outside work was done by him. The following list refers only to the children who passed through the Society's hands.

Thirty-seven children have passed through the Society's hands during the year as follow:—

Case No. 1.—Three little children aged 5, 4 and 2 years, were taken into the Shelter while the mother entered the hospital for an operation, the father was away in the lumber shanties. After a few weeks the children were handed back to the mother on her restoration to health.

Case No. 2.—This was a case from the Township of Smith. Father out of work and mother sick. Children were placed in the Shelter for two weeks, during which time the parents moved into town and secured work. The children were then returned.

Case No. 3.—Child of two years of age. Mother a vicious character. Child taken over by Society and placed with a most respectable family.

Case No. 4.—Contrary to our general practice we were obliged to take into the Shelter in April an infant of four months old. The child had club feet and suffered from hereditary disease. It died in the Shelter on 10th July and was suitably buried by the Society.

Case No. 5.—A little girl of two years of age, deserted by its parents. Placed in a good home.

Case No. 6.—After investigation by the Magistrate these two children, aged 7 years and 5 years, were placed in the House of Providence on the undertaking of their parents to reform and pay for the children while in the institution. The children were later on returned to the parents, and no further complaints have reached the Society.

Case No. 7.—A lost child found at the Railway Station, returned to her friends after spending a night at the Shelter.

Case No. 8.—An incorrigible boy of 10 years old. Ran away from home on many occasions, placed in the Shelter at different times. Finally sent to the Industrial School from which he escaped and has been lost sight of.

Case No. 9.—A case from Havelock. Girl aged 16 years and extremely wicked. Placed in the Shelter after Police Court investigation, but she was too abandoned to remain there, and upon her escape no further effort was made by the Society, as she was too old to be influenced by a foster home, nor could any respectable family be induced to take her.

Case No. 10.—Boy placed in Shelter charged with stealing and after trial found guilty. Order made by the Magistrate transferring him to Society, after which he was allowed to return to his parents subject to good behaviour.

Case No. 11.—Three children placed in Shelter for a day until the father and mother settled their differences amicably after which the children were permitted to return to the parents.

Case No. 12.—A stirring boy of eight years was placed in the Shelter by his mother to cure him of running away from home. He then devoted all his energies to escaping from the Shelter and running towards home. This treatment proved a complete success.

Case No. 13.—Two children placed in Shelter, owing to death of the mother and the absence of the father while in the hospital suffering from typhoid fever. These children are still in the Shelter.

Case No. 14.—An English boy, of 10 years old, sent out to his mother, who is engaged as a domestic servant in town, and has no place to keep him. He is still in the Shelter.

Case No. 15.—A child of one and a half years of age; the mother is weak minded and dissolute. The child is still in the Shelter.

Case No. 16.—A family jar resulted in the father making over his three children to the Society. The next day, full of remorse and very penitent, the husband and wife begged to have them back. This has been done for the present but they are being closely watched by the Society.

Case No. 17. — Mother, a nice looking young woman deserted by her husband. Child, two years old, suffering from pneumonia. Mother refused to be separated from her child. Procured board and lodging and medical attendance for child, and finally had the mother sent to her friends at the expense of the Charity Board.

Case No. 18. — Three children cared for while mother was in hospital undergoing an operation.

A very sad event which occurred on the 30th of November last, was the death of Annie May Williams, who had been a ward of the Society for four years. The unfortunate child had a physical defect, which seemed to have preyed upon her mind. She was visited by Mrs. Harvey on the 25th of October last, and found to be with kind people, who did everything to make her comfortable and happy. She was buried in the Society's lot in the Little Lake cemetery.

By the death of Dr. Pigeon, which occurred on the 8th of December, the Society lost a kind and valued friend who for many years acted as our honorary physician, and her devoted much time and professional skill to the children under our charge. The physicians of the town have all been kind to us, but Dr. Pigeon was particularly good to the children who needed his care.

In conclusion we are able to report a satisfactory and successful year, which has been largely due to the efficient work done by Mr. Cochrane as agent of the Society. His work has been carefully and thoroughly done, in an intelligent and sympathetic manner. The Shelter has been managed in a satisfactory way by Mr. and Mrs. Henry.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

R. M. Dennistoun,
Secretary.

AGENT'S REPORT.

Peterborough, Dec. 17, 1904.

To the President, Officers and Members of the Children's Aid Society of the Town and County of Peterborough.

Ladies and gentlemen, — I have the pleasure to present my fifth annual report as agent of your society, and will give a brief outline of the work done during the past year in my department.

The Shelter has been supervised by Mr. and Mrs. Henry, and I have pleasure in stating that they have performed their duties in a satisfactory manner. A large number of children were admitted during the year, and these were well looked after, fed and clothed, by the matron. No complaint has ever been received with regard to the management of the Shelter, which speaks well for Mr. and Mrs. Henry.

The ladies of the town have organized a Sewing Society under the superintendence of Mrs. Birdsall, the vice-president of the Society. They meet at the Shelter when occasion requires, and prepare warm clothing for the children who are admitted to the Shelter, and for many others who receive outside aid. The general public is once more reminded that we are always ready to receive cast off children's clothing, and can make good use of the same.

During the year I have travelled over 1200 miles throughout the county, and have paid 89 visits to investigate complaints. Needless to say, the persons who give me information are never exposed, if they wish to remain unknown; persons need have no hesitation in sending in a complaint, as the Society undertakes to preserve their confidence. I visited during the year 145 children, and distributed 14 baskets of good cheer at Christmas time; 18 bundles of clothing were given to applicants, and 32 children, who were not inmates of the Shelter, were fitted out during the winter. The number of children admitted to the Shelter was 37, and the number now remaining in the Shelter is four. The work has been very evenly divided between the town and county.

I propose at the coming Christmas season to distribute provisions and toys on behalf of the patrons of the Society, and request that charitable friends will furnish me with either provisions, Christmas toys, or money, to assist in carrying out this part of our programme.

The plumbing, which was recommended at the last annual meeting, has been placed in the Shelter, and we now have a comfortable bath room, with hot and cold water, which is of great value to the matron, and a luxury to the children. Details of the expenditure will be found in the Treasurer's report.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

George Cochrane,
Agent.

ALLIANCE REPLIES

Makes a Rejoinder to Pamphlet of Premier Ross.

ITS ATTITUDE IN ELECTIONS

Resolutions Adopted At a Meeting of the Executive of the Dominion Alliance—Bringing Out of Independent Temperance Candidates—It is Still Maintained That the Premier's Pledges Are Unfulfilled.

Toronto, Dec. 17.—A rejoinder to Premier Ross' pamphlet in reply to their manifesto was issued yesterday by the Executive of the Dominion Alliance at a meeting held in the Confederation Life Building. This statement, which technically takes the form of a resolution, reviews the Premier's questions one by one, and makes reply along the lines of the manifesto, with some new material. It is still maintained that the Government have failed to meet their responsibilities and that they "neither took such action nor urged the Liberal Convention to take such action as would meet the requirements of the situation, the demands of public opinion and the pledges that had been voluntarily made." The right of the Executive to issue the manifesto is stoutly maintained, and, on the question of the requirements of the referendum, a speech by Mr. Ross in 1881 is quoted in which he upheld the right of a simple majority to rule in speaking on the Canada Temperance Act.

Of equal interest is the resolution respecting participation in the coming election. This was moved by Mr. W. H. Orr, Toronto, and seconded by Mr. Angus Macdonald, Alexandria, and is as follows: "That where both party candidates are unfavorable to temperance legislation, and it is manifest that the temperance cause could be served by an independent nomination, we cordially recommend our friends to take such action after fullest consultation and the adoption of wise plans to make the movement as successful as it can be made."

The meeting was presided over by President G. F. Marter, and the official statement gives the following as present: Rev. Dr. Chown, Rev. Dr. Ross, Rev. Dr. Abraham, Rev. Dr. Goodspeed, Rev. Dr. Carman, Rev. Dr. Bates, Rev. Dr. Courtice, Rev. Dr. Pearson, Rev. T. Albert Moore, Messrs. W. H. Orr, F. S. Spence, F. Buchanan, H. Moyle, J. A. Austin, R. J. Daly, J. O. McCarthy, C. J. Scott, Wm. Hamilton, Alex. Mills, A. B. Spencer (Collingwood), R. W. Dillon (St. Mary's), Angus Macdonald (Alexandria), Mrs. May R. Thornley (London), Mrs. G. E. McKee (Barrie), Mrs. Rutherford, Mrs. Bascom, Mrs. Stevens.

VERY TRYING TO WOMEN

Are the Peculiar Ills Brought on by Catarrh of the Pelvic Organs.

(Pe-ru-na is a Tonic Especially Adapted to Their Peculiar Diseases.)

Catarrh is a very frequent cause of that class of diseases popularly known as female weakness. Catarrh of the pelvic organs produces such a variety of disagreeable and irritating symptoms that many people—in fact, the majority of people—have no idea that they are caused by catarrh.

A great proportion of women have some catarrhal weakness which has been called by the various doctors she has consulted by as many different names. These women have been treated and have taken medicine, with no relief, simply because the remedies are not adapted to catarrh. It is through a mistaken notion as to the real nature of the diseases that these medicines have been recommended to them.

If all the women who are suffering with any form of female weakness would write to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and give him a complete description of their symptoms and the peculiarities of their troubles, he will immediately reply, with complete directions for treatment, free of charge.

"Health and Beauty," a book written especially for women, sent free by Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

Miss Alice Dressler, of No. 1813 North Bryant Ave., Minneapolis, Minn., writes as follows concerning Peruna:

"I was suffering from catarrh of the throat and head. One of my college friends, who was visiting me, asked me to try Peruna and I did so and found it all and more than I had expected. It not only cured me of the catarrh, but restored me to perfect health."—Alice Dressler.

Miss Mamie Groth, Platteville, Wis., writes:

"I have for several years suffered with frequent backache and would for several days have splitting headaches. Several of my friends advised me to take Peruna and I asked my physician what he thought of it. He recommended it and so I took it and am entirely without pain of any kind now."—Mamie Groth.

In a recent letter from No. 2 Grant Ave., Denver, Col., Mrs. Ida L. Gregory writes:

"Some six years ago my husband suffered with nervous prostration, and advising with a friendly druggist he brought home a bottle of Peruna. His health was restored from its use, his appetite was increased and restful sleep came to him."—Ida L. Gregory.

Miss Florence Murphy, No. 2128 Second Ave., Seattle, Wash., writes:

"I suffered for over a year with female trouble, and although I tried several physicians none of them seemed to be able to help me permanently.

"It only took a little over three bottles of Peruna to make me well and strong. I never have backache, headache or bearing down pains any more."—Florence Murphy.

Mrs. Louise Westbrook, No. 9 East Columbia St., Detroit, Mich., Secretary of the West Side Lotus Club, writes:

"For several years I suffered with leucorrhœa and painful menstruation, which was followed by general debility, until I was but a wreck of myself. Thanks to Peruna I am a well woman to-day."—Louise Westbrook.

Miss Jessiemene Westland, No. 707 Beaubien Ave., Detroit, Mich., District Deputy of Detroit Independent Order of Good Templars, writes as follows:

"Peruna has been a blessing to me and gladly do I indorse it. For two years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach. I lost flesh and grew thin and emaciated, nervous and exhausted, so that I could neither work or enjoy life. I began taking Peruna and can now eat and enjoy everything I eat. I have been well over a year now."—Miss Jessiemene Westland.

Toronto Street Railway Appoints R. J. Fleming General Manager.

Toronto, Dec. 17.—Negotiations were concluded yesterday morning between the directors of the Toronto Railway Company and Robert J. Fleming, city commissioner of assessment and property, whereby the latter will assume the general managership of the company at a salary of $10,000 per year. The announcement came as the greatest surprise in municipal circles, no one in the City Hall having had the slightest intimation of any such move being contemplated. Mr. Fleming has been getting $4,800 from the city.

NOW DOUBT ABOUT ROBT. BOND'S CASE

He was Cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Doctors Said There was Hope for him but he is a Well Man Now.

Mount Bridges, Ont., Dec. 16. — (Special.)—That Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Bright's Disease completely and permanently has been clearly shown in the case of Mr. Robt. Bond, a well known resident of this place. Mr. Bond does not hesitate to say he owes his life to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My attending physician," Mr. Bond states, "said I was in the last stages of Bright's Disease and that there was no hope for me. I then commenced to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and no other remedy. I used in all about twenty boxes when my odoctor pronounced me quite well. I have had no return of the trouble since."

Bright's Disease is Kidney Disease in its worst form. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure it. They also easily cure milder forms of Kidney Complaint.

To Dine Earl Grey.

Montreal, Que., Dec. 17.—Yesterday George Hadrill, the secretary of the Montreal Board of Trade, received a letter from His Excellency the Governor-General, in which it was intimated that the 24th of January would be a suitable date for the proposed dinner, and the executive of the board will accept the date set. This will be the first visit of Lord Grey to Montreal, and the function which the board will give on the evening of Jan. 24 will undoubtedly be one of great brilliancy, particularly as the board's building is so well suited to such a function.

A Real Dynamite Danger.

London, Dec. 17.—The Daily Mail asserts that thousands of tons of dynamite and other explosives, shells and ammunition, all clearly contraband, have been smuggled from the Thames the past few months on barges and transferred to mysterious steamers at a rendezvous at the mouth of the river for the Far East. The authorities being apparently powerless to prevent the traffic. The Daily Mail comments upon the terrible dangers attending this traffic, saying a spark or a collision might cause a catastrophe within a stone's throw of the Houses of Parliament.

$540,000 GIFT FROM CARNEGIE.

Becomes Joint Founder With Benjamin Franklin of School.

New York, Dec. 17.—Announcement was made Thursday night that Andrew Carnegie had given to the city of Boston the sum of $540,000, and had become the joint founder with Benjamin Franklin of an institution for industrial training. The new enterprise is to be managed along the lines of the Cooper Institute in this city.

Benjamin Franklin, in his will, left to the city of Boston the sum of $5,000, which was to be invested and kept intact for a century, at the end of which time it was to be used for the benefit of the apprentices of the city.

The board of selectmen and the ministers of three denominations were mentioned as trustees on which the expenditure of this fund should fall. The amount was invested in real estate soon after the death of Franklin, which took place in 1790, and it was found on the termination of the trust that the fund had increased to $270,000.

SOURCE OF SUPPLY POISONED.

An Alarming Condition Present in Many Places in Canada. How Best to Correct it.

Many people all over the Dominion are being poisoned slowly but surely, and that by their own carelessness.

The food may be pure, but digestion is not complete, and all that is not digested rots and ferments, giving off the most violent poisons. What was intended to sustain life really turns into that which destroys life.

The temperature of the body is a little over 98 degrees. Every particle of undigested food lies in the Stomach and Bowels, subject to this temperature, which is as high as in the sun on a hot summer day. It is not necessary to explain how quickly such heat will decompose dead matter, either animal or vegetable.

The Stomach and Bowels must be set right—Anti-Pill will do it. Dr. Leonhardt made his Anti-Pill specifically to correct these conditions, and it has never failed when given a fair chance.

EXTRA EDITION

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. AARON A. COX

Prominent Business Man Expired This Morning in Roy's Studio—Heart Failure Cause---Had Been in Comparative Good Health and was Feeling Particularly Well This Morning—A Great Shock---Identified With Many Business Institutions.

A very sudden death, and one which came as a great shock to all who heard it, occurred in Peterborough this forenoon, when Mr. Aaron A. Cox, one of the best known and most highly respected gentlemen in Peterborough, expired suddenly in Mr. R. M. Roy's studio, with scarcely a moment's warning.

Mr. Cox had been ailing for some time, though there was no thought that his slight indisposition would result fatally, although, as a matter of fact, it is learned that there were symptoms of paralysis, and that a physician whom he consulted recently, told him that he might die suddenly with paralysis, and it was doubtless from paralysis of the heart, or heart failure, that his death resulted in so painfully sudden a manner this morning.

But while the danger he was in might have been known to him, it was entirely unthought of by his friends, to whom the news of his death was a great shock.

Mr. Cox, with his wife and daughter, were down town this forenoon, and went into Mr. Roy's studio to arrange about some picture frames. Shortly after they had entered, Mr. Cox complained of suffering from a pain in his chest, and sat down on a chair, which Mr. Roy procured for him. The pain evidently became worse, because upon being asked by Mrs. Cox, how he was feeling, Mr. Cox said, "I'm gone!" and immediately expired.

Three doctors were at once called, Dr. Bradd, Dr. McClelland and Dr. Carmichael, but life was extinct before they could reach him, and within half an hour after he had entered the studio he was taken out a corpse.

While Mr. Cox for some little time had not been in good health, this morning he was feeling particularly well, better, in fact, than he had been for some time, and doubtless when he went down town nothing was farther from his thoughts than that he would not reach home alive.

The late Mr. Cox was born in Colborne on May 1st, 1843, so that he would be 61 years of age last May. In 1859 he removed to Peterborough, of which town he has been a resident ever since, and one of its most influential citizens. The only surviving member of the family is Hon. Senator George A. Cox, the deceased's elder brother.

He was identified with a number of business institutions, being district Manager of the Canada Life Assurance Co., a director of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Co., the Toronto Loan and Savings Co., and the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Co., in all of which his business ability was recognised.

He was one of the strongest supporters of the Charlotte street Methodist church, and one of its most valued members. He was a Liberal in politics.

A widow and twelve children, eight sons and four daughters, are left to mourn his loss.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, from his late residence, 19 Scott street, and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery for interment.

AN ABLE ESSAY ON GOLDSMITH.

Miss Deanard Gives Paper at T.A.S. Ladies Literary Association.

Interesting Meeting Held Last Night in T.A.S. Hall—The Programme.

The Ladies' Literary Association of St. Peter's T.A.S., held their usual meeting last evening, when an excellent and highly instructive paper on "Goldsmith," was read by Miss Deanard. Miss Deanard dealt with her subject in a very able manner, showing that she not only possessed a thorough knowledge of the matter, but that she also possessed in no small measure, the faculty of imparting her information in a most pleasing and effective style. The writer entered into a detailed account of the life of "Goldsmith," from his earliest youth, and outlined his varied career, so as to form a most interesting biographical sketch of the author. She also gave a very minute criticism of his works, making special mention of the "Vicar of Wakefield," "The Traveller," and outlined these in a very interesting manner. The essay was an exceedingly careful and comprehensive portrayal of the life, characteristics and productions of one of the most peculiar men found among literary character. The paper was also read in an excellent manner, and was, in every respect, deserving of the high appreciation of those present.

The following programme added to the entertainment of the evening.
Instrumental duet ... Misses Hurley and Overend
Recitation... ...Miss Alma Levasseur
Song... ... ...Master Jas. O'Brien
Piano solo... ...Miss Alma Levasseur

The association will resume its work early in the New Year. The next Literary Meeting will be held on Friday, Jan. 13, when an essay on "Julius Ceasar" will be read by Miss Coleman.

VERY FINE GROUP BY MR. G. E. WHITEN

Triumph in Artistic Group Photography --T. A. S. Lacrosse Champions.

One of the finest, if not the finest group photographs which has ever been placed on exhibition in Peterborough is to be seen in Darnley's show window on Hunter street. It is a group of the St. Peter's T.A.S. Lacrosse team, which captured the championship of the Trent Valley League last season without meeting a single defeat.

The picture is over six feet in length and over three in height and is a triumph in artistic photography. The twelve regular members of the team with the field captain, have been pictured when standing in front of the grand stand and the effect produced is quite unique. The officers of the club and the spare men also appear in the group arranged in effective order. Five trophies won by the club are also included in the group. It is doubtful if a group of the dimensions of the one in question, has been produced before in the province. It is valued at $100.00, and has been purchased by the friends of the lacrosse team to be placed in the T.A.S. rooms.

The names of those on the field are,—F. Derocher, Capt.; L. McCoy, H. Donovan, W. Parnell, F. McGrath, W. Crowley, G. Morris, Field Captain; W. Meagher, W. Donovan, J. McCabe, R. A. Boyle, M. J. O'Brien. The spare men are E. Mahoney, L. O'Connor, W. Wheley, J. McNichol, J. Gorham, A. M. Dorris, W. Judd.

The officers are Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Hon. President; J. O'Brien, President; E. Doherty, 1st Vice-President; J. J. Dorris, Secretary; A. B. Dorris, Manager; J. Cook, T. J. Begley, M. J. Hickey, R. Begley, Executive Committee; J. A. Sharp, Chairman. Executive Committee.

CHURCH BURNED IN BELLEVILLE

St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church Destroyed.

Loss of $80,000 With But $20,000 Insurance—A Costly Structure.

Special to the Examiner

Belleville, December 17. — St. Michael's church, the only Roman Catholic church, in this city, was destroyed by fire early this morning. How the fire originated is not known but it is supposed to have caught in the basement. The building, which was of massive stone, was undobtedly the finest in the city, and the alter one of the most beautiful in Ontario. The church was built about sixteen years ago, and some of the interior decorations were almost priceless. The total loss will be in the neighbourhood of $80,000. There was an insurance of $20,000 on the building.

COUNTY POLITICS IN ENNISMORE

A Public Meeting was Held There on Thursday Night

Divergent Views as to the Object of the Meeting—Two Candidates in the Field.

A meeting was held in Ennismore on Thursday night, the character of which is variously stated by different parties, one declaring that it was a convention to select a candidate for the County Council election to contest the Bridgenorth Division, the other stating that it was simply a meeting to discuss county matters, and in order to arrive at the merits of the matter, the Examiner made enquiries from persons representing both views.

Mr. Paul Costello was in town to-day and was interviewed. He stated that the meeting was one called to talk over County Council affairs. He was present, and announced himself as a candidate, and in an hour's address spoke of the matters in connection with the County. He announced himself as a candidate and intended to remain in the field until election day.

Mr. Wm. Crough was also interviewed by the Examiner, and his version is that the meeting was a convention called by him to select a candidate. His intention was that the meeting should select a candidate, and he would have been prepared to abide by the decision of the meeting. He states that Mr. Costello announced that he was a candidate and would not recognize a choice made by the meeting.

Mr. Crough, in view of this fact announced that he too was a candidate and would also remain in the field.

Skating at the new All Saint's Rink to-night. Admission 10c. Good Ice.

RINK OPENING WAS SUCCESSFUL

Street Railway Rink was Opened Last Night.

The open air skating rink, operated by the Street Railway Company at the southern terminus of the George street line, was formally opened last night with a large crowd of skaters present, and the opening could be called successful, many hundreds of persons enjoying the ride on the cars and the subsequent skate. Hall a dozen members of the 57th Band furnished a good programme of music, and only the fact that the large crowd of skaters made it rather difficult to skate with much comfort, the evening was most successful.

The ice, doubtless, will with continued cold weather be in better condition than it was last night.

A REPLY TO "CITIZEN"

Some Corroborative Evidence of Value of Gravenhurst Sanitorium.

Treatment of the Patients Explained—Results are Satisfactory.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—I read the other evening the questions asked medical men by "Citizen" with regard to the Government National Sanatorium and am much interested in that institution for I think it is doing a great work in treating a class of patients who are very difficult to treat successfully outside such an institution and is doing a wonderful work in educating people all over the province how to live that they may avoid that much dreaded disease. The death rate from consumption was on the increase in Ontario up to two years ago and since then it has been decreasing. I feel certain that there will be less of the disease as people become more acquainted with the means that may be taken to prevent its spread; and the sanatorium does more to instruct the consumptive how to live and demonstrates the curability of tuberculosis than can be done by any other means. For three years I practiced my profession in the vicinity of the sanatorium and being a class-mate of the medical superintendent we frequently visited each other and I became quite familiar with the workings of the institution.

It is the aim of the sanatorium to place the patient under the best possible hygienic conditions, and to use every therapeutic resource to improve his nutrition, that with the gradual restoration of the general health the organism is enabled to resist any further extension of the process, and in addition that a curative process may be begun in the already diseased area. The healing of tuberculosis is secondary to improved nutrition. The physician in the sanatorium recognizes that he treats each patient individually, and it is to this fact that the success may be attributed. All patients are placed under the same hygienic rules which are to be faithfully observed; this is the general basis of treatment, but in addition each patient is studied in detail and therapeutic measures, whether in the way of rest, exercise, special diet, or exhibition of medicines are advised as indicated.

It is impressed upon the patient that it is not the climate which is going to cure him, nor is it the medicine, these are of secondary importance. He is taught that his recovery will be due to his careful observance of the directions given him as to his daily programme he must follow closely the instructions of his physician, and that it is attention to the smallest details of his daily life which will bring success. There is a constant contact of the physician and his patient, the patient is educated in hygienic living, both by precept and example, he is in a position to note the improvement in others who pay due regard to these details, and he soon acquires a habit of care which will remain with him, and be instrumental in retaining his health after his return to his home and his work.

Foremost in the measures used in the sanitorium is serotherapy. The patient must spend as many hours as possible out of doors. This means eight to twelve hours spent daily on the verandas, in walking or driving, or other outdoor recreation, summer or winter, rain or shine, the meals taken in an airy, well ventilated dining room, with, in summer the windows wide open or out altogether, and likewise in the sleeping room no obstruction to the free entrance of fresh air; that is 24 hours daily breathing pure out-of-door air. In the cold weather of winter, with the thermometer below zero, six to twelve hours can be spent in the open air, provided the patient is well protected with rugs and furs. Patients need, of course to gradually accustom themselves to this life in the open air.

In the apyretic condition the patient has a fixed distance to walk each day until he has reached three or four miles. when he is allowed to come and go at pleasure, always observing the rule that he must return in time to rest for half an hour before meals. Rapid walking is not allowed until the patient's health is good, while at all times the avoidance of fatigue is strongly urged. No exercise is to be taken which will induce fatigue or perspiration.

Diet, dress, disposal of sputa and medical treatment are matters of attention.

The constant supervision of the patient is the most important point in which the sanatorium treatment must necessarily differ from that adopted by the general practitioner. Living with the patients, adopting their mode of life, having his meals in common with them the physician is enabled to individualize the treatment. Perhaps in no disease is the patient so disposed to be erratic, or to do thoughtless injurious acts and to require this constant supervision.

The physician studies the patient from every aspect, and his life is laid out in detail. There is a fixed hour for rising and retiring. He is directed what time is to be spent in walking, and what in resting. He is told what to eat and what to avoid, to rest half an hour before each meal, proper mastication of the food, care of the teeth, regulation of the body functions, proper attention to clothing, hours for temperature observations, care in the disposal of the sputum, and the absence of all danger when this is properly done. He receives a thorough education in hygienic living, and above all is instructed never to hesitate to ask counsel or advice of his physician.

Results.—With the results of sanatorium treatment you are no doubt familiar; they are eminently satisfactory. Generally speaking twenty to thirty per cent. are apparently cured, twenty-five to thirty-five per cent. disease arrested, twenty-five per cent. much improved. The results in any sanatorium will necessarily vary from time to time depending upon the class of patients under treatment.

The discipline the patients are subjected to in the sanatorium is a very important feature in the treatment and this has a great effect on those who come in contact with them. It is much easier to get patients to carry out a proper programme in that locality than it is here. They see others improving and they are more persistent themselves. As to supporting the sanatorium, I think it very essential that we in Peterborough, should do all we can to aid in the good work. By doing so we are not only aiding the sufferers but also protecting ourselves against infection. The fact that we always have among us several people afflicted with the disease, who are either expectorating millions of tubercle bacilli upon our thoroughfares or are infecting their homes with them is a matter for serious consideration.

Since Koch's discovery in 1882 of the tubercle bacillus, and his able demonstration of its causative relation to pulmonary tuberculosis, our attitude towards this disease which had been looked upon as hereditary has gradually changed. We now realize that it is not hereditary, but is a communicable disease, and that where there are several cases in one family it is usually not difficult to trace the infection of one from another.

HAVELOCK AGAIN VISITED BY FIRE

New Andrew's Block Had Narrow Escape From Destruction.

Havelock, Dec. 15.—An overheated stove which was used for drying the plaster in the second story of Andrews' new block, caused damage to the extent of $500.00 last night. The fire broke out about 6.30 o'clock and in a few minutes afterwards water from the C.P.R. hose was playing on the flames which were entirely confined between the joists and the ceiling of Mr. Andrews' grocery store. The fire was quickly extinguished, but not before the building was damaged to the extent of $200. The loss on the stock by water will probably amount to $300.00. Mr. W. Wilde's harness shop adjoining, was only slightly damaged by water.

CLOSED AUTOMATIC DOOR.

Five Men Killed By Boiler of Massachusetts Blowing Up.

Philadelphia, Dec. 16.—Three men were killed yesterday and two others were so badly injured that they died an hour later by an explosion of a boiler on the U. S. battleship Massachusetts at League Island navy yard. There were half a dozen men at work in the boiler-room when the explosion occurred.

The gasket on one of the boilers blew out, and the force of the explosion closed the automatic door, thus preventing the escape of the men from the compartment.

KIDNEY TROUBLES OF WOMEN.

Thousands of women suffer from backache and kindred kidney ills.

There is no need for any woman to be ailing for an instant. There is a sure and positive cure in

DR. PITCHER'S BACKACHE-KIDNEY TABLETS.

There is no one more to be pitied than the woman who has to drag through the day's work suffering from a terrible ache in the back, a darting pain between the shoulders, a heavy dragging pain in the loins, or a persistent headache that will not let up for an instant.

More than three-fourths of the suffering of womankind come from disordered kidneys and poisoned blood—not from so called "female troubles."

Get the kidneys acting right—have them filter the poisons from the blood and pain and aches flee and good health returns.

Here is a statement from Mrs. W. J. Smith, Smith's Falls, Ont., a woman who knows whereof she speaks:

"I believe Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets did me more good than any remedy I ever used. My kidneys and back caused me much misery, but the Tablets promptly relieved me. I gave them to my little girl for weakness of the kidneys and the results were satisfactory. My mother also has used them and thinks there was never a kidney medicine to equal them."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache-Kidney Tablets are small, chocolate-coated and easily taken. Price 50c. a bottle of 50 Tablets, at druggists or by mail. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

BECKWITH'S VAIN PLEA.

Mrs. Chadwick Hardened Her Face and She Answered Not.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 16.—Mrs. Chadwick's first day in the county jail was a busy one for her. She received several visits from her attorneys, held long conferences with them, conversed with newspaper men and for 15 minutes stood face to face with President Beckwith of the Oberlin Bank. The meeting was dramatic. She met him at the entrance to the corridor of her cell and shook hands with him cordially.

After some general conversation, Mr. Beckwith referred to their business relations by saying: "Mrs. Chadwick, you have ruined me, but I am not so sure yet you are a fraud. I have stood by you to my last dollar, and I do think now that the time has come for you to make known everything in relation to this thing." Beckwith's voice betrayed deep emotion as he spoke. Mrs. Chadwick did not reply directly to the words of Mr. Beckwith, but her manner and the look on her face were not conciliatory. She made no reply to the appeal.

HOW HE DID IT.

Martineau On Stand in Government Suit Against Banks.

Ottawa, Dec. 16.—Action was begun here yesterday before Justice Anglin by the Dominion Government to recover $75,000, which had been paid by banks on forged cheques drawn in the name of the Militia Department by Abondeus Martineau, a clerk in the Department.

Martineau, who is serving a seven-year term in Kingston, was called by the Government and told how he had made the forgeries by using carbon papers under a genuine signature to get an outline carbon signature on the cheque, which he then filled out with ink. Martineau said he lost about $60,000 of the proceeds of the forgeries in stock speculations.

The case will probably last several days. The Bank of Montreal is the defendant, but the Quebec, Sovereign and Royal Banks are made third parties, as they accepted the forged cheques as deposits.

JAPAN'S WAR RESOURCES.

One Call 1,500,000 Men Into Military Service on Short Notice.

Jihei Hashiguchi, writing about Japan's fitness for a long struggle, describes her military resources as follows:

"Outsiders are not able to form an accurate opinion of the real condition of the military resources of Japan. Even the sympathetic people of the west are in the dark on the subject. I have been informed by an intimate friend, who has been in the service of the Japanese army for three years, that Japan can call into service at short notice 1,500,000 men of strong physique, besides the large national guard, for, according to his information, 539,282 men—which was the number eligible for conscription in 1901—had no objectionable physical defect and belonged to the first class, as shown by physical examination. The men who belonged to the second class had merely slight defects in the eyes or in some other bodily function. As for the naval force, 27,863 men, the total number of seamen in the active and the first and second reserve services, are of the best physique. In case of necessity more than double this number can be recruited from the merchant marine as well as from the eager applicants for admission to the service. One million five hundred thousand is a large number, but it is a small portion of 8,031,098, which is the number of males from seventeen to forty who were available for conscription service in 1898.

"Foreigners are apt to suppose that the flower of the Japanese soldiers and sailors are necessarily the young men of the samurai class, on whom too much eulogy has been already lavished. True, the samurai class have long been the flower of Japanese fighters, and, indeed, most of the generals and admirals and other high officers are still of the samurai class, but the rank and file of the army and of the navy to-day are composed more of the plebeians than of the patrician samurai class. It is undeniable that the flower of the Japanese fighters are now at the front. Among the dead in the battles of Yalu, Nanshan, Telissu, Port Arthur and Liaoyang are included some of the best men in the service. Japan can ill afford to lose these men at the front.

"If the slaughter at Liaoyang be repeated in many other battles the effective strength of the Japanese army will be greatly lessened. But, in the opinion of many eminent authorities, assuming Japan's continued success, the active warfare will not last much longer after Harbin falls into the hands of the Japanese, although minor details of the war may continue to make slight troubles. Then Japan will not need to maintain such an enormous force at the front. A greater part of the army will be withdrawn, leaving a sufficient force to guard the frontiers of Manchuria, while China, to which Manchuria will be returned, will send her own troops to supersede the Japanese soldiers."

Noted French Diplomat.

M. Theophile Delcasse, French Minister of Foreign Affairs, to whose diplomacy, it is asserted, a clash between Great Britain and Russia over the North Sea incident was averted, is one of the most brilliant and successful diplomats of Europe. It was M. Delcasse who brought about the Anglo-Franco entente cordiale, the most important diplomatic feat of the twentieth century.

M. THEOPHILE DELCASSE.

M. Delcasse began his career as a political journalist and was for awhile attached to the staff of La Republique Francaise under Gambetta. He then became secretary to a Deputy and on his employer's death married the widow and succeeded to the representation of the constituency. Since that date his advancement has been rapid.

In politics M. Delcasse has been described as an "enlightened opportunist." Since entering the French Chamber in 1889 he has made his power felt in that body. M. Delcasse is in his fifty-third year.

He Got the Stamps.

A London philatelist, envying some curious specimens in the album of an elderly feminine acquaintance, offered a dozen times to buy or exchange for the coveted treasures. Unable to secure the prizes in such ways he finally proposed matrimony and so came into possession of the lady and her stamps.

CHEAP SILKS.

They Do Not Wear Well Because They Are Heavily Adulterated.

The woman whose silk skirt splits the second or third time she wears it is apt to sigh for the silks of her grandmother's day, with their seemingly imperishable qualities, but as a matter of fact silks are much better now than they were before. The ancestral silks, which were woven on hand looms, were never of an even texture, whereas with modern machinery the last inch of a hundred yard piece comes out exactly the same as the first one. The art of dyeing, too, has been brought to a state of perfection never known before, and communication between the silk workers of the world is so rapid that a discovery made by one is soon known to all the others. The reason so many modern silks do not wear is because they are adulterated to meet the demand for cheapness, their wearing ability being in exact proportion to the amount of silk they contain. Cheap silks are largely made up of dye and dressing. A good quality of silk is defined by manufacturers as one which has not more than four ounces of weighting to the pound, and none have less than two ounces. Most of the weighting is put in during the dyeing process, and when a manufacturer sends a quantity of silk to the dyer he says that he wants it to come back weighing so much, according to the amount of adulteration required.

One Way to Fight a Tax.

Disapproving of a certain tax, the inhabitants of Herrera, Spain, seized the collector and hanged him.

Couldn't Prove It.

A man who was sued at Halifax for a penny damages for striking a match on the town hall asked the police to prove the damage by showing which scratch he made. So many were found that the case was dismissed.

Toothbrushes.

The bristles of a toothbrush should not be too stiff; one in which the bristles are far apart is best, as such may be thoroughly cleaned.

Bee Poison.

Two bee stings suffice to kill a sparrow in two or three hours. Analysis of the bee poison has shown that it contains three principles—one convulsive, one stupefying and one which gives rise to acute inflammation.

His Christmas Luck

"WILL there be any Christmas for me?"

The man who spoke these words was plodding along over a country highway, and he shivered as the icy blast whirled the snowflakes about his head.

"Shall I hang up my stocking on Christmas eve as in the days of yore," he mused as he bent his head to the blast, "or shall I try to forget that I was ever rich and happy and had a loving family about me? Tens of thousands of stockings will hang in the chimney corners, and tens of thousands of people will be made happy, but as for me"—

A lump gathered in his throat and tears in his eyes, and the toes peeping out of one of his shoes took on a deeper red. It was only three days to Christmas. The farmers were marking down the fattest turkeys, geese and pigs to be killed for the festive occasion, and farmers' wives were making pumpkin pies and cranberry sauce and smiling as they thought of the gifts they had hidden away.

"No; Christmas and its happiness are not for me," sighed the man as he turned his back to the storm for a moment to get his breath. "It is my business to feel bad and suffer, to be hungry and ragged, to remember all the joys of the past and not to think of the future, with its sorrows, and I will be brave to the end. Perhaps when they find my stiffly frozen body on the highway and observe the pitiful expression on the dead face they may smooth back my grizzled locks and wish they had been kind to me, and perhaps they may only use me for a Yule log in the fireplace and joke about me as they sit around toasting their feet. It can make no difference to me, however. There is no fat goose with sage dressing for me, no pumpkin pie and fried cakes, no Santa Claus to drop a gold watch in my stock"—

"IS YOUR NAME WILLIE?"

"Is your name Willie?" asked a voice at his elbow.

"It is," replied the wayfarer as he turned and saw a man with a silver star on his breast and a club in his hand.

"Weary Willie?"

"The same."

"Then come with me. Santa Claus has got something for you after all."

W. W. followed the silver star to the village and was lodged in a house where all the windows were barred and the doors locked to keep burglars out, and early the next morning he was taken before a benign looking old man, who benignly asked:

"My dear man, are you expecting anything for Christmas?"

"Not a thing," was W. W.'s sad and sorrowful reply.

"Then I have a little surprise for you. I am going to give you three months in jail, and if that doesn't cure your cough I'll make it six next time. Remove the prisoner and see that he gets plenty of ice water to drink."

And the man who thought the world was against him did not get left after all. A. B. LEWIS.

Shepherds in Modern Bethlehem.

From the greatest height in Bethlehem a distant glimpse of even the Mediterranean sea may be perceived on a clear, bright day. The strange beauty of the surroundings of Bethlehem, viewed from the town itself, as well as from all the neighboring heights, may have inspired in the young shepherd King David some of those inspiring psalms which have been the comfort of the afflicted throughout all ages.

In a beautiful valley near Bethlehem are the "fields of the shepherds" of sacred memory. These fields are still used as pasture lands, and many a young David may be seen tending his flock with the same care as the shepherds of yore. When he rests in a shady place during the sultry hours of the day the sheep gather around him and chew the cud. If there happens to be a wounded one or a little weak one he carries it on his shoulder or in the wide bosom of his long white shirt.

Trial of Strength.

In the parish church at Little Plover, England, is a huge ironbound chest, to which a curious custom was attached years ago. Any spinster of the village who aspired to be a Cheshire yeoman's bride was required to prove her worthiness of the distinction by a sort of trial of strength, which consisted in raising the lid of this ponderous coffer with one hand.

WONDERS OF MODERN SURGERY.

Marvelous Care and Nerve Required for an Operation.

A vivid description of the wonders of modern surgery, by Mr. Harold Begbie, appears in The Pall Mall Magazine, "One can think," says the writer, "of few situations in life so likely to throw the nerves out of gear as an unexpected development in the midst of a most delicate operation, but so wonderfully trained is the modern surgeon, and so completely under control is his whole nervous organism, that he will sometimes follow out a new line of action without causing those about him to suspect that the original plan has been abandoned. The reader will perceive that this steadiness of nerve and this superb adaptability of mind could hardly be possible without the discoveries of Simpson and Lister; and here we arrive at the chief factor in the romance of modern surgery. It is easy to be grateful for anaesthesia, easy to realize the difference between the conscious and unconscious patient under the knife of the surgeon; but the mercies of anaesthesia do not stop here. A more sensitive type of man can now become a surgeon, and the profession attracts a higher and nobler order of mind. Operations which would have appalled this type of man if he had been a surgeon a generation ago, and which would have seemed like a miracle of those wonderful Hindus with their hundred steel instruments, are now of daily, almost hourly, occurrence in the hospitals of London. Think for a moment of operations performed on the brain. Here, with scarcely any risk to the patient, the surgeon cuts through the densely resisting bone of the skull, makes a semilunar incision through the inner and softer membranes, and then lays bare that pulsating mass of matter which seems to some of us the instrument of the soul, and to others the very soul itself. This alone is an act which makes one pause to admire the consummate skill and fearless daring of the surgeon; but admiration becomes swallowed up in a dumb amazement and a silent wonderment when one sees the surgeon take his knife, bend over that mind lying before him like a stopped watch, and with swift and unerring stroke remove a tumor from the very midst of it. How is it that the arm does not tremble, the hand does not shake, the finger does not swerve? A deviation of the fraction of an inch, as the knife dips down in obedience to the surgeon's will, and irreparable damage would be inflicted; the heart cease to beat, and the soul would no more be able to express itself on that ruined instrument.

"The perfect surgeon depends as much on natural gifts as in experience. It is essential that he should be a man who follows inspiration and never checks at an unexpected development in the case he is conducting. Suppose, for instance, that the physician has sent him a case of a deep-seated internal abscess, and that all his preparations have been made to this end; it may be that, on making the incision and exposing the affected part to the finger or to the eye, he discovers that the case is not one of abscess, but of cancer. Instantly he must alter all his plans. The day's arrangements may be thrown out of gear, but without flurry, without nervousness, without a fraction's loss of his natural calm, the surgeon must put aside the dispositions so carefully planned and prepared for, and pursue an entirely new line of action. I have heard my friend say that this adaptability to the swift changes of a situation is one of the first necessities in a great surgeon. Like a good general in the field, he must be master, not the servant of his plan, and must be ready at a moment's notice to abandon it for another should the unexpected occur. But, at the same time, this elasticity of intention and extreme swiftness of thought must walk with the steadiness of nerve and absolute freedom from agitation more readily associated with the turgid and slow-moving brain. It is essential that the surgeon should be passionless and quiet, and that he should have complete command over the machinery of his body. It is also essential for the surgeon to order his life as to early hours, regular meals, and healthy habits. He must even give up many of the outdoor pleasures of life, such as cricket and tennis, since it is a matter of extreme importance that his hands should be smooth and steady."

Music Charmed Water.

Interesting experiments showing the influence of a tuning fork on jets of water have recently been made at the Royal College of Science in Dublin. A jet of falling water consists ordinarily of two parts—a clear column and a troubled portion. When the troubled part is photographed, with the aid of the electric spark, it is seen to be composed of a succession of drops following one another too rapidly to be separately perceived by the eye. These drops are irregular in size, shape and distance from one another. But if a vibrating tuning fork is placed in contact with the stand from which the jet starts the drops fall into order with beautiful precision, a drop being cast off with each vibration. Many remarkable effects can thus be produced. A continuous jet may be thrown into a form like that of a vibrating string.

Bernard Shaw's Eccentricity.

George Bernard Shaw is that curious anomaly, a literary man of independent fortune, a fact which makes the playwright himself rather aggressively independent.

Cyril Maude once confessed to Mr. Shaw, "I have taken the liberty of cutting six lines out of the third act of 'You Never Can Tell.'"

Mr. Shaw replied, "That was a liberty that I cannot allow."

"But, my dear sir, you must understand that with those lines it would be impossible to put on the piece."

"Impossible!" exclaimed the dramatist. "You don't say so! My good fellow, you delight me!"

Costly Thimbles.

Ladies of high degree in China use the daintiest thimbles imaginable, some of them being carved from enormous pearls, ornamented with bands of fine gold, on which all manner of quaint and fantastic designs are engraved. A mother-of-pearl case is always made to keep the thimble in.

Officials in Tibet.

In Tibet nearly every public office has two incumbents. One is supposed to be a check on the other. But sometimes this dual authority does not work well—in war, for example.

A Careful Diner.

Not long ago the lord mayor of London, when sympathised with on the number of dinners he was expected to eat publicly during his year of office, explained that he had a special menu and ate only courses the ingredients of which were known to him.

Crabs Hard and Soft.

The process of crabs shedding during the summer season is as follows: The crabs become fat; then they assume a bluish look on the back and yellow on underside. When in this condition if an outer shell be broken there will be found a skin similar to the inner skin of an egg covering the crab. In this stage the crab is known as a peeler. The next stage is when the outer shell begins to open, and the crab is then known as a buster. When the outer shell is stuffed, the crab is then a soft crab. If she has escaped from the cannibalistic male crabs, who pursue her during this period, she lies hidden in the grass in shoal water until the next tide, which hardens her shell considerably, and the crab is called a buckrum. Buckrums are the tough crabs sold as soft crabs, and when cooked the shell turns red, like that of a lobster, and is not desirable on account of its brittleness. In another tide the crabs become truly hard and go where they please without fear of being devoured by the male members.

America's First Christmas Day

By A. W. FERRIN

[Copyright, 1904, by A. W. Ferrin.]

ON Christmas eve four centuries and twelve years ago the flagship of the great Admiral Christopher Columbus was wrecked off the coast of Haiti after two months of sailing through the beautiful channels of those West Indian islands which the explorer thought the pickets of Cipango, the country of the great khan, of which the travelers of Venice had told the glowing tales which led the little fleet of caravels on its eventful voyage. Only four or five miles away lay the court of King Guacanagari, the Indian potentate whose messengers had welcomed Columbus with priceless gifts and whom the admiral believed could be none other than the khan himself.

Near midnight, weary with watching, Columbus had retired to his cabin, cautioning his men to keep a careful lookout. But the men, too, were tired with constant vigils, and they fell asleep, leaving the helm of the flagship to the charge of a boy. The winds were balmy zephyrs, laden with the sweet odors of the tropical forest, and there was no intimation of impending danger. All at once the treacherous current, which has since wrecked many a gallant ship, forced the Santa Maria upon a reef, and there she stuck, to the terror of the youthful helmsman and the suddenly awakened crew. The admiral, feeling the shock, rushed to the deck, but too late. The damage was done. The Nina, the smallest vessel of the fleet, came to the assistance of the flagship, but could not pull her off.

THE FEAST.

There was nothing left but an appeal to the savage monarch at Guarico. Guacanagari sent out a flotilla of canoes, and so zealous and industrious were his Indian subjects that every article on the ill fated ship was soon carried ashore, the vessel itself dismantled and the wreckage carried to Guarico.

Thus it came about that Columbus, perforce, celebrated the first Christmas ever observed in the new world as the guest of an Indian king. Guacanagari received the Spaniards with the deepest sympathy, even shedding tears over their misfortunes and placing all his possessions at their disposal. He ordered prepared a great feast of native roots, cassava bread, maize, fish from the sea and game from the woods and so graciously entertained them that for the day they forgot they were 2,000 miles from home.

After feeding the castaways with the best they had the willing natives, at their king's command, brought gold and gave it to the Spaniards. A week later, on New Year's day, Columbus gave a return banquet to the Indian king, and then, having built a fort with the aid of the natives and left therein a garrison to hold it against his return, he and the greater part of his men boarded the Nina and sailed away.

What a beautiful idyl of the almost prehistoric past! It is sad that history has not escaped from telling its bloody sequel. When Columbus came back again from Spain he found his fort razed to the ground. His soldiers, who had by their cruelty aroused to ferocity even these peaceful children of nature, were slain. Guacanagari, the simple minded king who had in his generosity laid his realm at the Spaniards' feet, was hunted down like a wild beast. He died in some unknown place in the mountains of his wooded island, and his people were put to the sword.

Sugar.

Sugar is the most effective of all fat producing agents.

A Strenuous Remedy.

In England the old time cure for smallpox and measles was a sound thrashing. There are English people still living who were treated for measles in their infancy by frequent whippings by their parents.

WOMEN IN TROUSERS.

In Champery, Switzerland, the Sight Causes No Comment.

It will probably be news to many advocates of feminine dress reform to hear that the women of Champery, a primitive mountain district of the Canton Valais, Switzerland, have worn trousers from time immemorial. The Champery region is in the southwestern part of the Canton Valais, the village of Champery itself being at the foot of the Dent du Midi, well known to Lake Geneva tourists.

The men of Champery are noted for their lazy habits, and beyond acting as guides to mountain climbers in the summer months they lead an absolutely idle life. The women perform all the hard labor required of a mountaineering people. It is they who pasture the cattle on the steep and often dangerous Alpine slopes, cut the timber and mow the grass. It is a usual sight to see a Champery woman, her daily toil ended, returning to the village dragging her husband on one of the wooden sleighs in general use throughout Switzerland, her lord and master all the while lazily smoking his pipe.

Under such circumstances it is not surprising that the women of Champery should have adopted the masculine attire. Their costume is of the simplest kind—a jerkin of rough, dark blue material, with trousers to match, and a red foulard to protect the head.

While desperately practical, nothing more unprepossessing in the way of feminine dress could be imagined than this costume of the Champery dames and damsels. Moreover, these wives and mothers of Champery, who are accustomed to all the work generally supposed to be the lot of the sterner sex, not unnaturally seek what consolation they can in masculine comforts. Chief among these is the short briar pipe, which they all smoke and evidently enjoy as much if not more than their husbands and fathers.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Business, like your salary, might always be better.

The croquette is the old fashioned hash ball after it gets into society.

Some people are too insistent on the right to be fools in their own way.

When a young man refuses to work, that is the beginning of all his other troubles.

When you abuse a boy for being worthless, remember how worthless you were at his age.

Some people say farming is so much easier than it used to be. Still, if a farmer does his duty even in these days he knows he has a job.

There is a good deal in print about the contagious laugh, but how often do you hear it? The writer of this knows but two people of all his acquaintance who have a laugh that is contagious.

They Cut Both Ways.

Some intelligence offices encourage even the greenest girls to abandon general housework and try for the place of cook, parlor maid, etc., for it increases the fee, many offices basing this upon the amount of wages paid. This is one explanation of the decreasing number of general housework girls.

They are also responsible for some of the restlessness of employees. Girls are placed in positions and removed when they are needed for others. Some nse employers as training schools. Green foreigners are sent, and when they have learned enough English and housework they are sent to others for higher wages, the office not neglecting to collect the extra fees.

Then they inform the long suffering employer that they understand her girl has left and that they can supply her need.—Atlantic Monthly.

His Portrait.

A tramp of some little respectability appeared at a gentleman's door asking alms. "Not today," said the interrogated one. "When may I call?" responded the tramp. "Why don't call at all. I know what you are. I saw your picture on a tin can at the grocery store at the corner." The applicant for a loan sauntered leisurely down to the place and stood viewing the goods in the widow. Soon his eye came upon a can of crustaceans from the Maine coast. Then the joke flashed on him. As he meandered away he mumbled to himself, "Well, that's the neatest way of calling a fellow a lobster that I've struck yet!"

Many Women Suffer Untold Agony From Kidney Trouble.

Very often they think it is from so-called "female disease." There is less female trouble than they think. Women suffer from backache, sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, and a dragging-down feeling in the loins. So do men, and they do not have "female trouble." Why, then, blame all your trouble to female disease? With healthy kidneys, few women will ever have "female disorders." The kidneys are so closely connected with all the internal organs, that when the kidneys go wrong, everything goes wrong. Much distress would be saved if women would only take at stated intervals.

Miss Nellie Clark, Lambeth, Ont., tells of her cure in the following words:—"I suffered for about two years with kidney trouble. I ached all over, especially in the small of my back; not being able to sleep well, no appetite, menstruation irregular, nervous irritability, and brick-dust deposit in urine, were some of my symptoms. I took Doan's Kidney Pills. The pain in my back gradually left me, my appetite returned, I sleep well, and am effectually cured. I can highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers from kidney trouble."

Harcourt and Tennyson.

One of the stories told of the late Sir William Vernon Harcourt relates to a gibe at Tennyson. The poet was one day reading him the lyrics for "The Princess," and when in "Tears, Idle Tears," he came to the line, "The earliest pipe of half awakened birds," Harcourt looked up and said, "Ah, I suppose that would be a pipe before breakfast!" Tennyson is said to have received the jest a little grimly.

Molecules.

"What are you studying now?" asked Mrs. Cumrox.

"We have taken up the subject of molecules," answered her son.

"I hope you will be very attentive and practice constantly. I tried to get your father to wear one, but he couldn't make it stay in his eye."

Wood Eaters.

A traveler in Siberia has noted that among the natives along the northern coast wood in a certain form is a most common and constant article of diet. The natives eat it because they like it. Even when fish are plentiful it usually forms part of the evening meal, as many cleanly stripped larch logs near every hut testify.

Spanish Street Musicians.

In Spain street performers on the guitar are licensed, while organ grinders are rigorously suppressed.

Cigarettes For the Ladies.

It is sometimes the custom in Russia for each lady at a big dinner to smoke a tiny cigarette between each course. This is supposed to assist digestion, besides removing the flavor of the previous course from the palate.

Rabbits Climb Trees.

The feet of some Australian rabbits show an adaptation which is being gradually brought about to a new mode of locomotion. The rabbits are becoming climbers and often ascend trees in their search for food. Their feet are said to be growing slighter and the claws longer and sharper.

Long Lived Whales.

Whales from 300 to 400 years old are sometimes met with. The age is ascertained by the size and number of layers of the whalebone, which increase yearly.

Insects of Borneo.

The worst insect infested neighborhood in the world is the coast of Borneo. The streams of that region are at certain seasons unnavigable because of the clouds of insects which fill the air and make life unbearable.

CHAPTER VI.

A BUSY man can forget trouble much easier than an idle one, and the activity of his life during the week following his father's conviction was a blessing to George Buckley. Indeed, the first Sunday afterward was a sort of critical period, for every citizen of the place who had any claim to respectability put on his best clothes and attended one of the six white churches; and our hero knew that if he was to continue to hold the position he had made for himself in the social life of the village, he must not appear to falter or to slink into retirement on account of what had happened.

It was a bright, balmy day, and when he went down to the postoffice after breakfast at the Hillyers' he found the usual group of idlers waiting for the mail. There was a barber shop next door, and it was thronged with churchgoers being shaved and having their boots polished. George bowed to several of his friends and acquaintances, but there was something within him that made him shrink from a closer contact with any of them, particularly as he fancied he noted on their faces expressions of a sympathy that was galling to his sensitive spirit, so when he had taken his mail from the little, glass faced lock box, instead of pausing to speak to them he busied himself with looking over the letters and turned down toward the warehouse. One communication was from a confidential broker, informing Hillyer that wheat had risen to $1.08 a bushel and advising him to hold on, as the market showed a decided upward tendency. Meeting the negro porter Jake on a corner, Buckley gave him the letters and told him to take them up to Hillyer, and then, for lack of anything else to do, he entered the warehouse, shut the door after him and went back to his room. Here he sat down at the window in the sunshine, and almost before he was aware of it he had allowed a feeling of utter despondency to descend upon him. "What is the use?" he asked himself. "How am I to fight it through?" For half an hour he sat thus in the very dregs of despair, and then suddenly a picture rose before his mental vision—a picture of old man Hillyer as he sat there on the bed in the vague lamplight, recounting the one mistake of his life and the grim fight he was still making to overcome the consequences, and a flush of shame stole over the young man. "I've promised him," he said aloud—"I've promised him to be a man, and I shall—I shall!"

Just then the church bells began to ring. They were all harsh in tone, being cheap cast iron, except one which had been smuggled into the village during the war from a larger town after the church to which it belonged was destroyed by fire. Its tone was sweet and mellow and rose out of the general clangor like a promise of peace to suffering souls. It was ringing in the little belfry of the church Lydia Cranston attended. She was an Episcopalian, but as there was no church of that denomination at Darley, and her father was partial to the rather progressive young minister of the Methodist church, she and her mother went there regularly. And it must be confessed that George Buckley had on many a Sunday since forming her acquaintance attended that particular place of worship, and chiefly for the opportunity of seeing her. He knew that it would be a difficult thing for him to face the little congregation, divining the thoughts that would rise in the minds of all, and yet he met the matter courageously and went.

He was vaguely glad that the first hymn had been sung and that there were no loiterers, as was frequently the case, on the steps. Reaching the door and looking in, his heart set up a lively beating as he saw Lydia Cranston with her parents in their pew. The major was the only man in Darley who sat on the ladies' side of the house. He seemed never to have remarked that he was acting in an exceptional manner in this regard. In another thing he was different from other men. He was, perhaps, the only male individual in the village who wore kid gloves. His silk hat was on the floor at the end of the pew, and across its top lay his gold beaded cane, upon which was engraved a respectful tribute from his regiment. Indeed, the Cranston family had a decided air of the old regime about them, and it was all the more noticeable because of the few families of quite their own rank at Darley. Lydia, tall, graceful and fair, was really a pretty girl, and, what was better, she was very well informed. Mrs. Dugan had often remarked that nearly all the young men—and those of the best Darley blood too—were actually afraid of the Virginia girl, and, while she thought it most peculiar and deplored the condition of things, she attributed the lowborn George Buckley's standing in Lydia's estimation to the fact that he "could talk to her about books an' the like an' had the natural cheek of his class."

The central aisle was carpeted, and George stepped softly to one of the seats in the rear and sat down. He was glad that his arrival was noted only by a few. The young minister would have been conspicuous in a larger place than Darley. He was six feet four in height, very dark and remarkably slight; his eyes were dark blue, his features sharp, and he wore his black hair long and was clean shaven.

When the service was over George stood and waited for Mrs. Hillyer, who was coming toward him, in her stiff black silk, with a welcoming smile.

"Glad to see you out, young man," she said as she joined him. "That was a rip-you-up-the-back, pay-up-or-git-out sort of a sermon, wasn't it? You 'n' Mr. Hillyer 'd better pass around yore bad accounts tomorrow, an' maybe you'll git the benefit of it. I seed old Peter Cashel duckin' his head a time or two."

George smiled because she did, more than at what she was saying, for the Cranstons were passing. The major and his wife bowed with their usual cold dignity, but Lydia gave him one of her sweetest smiles. "Do you feel hit?" she laughed, referring to the preacher's talk.

"Not exactly," he replied, coloring in spite of himself; "but it was strong, wasn't it?"

"You bet he wasn't hit, Miss Lydia," spoke up Mrs. Hillyer. "Ef everybody paid the'r debts like this young man—to say nothin' of the debts of other folks—Brother Mayhew 'd be out o' some'n' to preach about."

"Oh, I know that, Mrs. Hillyer," Lydia said, with a laugh, and she went on to her father, who was looking back and frowning impatiently.

Outside the church, George and Mrs. Hillyer walked homeward together. She was in a talkative mood, as usual. "It ain't any o' my business, George Buckley," she said, "but when it comes to knowin' how to treat women folks you take the rag off the bush. I was tickled back thar. You treated that gal jest right—jest right, to a gnat's heel."

"Why, what do you mean, Mrs. Hillyer?" asked George, quite at sea as to her meaning.

"Well, ef you don't know what I mean let it alone. I've often wondered what makes the women take to you so, an' I've about concluded it's beca'se they can't run over you rough shod. My Lord, George Buckley, this is the er, an' I acknowledge I'd heard so drat-fool time I ever seed you two together-ted much about the high standin' o' the Cranstons that I almost 'lowed you was a plumb fool to be goin' thar, but—well, I may never know when a hen will take a notion to set, but ef you keep on actin' with Lydia Cranston like you did back thar in meeth you kin simply wrap her around yore little finger. She may hold out a long time, but she'll throw up the sponge in the end. All the king's hosses can't pull a woman away from a man she respects an' is sorry fer at the same time, an' ef I'm any judge—but I reckon I talk too much."

"Oh, Mrs. Hillyer, you are surely"—

"You know," the little woman ran on. "I was a-settin' jest two benches behind 'em, an' when you come in I seed 'er switch 'er head a little to one side an' see you, an' then she looked straight in front of 'er jest as of nothin' had happened. But some'n' had happened to her face, fer I seed it change. A woman kin fool a man as easy as blindin' a chicken on the roost with a torch, but she can't fool another woman. That's why they hate one another like snakes. Thar she comes now!"

The Cranston carriage was passing. It was an old fashioned victoria, driven by a sleek looking negro on the front seat. The occupants did not turn their heads.

"I wonder how they got on to that?" asked Mrs. Hillyer, with a snigger.

"On to what?" Buckley asked.

"Why, on to that way o' settin' like they had boards under the'r clothes again the'r backs. I'd rather do a day's washin' 'an to go a mile that a-way. I always want to loll back when I'm ridin'—why, that's what ridin's fer, I always 'lowed—but them three an' the nigger look like so many bean poles."

George laughed heartily. She had the knack of making people cheerful, and since his recent trouble she had done much to relieve his gloom; and, besides, had she not encouraged him to hope that— But his heart sank under these reflections. Lydia Cranston, for many reasons, was out of the question, and he was mad to allow his hopes to be stirred.

"Of course," Mrs. Hillyer went on, as if reading his mind, "thar ain't no use blindin' ourselves to the truth. Them Cranstons hain't yore sort nur mine, an' a body ought to use ordinary sense in sech matters, but all the ancestry an' family trees in' blue blood royal on earth cayn't keep a woman's heart from floppin' jest the way it wants to flop. I sorter like Lydia Cranston. She could brag on 'er antecedents, but she don't. She knows she's some pumpkins an' ain't a-worryin'. Bein' afeard you hain't as good as other folks is the biggest drawback on earth. Thar's one o' yore best cards, George. You always hold yore head up. Sometimes I think it'll have a crown o' some sort on it before you die. You've got nerve, an' plenty of it, though I did think you was a-goin' to flicker under yore burden last week, but yore eye an' skin is clear as ever today. You've set me a good example. Some time you may know all I've suffered while keepin' up my eternal laugh an' chatter.

"Thar's Mrs. Dugan bending over the fence by the red flag"—they were nearing home. "She's tryin' her best to ketch somebody passin' from church to learn a bit o' news. I've been foolin' 'er ever since the doctor caged 'er. I hain't got much use fer her either. When folks run a tale down to her she mighty nigh always tells 'em I started it an' sends 'em over to me."

George laughed as he opened the gate and stood aside for her to pass through. "Hello, Mrs. Dugan," she called out to the short, stout woman at the fence, about fifty yards away. "Have you heard when they are a-goin' to let you out?"

"No, I hain't," snapped the gossip as she drew her red breakfast shawl over her head and ears to protect them from the breeze, "but I know when the next court convenes, Mrs. Hillyer, an' I'm goin' to git at the bottom o' this thing ef I have to sell my house an' lot to do it. This baby hain't got no more scarlet fever 'an you have. It's all spite work, Martha Hillyer."

"Thar's Mrs. Dugan bending over the fence."

The woman addressed drew her mouth down in a comical way and winked at George. "Did you ever!" she said. "That old hussy callin' me by my full name as pat as ef we'd been to school together an' swapped chawin' wax!" Then she called out to the gossip, conquering her smile as she spoke: "Them doctors don't know everything, Sally Lou Dugan. When I was a gal it was all the fashion to bleed folks fer different diseases, but now they say it was a mistake. The doctors still bleed, but they lance the pocket instead o' the veins. Have you heard about Mary Hanson an' Cal Bogle tryin' to run off to git married?"

"Why, no, not a word, Mrs. Hillyer!" gasped the prisoner, as if clutching at a straw of comfort in her confinement.

"You don't say!"

"No, I hain't seed a soul today. What about it?"

Mrs. Hillyer winked at George again as she looked up the street.

"I hain't a-goin' to yell that sort o' thing out at the top o' my voice, Mrs. Dugan. The neighbors ud think I'd tuck leave o' my senses."

"Well, come here a minute," pleaded the woman at the fence.

"Not today, thank you," said Mrs. Hillyer. "They tell me thar's danger jest in standin' nigh a infected puson an' lettin' the same wind blow on you."

Mrs. Hillyer moved on toward the steps.

"Oh, Martha!"

"What is it, Lon?"

"Write that on a sheet o' paper an' drap it over the fence. I'll run in the house a minute."

"No, I cayn't do that with this tight thing strapped around my waist," smiled the merchant's wife, "an' I've got to see about dinner fer my men folks."

The Best Bread and Pastry making is Impossible Otherwise.

Are you following the recipes?

Are you making bread, cakes, pies, pastry, according to "Royal Household" recipes?

If not, you cannot be sure of good results.

"Why not?" you may reasonably ask.

"Are not my own recipes, which do good baking, good enough?

"Why should I adopt new recipes?"

Simply because "Royal Household" is a new flour requiring new treatment.

This Flour is Different from Other Flours

It is different from other flour.

It is better than any flour you have ever used.

It is the only flour that is equally good for bread and pastry.

It makes the best of both.

Being different, it must be differently mixed, kneeded and baked.

Much Quicker and Easier Baking

By following our recipes you can bake easier, quicker, better than ever before.

All your own skill and knowledge of good baking will be made doubly effective, and as a good housewife you will quickly see why these recipes are so good.

The words of a lady of St. John, N.B., whose letter we have just opened: "bread made with it is lighter, flakier, better than any I have ever seen" are words echoed by thousands of the best judges of good cooking throughout Canada who are writing us constantly to say that they have found the flour just as represented, and the recipes the best they have ever tried.

Grocers tell us that the homes where the flour and the recipes are both used are the homes where the greatest success is attained in baking.

We wish everyone who uses "Royal Household" flour to have these recipes.

So send for them.

Send now, and we will not only send you the recipes, but place you on our literature list, and mail you whatever we issue for users of flour.

No woman who values the reputation of her baking—the success of her bread, cakes, pies and pastry—the health of her family, (depending as it does on good cooking) will use anything except "Royal Household" flour and in the "Royal Household" way.

The best baking requires the best flour and the best recipes.

We have both.

We send the recipes free.

Write for the recipes to-day.

Every really good grocer has the flour.

"Eat Plenty of Fruit."

That's what the Doctors say when one is constipated. Because fruit acts on the liver, causing it to excrete bile which aids digestion and increases the peristaltic action of the bowels, thus prevents constipation. But eating fresh fruit alone, won't CURE. The laxative principle is too weak and in too small quantity.

TIRED OUT.

There's many a wife sits in the growing shadows of an evening, knowing what it is to feel tired out; as if there was not another ounce of effort left in her. But if healthy she knows how sound her slumber will be and how refreshed the morning will find her. But it's another thing for the sick woman to feel tired out. Rest only seems to increase her suffering. She feels acutely the aching back and throbbing nerves. Sick women, hundreds of thousands of them, have been made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries wasting drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I am pleased to inform you of the benefit I received from using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. Elizabeth A. Oswald, of 35 Grant Street, Woodstock Co., Ontario, Canada. "Was quite discouraged when I wrote before your advice, as the physicians here told me I could get no relief except by an operation. Had been for four years from irregular and painful menstruation, had sick and nervous headaches most of the time, and at times could hardly walk across the floor from weakness. I thank God there is such a remedy as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for suffering women. When I had taken the first bottle the headaches had left me and it was not long before regularity was established and still continues. Have just finished house-cleaning which I never expected to be able to do again, and can truly say I never felt better than at present. I gladly recommend Favorite Prescription to all who suffer from female weakness. It has cured me and made no promises in every way. Whatever my husband nor myself can say cannot be in praise."

If you have you had better get rid of it immediately. If you don't, that terrible and disgusting malady, Catarrh, is sure to take hold of you and make you miserable, and an object of repugnance to your friends. The best and quickest cure for your cold is

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP.

It contains all the virtues of the Norway Pine Tree, combined with Wild Cherry Bark and the soothing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Mr. Harry Mosher, Mosher's Island, N.S., writes:—"We have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup in our family for the past six years, and have always found it a reliable remedy for the cure of coughs and colds."

Many cases of substitution have been brought to our notice. Do not be humbugged into taking any other pine syrup which unscrupulous dealers say is just as good.

ANNUAL MEETING AN ENTHUSIASTIC ONE.

Trent Valley League Elected Their Officers Last Night With Bright Season Prospects.

Mr. Morris Welsh of Bobcaygeon is President and Mr. E. S. Clarry is Again Secretary-Treasurer.

Many Clubs Were Represented —Some Changes in Constitution Were Made—Secretary's Report.

Never in the history of the Trent Valley Hockey League, has as enthusiastic an annual meeting been held as that which took place at the Oriental Hotel last evening. Everything was peace and harmony, everyone present was working for the best interests of the league, and, as a result, the Trent Valley League enters upon its seventh year with brighter prospects than ever before. From a small league of four teams it has grown to large dimensions, and embraces a great stretch of the Midland district. It is an organization which must be, and which is recognized as a prime factor in promoting amateur hockey in this section of the province, and each year the quality of the hockey that is being played has been improving, and this year the style promises to be A1. It would take a good guesser to pick the winner, as the teams will all be strong, and all express confidence in their chances of landing the coveted trophy.

The annual meeting was a gloriously successful one, and the season for the League gives every promise of being just as successful as in the past.

REPRESENTATIVES PRESENT.

The following representatives were present at the meeting: W. A. McIntyre, M. Walsh, Bobcaygeon; W. T. Junkin, Fenelon Falls; M. J. Hickey, A. Dorris, Peterborough T. A. S.; W. Fitzpatrick, H. Morgan, Peterborough Hockey Club; T. J. Wallace, Dr. McWilliams, Keene; S. Lockington, Port Hope; T. W. Byam, Brighton; C. Dennis, Cobourg; W. Tate, H. F. Skeen, Campbellford; W. Yerkes, F. E. Boulter, Picton; M. J. Hutchinson, (proxy) Belleville.

The meeting opened at nine o'clock with President Crowley in the chair. After a few opening remarks by the chairman the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The secretary presented his annual report as follows:

To the President and Officers of the Trent Valley League,

Gentlemen,—In presenting my sixth annual report as Secretary-Treasurer of the Trent Valley League, it affords me much pleasure in stating at the outset that last season was the most successful in the history of the league. The number of clubs in the league was a great deal larger than during any previous season, the quality of hockey was, if anything, superior, whilst the interest was much greater.

For the second time the T.A.S. team of Peterborough carried off the A. H. Stratton trophy and the championship of the league. They defeated the Napanee team in the final in a sudden death game, but the Napanee aggregation put up a plucky game throughout.

Only one club had to be disciplined throughout the season, the offending club being Brighton which were found guilty of playing one Moffatt, of Cobourg, under an assumed name. Speaking generally, however, the rules of amateurism were pretty well observed and the various clubs had a successful season.

It is now six years since the league was first formed and since that time it has grown to be an important factor in developing hockey throughout the eastern portion of the province. It has grown to greater proportions than the promotors of the league ever hoped for until to-day it comprises eighteen clubs and extends from Fenelon Falls to Deseronto. With the increased membership came increased responsibilities.

The Trent Valley League has outgrown its present crude constitution and it will be absolutely necessary that a revised constitution to meet the present requirements be adopted before starting out on the season's work of 1904-5.

There are several amendments to the constitution which should be made, the first of which I shall mention, being in regard to the membership fee of each club. At the present time this is only one dollar, a disgracefully low figure. With a membership of eighteen in the league it practically means that the amount of the revenue (of which we are absolutely certain) with which to run the league for a season is only eighteen dollars. However, there has in the past few years been an occasional tie match, which has netted the league something, it being the rule of the league that all tie matches are under the league's management. In addition to this there should be some provision made whereby the league will come in for a per centage of the final games. An arrangement similar to this is in existence in the management of the O.H.A.

There should also be published by the league a constitution and a copy of the constitution should be in the possession of every club in the league. Another matter that might be considered is the appointment of a sub-committee to deal with matters of, perhaps not sufficient importance to necessitate calling the entire executive together.

During my connection as secretary of the league for some years, it has been my pleasure to meet with many of the clubs throughout the district, observe the class of hockey they play and the condition under which teams are maintained. A club that is deserving of the good opinions of the hockey loving public throughout the Trent Valley district is Keene. They deserve well in the Trent Valley League from the start, and while it has not been their good fortune to carry off a championship it has always been a matter for admiration, the class of hockey they put up and the determined fights they always waged. A village the size of Keene that can maintain such a team such as Keene has in the past is deserving of the good praise of the officers and others connected with the league.

I am sorry to notice the withdrawal of the Norwood club from membership of the Trent Valley League. Norwood was one of the first to enter the league and has always occupied a prominent position in the schedule and having carried off the championship of the league one season. It is pleasing, however, to note the re-appearance of the Fenelon Falls team to the membership after having spent one year in seclusion.

Altogether the prospects of the league never were brighter, and we should welcome the addition to our membership of a team from Port Hope, one of the best hockey towns in Canada.

The financial report is hereunto attached.

I have the honour to remain,
Yours faithfully,
E. S. CLARRY,
Secretary-Treasurer,
Sec.-Treas.

A very satisfactory financial statement was presented showing the total receipts to be $147.62 and disbursements $138.75.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The election of officers then took place. Mr. E. S. Clarry, who has been secretary for the past six years, since the organization of the league, in fact, stated his intention of resigning from the office this year, and asked to be relieved of its duties. The meeting however was most unanimous in its request that Mr. Clarry should for another year remain in office. Several of those present spoke of the very satisfactory and capable manner in which he had performed his duties in the past, and in the interests of the league he was asked to remain in office. So unanimous, and so urgent, was the request that Mr. Clarry was forced to reconsider his action, and consented to remain in office for another year.

The officers elected are:—

Pres. — Maurice Welsh, Bobcaygeon.

Hon. Pres.—Wm. Crowley, Peterborough.

1st Vice-Pres. — F. E. Boulter, Picton.

2nd Vice-Pres.—Dr. McWilliams.

Sec.-Treas.—E. S. Clarry.

Executive Committee — Messrs. C. Dennis, Cobourg; F. W. Wood, Campbellford; F. A. Curtis, Port Hope; A. Dorris, Peterborough T.A.S.

RESOLUTIONS.

Several matters affecting all the teams in the league were discussed at some length. Upon motion of Mr. Junkin, it was decided that if any executive member cease to be identified with a club, his successor may be appointed from one of the Clubs by the other membrs of the executive.

There was considerable discussion in reference to the advisability of a sub-committee to deal with minor duties of the executive when it was not of sufficient importance for the whole of the executive to get together. Mr. Junkin moved, seconded by Dr. McWilliams that the sub-committee be composed of three members, the President and Secretary being two of these and that they have power to choose a third from a district outside of that in which there is a difficulty to be settled. This resolution was carried.

The question of fees was discussed and the meeting was unanimous that the annual fee should be more than $1.00, as in former years. It was decided to have both entrance and annual fee $3.00.

Upon motion of Mr. Lockington, seconded by Mr. Byam, it was agreed that the visiting teams should received mileage at the rate of three cents a mile for ten men, the same to be paid previous to any match and in case of default, the club defaulting to be suspended from the league.

The usual honourarium of $50 was granted to the Secretary-Treasurer.

Regarding referees it was agreed that if the teams competing in a match cannot agree upon an official the Secretary have power to make an appointment.

A SUPPER.

After the meeting the delegates enjoyed an oyster supper at McCallum's restaurant, partaking of the kind hospitality of the retiring honourary President, Mr. A. H. Stratton.

After the supper there was a short toast list, Mr. M. Welsh, the new president, being toast master.

The toast to "The King" was honoured in the usual fashion. Mr. Junkin proposed the toast to the retiring Honourary President. He said that Mr. Stratton had done much towards promoting the best interests of the league and the fact that he had presented a cup for competition had added a great impetus to the game. Mr. Junkin was in favour of having a junior series in connection with the Trent Valley League.

Mr. E. S. Clarry replied on the part of Mr. Stratton, who was unable to be present. He spoke of the value of the Trent Valley League to hockey in this district and said that the league was being recognised throughout the province as a strong factor in promoting amateur hockey.

The toast to "The League" was proposed by Mr. Boulter of Picton, and responded to by Mr. Crowley. Mr. Dorris proposed "The Ladies" and Messrs. C. Dennis, of Cobourg; Skeen, of Campbellford and W. Yerkes, of Picton, responded.

CAVAN-GROWN SEED A WINNER

Mr. W. A. Pue Grows Alsike Clover That Wins Prize at St. Louis.

Another Triumph for Canadians—Cavan Farmer Achieves a Record.

When it was announced that Canadian exhibitors had made such a good showing in St. Louis, at the World's Fair, it was hardly thought that the honours would come so near home as they have done. An interesting story is told in connection with the Canadian exhibits at the Fair. A year ago Mr. W. A. Peel, of Cavan, near Fraserville sold to Mr. R. J. Doak, of Millbrook, ten bushels of Alsike clover seed at $5.50 per bushel. Mr. Doak sold this seed to the Steele-Briggs Seed Company, in Toronto, who subjected it to a cleaning process, and sent a bushel of the seed to St. Louis to be exhibited in competition with seed from all over the world practically, with the result that this bushel of seed grown in Cavan was awarded the first prize in competition with the world.

POISONED BY CANNED PEAS

Mr. John Duncan's Family's Narrow Escape.

4 WERE POISONED.

Ate Canned Peas for Dinner on Saturday and Were all Taken Ill—All Will Recover.

A case of accidental poisoning occurred in Peterborough on Saturday. The family of Mr. John Duncan of 696 Water street, had canned green peas for dinner on Saturday, and shortly afterwards Mr. Duncan and three children became ill and Dr. McFall was called. He noticed symptoms of poisoning, and upon investigation and inquiry the cause of illness was traced to the peas which they had eaten for dinner. One of the girls was very ill, and it was thought that she might not recover, but later she was better. The others who ate the peas were very sick at the stomach, but this girl was not, and was consequently in a much worse condition

To-day, however, all those who were sick are out of danger.

Mr. Duncan is a member of the firm of Duncan Bros., horse buyers.

WEDDING OF INTEREST TO PETERBOROUGH

Miss Florence Adele Burnham Married in Port Hope.

A wedding of considerable interest to a number in Peterborough, was that which took place in Port Hope, on Wednesday. The Guide says of it:—

One of the most fashionable weddings that has ever taken place in Port Hope was that of yesterday, when Miss Florence Adele Burnham, Walton street, was united in marriage to Mr. Frank B. Helm, of the Union Bank, Calgary, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Helm, King street, Rev. W. A. Gustin, Rector of St. Mark's church, officiating.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Dunbarton Hall, and took place in the drawing room under an arch of palms and lilies.

The room was tastefully decorated with chrysanthemums smilax and presented a beautiful appearance.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked handsome in a rich gown of ivory crepe de chine over taffeta with duchess lace berthe and pearl ornaments, while a wreath of orange blossoms fastened the bridal veil of Brussels lace. She carried a large shower bouquet of roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Hazel Burnham, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and was becomingly gowned in dainty pink crepe de chine over taffeta, with white chiffon trimming.

Mr. Herbert C. Francis, of Toronto, supported the groom. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Helm left amid the best wishes of their host of friends for a tour in Toronto, Detroit and other cities, after which they will proceed to Calgary, where they will reside. The bride's going-away dress was blue lady's cloth, handsomely trimmed in black silk braid and white trimmings, with blue and green hat and think furs.

The presents were numerous and almost beyond description, including a very handsome candelabra from the congregation of St. Mark's church where the bride was a member. The groom's gift to the bride was a large sunburst of pearls and to the bridesmaid, a pearl monogram.

Among those present from a distance were Mr. Percy and Mrs. Dietrich, Miss Lang, Galt; Mr. James G. Brent, Mr. and Mrs. DeLeigh Wilson, Captain James G. and Master Francis Burnham, Toronto; Hon. J. K. Kerr and the Misses Kerr, Cobourg; Mrs. W. F. Little, Canmore, N.W.T.; Miss Bradburn, Miss Perry and Miss Ruby Burnham, Peterborough; Mr. W. Helm, Canmore; Miss R. Waldron, Kingston; Mrs. Nellis, London; Miss Bessie McLaren, St. Catharines; Mr. Morgan Cary, Millbrook; Mr. H. McMurtry, Bowmanville.

INSTINCT.

Instinct counts for much!

Unless a man has the tailoring instinct he can't tailor clothes.

His judgment will be inaccurate—his estimates out—his proportions and balances wrong.

He can't tell what type physique a man belongs to, although the custom tailors recognize only two—regulars and stout. Doesn't understand the little shades of differences between certain physiques of the same type—he invariably guesses, and guesses wrongly, consequently his clothes lack fit—balance—style snap, and do not become the personality.

Each Semi-ready tailor is one instinctively.

His artistic knowledge of proportions—his intuitive and unerring judgment of physique enable him to tailor clothes that fit, balance properly, look well and permanently retain these features.

Semi-ready tailoring is thoroughly individual and distinctive throughout.

C.P.R. ADOPTS A NEW HEADLIGHT.

Pyle Light has Been Tried on This Line.

It has Proved Satisfactory and Will be Used on all Lines in Future—A Good Light—

The C.P.R. has been using for some months on the midnight and 5.10 a.m. express trains a new Pyle electric headlight, which is very bright, and works most satisfactorily and now they are making preparations for the adoption of the headlight on their western lines. Instruction books are being sent out along the line for the use of engineers and others who will have charge of the lights, so that there will be no difficulty in keeping the mechanism in repair. These lights are admitted by railroad men to be one of the finest invented in recent years, and the strength and intensity of the beam they throw illuminates the track for such a distance that the engineer has a much better opportunity of seeing any obstructions on the line ahead. Then again there is one beam of light thrown on the sky at a long angle, so that while the engine itself may be out of sight, this beam may be seen for a distance of many miles, and in this way do away with the danger of head-on-collisions. Several of these lights were in operation during the past summer as an experiment and were found very satisfactory. They are built on the principle of an electric searchlight, and throw a very intense light.

GREAT ARE LEGAL TECHNICALITIES

An Example Furnished by the Colonial Ink Company's Perambulating Bottle

The report of the police court proceedings in Hamilton on Thursday, contained the following:

Two appeals from Magistrate Jelfs' decisions were knocked out by Judge Snider this afternoon on technicalities. The first was the appeal of Dr. F. B. Ross, dentist, against a $20 fine imposed on him because he knocked down a perambulating ink bottle on the street, a man being inside the bottle, which was being used for advertising purposes. A marked check for $75 had been deposited with the Magistrate when the appeal was made, but when the case came up this afternoon Mr. H. Carscallen, K.C., who appeared for the respondent, the Colonial Ink Co., objected that the check was not sufficient to satisfy the law. Money or a bond should have been deposited in court, not a check. The judge ruled that the appeal in consequence had not been properly laid, and it was dismissed. The matter of costs was reserved.

GOOD FINANCIAL STANDING.

The Province of Ontario occupies a place at the head of civilized countries or States in the matter of financial standing. This is a strong tribute to the wisdom, care, efficiency and honesty of the administrative methods that have been employed by successive Liberal Government. While the general administration of the Liberals has been unexcelled for progressiveness and excellence the administration of the finances of the province have been exceptionally capable. In the long course of a generation there has been no charge of the diversion or loss of a dollar through the fault or action of the Government. For over thirty years, with all the services of the public not only adequately but liberally provided for, the resources of the Province have been so well husbanded that without the imposition of a dollar of direct taxation as that term is understood, there is a very comfortable surplus of which nearly three millions or $2,952,472 is cash, in the banks—not book-keeping dollars, but good, solid cash, owned by the people of the Province of Ontario. The financial standing of a state or an individual is the true test of good business practice — of success—and the Liberal Government has in this respect, as in all others, been successful. Is not a Government which has such a splendid record of success to its credit entitled to the confidence of the people, who know that in its hands the affairs of the province will be managed capably and with enterprise and that its financial interests, especially, will be honestly and effectively looked after?

CONSERVATIVE LEADERSHIP

(Toronto Saturday Night.)

Referring to the rather half-hearted request of a rather poorly-attended meeting of the Conservative members of the Commons, held in Montreal, that Mr. R. L. Borden accept an Ontario seat, and remain leader of the Conservative party, the Telegram says he "is a nice man, but no leader," and concludes an unusually long editorial thus: "The opportunities which Mr. Borden has missed, the mistakes of the party, under Mr. Borden's auspices, prove that Mr. Borden is not, and never was, and never will be, a leader." This somewhat rugged statement describes the situation, and Mr. Borden is wise in taking time to consider whether he will have a united and thoroughly organized party behind him, before he makes further sacrifices which may do no good. As a matter of fact; anyone accepting the leadership of a party without being convinced that he is able to lead it to sucess—that sort of success which is worth having—is not only uselessly sacrificing his energy but is unfairly handicapping the organization he desires to benefit.

A deputation is reported to have recently called upon Mr. Whitney, requesting him to call upon Sir W. R. Meredith to leave the Bench, and assist him in forming a Cabinet. The proposition appears to have been put to Mr. Whitney in a somewhat milder way, suggesting as it did that the greater man should be subordinate to the present leader. It would probably be difficult to get Chief Justice Meredith to re-enter politics on any terms, but it certainly would be impossible to get him to take a subordinate place to Mr. Whitney. If Sir William Meredith were leader of the Opposition at the present time, or is leader at the next general election, I am convinced that so great is the public confidence in the Chief Justice that the Conservative victory would be overwhelming. Mr. Whitney does not inspire this confidence; like Mr. Borden, he is not a leader, and never will be, and is only now standing next to success because he has so little deserved the promotion he expects. If he deserved it more he would have been premier now; if he had deserved it less, he would not have been leader now. This unfortunate falling short of what is really required for the position has been an embarrassment to the country and to the Conservative party. Probably Mr. Whitney does not recognize this rather unpleasant condition of things; if he did, he would be the first one to ask Sir William Meredith to take his place.

Alfonso's New Cabinet.

Madrid, Dec. 17.—King Alfonso has approved a new Cabinet headed by Gen. Azcar-Raga as Premier and Minister of Marine. Premier Azcar-Raga will only act as Minister of Marine ad interim in the absence of Admiral Vinegre, who has accepted the portfolio.

MOST VIOLENT STORM.

Furious Blizzards and Many Disasters On Atlantic Coast.

New York, Dec 19.—The snowstorm and gale which struck the coast Saturday afternoon and continued until the early hours of yesterday was the most violent that has occurred for several years. Reports from the New Jersey and New England coast and from incoming ocean steamers tell of furious gales and many disasters.

In the river and harbor the traffic was for a while during the worst of the storm, almost at a standstill. So heavy was the snowfall that lights could not be seen from the river a boat's length ahead, and ferryboats and other craft proceeded at a diminished headway, feeling their way cautiously through the blinding storm.

No accidents of any moment were reported.

Fifteen Schooners Driven Ashore.

Woodsholl, Mass., Dec. 19.—The tug Susie D. arrived from Vineyard Haven yesterday afternoon and reported that the storm early yesterday drove fifteen schooners, anchored in the harbor, ashore, while others were damaged through collisions. The damage was the heaviest since the November gale of 1898. As far as could be learned, no lives were lost.

Rescued By Life Saving Crew.

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 19.—A schooner said to be the Lizzie H. Brayton, from Baltimore for Providence, with a cargo of soft coal, is ashore off Bayhead life-saving station, the crew of which rescued the crew of the stranded vessel. Details are meagre, as the Government telephone service is interrupted.

Given Up As Lost.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 19.—The schooner Ivanhoe, which left here six weeks ago yesterday for the Bahamas, has been given up as lost. She carried a crew of seven men, all relatives, and all belonging to Burgo, Nfld., where the vessel was owned. She also had one passenger, W. F. Collings, of Charlottetown, P. E. I., who was going to open and manage a branch business of a Halifax commission house. The Ivanhoe is a new vessel, having been launched last June. The hull was valued at $6,000 and the cargo at $5,000.

"OUR COMRADE."

Countess of Warwick So Introduced At Big Socialist Meeting.

London, Dec. 19.—The beautiful Countess of Warwick has become an avowed Socialist. She has been elected a member of the Social Democratic Federation, and Saturday night the Countess addressed a meeting of the unemployed at Stratford, where she was introduced as "our comrade." The crowd cheered the Countess when she said she appeared at the request of her Socialist friends, and added:

"The country is passing through strange times. Chaos reigns in Essex, as well as in the remainder of England. It is terrible to think that large numbers of men and women should starve because they cannot find work. I am afraid to be here, because those who point out the present social evils are called rebels, and surely it is time something should be done to remedy these evils.

"Workingmen must understand the necessity of organization and backing leaders. I agree with the chairman's resolution that under-capitalism and the lack of employment is the permanent condition of large masses of the working classes. This can only be remedied by the collective ownership of all means of production, distribution and exchange, and by the institution of a co-operative commonwealth."

The Countess' radical declaration was uproariously applauded by the crowd of workingmen who dragged her carriage to the hotel.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Belleville Church Burns.

Belleville, Dec. 19.—St. Michael's Church, the only Roman Catholic church in this city, was destroyed by fire early Saturday morning. The building, which was of massive stone, was undoubtedly the best in this city, and the altar was one of the finest in Ontario. The loss is keenly felt by the congregation of St. Michael's. The church was built about 15 years ago. The total loss will be in the neighborhood of $80,000.

SUICIDE AT DUNDAS

Geo. Van Norman, Night Watchman, Hangs Himself.

HE WAS SCOLDED BY HIS WIFE

Employed in Fisher's Paper Mill—Wife Became Uneasy and Followed Him to the Mill Where She Found His Dead Body—He Had Hanged Himself With a Rope in the Barn.

Hamilton, Dec. 19.—Because his wife scolded him, George Van Norman, Dundas, went and hanged himself on Saturday evening. He was 28 years of age, and his wife is 36 years old. He was her second husband. Just as they were about to sit down for tea, his little three-year-old stepdaughter required correction, and he set her down hard in a chair. The mother remonstrated, and told him not to do it again, but to whip the child if she needed correction. "I'll never do it again" was the only remark Van Norman made. He picked up his hat and walked out, refusing to eat his supper.

His wife, about 7 o'clock, took his supper up to John Fisher & Sons' Paper Mill, where he was employed as night watchman. She could not get into the mill and returned again at 9 o'clock. The doors being still locked she went to Mr. Fisher's residence to get assistance. On the door being broken open, the night watchman's dead body was found dangling on a rope. He had made a rope of heavy cord, threw it over a shaft, stood on a chair, stuck his head through a noose and then kicked the chair away. He was evidently determined to end his life, for he had to draw his legs up to prevent his feet from touching the floor. He had lived in Dundas only about six months.

G. T. P. PACIFIC TERMINUS.

Port Simpson Chosen and Plans Filed At Ottawa.

Ottawa, Dec. 19.—It is now definitely settled that the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific will be at Port Simpson, on the Pacific. The chief engineer of the Grand Trunk has filed plans with the Railway Department providing for the terminus at Port Simpson.

The land which the company will require for terminals at Port Simpson belongs to the Indians, and the company will have to negotiate with the Dominion Government to get possession, since the Dominion Government holds the lands in trust for the Indians.

Plans have also been filed by the G.T.P. for terminals on the great lakes at Fort Williams and Port Arthur. At Fort William the land required lies west of the Kaministiqua and at Port Arthur east of the town.

Uncle Sam Vigilant.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 19.—As a result of the selection of Port Simpson as the terminal of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, army officers in this city state that the United States Government will without doubt construct a fortification opposite Port Simpson just across the international boundary line. With a railway terminal Port Simpson would be, it is said, in army circles, a wonderfully strong strategic point for Great Britain, and one that cannot be overlooked by the United States Government.

POINTERS ON POLITICS.

A call has been sent out for a caucus of the Conservative members of the Dominion Parliament on Jan. 10.

Premier Ross will open the campaign Tuesday night with a meeting at Napanee, and Mr. Whitney will follow him in the same place on Thursday night. The Premier will also speak at Barrie on Friday night.

An agreement was come to Saturday between representatives of Messrs. E. D. Smith and W. O. Sealey not to go on with the charges of bribery and corruption in connection with the last Wentworth election, but to stand or fall by the Judge's decision on the legal point as to whether or not the ballots in the Valens division should have been thrown out by Judge Snider because they were numbered.

SATURDAY'S NOMINATIONS.

East York—Levi P. Annis, Liberal.
North Oxford—Col. Munro, Liberal.
South Brant—T. H. Preston, Liberal.
Prince Edward County—Dr. M. Currie, Liberal.

Mr. Justice Killam the Man.

Ottawa, Dec. 19.—Little doubt is felt but that as soon as Sir Wilfrid Laurier returns to Ottawa the appointment of Mr. Justice Killam to the Chairmanship of the Railway Commission will be made. Judge Killam has been a great success on the Bench. He is a jurist of solid attainments and great capacity, and the work of the Railway Commission will assuredly not suffer at his hands. Moreover, he is thoroughly conversant with the needs of the west, and many of the cases coming before the Commission originate in that part of Canada.

CAVALRY HORSES.

English Military Method of Training Them to Swim.

The most interesting and amusing of all the sights of Aldershot, England, is the big reservoir, or lake, where cavalry horses from all parts of the world are trained to swim with a thoroughness that rivals even the Italian system of horse training.

It is well known, by the way, that cavalry horses in the Italian army go through almost as much training as though they were intended for a circus, and the writer has often been amused to see patrician Roman officers riding their fine chargers down steep flights of stone stairs and down especially constructed precipices which look as though they were especially invented to encompass the destruction of both horse and rider.

Again, the writer witnessed the astonishing army manoeuvers of the Italian troops in the river Arno at Florence and also at Spezzia, the great naval arsenal of Italy. The Count of Turin was seen leading his regiment "out to sea," the prince often dismounting and himself swimming with one arm about his charger's neck.

The newly received horses at Aldershot, however, coming as they do mostly from inland regions, have a deep seated objection to the water, and as their riders are for the most part scantily clad indeed the struggles between tutor and "pupils" are ludicrous in the extreme. If it is found absolutely impossible to coax the animals into water deeper than their knees or girths collapsible boats are used and the refractory animal dragged by main force beyond his depth, when he has to swim for dear life.—H. G. Roberts in Harper's Weekly.

One of Poe's Experiences.

Poe, one night during those last weeks he spent in Richmond, related this personal experience, adding that he would carry it with him to the grave.

"I was living in Philadelphia during the epidemic of the cholera there. All day I would pace the streets, seeing the dying and dead, until my heart was faint and sick within me. Late one evening, on coming home after one of these aimless wanderings, broken down and with a thousand pictures of suffering and death dancing hideously before my eyes, I lay upon the bed. In a moment I was asleep and dreamed that a black bird like a raven came into the room and perched over the door. I asked what it was. The bird replied:

"'I am the spirit of the cholera, and you are the cause of me!'

"I woke with a start, but the apparition was so real that it made an impression on me I shall never forget."—Lamp.

A STEAMER ON FIRE

Nine Persons Lose Their Lives in Long Island Sound.

LOSS QUARTER OF A MILLION

Heroism of the Officers and Crew Prevented the Accident Becoming a Repetition of the Slocum Disaster—Discipline, Too, Contributed Not a Little to the Safety of Those On Board.

New York, Dec. 19.—By the burning of the Star Line steamer Glen Island in Long Island Sound Saturday nine lives were lost and property roughly estimated at a quarter of a million dollars was destroyed. That more lives were not sacrificed was due to the personal courage of the officers and crew and the excellent discipline maintained when a horrible death for all seemed almost a certainty. When the steamer was abandoned she was flame-swept from stem to stern, and yet the only persons who lost their lives were those whose escape had been entirely cut off by the fire before the alarm reached them. Of the ten passengers and the crew of 21, who sailed on the steamboat, 22, including eight passengers, were brought back.

Alarm For Fire Drill.

When the fire was discovered Captain McAllister at once sent in the alarm for fire drill. In the meantime the steering gear had been blocked and the pilots, finding themselves unable to direct the course of the steamer, rushed to the assistance of the other members of the crew in saving lives. Captain McAllister ordered McMullin to go to the hurricane deck and loosen one of the boats, while he went to the main deck and tried to loosen the two large lifeboats. Captain McAllister managed to loosen the port lifeboat. The other lifeboat was frozen to the davits, but a smaller one was soon ready to be lowered away. While the officers and crew were working there was a fearful scene of confusion among the ten passengers. They ran about the saloons in disarray. The woman who lost her life had been aroused by the stewardess and was on her way to one of the boats when she suddenly turned and dashed back into the flaming cabin. It is supposed that she went back for her valuables. She was not seen again and must have perished. There was no possibility of waiting for the rescue of those who failed to appear at once.

Captain Leaves Also.

In the large boat were the eight rescued passengers and six firemen and the captain. The large boat was just about to be lowered, when the latter ran up and jumped in, just in the nick of time, or he too would have perished. The smaller boat, which Pilot McMullin had managed to free, carried seven passengers. The two boats were rowed as far away from the burning steamer as was necessary to escape destruction and waited there and watched the boat burn. They made every possible effort to find any possible survivors, but there was none to be found. The burning steamer drifted away towards the Long Island shore. In the meantime the tug Bully, which was passing with a string of barges in tow, sighted the burning steamer, cast her tow adrift and came to the rescue of the persons in the boats. They were taken from the small craft, placed in the furnace room of the tug, clothing given to them and the steamer Erastus Corning came along shortly afterwards, were transferred on board of the latter and taken to New York.

Promoter Hooley Is Free.

London, Dec. 19.—Ernest Terah Hooley, the world-famous promoter, whose spectacular promotions of stock concerns at last brought about his arrest on charges of obtaining money by false representations, was acquitted yesterday in the Central Criminal Court after a trial lasting three weeks. Henry John Lawson, Hooley's associate in many weird business ventures, was found guilty of a similar charge and sentenced to a year's imprisonment at hard labor. More than half a hundred peers and 130 members of the House of Commons figured as stockholders in the companies that had been promoted and floated by Hooley and Lawson. Hooley was really the chief of the two figures.

Decision Reserved.

Ottawa, Dec. 19.—Argument in the case of the Dominion Government v. the Bank of Montreal and the Sovereign and Royal Banks Co., defendants, was concluded on Saturday, and Judge Anglin reserved decision. The Government sued to recover $75,000 obtained by Martineau, Militia Department clerk, on forged notes. The arguments lasted five hours.

Vienna, Dec. 19.—Negotiations for a new commercial treaty between Austria-Hungary and Germany will be resumed in Berlin this week.

ADOLF BECK CASE ENDED

ENGLISH JUDGE FOUND GUILTY OF MISCARRIAGE OF JUSTICE.

Essential Details of the Famous Case of Mistaken Identity That Is Almost Impossible of Belief—Beck, a Man of Fine Courage, Fought Against Fate Without Success Until Wrong Was Righted by a Dramatic Occurrence.

It is not once in a generation that an English judge is found guilty of participating in a miscarriage of justice, and therefore the position in which the Beck Commission places Sir Forrest Fulton is almost without precedent in our generation. What will happen now that the report places the chief responsibility of the terrible wrong done Beck on the judge who tried and convicted him can be easily deduced. That Sir Forrest would continue to discharge judicial functions, even if public opinion consented, is inconceivable. His retirement will follow as a matter of course, and the ruin of Beck's life will have as a tragic sequel the ruin of a notable career on the bench and at the bar. That there will be changes among the permanent officials at the Home Office is also assured, for this department has been strongly censured. The Government will make what amends it can, giving ruin and disgrace for ruin and imprisonment. The name of Beck will become as famous in legal and police circles as that of the Tichborne claimant, and there will be an end of the case which has attracted attention all over the world.

John Smith, the Jew.

The story of the Beck case in its essential details will bear repetition. In 1877 a Jew, giving the name of John Smith, was arrested in London and sent to prison for a term of years. He was convicted of having victimized a number of women, representing himself to them as a friend and patron and thereby getting possession of rings and wearing apparel on the pretence that he wished to make them gifts of similar articles and desired the stolen goods as models. Smith served his time, and then was lost sight of by the Metropolitan police. In 1896 there was an outbreak of exactly the same kind of crime. Every detail of the frauds of 1877 was duplicated. The swindler even assumed the same name, that of Lord Willoughby. Letters given his victims were shown to be in the same handwriting as those employed 19 years before. It was only natural to suppose that the criminal in both cases was the same man. This is the vital point in the Beck case.

Adolf Beck, the Norwegian.

The police were not long in laying their hands on a man believed to be the perpetrator of the offences. This was Mr. Adolf Beck, a Norwegian, resident in England for some years. At the preliminary examination he was positively identified by a policeman named Spurrell as John Smith, the man who had been arrested by this officer 19 years before. Mr. Gurrin, a handwriting expert, was called by the prosecution, and swore that the handwriting in the 1896 documents was the same as that in those of 1877. He further gave it as his opinion that Beck, a specimen of whose admitted penmanship was placed before him, was the author of the letters. Thus far it was obvious that the prosecution believed Smith and Beck to be one and the same, and that the case was based on this fact. In this lay Beck's hope and the hope of his counsel, for the Norwegian could prove that at the time when Smith was serving his sentence, he (Beck) was in South America. He was, therefore, confident of acquittal in spite of the fact that a number of women of indifferent reputation swore positively that he was the swindler, irrespective of his alleged previous crimes.

The Judge's Mistake.

So the case went to trial, but to the consternation of Beck, and Mr. Gill, his lawyer, the prosecution made no attempt to go into the question of identity, beyond calling Gurrin to swear that in his opinion Beck was the author of the decoy letters, but relied almost wholly on the statement of the women who had been fleeced. The judge was Sir Forrest Fulton, who, by a strange coincidence, had been the prosecutor of Smith in 1877. At the investigation, by the way, Sir Forrest said that he had no recollection of the former case, and thought that he had only held the brief, some assistant appearing in court. The indictment set forth that Beck had been previously convicted, but for some reason or other which has never been satisfactorily explained, the prosecution not only ignored the case of 1877, but objected when Mr. Beck's solicitor endeavored to go into that branch of the affair. Here it was that Sir Forrest Fulton took the step which sealed Beck's fate, and puts an end to his own career. He refused to consider the case of 1877. Beck was found guilty, and the prison doors closed on him.

The Dramatic Climax.

Beck is a man of fine courage, and all through the long years of his confinement he never ceased to protest and fight as best he could against the terrible injustice which had been done him. On his prison garments was a mark signifying that the wearer had been imprisoned before. As a matter of fact, everyone seemed to take it for granted that he was Smith, in spite of the fact that this matter had been carefully avoided at the trial. He wrote to the Home Office again and again, and finally had the objectionable characters removed from his garb, but the Home Office took no further steps. Hence the recommendation of the commission that proper legal qualifications in officials here would have resulted in the discovery of Beck's innocence at the time. The Home Secretary did go so far, indeed, as to ask Sir Forrest Fulton for an opinion on the case, and this, naturally, was simply a reaffirmation of the judge's belief in the guilt of Beck. The man served his term, but Fate had one more stone to fling at him. Last January a recurrence of the crimes of 1877 and 1896 led to his re-arrest. He was again convicted, and Mr. Justice Grantham was about to pass sentence, when in a most dramatic moment the real criminal of 1877, of 1896, and of 1904, in the person of Smith, the Jew, was caught red-handed. The release of Beck followed immediately, and the intense feeling throughout England that this matter should be investigated led the Government to appoint three commissioners, whose report pitilessly condemns the judge who sentenced Beck.

MONKEY FACED OWLS.

A Queer River Cliff Colony in Southern California.

On the banks of the Santa Ana river, in southern California, is a queer colony. It is situated in the cliffs which rise above the surface of the river and has a multitude of inhabitants. In passing along the river by daylight one would not imagine that the cliffs were inhabited, for the members of the colony are fast asleep in the chambers of the cliffs. But at dusk there is a change. At every one of the openings with which the cliffs are perforated appears a countenance so human-like in its expression that the beholder is apt to imagine that these must be the faces of the pixies and elves of whom he delighted to hear in his childhood days.

The tiny faces belong to a family having a name nearly as large as the individuals are small. It is the family of Strix pratincola, or monkey faced owl. So much do their faces resemble those of human features that they are often called the human faced owl. In the holes of the cliffs they pass their days and rear their young. At night they emerge in flocks and search the fields for mice, gophers and insects, upon which they live. This owl does not hoot as do most owls, but utters a low, chuckling whistle as it flies about in search of prey.

Farmers and fruit raisers in southern California are warm friends of the bird, for it destroys many of the pests which annoy them and injure their crops. The eggs of the little owl are white, and five or six form a litter.

Bill Nye's Cow.

Bill Nye, the humorist, once had a cow to sell and advertised her as follows:

"Owing to my ill health I will sell at my residence, in township 19, range 18, according to the government's survey, one plush raspberry cow, aged eight years. She is of undoubted courage and gives milk frequently. To a man who does not fear death in any form she would be a great boon. She is very much attached to her present home with a stay chain, but she will be sold to any one who will agree to treat her right. She is one-fourth Shorthorn and three-quarters hyena. I will also throw in a double barrel shotgun, which goes with her. In May she usually goes away for a week or two and returns with a tall red calf with wabbly legs. Her name is Rose. I would rather sell her to a nonresident."

The Hen Did Her Best.

A truthful farmer relates that he put a porcelain egg in the nest of a hen and found that the eggs she laid were of increased size. Then he put a goose egg in the nest. The hen laid an egg just as large. He was so pleased with the scheme that he put a whitewashed football in the nest. When he went the next time to search for eggs he found one as big as a football, but no hen in sight. Securing the egg, he saw engraved on it by hen photography these words, "I'm no ostrich, but I've done my best." Later he found the hen inside the egg.

A Tricky Skipper.

"Talking about rats," said a stevedore on a Sixth street pier, "reminds me of a pretty slick trick I witnessed the other day on the part of a down east skipper who wished to rid the ship of a number of troublesome rodents. His vessel was moored near to an English freighter, and he noticed that she was taking in a quantity of cheese. So one evening he found an excuse for hauling out to her and taking his own packet alongside. The next step was to procure a plank, smear it well with an odoriferous preparation of red herrings and place it through an open port on board the Englishman. The result was that during the night there was a wholesale immigration of rats from the American ship's hold to the cheese laden vessel alongside."

BIG COTTON MERGER.

Most Extensive Concentration of Capital Has Been Accomplished.

Montreal, Dec. 19.—The long-talked-of cotton amalgamation is now an accomplished fact. The deal in question is one of the most extensive concentrations of capital which has taken place in Canada for years.

Hereafter the Dominion Cotton Company, the Merchants Cotton Company, the Colonial Bleaching Company, and the Montmorency Cotton Company will be known as one industrial concern, with a capital of somewhere near $10,000,000, the whole representing bonds, preferred and common stock.

It appears that the consolidation of these respective interests has been brought about by a mutual desire to reduce expenses and put an end to cutting rates.

Paralysis Hits Chamberlain.

London, Dec. 19.—Joseph Chamberlain has resumed his campaign against English free trade, and the fact was revealed Saturday for the first time that he has recently suffered a stroke of paralysis. The secret has been wonderfully well kept, yet it is a fact that when Mr. Chamberlain and his wife were in Egypt the former had a stroke. It was not serious, but its character was unmistakable.

LAWS ON EATING.

Meals at One Time Were Regulated by Statute in England.

On Nov. 2, 1336, a law came into force in England for the regulation of meals and continued to have a place on the statute book until 1857. It was designed to check the evils resulting from an excessive use of costly meats and enacted that no one should partake at any place or time (except on specified festivals and holidays to the number of sixteen days a year) of more than two courses, each not consisting of more than two sorts of victuals, either flesh or fish, with the common sorts of pottage, and inexpensive sauce. On named feast days three courses were allowed.

This law was an extension of an ordinance issued by Edward II. in 1315 regulating the meals of his nobles, the greater of whom were allowed in addition to two courses of two kinds of meat a side dish of one sort.

An act of 1363 enacts that servants, artisans and laborers "shall be served to eat and drink once a day of flesh or fish and remnant of other victuals, as of butter, milk and cheese, according to their station in life."—London Telegraph.

HAND OF DEATH FORBIDS QUORUM

Two Members Prevented by Death From Answering Roll Calh

No Quorum of the Board of Directors of the Lock Works Company This Morning.

The regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company is usually held on Monday mornings and that called for this morning was particularly sad, there only being present Hon. Mr. Stratton and Mr. Thomas Fortye, two members being stayed from attendance by the hand of death which had fallen upon the two within the short space of less than 24 hours—Mr. Aaron A. Cox, and Mr. R. B. McKee. Another director was absent from other causes and the Board adjourned, but not before it was decided to send wreaths to the respective families and a resolution of condolence as follows:—

Moved by Mr. Stratton and seconded by Mr. Thos. Fortye and resolved,

That the Board of Directors of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company thereby express their sense of the great loss they have sustained by the death, almost simultaneously, of two members of the Board, Mr. Aaron A. Cox and Mr. R. B. McKee, who have for many years rendered valuable service in its deliberations. And that this Board send to the respective families a wreath of flowers accompanied with an assurance of its earnest sympathy and condolence with them in the very sad bereavement that has visited them, and that the secretary be instructed to forward a copy of this resolution.

DEATH OF MR. ROBERT B. McKEE

One of Peterborough's Prominent Business Men Called Away.

Had Lived his Lifetime Here—President of Peterborough Hardware Co.

After an illness extending over a period of several months, Mr. Robert B. McKee, one of the most prominent business men of Peterborough, passed away. Mr. McKee's death was not unexpected, as it was known for some time that he was gradually sinking, and that his death was only a matter of time.

The death occurred on Saturday night at his home on the corner of Rubidge and Charlotte streets, where surrounded by the members of his family he passed away.

His death removed from the ranks of Peterborough's business men, one of their most influential and highly respected members, a man whose life was an example of integrity and devotion to business, as it was also an example of the success which one who gives his energies to mastering the details of his business may achieve.

The late Mr. McKee has lived practically his whole life in Peterborough, having been born at the then family residence, on Dublin street in 1815, so that he would be in his 60th year, and the only period of his life spent away from this town was one year which he spent in Lakefield as a lad, when he commenced his business career. He was one of the three sons of Mr. William McKee, who had been a resident of Peterborough for about three years prior to Mr. Robert McKee's birth, and who was a resident here until his death which occurred in 1884.

The subject of this sketch early developed a desire for business pursuits, and at the age of 16 he went to Lakefield, there to enter the employ of Mr. Casement, an uncle of Mr. W. H. Casement, the present hardware merchant in that village, and since that time until his death he has been identified with the hardware business.

After remaining in Lakefield for one year Mr. McKee returned to Peterborough to enter the employ of Mr. Robert Kingan, father of Mr. R. G. Kingan, who at that time conducted a hardware store on Hunter street, on the site of the Review office. He remained with him for three years, after which he became a member of the staff of the late Mr. John Bertram, who also conducted a hareware store here, the firm later becoming known as Bertram & Miller.

After remaining in the employ of this firm for some six years, he in 1871, in company with the late R. S. Davidson, entered business for themselves, buying out Mr. Robert Hamilton, and taking possession of his store, which was situated where Mr. A. G. Dickson's store now is. They later removed to the corner store, and remained there until 1878, when they were burned out, and moved across the street to the present site of Brown & Co's store. In 1890 the Peterborough Hardware Company was formed by the amalgamation of the two firms of McKee & Davidson, and Fortye & Phelan, Mr. McKee being elected president, which office he held until his death. Since its inception the firm has done a splendid business, and this success is no doubt largely due to the executive ability of the late president. He was a director of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company, and was also a director of the old Peterborough Waterworks Company.

He leaves to mourn his loss, two brothers, Thomas, of 207 Dublin street, Peterborough, and William C., of Seattle, Wash., and two daughters, Helen Maud, wife of Dr. Wightman, and Miss Edith A., at home. He was married to Elizabeth Pentland, sister of J. B. Pentland, who predeceased him 15 years ago, as did also one son, William, who died 18 years ago.

The only relative in this section is Mr. William Brown of Smith, a cousin. The deceased was a member of St. Andrew's church.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 from his late residence, Rubidge street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

A Constantly Changing Panorama!

From now till Christmas the Peterborough Bookstore's holiday stocks will be made more and more attractive every day with their kaleidoscopic changes. Daily the scenes shift, and new beauties will be unfolded. Because you were here last week, therefore, or even yesterday, is no reason why you shouldn't repeat the visit to-day, and again to-morrow. Keep posted. Postpone the gift problem no longer. A. H. Stratton & Co.

A Sight Worth Seeing.

It's worth your while to go and admire the unrivalled display of rare and unique things in the Peterborough Bookstore. Amid a downfall of prices, marvels of beauty from the world's experts abound. Witcheries for the children—bring them to be amused and instructed. The Christmas card and booklet section in charge of Miss Tivey, is a bower of art. You'll wonder how they can produce these dainty and expressive art effects for so little money. A. H. Stratton & Co.

AN ABLE ADDRESS.

Mr. J. J. Kelso, of Toronto, superintendent of the Children's Aid Societies, gave an interesting address. It was a great pleasure for him to be present, as he had a high regard for the work in Peterborough, and for the officers in charge. It was an important feature to have able and competent officers, and in some places the work had not met with the success desired, because of the failure to secure good officers.

In 1893, the Children's Aid Act was passed, and at that time there was considerable opposition made. There was no means at that time of stepping between a parent and child. But all the objections had been overruled, and the good results of the work cannot be overestimated. The results of the work were sometimes not generally known, but nevertheless the work was going on quietly, and satisfactorily.

The success of the work was not shown by the number of children in the Shelter but rather by the reverse of this.

The number of children on the books was almost 2,800 at present. This was the number looked after in the past 12 years, and as a rule all were found satisfactory homes and were doing well. The children are kept busily occupied and grow up to good citizens. The death rate was remarkably small, showing that the children were kept healthy and were no ill-treated. They were taught to be industrious and useful and would gradually pass from the care of the Society to look after themselves. Several of the girls had been married during the past year.

Everything possible was done for the welfare of the children. A number of officials of the Society paid visits to the children from time to time and did all possible to see that they were comfortable. Foster parparents were encouraged by correspondence and visits and by the sending of little presents to the children and promising them rewards for good behaviour. The method of improving the children was by encouraging them rather than by punishing them. This was found much more influential. To-day we had the smallest number of children in reform schools of any state in the United Kingdom, there being less than 300 children in the reformatories. He thought that the bad influences of these reform schools were even greater than the influences for good; the boys met together and the associations were not helpful. If these boys were allowed to go to different homes to work where they would be encouraged and led to believe that they were not bad boys, the results would be better than if they were confined in a reformatory.

To his knowledge not one of the 2,800 children many of whom were taken from the worst homes, was at the present in prison. Some of them gave early trouble but eventually they succeeded well. He encouraged the local Society to persevere in the work. It was not a money-making work, but it was a beautiful work and it was gratifying to see the splendid results which were being attained.

In answer to a question, Mr. Kelso said as a rule children did better when sent to the country for employment than when kept in the town or city. He thought it were better to inflict corporal punishment upon a child than to confine him in jail.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Kelso for his very interesting address.

Mr. Geo. Edmison thoroughly agreed with the speaker in all his remarks. He was in entire sympathy with the idea of using kindness instead of harshness in dealing with children. He did not believe in corporal punishment and he thought its effect would not be helpful, but that it would be better to treat children kindly, teaching them to be manly and womanly and that they can be trusted.

The meeting then adjourned.

Was Subject of His Remarks Last Evening at Murray Street Church.

Murray street Church was well filled last evening when the pastor, Rev. F. J. Scott, preached a practical and thoughtful sermon on "Progressive thought, in regard to God, sin and mercy."

Mr. Scott wished to speak concerning the idea of progressive thought in regard to God, His transcendence, His attitude towards sin and sinners and His mercy. He believed in progressive thought and in progression in all things except sin. He had utterly no sympathy with these persons and journals which were continually speaking in disparaging terms of the so called leaders in progressive thought whose writings and thoughts it was evident have never been at all thoroughly examined. What was necessary was unprejudiced, honest consideration. He had no sympathy with the people who read in magasines articles and writings of the so-called progressive thinkers and who imbibed all they read without any thought. What we all needed was thought, independent and honest and without prejudice in all things.

Regarding progressive thought, Mr. Scott said he did not call it progressive, neither did he call it unprogressive or reprogressive. He only used that term to indicate a line of special thought that certain philosophers, scientists and Bible critics indulge in and which they call progressive thought. He wished to cluster his own thought around the words in Isaiah 57; 15, "For thus saith the high and lofty One that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is Holy; I dwell in the high and holy place, with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the contrite ones."

These words gave a view of God as transcendent, high and lifted up above the universe, and pointed to fellowship of God with men, the condition of which was humility and contritem and the effect or purpose, the reviving on man's spirit. This thought was different from the thought of Sir Oliver Lodge, President of the University of Birmingham, England, who said, "We are rising to a conviction that we are a part of nature and so a part of God; that the whole creation is travelling toward some great end, that now after ages of development we have at length become a conscious portion of the great scheme and can co-operate in it with knowledge and joy. We are no strangers, no aliens in a strange universe governed by an outside God but parts of a developing whole."

This means, said the speaker, that God is identical with this universe and that in short, is pantheism. This idea originated with the Darwinian evolution and that had as its basic principle, the development of everything from a primordeal germ and men were so infatuated with this sensational idea that they gave consideration to matter and method of the universe and the consequence was they deified the matter and the method of the universe. There was no other God but the universe.

The speaker then showed how absurd was the idea that the universe was God, and that there was no transcendant God, or a God above the universe. If this were so, then the universe was imperfect, for it was always progressing and developing towards a higher goal. If the universe was imperfect, then God was imperfect. If we were a part of God, then there was no sin, but only imperfection, which we would outgrow. If no God and no sin, there could be no future punishment, and no mercy, and no atonement for sin. There could be no miracles, and no miraculously or supernaturely revealed religion, but only the religion of nature. The Bible must either be a childish book of fables, or a book of lies. There could be no Christ, and in fact the new thought was revolutionary to the loftiest conceptions of religion. It was a system of complete infidelity, of atheism, because if the universe were God, there was no God.

There was no intelligible meaning which could be attached to the words of Sir Oliver Lodge. It was unreasonable to have an unconscious God develop into a conscious God. An unconscious God could not develop the grand and perfectly accurate universe. God was greater than the universe, and was in the universe. We know there is a transcendant God and that we are sinners. Men through all ages have confessed this.

Nature did not assure us that there was such a thing as mercy. All indications of God's love in the universe might be explained in some other way than by referring to God's love. The only thing to prove love was unselfish sacrifice, and the only proof of love to the point of infinite mercy was infinite sacrifice. This is provided in the Gospel of Christ. God, in His love, gave His own Son as a propitiation for our sins. The doctrine of the atonement sealed the doctrine of mercy.

Speaking of evolution, the preacher said that the only thing that had been proven in evolution was that there was a development in species but it had never been proven that one species could develop into another.

These new thinkers were not necessarily free from pride, the desire for notoriety, and the love of opposition, and these were factors in considering all problems in reference to them. This was a superficial age, when men did not think as they should.

The speaker would not say that there had been no progress in progressive thought, but the old faiths of the Christian religion, the Bible, the doctrines of sin, mercy and of the atonement, remained as unshaken as God's eternal throne. The first, and chief, requirement in searching truth was character. "Act according to the knowledge you have of God, and be true to the truth which shall make you free," were the preacher's concluding words.

ROUSING MEETING ON SATURDAY NIGHT

West Peterborough in Line for Another Victory---Mr. McWilliams Held a Splendid Rally in His Committee Rooms---Addresses by Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mr. R. R. Hall, Mr. John McCann and the Candidate---Splendid Record of the Ross Government was Reviewed—Reasons why it is not "Time for a Chnnge"—What the Ross Government has Done for Wage-earners—Hon. Mr. Stratton Deals With the Questions at Issue.

The opening meeting of the Liberal campaign was practically that held on Saturday night in the McWilliams Committee Rooms, on Simcoe street, and considering the fact that it was within a week of Christmas, and consequently an extra busy time for the majority of people, the meeting was very largely attended, and Mr. McWilliams has every reason to be pleased and gratified with the enthusiasm displayed by his followers, more than a month before the day of election.

The meeting was held up stairs, and the large room was comfortably filled, those attending displaying an enthusiasm and interest which speaks well for Mr. McWilliams' success on voting day.

Four addresses were given, every one of them effective and to the point, and each dealt with the splendid business record of the Ross Government, which is now appealing to the country, and numerous unanswerable reasons were given why it should be triumphantly returned to power on January 25th.

Mr. John McCann opened the speaking, after a few words from the chairman of the evening, Mr. Garrow, and he was followed by the candidate, who got a good reception.

Mr. R. R. Hall, who was the next speaker, was warmly applauded when he arose to address the audience, and gave a rousing address, replete with telling points in favour of the return of Mr. Ross and his Government.

Hon. J. R. Stratton followed in an hour's address frequently interrupted by applause, in which he reviewed the splendid record of the Ross Administration, and showed conclusively why the electors would be justified in returning the Liberal Government to power.

AUGURY OF SUCCESS.

The chairman expressed his pleasure at the good attendance which he said augured well for the success of Mr. McWilliams' candidature. He first called upon Mr. John McCann, who gave a short, but stirring speech. He said that the enthusiasm displayed was a good sign, and he predicted a success for Mr. McWilliams on January 25th. He said the same old cry was being raised this year, as it was two year's ago, viz.,—that it is time for a change. He could not see where there was any good foundation for such a cry. What had Mr. Ross done that he should be turned out of power and replaced by Mr. Whitney, and his party? He had spent the best years of his life in the interests of the Province and had given good Government.

He referred to the different departments of the Ontario Government and the excellent administration of each was shown to be above reproach. He spoke particularly of the Provincial Secretary's department, which until a few weeks ago had been in charge of the Hon. Mr. Stratton, and which had been the admiration not only of Canada, but also of the United States.

The Ontario Government had done a great deal to advance the interests of the wage-earners, and he enumerated some of the particulars in which the workingmen had been benefitted by the legislation enacted by Mr. Ross' Government.

He eulogized Mr. McWilliams as a young man of more than ordinary ability and he was satisfied that he would be elected on January 25th. He was starting out in his public life at about the same age as Hon. Mr. Stratton, and he was sure if his supporters worked as he knew they would the result would be satisfactory.

Mr. McWilliams, the candidate, was the next speaker, and pointed out the enviable position of the province of Ontario, as compared with that of other provinces, and this excellent position was, he asserted, due to the careful and economical administration of the Government.

The province is at present spending upwards of a million dollars a year to maintain the charitable institutions of the province, and the insane, and other persons who are a public charge, have been taken care of by the Provincial Government, and this expense has been saved to the municipalities.

Mr. McWilliams referred to the Government's policy of development in New Ontario, which, he said, was one of progress.

He said, referring to local matters, that during the last week, he had made a pretty thorough canvas, as far as time permitted, and he could say that the manner in which he had been received was thoroughly satisfactory to him, and he had no fear of the result, but he did not intend to be over-confident. He thanked his workers for the splendid service they had given him.

The young men were the ones upon whom he was depending largely for success, and it was gratifying to him to see the way they were rallying around him. The speaker hoped that there would be no personalities indulged in in this election. He was not fighting Mr. Bradburn as a man, but he was fighting the Opposition, with its lack of policy.

He could not expect to be elected by the majorities Mr. Stratton had had, but he felt confident that he would be successful.

THE FEDERAL MEMBER.

Mr. R. R. Hall was introduced by the chairman as the "Hon. R. R. Hall," with a prophetic vision, and the address which he delivered showed that he was of Cabinet calibre.

Mr. Hall was loudly cheered when he arose to speak, and gave a splendid address in support of the Government candidate. He pointed out the splendid, though isolated condition, of this province, in the respect that it was the only province that was not in debt, while the other provinces, which at Confederation were placed on an equal footing, are now largely in debt. In addition to the cash surplus of Ontario the province has a large sum of money invested in charitable institutions, which are valuable assets of the province.

WHITNEY'S POLICY.

Mr. Whitney has no policy, other than "Turn Ross out, and let me in," and the only thing he can do is to bark at the wheels of progress, and shout "corruption," with which the heads of the Government had not been connected. No act, such as the Langevin scandal, could be pointed to against the Liberal Government in this province of the Dominion. The Conservatives can find no fault with the administration of the affairs of the province, and Mr. Ross has governed the province wisely and well.

In assisting the industries at the "Soo," Mr. Ross and his Ministers have pursued a wise course, for steel rails of first class quality are now being manufactured there, and thousands of men are being employed. The Temiscaming Railway had opened up a great country for settlement, and many settlers are now pouring into this section of the country.

Mr. McWilliams said that Mr. McWilliams was doing all he could to be elected, but one man could not do it all—it required the co-operation of all his workers. West Peterborough should again return a supporter of Mr. Ross, and he hoped the electors would do their duty in this respect.

Hon. Mr. Stratton, on being called upon, expressed his pleasure at seeing such a large gathering of the electors, and the interest shown in the present campaign. The Parliament had been dissolved and the date of the elections had been fixed since he had the pleasure of being present in the rooms. The nominations would be on Jan. 18th, and polling on Jan. 25th. Registration would take place the first week of the year, consequently there would be over a month in which to prepare for the polling. The contest was going to be a keen one, and Mr. McWilliams' friends should not deceive themselves as to there being a walk-over, as he felt that Mr. Bradburn was making an active canvass, and the Conservative party in this riding were conducting a vigorous campaign. He supposed the campaign would no doubt be one of the usual campaigns of that party — an attempt to carry the minds of the people away from the main issues. Corruption would be their cry. Attempts would be made to cover their own crookedness by the "Stop thief!" cry. The electors of this riding would hardly be deceived by that policy. The electors knew too well, by experience and knowledge of past contests, how purely the Conservative campaigns have hitherto been conducted in this riding. It would be only a few who would be deceived by such a cry. However anything that could be worked to draw the attention of the electors from the main issue would be done. It was to be noted that the Conservative managers are taking no interest this election in the prohibition movement. A few who had put up their money to work up a prohibition movement last election, do not see the advantage it would be to the Conservative candidate this election, and so no prohibition is mentioned. It was only done at the last election for the purpose of embarrassing him (the

HOME OF ARCHBISHOPS

GIRLS TAUGHT IN A PALACE THAT STANDS ON HISTORIC GROUND.

For Centuries It Was the Summer Residence of the Archbishops of Canterbury —A House Where It Stands for a Thousand Years or More—Strange Vicissitudes of the Chapel—Glory of Palace Was Its Fine Hall.

One of the most remarkable buildings to be found in Croydon, or, indeed, anywhere else, is that which was for centuries the summer residence of the Archbishops of Canterbury, and is now a girls' school, says a writer in Lloyd's Weekly. It stands on historic ground, for there has been a house of sort here for a thousand years or more. There is a tradition of a rude church in the Saxon forest in King Ethelbert's day. When the palace was founded is not known with any degree of certainty, but it may well be, as some say, that it was built by Archbishop Lanfranc, and in that case it is more than 800 years since the original edifice was set up. The buildings formed at a later date a large square court or quadrangle, and consisted of a banqueting hall, guard chamber, long gallery and chapel.

Strange indeed have been the vicissitudes of the chapel. The earliest mention of its occurs at the end of the 13th century in the time of Archbishop Peckham, but the present building is presumably a century and a half later. It is specially associated with Laud and Juxon, and coats of arms appear on the carved poppy heads of the stalls. In Puritan days the chapel was used as a kitchen by an owner noted for his "long teeth and prodigious stomach." It fell into disrepair and was long neglected, until at the time of the Napoleonic wars a new use was found for the place as an armoury for Militia. Then it was in turn a parish room and a day school.

The glory of the palace was its fine hall with timber roof and blazoned coats of arms, built on the site of a much older structure of King John's time by Archbishop Stafford. At the upper end there once stood a stone chair for State occasions, over which was a massive stone canopy with angels and shields and the arms of Edward the Confessor. The canopy fell down in the middle of last century, but it has been preserved on a basement of masonry. Another and worse collapse was that of the whole eastern wall. The withdrawing-room or guard chamber, with its oriel window, has a literary association with the "King's Quhair," for the captive Duke of Rothesay, afterwards James I., the poet King of Scotland, was transferred from Pevensey to Croydon, when Courtenay was Primate. There is in existence a charter signed by him at Croydon in 1412.

It is recorded of Queen Mary that on her excursions to Croydon "her chief amusement was to walk out in the company of her maids without any distinction of dress, and in this guise to visit the houses of the neighboring poor," whose wants she relieved. Close to the withdrawing room ran the Long Gallery, where Queen Elizabeth danced "galliads" with her courtiers, and where in the year before the Armada she bestowed the Great Seal on handsome Sir Christopher Hatton. The Long Gallery is now incorporated in the school, and girls sleep or learn their lessons where the Virgin Queen used to dance. Her Majesty's State bedroom remains, though shorn of its carvings and panellings, and in the chapel is her pew. Archbishop Parker entertained his Sovereign for seven days at Croydon, and the worthy Primate was at his wits' end to find accommodation for her extensive and expensive retinue. After Parker came Whitgift, founder of the hospital that bears his name. Archbishop Herring wrote in 1754: "I love this old house, and am desirous of amusing myself with the history of its buildings; for the house is not one, but an aggregate of buildings of different castes and ages."

After Addington became the archiepiscopal residence the old palace gradually fell into decay, and an Act of Parliament in 1780 authorised its sale. For a century after that it was let as a bleaching ground, but in 1887 the Duke of Northumberland bought the place and presented it to the Community of the Sisters of the Church. It is now a higher grade day school for girls. Efforts are being made to restore the chapel.

Divorce Laws in Sweden.

The divorce laws of Sweden are elastic. When the incompatibility of temper reaches the culminating point one of the parties proceeds to Copenhagen, the nearest foreign town, which is only twelve hours' distant, and remains there for fourteen days, notifying the Swedish consulate, which circumstances are regarded as legal evidence of desertion and sufficient ground for divorce.

A Lesson in Boxing.

"What are you going to do, Henry?" asked Mrs. Uptodate as her husband unwrapped a pair of boxing gloves.

"I'm going to give Willie some lessons in self defense," he answered. "Every boy should know how to take care of himself in an emergency. Come on, Willie. I won't hurt you."

Twenty minutes later Mr. Uptodate returned, with a hand up to his face.

"Get me a piece of raw meat to put on my eye and some arnica," he said.

"Why, you don't mean to say that Willie"—

"No, I don't. Of course I don't. I've discovered that the only way to teach that boy is with a strap."

CONVERSATION "DON'TS."

Don't indulge in personalities. They invariably return worse than they started out.

Don't mention family feuds. It embarrasses the listener, and you are sure to regret it.

Don't talk of the cost of things. It gives the rich a chance for boastfulness and may be embarrassing to the poor.

Don't tell your personal interests, occupations, hopes or aspirations. Nobody wants to hear them, and you give your dignity a mortal stab.

Don't discuss children. If you have any the chances are you are boring those who have not. If you have none, you are sure to be mortally wounding those who have.

Don't discuss dress. The lady whose evening gown you are scoring may have come direct from Paris, wearing the newest thing, and the whole subject is a hopeless one anyway.

The Korean Language.

Korean is a difficult language to learn. Trifling errors are likely to lead a foreigner into great embarrassment. It was only the smallest mistake that led an impassioned preacher to warn his congregation that unless they repented they would be relegated to "a cellar," the Korean words for cellar and the nether world being almost identical. In like manner the story of Lazarus, who fell sick, was told to a Sunday school class with an unauthorised ending. The native form of expression is "entering a sickness," and by a trifling confusion the teacher was made to declare that Lazarus entered a bottle.

Size of the British Empire.

The British empire occupies about one-fifth of the surface of the habitable globe and consists of the United Kingdom, with its attendant islands, and about forty-three dependencies under separate and independent governments varying in size from Canada, which is thirty times the size of the United Kingdom, to Gibraltar, the area of which is two square miles. Thus the area of the British empire is ninety-eight times that of the United Kingdom, while the area of the self governing colonies alone is nearly sixty times as large as that of the mother country. —London Globe.

A TARTAR TRICKSTER.

The Way He Tried to Sell a Valise to a Foreigner.

At the annual fair in Nijni Novgorod I stepped with a German-Russian friend into a saddlery, where he wished to purchase a valise. He picked out one for which the Tartar merchant named a price that was evidently much in excess of its real value. My friend was making the usual feint under such circumstances of leaving the store when he noticed that the dealer, with a rapid movement, stuck a paper in the outside pocket of his valise. Not being a greenhorn in Russia, he knew immediately what the Tartar was up to.

"But, barin," said the latter, calling him back, "come. Look at the leather and the lining, silk all through. Please examine it carefully." He handed the valise again to my friend and turned back to his stock, apparently looking for other satchels to show. With a sly wink my friend extracted a ten ruble note from the outer pocket of the valise and bid it in his hand. Then he said: "Don't trouble yourself any longer. This valise seems to be what you say it is, and I will take it."

The Tartar grinned broadly as he turned around, satisfied that his little trick had succeeded. Then while my friend pretended to count out the purchase price he took hold once more of the valise in order accidentally to discover the bank note in it. I shall never forget his eyes, which bulged out of their sockets, or the petrified smile on his face when he found his money gone. He was so bewildered that he stammered like a drunken man.

"The fellow really ought to get a lesson," my friend said to me in German, while he kept the trickster in suspense for several minutes before handing him back the bank note, together with the valise, which the dealer now offered for less than half of what he had demanded before.—Sigmund Krans in Booklovers' Magazine.

Keep to the Right and Go Ahead.

The story is told that on a certain occasion when a company of persons were discussing in a crowded room sacred subjects and certain prominent men one suddenly exclaimed: "I should like to meet that bishop of Lichfield. I'd put a question to him that would puzzle him."

"Very well," said a voice out of another corner, "now is your time, for I am the bishop."

The man was somewhat startled and taken aback, but presently recovered himself and said, "Well, my lord, can you tell me the way to heaven?"

"Nothing easier," answered the bishop; "you have only to turn to the right and go straight ahead."

Her Choice.

The wife of a burglar was being examined by an eminent lawyer. "You are the wife of this man?" asked the barrister. "Yes," replied the witness. "You knew he was a burglar when you married him?" continued the lawyer. "Yes," she answered. "And how did you come to contract a marriage with such a man?" "Well, it was this way," said the witness sarcastically, "I was getting old and had to choose between a burglar and a lawyer. What else could I do?"

His and Her Work.

"Woman overworked? Fudge! Think of the men!"

"Ah, but you know the old saying, 'Woman's work is never done.'"

"I know it, and that's the reason she oughtn't to complain. A man has to do his work or lose his job."

Hours the Same.

Miss Budd—When a man's engaged to his girl his idea of "good hours" is to stay from 8 o'clock until any time after midnight.

Mrs. Oldun—Yes, and even after marriage the hours are the same.

Miss Budd—Indeed!

Mrs. Oldun—Yes. The only difference is that in one case they're hours "with her" and in the other "away from her."—Catholic Standard Times.

A Short Story.

Waggsby—There was once an honest man in politics.

Naggsby—Well, go on with the story.

Waggsby—That's all there is of it.

Naggsby—It's a mighty short one.

Waggsby—Yes, but it's as long as the man's stay in politics.—Baltimore American.

MACARONI.

It Is Made From the Meal of a Wheat Called Semolina.

Macaroni, which is derived from the Italian word maccare, to crush, is prepared from the meal of a hard variety of wheat which is cultivated in the south of Europe and in other warm climates. Its suitability for the manufacture of macaroni, vermicelli and other pastes is to be found in the easy preservation of preparations made from it and also in its richness in gluten and other nitrogenous substances.

The meal of this wheat, which is named semolina and is itself a commercial article, is mixed into a stiff dough with boiling water and while still hot is placed into a metallic cylinder, at one end of which is a thick disk pierced with openings and into the other end of which a piston is introduced, which forces the dough out through openings which correspond with the section of the article which it is intended to make.

Ordinary tube macaroni has its form given to it by mandrels of the requisite thickness, which are fixed within the openings of the disk. It is dried by hanging it in long strings in stoves through which a current of air is driven.—London Express.

POSITION IN SLEEP.

The Connection Between Health and the Way of the Bed.

A French scientist claims to have established a distinct connection between our health and the position which our beds occupy with regard to the points of the compass. He relies upon the fact that the sap of trees is gradually driven toward the east by centrifugal force, so that they develop more on that side. This induces him to argue that when we remain in bed for several hours with our heads toward the east this will tend to drive the liquids of our body from west to east, and our blood has a tendency to flow toward the brain, so that we sleep uneasily and find ourselves less fresh when we awake than if our feet had pointed eastward.

If our bed stand north and south it is better to lie with the head northward, as the centrifugal force acts from north to south in our hemisphere.

This old inscription on a bedstead is good: "So that ye harte be rite, it matters not which waye ye head laye."

The Judge and the Irish Juror.

Judge Adams, the county court judge of Limerick, is one of the wittiest of Irishmen, but occasionally in an encounter he comes out second best. A juror asked the judge to excuse him from serving on account of deafness. "Were you in court during my charge to the jury?" asked the judge. "Yes, yer honner," replied the juror. "Did you hear it?" "Yes, yer honner, I heard every word of it, but I couldn't make any sinse of it." The reply evoked a roar of laughter, in which Judge Adams heartily joined. But he did not excuse the juror. —Westminster Gazette.

Didn't Know It All.

"Oh," sneered the self important lawyer who was cross examining, "you think you know it all, don't you?"

"Not quite," replied the witness. "For instance, I don't know how you manage to secure an occasional client."

Cold Congests the Kidneys

TO PREVENT INFLAMMATION SET THE KIDNEYS RIGHT BY USING

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

Sitting in a draught, exposure to cold and dampness, sudden changes of temperature, are the frequent causes of congestion of the kidneys.

Pains in the back over the kidneys may be your first warning.

Other symptoms are a constant and pressing desire to urinate. The urine is scanty and highly coloured and sometimes passes with much pain and smarting.

Then there are headache, loss of appetite and flesh, deposits in the urine, sleeplessness, pains and cramps in legs, constipation and diarrhoea alternating and general feelings of discomfort and distress.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills bring relief and cure more promptly than any other treatment because of the direct and combined action on kidneys, liver and bowels.

All the excretory organs work in sympathy, and can greatly assist one another in carrying off the waste matter.

Hence it follows that when the kidneys, liver and bowels are at once invigorated by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills relief is prompt and certain.

If neglected constipation of the kidneys is almost sure to result in inflammation and Bright's Disease.

Mr. R. Beech, 225 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, Ont., states:—"About two years ago I became subject to cramps which were caused I was told by acute indigestion. I was so bad that I would be laid up for weeks at a time. These attacks came on periodically and distressed me greatly.

"I then began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and have found them a wonderful medicine. They have entirely prevented a recurrence of my trouble, corrected the derangement of my digestive organs, and made me feel like a different person."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 5

CHAPTER VII.

ONE night about the middle of the month George Buckley was awakened by a gentle rapping on the window of his room. He rose and stood listening. The sound was repeated.

"Who's there?" he called out.

"It's me, George," answered Hillyer's voice. "I want to see you a minute. You needn't dress. I—I've got a key to the front door, but I was afeard you mought jump up an' shoot before you found out who it was."

Buckley's delay in answering showed his surprise at the unusual visit. Hillyer heard him strike a match and saw him in the light it furnished as George applied it to the wick of his lamp.

"All right, Mr. Hillyer," he said, "come in."

In a moment the merchant opened the great, rattling door in front and came slowly back to his clerk's apartment.

"Git back in bed," said he. "I've got my overcoat on an' my teeth are chatterin'. I feel like I wasn't nothin' but skin an' bones."

"Why, it's not cold, Mr. Hillyer." Buckley was now dressed, all but his coat, and he hastily drew it on and sat down on the bed. Hillyer remained standing in the middle of the room, staring wide eyed and pale faced at his clerk. Then he bethought himself of a chair and drew one to him and sank into it.

"You went to call on Miss Lydia tonight, didn't you, George?"

"Yes, sir. I was there till about 10 o'clock."

'Makin' any progress, George? I mean"—

"I'm not trying to make any progress, Mr. Hillyer," said the young man quickly. "We are simply friends—that's all."

It was as if the merchant had not heard the reply to his question. He stared blankly at Buckley for a moment, and then, with a groan, he buried his face in his hands and rocked back and forth like a man in pain. Suddenly he said:

"George, I'm in a awful—awful fix!"

Buckley found himself unable to formulate a reply. He could only answer the astonishing statement with an almost alarmed stare.

"George, I'm sufferin'—sufferin'. It's that old thing. I thought after my talk with you down here awhile ago that I would feel better, but it's back ag'in like a million devils had hold o' every nerve in my brain an' body. For the last week it has been growin' wuss an' wuss, an' now of some'n' hain't done I'll jest die. But I must tell you. You know I said I hadn't spoke about it fer thirty year to a single soul, an' talkin' to you here that night seemed to do me some good, an' so tonight when I couldn't sleep I thought I'd come to you."

"I'm glad you came, Mr. Hillyer."

"You remember, George, I said that Hank Williams, the man whose testimony had cleared me, was livin' in Texas?"

"Yes, I remember you said that, Mr. Hillyer."

"Well, jest a week ago last Thursday he come back to this county to see his old friends an' kin. When I heard he'd come I was settin' at my desk. Kenner an' Hanks was a-talkin', an' one of 'em mentioned it. All my strength went out o' me, fer they said he'd got religion an' was leadin' a upright life. Do you know what I'm feared of now, George? I'm afeard he's come back to—to ax me to—to let 'im confess the truth. They say men will git that a-way as they nigh the grave, an' he's gittin' old. Some'n's wrong, I know, fer he acts quar in not comin' to see me. I'm as nigh crasy as a man ever was. Do you know what I done last night? It was as dark as pitch, an' I knowed nobody wouldn't see me. You know the old livery stable whar the shootin' occurred is still standin'. I had never been past it since then. I jest couldn't. But last night, in the pitch dark an' drizzlin' rain, I got out'n bed an' went thar an' knelt down right whar he fell, an' begged an' begged God to let me die then an' thar an' face whatever was a-comin' to me, even ef it was eternal. I want my punishment—the rall thing—to begin, an' go on an' on ef it's God's will. I don't care how long. I cayn't stand this uncertainty. Hank Williams intends to come to me, but he's puttin' it off to the last minute. But I want him to spout it all out an' be done with it. Ef he don't, I will. Then tonight I went up to the graveyard an' picked out Lynn Hambright's grave an' laid down on it amongst the weeds an' briers an' prayed to his bones to rise up an' do some'n'. Anything's better than this awful silence of God an' man."

With his hands tightly pressed over his face the merchant sat, breathing heavily. George Buckley stood over him, his handsome face heavy with pity.

"Is there anything—anything on earth that I can do, Mr. Hillyer?" he questioned. "I would do anything to relieve you. I'd cut off my right arm to do you a service."

"Yes, you can do some'n'," said the merchant, looking up and staring steadily. "You know how I feel. I want you to take my boss an' ride out to Williams' the fust thing in the mornin'. You could git thar by 10 or 11 o'clock, but"—Hillyer paused and uttered a soft groan—"but I'd have all that time—to wait, like a man goin' to be hung. George, ef—ef you started tonight, you'd git thar about the time he was risin', an' you could, by ridin' peart, git back here by 10 in the mornin'."

"Why, yes, I can go easily," said Buckley. "But what must I say to him, Mr. Hillyer?"

The old man stared for a moment, and then he replied:

"Tell 'im I'm a million times sorrier than I was when—the deed was done, an' that I want 'im not to delay any longer ef—ef he is goin' to take any step. Tell 'im I want it over. That will be enough, George. Now git out the boss."

"And you?"

"I'll stay here the balance o' the night an' open up, as usual, an' make Jake put the office in order."

"Don't you think your wife will be troubled if she should miss you, Mr. Hillyer?"

"She won't miss me; she's got used to my night prowlin'. I'd keep her awake ef I was at home. I'm goin' to pace this floor back an' forth an' try to git tired. Go ahead, George. Don't waste any more time. You'll know what to say. I don't want you to plead fer me. I've plead with a higher power 'n he is till I'm through. All I want is a verdict—the verdict I dodged so long ago."

The next day about 10 o'clock, as George was returning home and was within a mile of town, he saw his employer emerge from a clump of persimmon trees on the edge of the road and walk toward him. He was almost a nervous wreck; his eyes were bloodshot and his gray hair disheveled.

"I couldn't wait fer you to git to town," he said, looking up and down the road furtively, as if afraid some one might be coming, "and so I walked out. I come away from the warehouse jest after breakfast, an' I've been walkin' through them woods over thar ever since. Once I fell in a deep ditch. I thought it was God's mercy an' that it was all goin' to be over, but I didn't git a scratch. You notice I keep talkin'. It's beca'se I'm afeard to look at you or let you speak."

"You haven't a thing to fear, Mr. Hillyer." Buckley dismounted and stood by his employer, his arm through the bridle.

"You didn't see Williams?"

"Yes, I saw him and had a long talk with him. He said you were the best man he had ever known in his life and that he'd rather die than harm you in any way. He would have come to see you, he said, but he thought you might not want to be reminded of the past. He actually cried when I told him of your sufferings. He said it was your influence that had made him try to lead a better life. He said his protection of you in that case was the one thing in all his life that he was proud of. He declared he would do it over again. He's got into some new religion. I don't know what it is, but it is not exactly orthodox. He says it would have been wrong to punish a man for a thing he regretted as much as you did that act, and that he was glad he yielded to the impulse to help you."

"Oh, George, you don't mean"—

A great sob rose in Hillyer's breast and burst; his red eyes were full of tears.

"He says he is proud of what he did to save you from further trouble," George went on tenderly. "He says if you had gone to prison for life it would have wrecked your career, but that his testimony spared you to go on bettering the world. He's heard a lot about you. He says he runs across somebody every day that you've helped in one way and another, and when I came right out and told him—yes, I told him how near I was to the brink not long ago and how you saved me—when he heard that he actually sobbed and said, 'Bully old man; bully, bully old man!'"

The merchant caught the mane of the horse in his quivering fingers and leaned forward till his face touched the neck of the animal.

"God's good, George; God's good!" he sobbed.

Buckley put his arm on the old man's shoulder caressingly.

"Now get on the horse and ride home," he said. "I want to stretch my legs. They are stiff."

"No!" Hillyer looked up, his face radiant. "You ride. I want to go back in the woods an' pray an' shout. I don't want to go home now. I want to thank my Maker. I may not come to dinner. I'll fast. May God bless you, my boy!"

George mounted the horse, and as he rode away he saw the old man plunge into the woods at the roadside, his hands clasped before him, his lips in motion.

Buckley did not see his employer again until about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Then he came in slowly and sank into his chair at his desk and took up the letters George had left there for him. There was a general droop of despondency on him, and he handled the letters with listless inattention.

"Wheat's still a-climbin'," he said, a little note of gratification in his voice as he allowed a thin market report to flutter from his hand to a wastebasket. "I'm glad o' that, George, fer it backs yore judgment. I wonder what Kenner thinks now."

"Both he and Hanks are urging me to get you to sell," replied the young man.

"Well, you kin bet I won't till you tell me to on yore judgment."

"Well, I can't do that yet, Mr. Hillyer."

Then George saw the old man push back the letters on his desk, half of which he had not opened, and a low, stifled groan escaped his lips. Buckley got down from his high stool and went and leaned over him.

"Has anything happened since I left you, Mr. Hillyer—anything to—upset you?"

The merchant gave him a steady look. "No, I cayn't say anything has happened—anything, at least, like you mean—but my thoughts have happened, George. Fer about a hour after you left me out in the woods I was jest too happy fer anything, but after awhile I got to thinkin'. I got to wonderin' what I was so happy about, anyway, an' the thought come to me like a lick from a club in the dark that it was jest beca'se I 'lowed I was goin' to escape the consequences o' my deed without undoin' it. George, I cayn't never—never—never give back that boy's life, an' he had as much right to it as I have to the content I'm prayin' fer right now. Huh! What difference does it make to—to the dead how much good Hank Williams an' other folks believe I'm a-doin'? How do I know Lynn Hambright hadn't ruther be alive than fer me to be doin' anything?"

Buckley found himself unable to make any reply adequate to the situation. Different thoughts suggested themselves, but he discarded them one by one. Something made him think that the old man would like to be alone, and he took his hat and went out. As he did so Kenner came into the office with some samples of cotton in his hands and threw them into a huge pile that lay like a snowdrift in one corner of the room.

"I've jest dropped on to some'n' I don't exactly like," he said, standing behind the merchant.

Hillyer looked up indifferently.

"It's about George," said Kenner.

"You say it is?" Hillyer brightened visibly. "What about him?"

The cotton buyer sat on the corner of Hillyer's desk and swung one of his slim legs to and fro. "George Buckley stands all right in the society o' this town," he said, "but the boy's at a sort o' turnin' point, Mr. Hillyer. Joe Drake an' some more young men is organizin' a club. It's Major Cranston's idea, an' the major's contributed $25 to help 'em fit up the room. The list o' charter members was lyin' on the show case at Drake's drug store, an' I looked at it. George's name wasn't on it. I'm sure it was jest a' oversight, but I don't exactly like the idea o' havin' George left out o' anything jest right now. Some busybodies mought make capital out of it. Do you see what I mean?"

Hillyer understood, and he nodded knowingly as he rose to his feet. The cloud had left his face.

"You stay here, Jim," he said. "I'm goin' uptown an' look at that list."

He found Joe Drake dusting the bottles on his shelves, and he turned to him respectfully.

"Anything I can do for you, Mr. Hillyer?" he asked.

The old man smiled genially. "I've got a crow to pick with you boys," he said, "fer not callin' on me fer a donation to that club you are a-gittin' up among you. I'm interested in boys—I used to be one—an' I want to see 'em have all the fun they kin git."

"Well, we certainly will take all you want to give us, Mr. Hillyer," the young man laughed. "The fact is, we haven't called on a soul. Major Cranston"—

"Well, you can put me down fer a hundred," said Hillyer, as he took up the list of names on the show case and ran his eye over them.

"My Lord! You don't mean that, do you, squire?"

"Yes, I do. Why, you have left George's name off, as shore's preachin'!"

The druggist flushed as he took the sheet and glanced at it with a wavering eye. Then he managed to bring out: "The truth is, squire, some of the boys thought perhaps George might not care to join anything of this kind now. You see, he hasn't seemed to want to go out much since—since the old man was arrested, and"—

Hillyer put his hand on Drake's shoulder and smiled. "That's just why I want him in this at the start," he said. "Then he kin go whenever he wants to. You put his name down; I'll be responsible. Put me down fer the hundred, too, an', ef that ain't enough, you know whar I do business."

"All right, Mr. Hillyer," responded the young man, "and we are very much obliged to you."

"Huh," said the merchant to himself as he turned down the street with a lighter step, "a feller's got to keep his eye peeled these days. Ef this hadn't been fixed it mought 'a' hurt George's feelin's. Kenner's the right sort. He'll joke an' carry on, but a body kin count on 'im ever' time."

COSTIVENESS

SPELLS SICK ALL OVER

Costiveness, if allowed to go unremedied, will lead to habitual constipation, and that means bad blood, poor digestion, unhealthy complexion, headaches and nervousness. It is the business of the liver to secrete and remove the bile from the blood, which acts as a cathartic and keeps the bowels regular. Let the liver become sluggish, torpid or inactive, and you are as sure to become costive as the sun is to shine. Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills cure costiveness in Nature's way. They restore the liver to normal activity; they remove foul secretions and cause it to flow regularly. No matter what you have tried, get Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills, and you will obtain health and establish the liver and bowels in healthy action. They cure constipation, biliousness, headache in one night. Price 25 cents at all dealers.

Burdock Blood Bitters

Saved Her from Many Years of Suffering.

She writes:—"Now imagine how joyous and great was my surprise when a friend of mine told me that Burdock Blood Bitters would cure me, so that the lumps and external swellings, which the doctors told me would turn to running sores, would disappear. I took her advice, and can say that I have no doubt but that Burdock Blood Bitters has saved me from years of suffering. It is with the greatest of pleasure and with a thankful heart that I give this testimonial, knowing that Burdock Blood Bitters has done so much for me, and you are at perfect liberty to use this for the benefit of others similarly afflicted."

Burdock Blood Bitters is the best blood medicine on the market to-day, and is composed entirely of roots, herbs, barks and berries.

The Coffee Was Harmless.

Lord Charles Beresford, commander of the British Gibraltar fleet, is a wit of the rugged, seafaring kind, somewhat lacking that Chesterfieldian grace which characterizes the wit of the modern raconteur.

Here is a story which illustrates this contention as applied to the famous admiral and which is being told down in circles Plymouthian:

Lord Charles on one occasion was breakfasting in a small hotel far out in the country, and accidentally he upset a cup of coffee over the clean white tablecloth which the good lady of the house had dug up from her most sacred linen cupboard for the benefit of the British admiral. Unfortunately the upsetting of the steaming coffee also upset the good lady's tempor, and she soundly rated Lord Charles for his want of tact.

"It's a good thing for you," she said, "that the coffee has not left much stain on my cloth."

"It was too weak, ma'am," replied the admiral. "You'll have to stain your coffee before you can expect to stain your table linen. Use more beans, ma'am; use more beans!"—London Answers.

GROWING UP

There's something the matter with the child that fails to grow up. A child that grows up too much, however, without proper filling out of flesh, is almost as badly off. Nothing will help these pale, thin "weedy" children like Scott's Emulsion. It supplies the rounding out of flesh and the rich inward nourishment of blood and vital organs which insures rapid growth a healthy and uniform development.

Doctor Pierce's Family Remedies are compounds of medicinal principles, scientifically extracted from native roots that cure the diseases for which they are recommended. They are medicines which have enjoyed the public confidence for over a third of a century. They are medicines not beverages, made to satisfy a craving for "booze."

"Golden Medical Discovery" regulates and invigorates stomach, liver and bowels, and cures dyspepsia, purifies the blood and tones up the system generally.

"Favorite Prescription" cures female weakness, irregularities, exhausting drains, painful periods and kindred ailments peculiar to women. Accept no substitute for these medicines, each of which has a record of marvelous cures. Substitution means selfishness on the part of the dealer who is looking for the greater profit on an inferior article.

"Our daughter who was attending college became very nervous and we were advised to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. M. O. Fox, of R. E. Leonard & Bro., Grand Rapids, Mich. "We did so and then you advised us to get the 'Golden Medical Discovery' also. She took four bottles of the 'Prescription' and three of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and you never saw such a change in a person. She said she did not feel like the same person. She was about seventeen years old at the time. I will gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to every one. I advise parents who have young daughters who suffer from nervous troubles to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription at once. I am sure it will help them."

DISTRICT GROUPS WERE ARRANGED

Peterboro', Lindsay, Markham and Port Perry Together

Junior District is Same as Last Year—Shaeffer was Suspended and Midland Club Cleared.

The new executive of the O.H.A. met Friday evening and did considerable business. The district group were arranged. Peterborough is in group No. 1, which will meet at Lindsay with C. N. Graham convenor. The teams comprising the district are:—

Peterborough, Lindsay, Port Perry and Markham.

Group No. 2 of the Junior series is as follows:—Belleville, Cobourg, Port Hope and Peterborough.

Harold Armstrong was given a permit to play with the Marlboros.

The case of Shaeffer, who is at present in Midland, was next discussed. A contract was shown which Schaeffer had signed to play in the "Soo". A receipt was also produced signed by Schaeffer acknowledging the receipt of $60 in advance on salary, and also a receipt for Schaeffer stating that if the "Soo" club would get his "release" he would go to the "Soo". Whitcroft's presence in Midland and his connection with the "Soo" was also questioned. Mr. Turner produced declarations from the officers of the Midland Club which completely exonerated the Midland Club from any connection with Schaeffer. A long discussion followed, in which the methods used by the Canadian "Soo" to procure players was severely criticized. Finally a motion was carried suspending Schaeffer and asking Whitcroft to show the cause why he should not be suspended or expelled.

OPENING OF CITY LEAGUE SEASON

First Games Will be Played on Thursday Night.

To-night the meeting of the City League Executive, will be held, when the final opportunity will be given to enter teams in the League. Players' certificates will likely be issued to-night. The first games in the series will be played on Thursday night, which will practically open the hockey season here.

The calibre of the players comprising the league is sufficient to guarantee a good quality of hockey in the City League this season, and there is no doubt that the graduates of this league will in future years qualify for places in the senior teams.

The prices for admission to the City League games, has been fixed by the executive, and will be 25c for gentlemen, 15c for ladies, and 10c for children, each evening, which will entitle the holder to see the two games for the one price of admission.

The meeting to-night will be held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall.

Charlotte Street Guild team will practise to-night on All Saints' Rink. All players are requested to meet at the Guild room at 7 o'clock sharp.

St. John's Guild hockey team will practice at All Saint's rink to-night from 7 to 8.

The Farriers will practice to-night at the Brock street rink from 10 to 11.

Midland and Lindsay will play an exhibition game at Lindsay to-night.

ROUSING MEETING ON SATURDAY NIGHT

speaker.) It did not, however, prove much embarrassment, as the people saw through the game, and the great prohibitionist, the then candidate, and his faithful henchmen, are both supporting the Conservative candidate, without a murmur; not a sound was heard from them, not a chirp in favour of prohibition or temperance. Several preachers last election were carried away by their enthusiasm and lack of judgment, for, as a matter of fact, he (Mr. Stratton) was as good a candidate, from a practical temperance standpoint, as the loud-professing Conservative candidate, for the Government of which he had been a member, was more closely associated with the temperance people than certainly was the Opposition, which was pledged against prohibition in any form. Then in the last campaign, (1902) there was a good deal of purity talk. Local instances might be given, of the failure of local Conservatives to live up to the high standard they set their political opponents in this particular regard. But he would not go into that now. While insinuations might be made as to the corruption of the Liberals, the people had only to look to Montreal where the most monumental scheme of political corruption had been attempted to be carried out in the interests of the Conservative party—a scheme compared to which the Pacific scandal was a commendable act—not a few dollars to a voter, but a huge scheme with millions behind it to buy up newspapers and a score of members of parliament in order to defeat the Liberals, and bring the Conservatives into power. It was a scheme that for systematic and studied crookedness, for deliberate wickedness and magnitude had scarcely a parallel in history. And what was behind the scheme? Why was it worked? Simply, it would appear, because the Liberal Premier wished to retain control of the construction of the Transcontinental Railway to save it from being the hunting ground for "grafters." If Sir Wilfrid Laurier could have been pushed aside the field would have been left clear to those concerned in the plot and their friends to recoup themselves for the big bribery fund they had expended by milking contracts that would not be defended with the offensive honesty with which they would be protected by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

GOOD ADMINISTRATION.

In Ontario we had had good administration of affairs. Our public institutions had been fairly well conducted. We were all human and mistakes would be made, but there had been a general desire in the administration of provincial affairs to do the best that could be done in the public interests. And this had been it was generally admitted, successful, and no serious attempt was made to visit the administrative record of the Government with hostile criticism. Ontario had the best system of institutions for the relief of the helpless such as the insane, the mentally weak—we had asylums for the insane, institutions for the weak minded, refuges for the depraved of the female sex, hospitals for epileptics, Schools for the deaf, dumb and blind, refuges for the destitute, in a word a system of charitable institutions, unequalled in extent and character according to population in any country in the world, and managed with an economy and effectiveness unsurpassed anywhere. The administration of our Crown domain was good. Our large timber areas were sold by public competition at prices which were not equalled, or even approached, in any other country. Our farmers' interests were being well looked after by a practical farmer at the head of the Agricultural Department and the recent triumphs won by the products of Canadian stock farmers were practical testimony to the care which the Government had exercised in promoting these interests.

The Government had been especially successful in its financial administration. The money of the people had been wisely and honestly expended. No charge had been, or could successfully be made, that the Government had been concerned in the expenditure of one single dollar corruptly in the course of thirty-two years. The carefulness of the public expenditure was shown by the fact that after the expenditure in the past thirty years of over one hundred million dollars, upon the maintenance in good condition of all the public services, this had been so carefully done that, without a single cent of direct taxation having been levied in that time, to-day there was a large surplus of assets over liabilities, of which nearly three millions was represented by cash in the banks to the credit of the province. The exact amount was $2,292,272, of which nearly a million, or $957,593, was added the past year. The interests of the most numerous and important class in the community — the labour element — had been industriously and effectively served. Legislation safe-guarding and promoting the interests of labour had been passed, and amended from time to time, as experience had shown the necessity. The same general commendation would properly apply to all the several branches of public administration. So that upon the score of administrative and legislative record, the Liberal Government was not open to successful attack, and the people would therefore be abundantly justified in extending them a renewal of confidence at the approaching elections.

ORGANIZATION NECESSARY.

In conclusion, Mr. Stratton pointed out the importance and necessity for success, of good organization. Registration was a very important matter and should receive prompt attention, for the time was not very far away. He trusted that an organization would be effected that would result in Mr. McWilliams' election by a handsome majority. It was pointed out that the success of a campaign largely depended upon a candidate. Every candidate had his separate individuality, and his own personal circle of friends, and it was the organization which the co-operation of these friends with a candidate made possible, which led to success. When he himself was a candidate he had been greatly helped by his friends. He was not vain enough to imagine that his personal popularity accounted for his success—it was the help of the friends who co-operated with him—not his strength, but the strength and hearty support of his friends. He was fortunate in possessing friends whose faithful and energetic work in presenting his claims and the claims of the Government he supported, and of which he was a member, to the judgment of the electors, that made for his success. They went into the contest with a good cause, and united effort would bring victory. He hoped that Mr. McWilliams' friends, and the friends of the Liberal party, would rally to his support, and insure his triumphant return.

FAREWELL TO MR. WM. FOSTER.

Members of C. G. E. Testing Staff Lose a Popular Member.

Gave Him a Pipe, on Saturday Night—An Interesting Feature of the Gathering.

On Saturday night the palm room of Mr. H. Long's restaurant was the scene of an interesting gathering, the occasion being the departure from town of Mr. W. Foster, a member of the staff of the C. G. E. Finishing Department of which he has been a member for about four years.

Fifteen of the seventeen members of that staff gathered to say farewell to Mr. Foster in a social way and to give him a tangeable proof of their esteem. Those who gathered around the festive board and partook of Mr. Long's excellent serving were Messrs. W. Foster, J. Lowes, W. Madill, A. Lang, E. A. Green, F. C. Post, W. E. Bell, W. Van Norman, W. Webster, Fairweather, Hatton, E. Hooker, C. Cannift, W. Borland, J. Forman.

After the supper a mock trial took place, in which Mr. Foster was charged with an attempt to leave the country. Mr. Green and Mr. Post were the legal lights who fought out the merits and demerits of the case, the former being the prosecuting lawyer and the latter defending the accused. A number of witnesses were called on both sides and the accused was finally acquitted of the charge and to emphasize his innocence, Mr. Green, his legal representative presented him with a pipe, which the recipient acknowledged in a short speech, in which he referred to his personal relations with the members of the staff.

Mr. Foster, who leaves in a short time for Geneva, N. Y., was also a member of St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild, and a valued player on the baseball team.

TEA AND CONCERT WAS A SUCCESS

Under Uuspices of Park Street Church Mission Band

Attendance was Large and Programme was Well Received—Secretary's Report.

The annual tea and concert of the Park Street Church Mission Band was held last Friday evening and was in every respect a most successful affair. There was a large attendance and the proceedings were most enjoyable. Tea was served from 6 to 7.30 o'clock and at 8 o'clock a programme was presented. Rev. A. J. Brace was in the chair. The programme was thoroughly enjoyed and encores were frequently responded to. The numbers were as follows:—

During the evening the Secretary's report was presented as follows:—

"Once more the time has come round for our annual report, and as it returns, each year, we find ever increasing cause for thankfulness to God, for his great goodness and kindness to us as a band. The work has gone steadily on, and a deeper interest is being manifested in the work than ever before.

Our meetings which are held on the first Sunday in the month at four o'clock have been both interesting and profitable, subjects taken up having related to our work both at home and abroad. We have 76 members on our roll, with an average attendance of 50. We find at close of this year that we have had quite an improvement over the previous year, both in attendance, and in the promptitude with which the fees have been paid.

In June the Peterborough Association held their annual convention at Belleville and we were able to send a delegate to represent the Park Street Band.

On September 1st our Band and Women's Mission Circle, held their picnic in Jackson's Park, but it did not prove as successful as last year as the weather was damp and showery.

During the year we have suffered the loss of several valued and useful members. Mr. Herbert Fair, who has removed to Toronto; Miss Annie Brace, whose marriage in September was an item of interest to all, but proved a great loss to our Band. In October we also lost our vice-president, Miss E. Mowry, who is now in training at Nicholls Hospital for a nurse, and so is unable to attend. We feel this loss very deeply as Miss Mowry's heart and hand have ever been ready for the work at Park Street.

Amount of cash on hand at beginning of year	$12.30
Amount of fees for year	13 51
Totals	$25 81
Amount sent to Foreign Missions	$ 12
To Home Missions	3 62
Expenditures for year	3 72
Total	$20 56
Leaving balance on hand of	$ 5 25

The election of officers for the ensuing year was postponed till the first week in January.

We feel thankful to God for what has been accomplished during the past year, and for the spirit of earnestness, enthusiasm, and interest that has been instilled into the heart of each member for missionary work, and so the coming year, we hopefully enter, praying it will be one of zealous work and more earnest prayer on every hand, and in closing the Band wish you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

N. HUDSON,
Secretary.

The who's affair was a great success and the Mission Band is to be congratulated upon its undertaking.

AN APPEAL TO THE MAYOR

An Army Well-wisher Asks His Worship to Order Investigation.

An "Army Well-Wisher" has addressed the following open letter to Mr. G. M. Roger, Mayor:—

Peterborough, Dec. 19th ,1904.

To Mr. G. M. Roger, Mayor:

Dear Sir,—In the daily press some time ago, there was a communication from Mr. M. T. Butcher, in reference to mismanagement of collecting of money in aid of the S. A. Band, also to incorrect statements rendered. This, to my mind, is something of a very serious nature, and demands a thorough investigation. In our town, the Army, by most all classes is looked upon as an agency for good. Mr. M. T. Butcher is a man who has lived in our midst some twenty-three years, and has been a member of the Army for some fifteen years, and their treasurer for about thirteen years consecutively, and has been always regarded as a trusted local officer. Mr. Thos. Laing, the late secretary of the Army, is a man of reliability, and capability as a man and as a bookkeeper. Mr. B. Payne, late chief local officer of the corps, is a respected honoured and trustworthy soldier of quite a number of years. The fact of these three local officers not being able to accept the statements rendered of monies collected from the town, other towns and places of this county and other counties; makes it very important, that the S. A. Band finances and accounts should be properly investigated. Mr. M. T. Butcher has endeavoured to persuade the proper authorities to have a thorough investigation, but thus far has failed to do so. I understand that Mr. M. T. Butcher was dismissed from office, while seeking to have the Band accounts properly looked into, and that the secretary was compelled to resign his position. Surely there ought to be no hesitancy on the part of the proper authorities of the S. A. to have this matter looked into, seeing the men who object or cannot accept statements rendered are men of honour and good standing. I feel quite satisfied that there has been quite a falling off of contributors in aid of the Army here, on account of doubt existing in the minds of many that Army accounts are not properly kept. Seeing our town council, with you as its honoured head, contribute to the maintenance of the Band, and, you as our chief municipal officer, are desirous of our citizens each having justice; and the fact that you are supposed to study the best interests of all; I do here humbly pray, that you for the good of all concerned, do officially ask the proper S. A. authorities to have this Band finance difficulty thoroughly investigated and a proper and complete statement of the Band accounts given to the public.

AN ARMY WELL-WISHER.

HEAVEN A REST HAVEN

Interesting Sermon on This Subject in St. Luke's

Many Content With Merely a Desire to Reach it—A Haven of Rest, to the Christian.

"Heaven" was the subject of Rev. E. A. Langfeldt's sermon last night in St. Luke's church, and his text, Psalms 107; 30,—"He bringeth them unto their desired haven." The speaker compared a Christian entering Heaven to a ship returning after a long and dangerous sea voyage, with sails torn and masts gone, and evident marks of a rough passage, but to those on board, all the hardships are forgotten in the joy of reaching the harbour, and of the expectation of meeting their friends and loved ones.

It is the same with the Christian. While his journey in life may have been a hard one to travel, though temptation and trial may have been frequent incidents to his travel through life, all these are forgotten, and though he may bear the marks, his heart is glad at the prospect of entering into rest in his desired haven.

The speaker inclined to the belief that Heaven would be just what the Christian made it by his life here. It could not be expected that a person could live a sinful life to almost the end of his life, and then have his life changed in an instant. He might be saved and enter Heaven, but his enjoyment there would be greatly diminished by the fact that during his whole life his desires had been directly opposite to those of the Christian.

There are many, said the reverend gentlmen, who are content with a desire to reach Heaven, but beyond entertaining this desire they do nothing towards attaining the object of their desire. Then there are others who have no desire even in that direction, their whole thought and ambition being centred on earthly things.

The speaker urged his hearers to live so that they would not only reach Heaven, but that they would fully enjoy the pleasures of God's presence.

Mr. Sutcliffe sang at the close of the sermon, "A Dream of Paradise."

Sleighing is Here.

CHRISTMAS PREPARATIONS.

How Peterborough Stores are Ready for the Holiday.

Some Attractive Window Fronts—Suggestions for Christmas Gifts.

That we are in the midst of the Christmas tide has this week dawned upon the public, and the result is that every store in which any pretense of selling Christmas gifts is made, is literally crowded with Christmas shoppers, who are engaged in the all important question of what to give.

The Christmas trade this year up to the present has not, as a general thing, been up to the mark of that of last year, to the present date, the reasons for which are a combination of circumstances. Last year the crops of the farmers in this vicinity, as in fact of those in every part of Ontario, were exceptionally good, and as a consequence they had plenty of money to spend. But this year the farmers, while they have no great cause for complaint, are not in quite as good a position as they were a year ago. Then it will be remembered that last year the winter season started early in November, and there was good sleighing almost a month earlier than this year. It is a fact, which every merchant who deals with farmers knows, that business in that line is always more satisfactory in the winter season when there is good sleighing, so that it is not to be wondered at that with the light snow falls of this winter, which have scarcely yet been sufficient to make good sleighing, the trade from the country should not have been as good as it was in 1903, but there is time yet to restore the balance in favour of this year.

However, whatever may be the cause, the fact remains that the majority of the merchants are finding that the Christmas trade this year has not been up to that of last year. There are, of course, some exceptions to this general rule one merchant informing the Examiner that his trade had been in excess of that of last Christmas season to date.

Christmas Preparations.

The merchants of Peterborough are noted for nothing if not for their progressiveness, and the preparations that have been made for Christmas by them this year, are ample evidence of this progressiveness. Never have the stores looked as gay as they do at present, and it would be hard indeed for one not to be able to make a selection for a Christmas gift, no matter in what line the taste might lie.

The beauty of the stores' interiors has been reflected very creditably in the window displays that have been made, and in no city can more beautifully decorated show windows be found than in Peterborough.

This special effort has been confined to no particular line, the entire business section of the town presenting a scene of beauty, and one which reflects great credit on the artists who designed the beautiful windows. The goods have been arranged in such an attractive way that they create a desire to possess them, where no desire existed before, which is the true art of salesmanship.

Dry Goods' Displays.

The dry goods stores have perhaps devoted more time and attention to Christmas decorations, than the other lines, and that the ladies of Peterborough have appreciated their efforts is evidenced by the fascination which the windows have for them.

Among those who have made special Christmas displays, and which are conspicuous for their beauty, are:—Messrs. J. C. Turnbull, J. Sutcliffe & Sons, Robt. Fair, A. W. Cressman & Co, T. H. Adams, A. G. Dickson, B. Y. Moyse, The Beehive, Port Hope Knitting Works, Richard Hall & Son, Miss Delaney, B. Laster, The Singer Supply Co., M. Engel.

The Popular Jewelers.

Jewellery seems to have a special fascination for the seekers of Christmas gifts, as it also has for the recipients of the same, and the local jewellers have anticipated this desire for the preparations made this year surpass those of previous years. Messrs. F. S. Schneider, Alex. Gibson, W. A. Sanderson & Co., R. J. Frost and C. S. McClelland each have window displays, of which they might well be proud, and the effectiveness of which will doubtless be amply manifested in the volume of trade.

Fur Gifts.

Furs are also another popular line of holiday gifts, and the Peterborough furriers have become famous for the good quality and exquisite style of their goods, and as a result the local fur stores of Messrs. W. Lech & Sons, F. A. Clark and Thos. Barrie & Co., have done and are doing, this week, a splendid trade.

Shoes for Christmas.

There are many who believe in giving gifts combining usefulness with the ornamental features, and to these persons shoes suggest themselves as being about the thing. The shoe stores in town, the proprietors of which are alive to the Christmas possibilities are those of Messrs. R. Neil, R. W. McWhinnie, J. T. Stenson, Douglass Shoe Store, J. Kylie, J. Carey.

Eatable Dainties.

Everyone associates Christmas with good things to eat, and of course the grocery stores come into the reckoning in this connection, as do also the confectioners and fruit dealers. All of whom including Messrs. E. F. Mason & Co., (two stores) W. H. Hamilton, P. Chanal & Son, R. A. Detton, The Henry Co., W. C. Forman, White & Gillespie, J. Buck, F. Mitchell, E. Brown & Co., Walter & Co., J. B. Bell, J. Sutherland, G. Carton, D. Kennedy, H. Lang, Jas. Long, Thos. Hooper, (two stores) H. E. Hawley & Son, W. Jobe, L. Potvin, S. & Oke, have made special attractions for the trade which they expected to obtain.

Fancy Notions.

The array of what might be termed fancy goods, such as may be found in drug stores, fancy goods stores, book and stationery stores, is almost endless, and the following merchants are to be commended for the splendid displays made: Messrs. W. Madill, J. D. Tully, H. S. MacDonald, H. H. Edmison, J. Nugent, J. Lynch, Ormond & Walsh, W. B. Warne, A. M. Stratton & Co., The Fair, C. B. Routley, Ten Cent Store, Knitting Works, Mrs. Byrnes, B. Shortly, China Hall.

Clothing Wants.

To many a boy and man, Christmas means a new suit of clothes, overcoat, or some other smaller, but equally necessary part of the wardrobe, and to those who wish to make use of this medium, the following stores have prepared for this event; Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co, Lang & Maher, Tully, Merrell & Meredith, Grafton & Co., A. W. Cressman & Co.

For Smokers

Nearly every man smokes, and consequently a box of cigars or a nice pipe, is appreciated by them, and the following firms are ready to supply those who wish them: Messrs. LeGros & Co., W. Talbot, W. O'Brien and Sam Ray.

A Boy's Ambition

At a certain stage in nearly every boy's life, his greatest ambition is to possess a pair of skates, and knowing this intense ambition the local hardware stores have laid in a good supply of that commodity, as well as other hardware articles which make appreciated gifts. Those who have made their preparations are:—the Kingan Hardware Co., Peterborough Hardware Co., Best Stove Co., W. Higgins, Adam Hall, Adamson & Dobbin.

Christmas meats form an important part of a Yule-tide bill of fare, and the local dealers in this line of merchandise have during the past week been sending out literally tons of good things. Those who have been sharing in this trade are: H. P. Kennedy, Geo. Matthews & Co., W. G. Howden, J. J. Howden.

With such an array of stores anxious to serve the Christmas buyers, no difficulty should be experienced in enjoying the Christmas cheer.

WAS MARRIED IN VERMONT

A Son of Mr. Richard Chowen, of Peterborough.

The Ludlow Vermont, "Tribune," of Friday, Dec. 16th, has the following account of the wedding of Mr. Bruce Chowen, a son of Mr. Richard Chowen, of Peterborough:

"At eight o'clock Saturday evening, Dec. 3rd, there was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Martin, of Ludlow, a very pretty home wedding. The contracting parties were Bruce Chowen, of Peterborough, Ontario, and Sarah Mabel Carlisle, of Tyson. Rev. W. E. Allen, of the Methodist Episcopal church officiated. The nuptials were witnessed by only a few of the immediate relatives and friends of the parties concerned. The bride was prettily gowned in a suit of grey Louisine silk. Immediately following the ceremony a small reception was given with a wedding dinner. After a trip to Ontario they will reside in Ludlow where Mr. Chowen has employment.

SUICIDE OF RETIRED FARMER.

Mr. W. H. Mitchell, of Omemee Found Hanging to a Tree.

Despondent, and Took His Own Life, Yesterday—Sad Circumstances.

(Special to the Examiner)

Omemee, Ont., Dec. 20.—W. H. Mitchell, a retired farmer, of middle age, of this place did not return home as usual from Burton McQuade's swamp, where he had been cutting wood. His family becoming alarmed sent out a searching party who found Mitchell hanging to a tree. Mitchell must have hanged himself shortly after reaching the swamp, as his body was partly frozen when found. It is supposed that his mind was unhinged as he had been very despondent of late, though there was no reason for this, as he was in fairly good circumstances.

DEATH CAUSED BY SLATE PENCIL

Sad Happening in the Home of Mr. Norman Gainer.

Harold Gainer, the six-year-old son of Mr. Norman Gainer, of Otonabee, met with an accident yesterday which caused his death. He fell on a slate pencil which he was holding and the pencil entered the nostril to such an extent as to cause death. It is supposed that it reached the brain or its vicinity through the frontal sinus, a circumstance which anatomists say is possible. At any rate death resulted.

A BOOM FOR CANADA.

The Mail refers to the "iniquitous guarantee of the Algoma Central $2,000,000 bond issue," and insinuates that in giving this guarantee the local government committed a dreadful wrong.

The Lake Superior corporation, after the disastrous failure of the Clergue syndicate, raised the funds which enabled it to re-open the Soo industries. It asked for the guarantee of the local government, and the government but gave it with the concurence of the legislature. Without this concurrence there was no immediate prospect of the revival of trade, and the depression at the Soo was very great. It will be remembered that the government had to come to the relief of the workingmen, to whom the company owed wages, protected by the Algoma Central railway subsidy.

The resumption of business, largely through the aid and encouragement of the local government, has been of great advantage. The rail mills got incidental protection in the imposts of the Federal Govrenment upon the imported article. The Canadian Pacific railway, through its president, protested, on the ground that the Canadian rails had not been tested, and that to confine Canadian supply to the Soo might lead to embarrassing results.

The news, that the C.P.R. has had its doubts removed—that it referred the point of quality to a competent judge and that this judge proaounced the Soo's rails as good as any that were made—is very welcome indeed. The president of the great railway is so well satisfied that he has ordered 25,000 tons of 80-lb. rails, for immediate delivery, and this will put new life into the work of the Algoma Steel Company. This is but the beginning of great prosperity in the rail business. The large railway building that is now contemplated in Canada means great development and unlimited prosperity for the mills at Sault Ste. Marie.—Whig.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A valued correspondent sends the Hamilton Times these very apt lines on the Toronto News "political wisdom": "Strange cure for corruption proposed by Toronto News. Liberals and Conservatives, it said, in yesterday's issue, are equally guilty of corruption and should be taught a lesson. So far, fair; but what of the fairness of the lesson it suggests? Liberals, it says should be cured by being disgraced and turned out of power, and the Conservatives by being honoured and placed in power!" of course that would suit the News, but fair-minded men can hardly be expected to see it through the News' glasses."

A GOOD RECORD

Accentuated by a Good Policy

Hon. A. G. McKay, Commissioner of Crown Lands, speaking at a Liberal mass meeting at Woodstock on Saturday, is reported, in part, as follows:—

He spoke hopefully of the Liberal prospects, which were daily growing brighter, and, in discussing the record of the Government, pointed out that Ontario on Thursday last had a cash balance in the banks of the province of $2,952,972. This, contrasted with Quebec's indebtedness of twenty-two millions, was a splendid showing. Touching New Ontario, and illustrating the immense benefits accruing from the Government's railway under construction through the Temiskaming country, he pointed out that timber rendered almost valueless because of its location, had, since the railway was projected, brought $30,500 per mile. Valuable silver, nickel and cobalt mines had been opened up by the railway, and one of four cars of silver ore shipped the other day to New York had netted $37,000, or about $2,000 per ton.

THE RIGHTS OF THE SETTLER.

Mr. McKay especially emphasized the projected policy of the Government with reference to the settler, the miner and the lumberman. A sharp line of distinction should be drawn between lands fitted for agriculture and lands naturally adapted to timber. They could afford now, at least, on this side of the height of land, and in all unorganized districts, to closely follow the convention's resolution reserving each district for what it was fitted; and the settler as soon as located could get all the timber, other than pine, and could get the pine just so soon as the settlement duties were performed and the patent issued. Then the minerals would also be the settler's, so that he would get all on the land, in the air above, and the water beneath. (Applause.) These are important advances, sweeping advances, perhaps, but quite possible, without interfering with the vested rights of the lumberman. The miner, too, would have greater scope, and the prospector every advantage possible. Business would be facilitated by the opening up of more mining agencies, where up-to-date information and monthly reports would be available. He dwelt on the necessity of reforesting both in old and New Ontario. Twenty per cent. of the farm lands in older Ontario should be timbered. He said that the prevalent cause of droughts — from one of which sections of Ontario were at present suffering—was the —the wiping out of the original forest. He predicted that if twenty per cent. of the land were reforested —as he hoped it would be in a few years—they would get more crop from the remaining eighty acres, than from one hundred at present.

Before concluding, Mr. McKay referred to the hospital for epileptics, at present being built in Oxford, and on which $70,000 had already been expended. Two cottages and the administration building were nearing completion, and the plans called for six cottages in all, with accommodation for thirty patients each. Oxford had also taken advantage of the Government's good roads act, and $25,678.16 had been set apart for the use of the county. The toll roads had been purchased, the Government paying one-third the cost, or $17,678. The remaining $8,000 would be paid over to the county from time to time as road improvements are made. (Applause.)

ERNEST HOOLEY A FREE MAN.

Man Connected With Sapphire Corundum Mine Acquitted.

A Case of Great Local Interest—His Partner Lawson Guilty.

A despatch from London says that Ernest Terah Hooley, the world-famous promoter, whose spectacular promotions of stock concerns at last brought about his arrest on charges of obtaining money by false representations, was acquitted to-day in the Central Criminal Court after a trial lasting three weeks. Henry John Lawson, Hooley's associate in many weird business ventures, was found guilty on a similar charge and sentenced to a year's imprisonment at hard labour.

Hooley and Lawson were arrested early last May, and at the time there were hundreds ready to tell the courts that the two had conspired to defraud them out of their hard-earned cash. More than half a hundred peers and 130 members of the House of Commons figured as stockholders in the companies that had been promoted and floated by Hooley and Lawson.

Hooley was really the chief of the two figures. Up to June, 1898, he was conceded to be the master hand at the art of promoting companies in all England. His fortune was reckoned far up in the millions. Dukes, lords and princelings fell over each other in the scramble to get in on the ground floors of his bubble schemes. He was floating companies with dazzling rapidity.

In June, 1898, the British financial world was startled by the report that a receiving order in bankruptcy had been issued against Hooley, and then began a disorderly scramble to get out of his companies. In the stampede could be counted all grades of the British nobility. Some of them figured prominently in the directorates of the Hooley concerns. Up to the time of the crash Hooley was living a sort of Count of Monte Cristo life. He was buying yachts, jewels, race horses and country seats.

Hooley comes from a family of lace makers of Nottingham, and inherited a considerable fortune from his mother. With this he engaged in the brokerage business, and from the first was successful. Then he outgrew Nottingham, moved on London and got in with the nobility.

Facial Paralysis.

Mr. W. J. Brennan, Western Hill, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "My face was twisted all out of shape by facial paralysis, and five doctors failed to cure or even relieve. By the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I have been entirely cured and have returned to work well and strong. I have gained in weight and feel that I have a new lease of life.

APPRECIATION.

The Toronto correspondent of the Canadian Deaf and Mute, writing to that journal says:—

"On the 3rd the Brigden Literary Society was opened by the President, Mr. G. Reeves. He gave a short address on the Hon. Mr. Stratton and his efforts for the welfare of the deaf. He mentioned the fact that we ought to be thankful to the Hon. Mr. Stratton as it was through his efforts thatt he Belleville School and the Institution for the Blind at Brantford was put under the Educational Department, and since it must have caused some exertion on his part, we are grateful and thank him. His efforts in some measure might be repaid by recalling at the next convention at Belleville what he did for the deaf."

An excellent programme arranged by the Model Class and the Third form of the High School which was very much enjoyed at the town hall on Friday evening Mrs. John Davidson, Miss A. Stinson, Miss N. Heenan, Miss L. Smith, Mr. Joe Smith, Dr. Patterson, contributed to the programme. A sand drill given by the young ladies was very pretty and unique. During the evening an address was read by Miss Mary Mathen and a gold watch chain presented to Mr. R. H. Leighton, Model School teacher, of his companies. The address was as follows:—

Dear Mr. Leighton,—It is with feelings of the deepest regret that we the Model students of 1904, assemble here to-night to bid you, dear teacher, farewell. Since our entrance to Mode you have endeavoured in every way to advance our interests. You and the assistant teachers have indeed made our model term such that it will always be remembered in years to come as one of the most important periods in our lives. Although we have known you but four short months, you have endeared yourself to us by your untiring efforts and zeal. The work, which being new to us, we found difficult, was made clear and interesting; not less by your kindness and patience than by your skilful teaching.

Our feeble efforts that seemed to us almost in vain were encouraged and strengthened by your kind advice and admirable example. In all our associations with you in and out of school, we have found in you rather a friend than a master.

As a slight token of our appreciation of your kind endeavours and sympathy we beg you to accept this chain and sincerely hope that in the golden chain of memory we may be regarded as a link.

We are now going forth in the world to fight life's battles and to mould character; our mission is indeed an important one, as on us depends the future of many lives. So our wishes are that you may have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, not only for this, but for many years to come. We regret that we must add "good-bye" but

Like as a plank of driftwood,
Tossed on the watery main,
Other planks encounter,
Meets, touches, and parts again,

So 'tis with us forever,
On life's uncertain sea
We meet, we greet, we sever,
Drifting eternally,

Signed on behalf of the Model Class,
J. PARKER
N. Murphy
V. LAUGHL

Mr. Leighton replied in a few well-chosen words.

Mr. John Parker was valedictorian; having come out head in teaching. The valedictory was most excellent, both in thought and phraseology.

The proceeds went to assist in paying for the High School piano.

3 TOTALLY WRECKED

Sixteen Other Vessels Damaged in the Gale of Sunday.

ONE CREW OF 10 MAY BE LOST

No Known Fatality, But Fears Are Entertained That the Crew of the New Jersey Schooner Richard S. Leaming Have Gone Down With Their Vessel—List of the Disasters Reported.

Woodhall, Mass., Dec. 20.—Sunday's gale off the southeastern New England coast left in its wake, according to reports received here late last night, three vessels totally wrecked, 16 damaged and five with lost anchors. No known fatality has been reported, but it is feared that the entire crew of the New Jersey schooner Richard S. Leaming which was wrecked on Long Shoal, Nantucket Sound, has been lost. The crew probably numbered 10 men.

On land the only serious effect of the storm was the almost complete prostration of telegraph and telephone wires on Cape Cod and Martha's Vineyard.

Last night for the first time since the storm broke telegraphic communication between this port and Boston was re-established. East and south of here the wires were still down last night. The list of known shipping disasters follow: Totally wrecked—Schooners Richard S. Leaming of Dennisville, N.J., on Long Shoal, Nantucket Sound; George B. Ferguson, of Belfast, Me., on Nantucket Island; barge Albertus of New York, on Fisher's Island. Ashore at Vineyard Haven—Schooners Loduskia Franconia, Flyaway and Rothesay (British).

Damaged by collision at Vineyard Haven—Schooners John J. Perry, D. J. Melanson, Eva May, Rhoda Holmes, Hortensia, A. Heaton, Frank and Ira (British), Edna, Ella, M. Mitchell).

Anchors lost—Schooners Otis Miller, Mary Lee Newton, Kolon, Frank Barnett and Eva B. Hall.

At Monomoy Point, damaged, Eliza Jane.

Tug Lackawanna disabled at Vineyard Haven.

Sixty Men Lose.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 20.—Several schooners belonging on this island and which were driven off by the gale of Sunday, Dec. 11, are still unreported. The vessels carried a total of 60 men. It is feared they have been lost. The schooner Klondyke, which went ashore on Cape St. Mary's Sunday, is a total wreck. Her crew is safe.

Walked in Front of Trolley.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—David George Stevenson of Schomberg is in the Toronto General Hospital unconscious and near to death. Yesterday afternoon he attempted to cross the Metropolitan Railway tracks, near Lansing, about six miles up Yonge street, while car 51, southbound, was close upon him. Motorman Percy Stone made heroic efforts to stop his car, but the distance was too short. The unfortunate man was struck and thrown clear of the track. He was picked up insensible and the car hurried him to the C.P.R. crossing and the police ambulance conveyed him to the hospital. At a late hour Stevenson had not recovered consciousness, and it was stated that only slight hopes were held out for his recovery. He is about 50 years of age.

No Poison Here.

Embro, Dec. 20.—The Bowerman case, which has been before the Public for the last month, was closed Saturday night by the jury's verdict of death from natural causes. Word was received from Dr. Ellis of Toronto by Dr. Sutherland on Thursday evening and the inquest was called for Friday night in Dr. Adams' office. The jury were all present, and after hearing that Dr. Ellis found no poison of any kind or other substance which would likely cause death, in the stomach, and death was due to brain trouble, they brought in a verdict to the effect that death was due to natural causes

Everybody Satisfied.

Montreal, Dec. 20.—The negotiations between the O.R.R. telegraphers and the management of the company, which have been going on for some weeks, have been satisfactorily terminated, and the outside officials of the O.R.T. left for their homes Saturday night. The only information obtainable respecting the terms of settlement is that concessions were made by both sides. The men demanded, among other things, a 10 per cent. increase in wages.

Both Elected.

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 20.—Yesterday was Declaration Day in King and Prince Counties, P.E.I. It was found that McEwan and Premier Peters were ties, and the returning officer declared both elected. If the scrutiny does not give the seat to either before the House meets it will then come up for discussion. Such a contingency has never risen before in this province, and there is no legislation to meet it.

Mrs. Congdon Honored.

Dawson, Dec. 20.—Mrs. F. T. Congdon, wife of the retiring Commissioner of Yukon Territory, was honored Sunday by the presentation to her by a number of American ladies of Dawson of a dainty bracelet, done in links and small nuggets of native gold. The presentation was made at the home of Mrs. E. S. Orr.

Little Girl Burned.

Thornhill, Man., Dec. 20.—The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank was burned to death by her clothes being ignited by a spark from the stove during the few minutes her parents were absent from the house yesterday.

Lucky Laborer.

A laborer has picked up what is believed to be a genuine "Stradi" at a sale at Holme Eden, near Carlisle. Stringless, bridgeless, pegless and covered with dust and cobwebs, it was knocked down to him for 6 shillings. He knew something of the value of fiddles, however, and disposed of his purchase to a dealer for £600. The dealer, it is said, has now sold the fiddle for £1,600. The violin is believed to be a "Strad" which has been missing for at least a century and has at different times been thought to be in London, France, Germany and America.

AFFAIRS IN WEST ARE PROSPERING

Mr. Gus Hay has Returned From Trip to the Coast

Visited Many Important Centres on a Business Trip—Things are Flourishing Generally.

Mr. Gus L. Hay returned last night from a month's business trip to the Pacific Coast. He was greatly delighted with the trip and with the country in the West, which he states is full of opportunities for young men and is going ahead with remarkable rapidity.

Mr. Hay left Peterborough on November 20th, and went to Vancouver via Chicago, reaching the Coast on the 26th. He spent a day at Vancouver before going to the Okanagan Valley where he remained a few days. At Arrowhead he had business to transact in connection with the Big Bend Lumber Company, which has its headquarters at this town. The lumber mills are running busily and trade is quite brisk at present. Mr. Hay spent three days at Calgary where he had business in connection with the Cordage Company. Of all the towns and cities which he visited, Mr. Hay was most highly impressed with Calgary from many standpoints. The population which is now about 11,000 is rapidly growing and though houses are being constructed with all haste, the influx of people is so great that it is difficult to find house accommodation. Quite a number were living in tents until better dwelling places could be secured. The buildings there were remarkable for their size and beauty, and in fact this excellence of structure was noticed in many of the western towns and cities. Calgary seemed to provide very many opportunities for young men, and everywhere were signs of boom and prosperity. Calgary is a distributing centre and the fact of this combined with its lumber trade and ranching possibilities will insure future growth.

Mr. Hay spent a few days in Winnipeg where he met several ex-Peterborough boys who were all doing well.

The weather was most delightful throughout the trip. The roses were a-bloom in the gardens at Vancouver and it was only upon reaching Winnipeg that the weather was such as to cause one to require wearing an overcoat. At Calgary, which is many miles north of Peterborough there is practically no snow throughout the year, and no sleighing. The thermometer had reached as far as 32 degrees below zero in Winnipeg.

There has been a great influx of farmers from Minnesota to the west this fall, and many more are expected in the spring. They are all well-to-do farmers and should make good citizens. The crops in Minnesota have during the past two years—and especially last year—been very poor, and this has to a great extent been the cause of the exodus of farmers from that State. The rust of last year had such an effect that in many districts the crops were not worth the cutting. The new settlers are buying land chiefly between Swift Current and Calgary.

The farmers in the west, however, seem, as a rule, to be well satisfied with their crops this year, and it was the general opinion that the rust reports were greatly exaggerated.

ENGAGEMENT IS NOT PERMAMENT.

Rev. Mr. Ketchen is not yet Rev. J. A. Wilson's Successor.

Notwithstanding Reports Persistently Published to This Effect.

There seems to be some little misunderstanding in regard to the relations of Rev. H.B.A. Ketchen to the congregation of St. Paul's church. Notwithstanding repeated statements published in other columns than the Examiner, Rev. Mr. Ketchen has made no definite engagement with St. Paul's congregation. It is a distinct understanding between him and the church officials that he is merely doing temporary duty, and both he and the church officials also distinctly understand that they are respectively free to make any engagements which commend themselves to either. Still the congregation is in hopes that Mr. Ketchen may consent to a permanent engagement, something which it is understodd he at present, at all events, declines to do.

BORNE TO THE TOMB

Funeral of the late R. B. McKee Took Place This Afternoon.

The funeral of the late R. B. McKee took place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from his late place of residence, corner Rubidge and Charlotte street to Little Lake Cemetery. The funeral cortege was a very long one. The service at the house was conducted by Rev. J. G. Potter and Rev. Dr. Torrance. The floral tributes to the memory of the deceased were very beautiful. The pall bearers were Hon. J. R. Stratton, Messrs. D. J. Lundy, Thos. Fortye, R. Hall, W. Snowden, H. LeBrun.

Among those who attended the funeral from outside points were Messrs. W. O'Brien and McCartney, Millbrook; Chas. Smith, C. B. Owen, Campbellford; A. J. Wood, of the Montreal Rolling Mills; Pentland, Collingwood; J. Walker, hardware merchant, Belleville.

SUNDAY MUSIC IN THE CHURCHES

Some Special Musical Numbers on Sunday.

At the George street church on Sunday morning the choir sang "The Peace of God," Miss B. Parnell taking the solo with much acceptance. At the evening service the anthem was, "The King of Love," Mr. Cunningham taking the bass solo.

At St. John's church on Sunday evening the choir gave a most effective rendition of "Sun of My Soul," Miss Marguerite Sawers taking the soprano solo in excellent voice.

At the Charlotte street church, Sunday morning, the anthem was "Christian, the Morn Breaks Sweetly Over Thee," with soprano and bartone solo and duet parts. During the offertory Mr. R. N. Jolliffe sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." At the evening service the choir sang with good effect "Sun of My Soul," Miss Belleghem and Mr. Breininger taking the soprano and tenor solos. The male quartette sang "The Night of Rest," and during the offertory Miss Belleghem and Miss Irene Gray sang "My Mother's Bible," in a most enjoyable manner.

At the morning service, the pastor, Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, made feeling reference to the death of Mr. Aaron Cox, who was a valued member of the congregation.

ST. LUKE'S.

The Rector has appealed to the congregation to enable him to give Christmas cheer to the poor of the congregation by contributing either money or victuals for distribution on Christmas Eve. These contributions are to be sent to the Rectory before Saturday.

Special music is being prepared by the choir for the Christmas services.

There will be celebrations of the Holy Communion at St. Luke's next Sunday morning at 7, 8, and 11 o'clock.

THE APPEAL DISMISSED

In Cases of Finn vs. Brown and Vassar vs. Brown.

Toronto daily papers on Saturday contained references to a local legal case as follows:—

Finn vs. Brown; Vassar vs. Brown.—Judgment (G.A.B.) on appeal by defendants Brown and Aylmer from judgment of Meredith, C. J., (3 O.W.R. 4) 6, in favor of plaintiff Finn for $1,400 damages, and in favour of plaintiff Vassar for $400 damages for injuries sustained owing to alleged negligence of appellants, who were contractors for the construction of a section of the Trent Valley Canal, in leaving open and unguarded an excavation in a highway in the township of Thorah, into which plaintiffs, who were driving from Beaverton to Kirkfield on a dark night, fell and were injured. The appellants had the right to divert the highway and had done so, and the excavation was in the part of the original highway, which was not intended to be used. Held, that the appellants were bound to take proper precautions to prevent persons from travelling along the old way, and that, as there was no fence or barrier at the point of diversion they were liable for the injuries to plaintiffs. Held also, that the trial Judge's finding that the injuries to plaintiffs were not caused by their own carelessness or intoxication was supported by the evidence, and that the damages were not excessive. Appeal dismissed with costs. E. B. Edwards, K.C., for appellants; A. B. Aylesworth, K.C., for plaintiffs.

H. W. KENT STILL HUSTLING IN B. C

Successful Completion of a Long Distance Telephone System.

The Victoria (B.C.,) Daily Colonist, has the following, which shows that our old friend, "Herb" Kent, is still successfully "hustling" on the Pacific slope:

"This morning you can talk over the 'phone to your friends in Vancouver, New Westminster or Bellingham. After months of anxious work, General Superintendent Herbert W. Kent, of the telephone company, had the satisfaction last evening of talking with ease and comfort to people in those cities, and the line is open for business this morning. To talk to Vancouver will cost fifty cents for one minute and for each additional fifteen seconds the charge is ten cents."

Then follows a description of the system, which seems to be admirable, and a record of telephonic congratulations showered upon Mr. Kent by prominent citizens of the cities with which his system had made connections.

Come with the crowd to Mason's for Xmas Novelties and Decorations—Beautiful Table Plants and Ferns in great variety; Roses and Carnations and Lily of Valley; Violets, the choicest of cut flowers. Christmas Wreathing and Holly, in any quantity, at Mason's stores, 440 Water and 308 1-2 George Street.

P.S.—You are invited to come and visit the conservatories and see the large aquarium at 440 Water street.

FOUR NOMINATED AT BRIDGENORTH.

County Council Nominations Held There Yesterday.

Candidates, Messrs. Crough, Costello, Stinson and Garbutt—Addresses of the Candidates.

The nominations for County Councillor for the second division, including the Townships of Smith, Ennismore and North Monaghan, were held yesterday at the Bridgenorth Town Hall, when the following gentlemen were placed in nomination:

Paul Costello, of the township of Ennismore, proposed by John O'Reilly, seconded by J. J. Lynch.

Samuel Stinson, of the township of Smith, proposed by G. A. Moncrief, seconded by T. M. Hunter.

T. M. Hunter, of the township of North Monaghan, proposed by Paul Costello, seconded by Wm. Pethick.

William Crough, of the township of Ennismore, proposed by Samuel Kilcln, seconded by Peter D. Clancy.

Henry Garbutt of the township of Smith, proposed by Joseph Milburn, seconded by Milson Blewett.

Mr. T. M. Hunter resigned.

A large number of the ratepayers of Ennismore, and a fair representation of the township of Smith, attended. There were none of the ratepayers of North Monaghan present excepting Mr. Hunter. The reason given for the non-attendance of Monaghan electors is on account of the compromise the people of Ennismore made with Mr. Forster of Monaghan, some years ago, that when Monaghan had a man in the field, Ennismore would not nominate a man, and of course this being Ennismore's turn, Monaghan displayed no interest in the nomination, but let it with the people of Ennismore and Smith. The several gentlemen nominated made stirring addresses, as did also the retiring councillors.

Mr. Hunter withdrew, as stated above, this being Ennismore's turn. Mr. Hunter thanked the electors for the support given him, and the patience they had with him during his short period of office. He called the attention of the electors to the giving of special grants, that he thought were necessary, claiming that Monaghan could get along without them. He also thought that a House of Refuge would be a load on the county, that he did not think they should bear at the present time. After a few further remarks of a congratulatory nature, he wished the people the compliments of the season, and gave way for others to speak.

Mr. Fitzgerald, on being called, stated that he could not find words adequate to express his appreciation of the support the people of this division, and especially Smith, had given him. His greatest aim had been to do justice to the office the people had honoured him with so long. After explaining the different expenditures of the county, especially the bonded debt, or in other words, the debenture debt of the county, and showing that after a careful administration of the affairs of the county, he could say that the county would be carrying no current debt by the first of February. After again thanking the people, he took his seat amidst great applause.

Messrs. Costello and Crough then addressed the meeting at some length, and showed the people that both of them have a good grasp of public affairs.

Mr. Garbutt not being present, did not have a chance to address the meeting, but after an experience of twenty-six years in the township council, he should prove to be a capable representative.

Mr. Stinson addressed the meeting in his usual manner, claiming that his record as a township councillor should serve him in good stead if he should be honoured by being elected, and promised to spare no time nor effort to serve the interests of the Division.

A TEACHER IN DEMAND.

Miss S. Hamilton Presented with Address in Manitoba.

On the Eve of Her Return, to Teach, in North Monaghan—A Popular Teacher.

Miss S. Hamilton, daughter of Mr. Frank Hamilton, Fifth Ward, who has, for some little time past, been teaching school in Lyonshall, Manitoba, was recently, prior to her departure from that province to return to Ontario, presented with a handsome and valuable ring by the scholars of her school in Lyonshall in recognition of her services on their behalf.

Miss Hamilton is a teacher whose services are much sought after. Not only was her removal from Manitoba deeply regretted but a further tribute to her ability is that furnished by the fact that she has been engaged to teach at May's School House in North Monaghan, one of the most desirable schools in the county. The address presented to Miss Hamilton as follows:—

To Miss S. Hamilton:

Dear Teacher,—Your work for us and with us having came to a close, we, ere you take your departure from our midst, desire to convey to you our feelings of thankfulness, that we have had the privilege of enjoying for a little season, the help of one so rich in teaching ability and experience, and who gave so unsparingly of her time and thought to those placed beneath her care.

Reaching away beyond your prescribed duty as a teacher you ever aimed to direct us a much higher appreciation of the opportunities that are ours to lay a good foundation not only for a life's work in temporal things, but by your example would have us build for the life which is to come.

Please accept of this ring as a small token and reminder of our love for you.

And now it only remains to wish you God's speed and good-night.

On behalf of the school,

SALVATION ARMY ACCOUNTS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In last evening's edition of the Examiner I noticed a communication casting reflections upon the book-keeping of the Salvation Army Band Fund, and asking His Worship Mayor Roger to investigate the matter so as to satisfy the public that their contributions have been honestly applied. It does seem to me that the Army owe this to the public in their own interest, and if there is any doubt at all, the head of the Army in Peterborough should satisfy the people of the community that their contributions are properly applied; if not, the public will certainly cease to contribute. I am one of the contributors to the Band Fund, and I had no idea until I read the comments in the Examiner that there was any doubt as to the funds being properly accounted for and applied. Now, as a contributor to the fund I think it would be more satisfactory to the public if those connected with the Salvation Army Band insist that a statement be published showing the contributions to the Band Fund and the manner in which the money has been expended. I am sure that you would be glad to open your columns to a statement of the receipts and expenditures. Then those who have contributed would see that their money has been properly credited and properly applied. The head of the Army in Peterborough certainly owe this to the people of Peterborough, and if this is refused the general public can only come to one conclusion, and that is, that there is something that requires further explanation. I trust that those in charge of the Army in Peterborough will see to it that a full statement is published in the press, so that there will be no doubt left in the minds of the contributors that they have been honestly dealt with. I have no doubt in my own mind that this will be forth-coming, and I hope that you will give me space in your columns to express my views.

Yours truly,

"A CONTRIBUTOR."

SCHEDULE OF CITY LEAGUE.

First Games Will be Played on Thursday Night.

Six Teams Battling for "Examiner" Lockets—A Promising Organization.

Last night the composition of the City Hockey League was decided on and for the season six teams will constitute the league, the winners of which will be the possessors of the Examiner lockets and be feasted by Messrs. Lang and Maher. The six teams composing the league are, Karnots, T.A.S., Farriers, Verniers, Earl Greys and Colonials and the first game in the series will be played on Thursday night in the Brock street rink when at 8 o'clock the Earl Greys and Colonials will open the season, followed at 9 o'clock by the Karnots and T.A.S.

The present prospects are that there will be some pretty fast hockey played in this same city league, and the object for which its organization was advocated by the Examiner, that of developing the younger players, seems likely to be realized.

The meeting last night was presided over by the president, and there were representatives present from all the teams entering the league. The names of the players constituting the different teams in the league were submitted as follows:—

Verniers—James Anglesey, E. Hillier, T. Henderson, A. McDonald, C. Delaney, L. Patterson, C. G. Morris, F. McGrath, J. Mulligan, R. Hall.

Karnots—Vernon O'Dette, W. F. Martin, Albert Allen, H. Kingscote, J. C. Gilman, R. H. Quinn, W. R. Grose, G. N. Campbell, E. J. Dormer, R. Craig.

Colonials—C. Thompson, J. Rouille, F. Frost, C. Martyn, J. McWilliams, H. Overend, T. Crane, J. Callahan, C. Foley, B. Dusty, A. Heard, J. O'Brien, B. Bartley, F. Clancy.

SCHEDULE.

The schedule of games was drawn up as follows:—

December 29th—8.00 p. m., Farriers vs. Verniers; 9.00 p. m., Earl Greys vs. T. A. S.

January 12th—8.00 p. m., Verniers vs. Karnots; 9.00 p. m., Earl Greys vs. Farriers.

January 19th—8.00 p. m., Colonials vs. T. A. S.; 9.00 p. m., Verniers vs. Earl Greys.

January 26th—8.00 p. m., Farriers vs. Karnots; 9.00 p. m., Verniers vs. Colonials.

February 2nd—8.00 p. m., Colonials vs. Farriers; 9.00 p. m., Earl Greys vs. Karnots.

February 9th—8.00 p. m., T. A. S. vs. Verniers.

It was decided that teams winning 60 per cent. of the scheduled games shall be eligible to be placed in the semi-finals, which will be arranged later.

A sub-committee composed of Messrs. M. J. Hutchinson, M. J. Hickey, and H. Kingscote was appointed to arrange for referees and other matters not of sufficient importance to call a meeting of the full executive.

The division of the gate receipts will be as follows:—After the Rink Company has been paid, the league takes charge of the balance and the net receipts are divided equally between the teams playing the games. In the semi-final and final games 10 per cent. of the net receipts will be given to the league.

SHIRT FOR FIRST SCORE.

Messrs. Lang and Maher have written the following letter to the league addressed to the secretary:—

Dear Sir,—Would you please forward to us the name of the player who scores the first goal in the schedule of the City League. The reason for this request is this:—To the party scoring same we will give a choice of our dollar shirts.

Yours truly,

LANG & MAHER.

The league starts out the season with splendid prospects, and there is no doubt that considerable interest will be awakened in the game this year.

IMPORTATION OF SHIRE STALLIONS

Mr. Jacobs has a Fine String of Horses in Peterborough.

Farmers and other interested in heavy horses should not fail to see Mr. Jacob's fine string of Imported Shire Stallions stabled at the Little Windsor hotel, Brock street, town. The importation includes some of the best Shires that have ever crossed the pond, being direct decendants of Champion Harold and Childwick Majestic, both winners at the Royal Show, England. These horses are true to type in every particular, being big, well-hey short legged horses with lots of bone and are active good walkers—one of the greatest features in a heavy horse. The farmers of the district should feel indebted to Mr. Jacob's for his enterprise in bringing such a string into the country and should endeavour to keep them, or some of them, at least, in the district.

Sevastopol is Successfully Torpedoed and is Aground.

Japanese Lose 20,000 in the Twelve Days' Assault on Port Arthur—Gen. Stoessel Reports Further Heavy Losses in the Capture of 203-Metre Hill—Several Jap Forces Annihilated.

Tokio, Dec. 19.—The battleship Sevastopol has been successfully torpedoed ten times. Advices from Port Arthur say that she is aground and is evidently completely disabled.

Tokio, Dec. 19.—The Japanese have lost two torpedo-boats during all the operations against the battleship Sevastopol, which were reported yesterday in advice from Port Arthur.

London, Dec. 19.—A special despatch from Tokio reports that the Japanese naval bombardment on Saturday sank a Russian torpedo-boat at Port Arthur, Ditch of Petroleum.

STOESSEL REPORTS.

Japanese Lost 20,000 Men in 12 Days' Fighting At Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19.—General Stoessel's despatches to the Emperor, which were received Friday night, were given out yesterday. The first is dated Nov. 25, and is as follows:

"I am happy to inform Your Majesty that on Nov. 20, after an increased bombardment, the Japanese attacked one of the forts on the northeastern front and leaped with a portion of their forces on the parapet. They were annihilated by rifle fire and the bayonet and thrown back into the trenches. Their reserves were scattered by shrapnel.

"From Nov. 21 to Nov. 23 the enemy violently bombarded the forts, and in spite of great losses, effected by their perseverance a passage between two forts on the northeastern front.

"At 5.30 o'clock in the evening of Nov. 23, after heavy firing the Japanese suddenly hurled themselves against several works on this front and seized a portion of the trenches, but they were thrown back by the reserves after a fierce bayonet struggle. They returned to the assault at midnight, and again occupied a part of the trenches, but were annihilated by our bayonets. At 2 o'clock in the morning all was over and Your Majesty's heroic troops were able to rest and start repairing the damage caused by the bombardment.

Lost 2,000 in Four Days.

"From the 20th to the 24th the Japanese lost more than 2,000 men. All of our troops behaved as heroes. The following especially distinguished themselves: Generals Kondratenko, Nikitin and Gorbatowsky, and Lieut.-Col. Naoumenko (a dozen other officers in lower grades are mentioned), on the bombardment of the town and harbor continues. A number of buildings have been destroyed, and the harbor has sustained some damage. The garrisons are in excellent spirits."

In another despatch, dated Nov. 28, General Stoessel says:

"The 26th and the 27th were the bloodiest days in the assaults on Port Arthur. The attacks began on the night of the 25th against our left flank, near Pigeon Bay. The first was repulsed with great loss to the Japanese. The same night the enemy attacked a detachment on Panlung Mountain, but were repulsed, as also was their attack on Visokai (203-Metre) Hill.

At the Point of the Bayonet.

"On the 26th the Japanese began to bombard and attack fiercely the forts on the northeastern front and the advanced trenches. The trenches repeatedly changed hands. Nevertheless on the night of the 26th we threw back the Japanese at the point of the bayonet. The enemy succeeded in blowing up the parapet of one of the forts, and began building parallels there. At another fort on the same night they laid sacks along the rampart, but our artillery dispersed them. Towards 10 o'clock in the evening the Japanese attacked a battery on our left flank in considerable strength, and at first obtained possession of a portion of the works, but our heroes brought bayonets into use, and the Japanese retired, leaving a heap of their men. Along the whole front the Japanese re-opened a violent fire against the interior of the fortress, keeping it up until 5 o'clock on the morning of Nov. 27.

"The help which God sent us on the birthday of our mother, the Czarina, gave us further victory."

The message mentions the same four officers as given in the preceding despatch, together with several others who specially distinguished themselves.

Assaults Repulsed.

"A further despatch from General Stoessel, dated Nov. 30, says:

"Since Nov. 27 the Japanese have been carrying on a violent bombardment, and making incessant assaults in considerable force against the Visokai Hill. Their assaults were repulsed."

On Dec. 3 General Stoessel reports as follows:

"The 12 days' assault which commenced on Nov. 20 was definitely repulsed last night. I am happy to say that Your Majesty's heroic troops alone could have been capable of doing this. There has never been such a fierce assault. The following contributed principally to its repulse: Generals Kondratenko, Nikitin, and Gorbatowsky, and Cols. Irrman and Eretiakoff, and Lieut.-Cols. Naoumenko and Gandourine. It is thanks to them and the heroic officers of naval sharp shooters and the artillery men that Port Arthur succeeded again in resisting. The Japanese, according to prisoners and Chinese, lost at least 12,000 men.

"We request your prayers and those of the Mother Empress, which are manifestly shielding us. As general aide-de-camp to Your Majesty I have expressed Your Majesty's thanks to the garrison.

Ruse Ships Suffer.

On Dec. 5 General Stoessel reports: "At 7 o'clock yesterday morning the Japanese have concentrated all their forces, began an assault of Visokai Hill, bombarding it simultaneously with 11-inch and 16-inch shells. A fierce fight raged all day. We repelled three assaults.

"Towards evening the Japanese succeeded in obtaining possession of the crest of the hill, and immediately got two machine guns into position there.

"Among the wounded were General Tserpinsky and Lieut.-Col. Boutonsoff of the frontier guards. Col. Irrman performed prodigies of valour."

General Stoessel's last despatch is dated Dec. 10, and says:

"Since the capture of Visokai Hill our ships in the harbor have been suffering from eleven-inch Japanese shells.

General Tserpinsky succumbed to his wounds.

"The spirits of the troops are excellent."

Predicts His Own Defeat.

Washington, Dec. 19.—Admiral Rojestvensky expects to meet the fate of Admiral Cervera. He believes the Japanese will smash him all to pieces the first chance they get at him, as Sampson's fleet smashed Cervera at Santiago. "We are going to a shambles," are the words which Rojestvensky recently used in a description of his mission to the Far East. His views have been brought to Washington by a member of the diplomatic corps who recently returned from Russia.

Russia Buys Hay.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 19.—A secret order for several thousand tons of hay for export shipment has been placed with one of the leading feed firms of the city during the past few days, and circumstances point to the Russian Government as the purchasers.

60 INJURED, 300 ARRESTED.

Moscow Police and Cossacks Disperse a Demonstration of 5,000 People.

Moscow, Dec. 19.—The police and the Cossacks yesterday dispersed a demonstration of 5,000 students who had assembled in the principal streets and in front of the governor's palace. Three hundred of the students were arrested and sixty were injured. The revolutionary demonstrations occurred from noon till nearly evening. About 5,000 people participated, but the agitators did not succeed in drawing the workingmen into the disturbance, and after many collisions, the police firing blank volleys and charging with their sabres, the crowds were finally dispersed. Many were wounded and more were arrested. As far as is known, none of the rioters was actually killed, but one policeman is reported to have been fatally injured.

Girl Students Too.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19.—A meeting of the 404 undergraduate girls of the Medical Institute yesterday passed resolutions of sympathy with Sasonoff, who on Dec. 13 was sentenced to imprisonment for life for the murder of Minister of the Interior Von Plehve. Another resolution adopted demands liberal reforms.

M. Witte's Reports.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19.—M. Witte, president of the Ministerial Council, to whom, as chairman of special committee appointed in 1902 to investigate the question of the betterment of the conditions of rural enterprises, general revision of peasant laws, was confided the task of sifting the enormous mass of evidence collected, including the opinions of 11,000 of the best qualified peasant landlords, merchants and manufacturers, which filled several thousand volumes, has completed the gigantic task. In all points, M. Witte's recommendations aim for completion of the Emancipation Act of 1861.

Mrs. Chadwick Isolated.

Cleveland, Dec. 17.—Mrs. Chadwick will from now until the time of her trial or arraignment in court be rigidly excluded from all visitors, and her son and nurse will be denied permission to see her except on the written order of United States Marshal Chandler. Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock an order was received at the jail by Sheriff Barry directing him to deny all persons the privilege of seeing her, and he at once ordered that the nurse, Freda Swenson, who was in the jail with Mrs. Chadwick, be ordered to leave.

Dropped Dead At His Work.

His Line.

"So Speeder has turned out to be a confidence man. Does he sell gold bricks?"

"No. He's an architect and plans those $2,500 houses that cost $6,850 when they're finished."

If one could remember when asked for advice that his friend wants only confirmation of his own judgment it would save much heartache.—Toledo Blade.

Croup Comes Suddenly.

HENCE THE WISDOM OF KEEPING IN THE HOUSE THE MOST EFFECTIVE CURE,

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP of LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

Slight hoarseness in the evening is the only warning of croup.

About midnight the child awakes—coughing—that peculiar metallic cough called croupy, which strikes terror to the mother's heart.

Then begins the struggle for breath, and if relief is to be obtained treatment must be prompt and effective.

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for croup will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success.

It is wonderfully prompt in loosening the cough, clearing the air passages of the head, and soothing the excited nerves.

People who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on, and the danger which accompanies it, usually keep some of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house for use in case of emergency.

For bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma, and every form of throat and bronchial trouble, this great family medicine is a quick and certain cure.

Mrs. E. H. Robinson, Harpersville, Kent Co., Ont., writes:—"My husband and baby had very bad colds and coughs, and seeing Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine advertised I decided to try it. The result was highly satisfactory, as both were promptly cured."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 6
